ADVISES INCREASE OF DISCOUNT RATES

Monthly Review of Federal Reserve Bank Says It Should Not Be Deferred.

CURB UPON SPECULATION

Many Banks, Under Strong Private Demand, Greatly Expanding Their Loans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The review of the month for the November Federal Reserve Bulletin, obtainable in advance tonight, will contain this statement:

"As was stated in the Federal Reserve Bulletin for October, the disappearance of the Treasury from the long-term loan market and the rapid reduction in its requirements for short term accommodation foreshadows the approach of the time when the financial operations of the Government will cease to be the important factor in shaping Reserve Bank policies and rates which they have been. A review of all the conditions in the banking situation has confirmed the board in the view that in the application of its discount policy an advance of rates should no longer be deferred."

Dominant in the whole financial situation, says the review, are the problems of domestic speculation and the policy to be pursued with respect to the demands on credit resulting from it. The reserve percentage on Oct. 31 was 47.9 per cent., the lowest point ever reached. The review contends, however, that too much importance may be attributed to what is called the "reserve percentage." The continued decrease of war paper has been coincident with a continued expansion of loans and investments of member banks.

"The real character of the situation," says the review, "depends upon the use that is being made by member banks of the facilities to be obtained at Federal Reserve banks. It is just here that the present situation must be regarded as unsatisfactory. The evidence which is currently available seems to point to the fact that member banks, under the influence of strong private demand, are in not a few cases greatly expanding their loans.

"Federal reserve banks cannot in a time like the present easily control this condition of affairs merely through changes of discount rates, however important the influence exercised by such changes. The fact that there is as yet no free movement of gold between nations and that balances of trade are wholly abnormal prevents rediscount changes from exerting the effect which they would in normal times.

"Co-operation on the part of member banks is therefore necessary to the preservation of a satisfactory condition of strength throughout the banking system as a whole, and good results cannot be obtained through any single method, least of all through the use of those modes of restraint and correction which are in ordinary circumstances sufficient for the purpose."

IBANEZ PRAISES AMERICA.

Author Says the Progress of the World Lies with Us.

Speaking last night, for the first time since his arrival in America, to the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia University at the Horace Mann Auditorium, Broadway and 120th Street, Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," said the progress of the world in the future would lie in America where the descendants of Englishmen and Spaniards would rule supreme.

Mr. Ibanez, who spoke in Spanish, said that Spain would play a great part in world affairs in the future. The present apparent decadence of Spain, he said, should more properly be termed "anaemia." Any country which for ages had been giving out best blood and talent to the development of a new world could not help but be weak and exhausted, he said.

"The historians of modern Europe are showing an unfair tendency to criticise Spain's history," Mr. Ibanez said. "This unfair criticism has been caused to a large extent by envy. Spain has for centuries occupied the position in the world that Germany held for only half a century. It is ridiculous to say that the Inquisition and the constant wars of Spain in the Middle Ages have ruined her."

Referring to his novels, Mr. Ibanez said that whatever success they had met was essentially a tribute to his country. "They are," he said, "the product of Spain."

BONILLAS BOOM IN MEXICO.

Carranza Said to Favor Ambassador as Presidential Candidate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Advices from Mexico City today told of a proposal under consideration there to send a commission at once to Washington to ask Ambassador Bonillas to accept the nomination of the third party for the Presidency to succeed Venustiano Carranza.

The advices indicated that the Carranza Administration would support Ambassador Bonillas against General Alvaro Obregon and General Pablo Gonzales, the two military men whose candidacies have already been announced officially.

It was thought that President Carranza would support Gonzalez, but a canvass of the country is said to have developed that the General had been unable to muster any appreciable strength, and that there was a strong sentiment throughout the country against any military candidate.

Ambassador Bonillas declines to discuss the prospect of his candidacy, saying that he is too busy with his work here to think about politics.

SAYS PAPER IS DIVERTED.

Small Publications Pinched to Supply Big Ones, Says Reavis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Small daily and weekly newspapers are threatened with destruction because of inability to obtain print paper, the House was told today by Representative Reavis, Republican of Nebraska. He charged that newsprint manufacturers were refusing to sell to small publishers, in order to fill the wants of the metropolitan dailies.

Paper consumption by the big city dailies and magazines has been greatly increased, Mr. Reavis said, by an "extensive national advertising campaign conducted to defeat the Government in collecting taxes." He urged that the Internal Revenue Bureau investigate the returns of concerns conducting the campaign to disclose to what extent their excess profits taxes were reduced by the costs of the advertising.

DIAMOND INTERESTS SOLD.

Americans Reported in Deal for German Southwest Africa Rights.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Johannesburg reports the purchase by an Anglo-American company of all of Germany's private and state interests in the diamond fields of what was formerly German Southwest Africa.

Some protests are expressed over what is called the "secrecy of the deal," and allegations are made that the purchase was effected through undue influence in political quarters.

Later the purchase was confirmed officially. As announced here, the purchase price was £3,750,000.

ASWELL ATTACKS REPUBLICAN LEADER

Louisiana Democrat Precipitates Two-Hour Fight in the House.

MONDELL MAKES ANSWER

Denies That He Ever Attempted to Block Exposure of His Leadership.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—An attack on the Republican leadership of the House, made today during debate, by Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, was followed by a two-hour partisan fight centring about a parliamentary effort to expunge the remarks. After denying the statements of the Democratic member, Representative Mondell, Wyoming, Republican floor leader, withdrew his motion to eliminate the objectionable remarks and the House adjourned until Wednesday.

Mr. Aswell declared that Mr. Mondell had refused to permit him to have time to address the House, because the Republican leader knew that the Democratic member "wanted to reveal the rotten leadership of the Republican Party in this House."

Mr. Aswell also asserted that Mr. Mondell knew that he wished to "expose the partisanship manifested by a House War Investigating Committee in its inquiry into the contracts for war supplies held by R. H. Long, a Massachusetts manufacturer and Democratic candidate for Governor in tomorrow's election.

Replying to Mr. Aswell the Republican leader denied that he ever attempted to block free discussion of any subject, adding that he did not have the "slightest idea" about the nature of the "Louisiana member's proposed speech." His objection, he said, was solely in the interest of time saving so the House might conduct important business.

Later Mr. Aswell explained that he "assumed" that the Republican leader knew of his proposed speech and, concluding, he asserted that his remark today, was afterward "proved by the House's own conduct." Then followed the withdrawal of the motion to expunge the record.

OLDTIME BUILDING BURNS.

Fire early yesterday wrecked a two-story frame building built sixty-seven years ago and occupied by the Master Cabinet Company at 347 East 132d Street, the Bronx. The damage is estimated at $10,000. No one was injured.

John Anthony, one of the proprietors of the Master Cabinet Company, and his wife and four children, make their home in a three-story expansion of the building at Courtlandt Avenue and 132d Street. Anthony was awakened by smoke, and looking through a window saw the factory ablaze.

The factory, which was built in 1852 by Mathias Haffen, father of Louis F. Haffen, was known as the Cradle of the Bronx. At the time of its erection that part of the city was the Village of Morrisania. West Farms Township, Westchester County.

In 1860, eight years after its erection, the building was known as Haffen's Hall, and court was held there by Justice Michael Slattery.

Efforts Will Be Made to Pass $9,000,000 Mark Today.

Increases of $30,000 for the outside cities and $20,000 in the canvassing in New York brought the Harvard Endowment Fund up to with $63,000 of the $9,000,000 mark. According to an announcement made yesterday by Eliot Wadsworth, Chairman of the fund, at the local headquarters, 165 Broadway, the New York total was $3,269,533 while the outside district ran up its score to $2,100,605, which shows an increase of $75,000 since Saturday noon. The grand total for the whole country is now $8,-970,151.

Every effort will be made to bring the grand total to $9,000,000 today.

The Fabre liner Roma, which arrived yesterday in Quarantine from Marseilles and Naples, was detained by the health officers on account of a case of smallpox on board in the steerage, and her 820 passengers were sent to Hoffman's Island for observation. The 1,162 steerage passengers who arrived on Sunday from Italy on the Italian liner Duca degli Abruzzi, were sent to the island for the same reason. The two liners will be thoroughly fumigated before they are permitted to come to their piers.

Health officers said yesterday that the appearance of smallpox on incoming steamships from Mediterranean ports is coincident with the arrival of cold weather, because the people remain below decks shut up without getting fresh air on deck.

LEWIS OFFERS TO CONFER

Says Machinery of Joint Bargaining Is Intact and Can Be Used Quickly.

PALMER FOR FIRM COURSE

Orders Vigorous Demand for Permanent Injunction—Warns Labor to Obey.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, on his arrival here tonight from New York, issued a statement in which he said that if the injunction against the leaders of the soft coal miners' strike is vacated and the Department of Labor should again call the operators and union leaders into conference he believed that an honorable adjustment of the strike controversy could be had.

He did not refer to the question of the strike order being recalled and the miners returning to work before the proposed negotiations began. The injunction he characterized as "not only a grave wrong, but a gross blunder."

Mr. Gompers's statement reads:

"Representatives of newspapers have asked me for a statement regarding the coal strike and the situation.

"In the first instance, it should be known that the demands of the miners, which upon the surface seem so radical and far-reaching, are by no means so. For several years the miners have not had more than a half year's work, their working days averaging from 160 to 180 per year, intermittent, by days and by weeks at employment and then unemployment. The miners simply ask for a regulation of the working time so that coal production and employment may be regular rather than intermittent. If the miners were permitted by the operators to work full time the supply of coal thus mined would soon force down the price of coal on the market, and this the operators are determined not to permit.

"The miners' case might better be stated by their demanding at least five days of six hours' work per week, which is really more than they are permitted to work at the present time. An understanding of these conditions clearly shows who are responsible for the present situation and the cause.

"When in 1914 the miners received an increase of 20 cents per ton the operators raised the selling price $5 per ton. Surely the conditions and the standards of life of the miners have deteriorated by reason of their being no practical advance in their wages and earning power, while the cost of living has soared higher and higher.

"The mandate of the officers of the United Mine Workers of America was direct from the representatives of the men, who at the recent convention decided that unless a substantial improvement in wages and a regulation of the working time were granted the strike order should be issued to take effect Nov. 1. President Lewis and his associates therefore had no alternative, particularly when the mine operators left the conference, leaving the representatives of the miners alone.

"This injunction secured by the Attorney General could not prevent the strike, for it was issued after the strike notice had already gone forth. The injunction was not only a grave wrong but a gross blunder. It practically takes away the constructive influence of the officers of the organization and indeed bars them from attempting to end the strike. Instead of conservative leadership prevailing, it places the whole movement in the hands of local men who may vie with each other and be at variance with each other.

"If the injunction were vacated and the Department of Labor invited the operators and the representatives of the United Mine Workers to a further conference, I have an abiding faith that a mutually honorable adjustment can be negotiated and effected whereby the coal strike can be brought to an end."

Lewis Backs Gompers's Stand.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4. — Acting President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America tonight stated that the miners will be willing to resume negotiations with the operators immediately if the restraining order now in force against them is vacated. His statement was made after being shown an Associated Press dispatch quoting

Report Reds Will Prohibit Christian Names for Children

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15, (Associated Press.)—Leaders of Russia's Soviet Government have put a ban on the giving of Christian names to children, it is reported, because they are considered "reminiscent of the reactionary system." It is expected that an order will be issued soon forbidding their use.

Numbers are to be substituted. Thus, three children of a family named Petkoff may in future be known as "Petkoff One, Two, and Three," respectively.

RUSSIAN REDS BUSY IN UNITED STATES

JAPAN TO CHANGE POLICY

In Reply to American Note, Expresses Willingness to Cooperate with Us in Siberia.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Russian Bolsheviki "have availed themselves of every opportunity to initiate in the United States a propaganda aimed to bring about the forcible overthrow of our present form of Government," Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Committee has been informed by Assistant Secretary Phillips in a letter made public today at the State Department.

Mr. Phillips wrote in reply to Senator Wadsworth, who had asked why the Administration had adopted a policy of non-intercourse with that part of Russia controlled by the Bolsheviki. His letter follows:

"In reply to your letter of Oct. 20, 1919, concerning the so-called blockade of Petrograd, I beg to inform you that, so far as the United States is concerned, no blockade exists. It is the present policy of this Government, however, to refuse export licenses for shipments to Russian territory under Bolshevist control and to refuse clearance papers to American vessels seeking to depart for Petrograd, the only remaining Bolshevist port. As you are aware, these measures can not be continued after the ratification of peace unless there is new legislation.

"The policy of non-intercourse with territory under Bolshevist control is based chiefly on two considerations. It is the declared purpose of the Bolsheviki in Russia to carry revolution throughout the world. They have availed themselves of every opportunity to initiate in the United States a propaganda aimed to bring about the forcible overthrow of our present form of Government.

Have Large Quantity of Gold.

"They have at their disposition in Russia a large quantity of gold, being partly a reserve of gold belonging to the Rumanian Government, which was stored in Moscow for safe keeping at the time of the German advance into Rumania. It is considered important that the Bolsheviki should not be given the means through commercial transaction to bring this gold into the United States where it could be used to sustain their propaganda of violence and unreason.

"The second consideration related to the control which the Bolsheviki exercise over the distribution of necessities. All foreign trade has been 'nationalized.' This means that there can be no dealing except with the Bolshevist authorities. Moreover, since the Fall of 1918 the Bolsheviki have maintained a system of discrimination in the distribution of food. The population is divided into categories along occupational and class lines, and receives food, so far as food may be available, in accordance with a scale which is adjusted with a view to the maintenance of the Bolsheviki in power and the fulfillment of their program for the extinction of the middle classes.

"The rations given to members of the Red army is estimated, in the official Bolshevist gazette of Feb. 6, 1919, to be three times the average for the several categories of the civil population. It has seemed altogether inadmissible that food and other necessities of American origin should be allowed to become the means of sustaining such a program of political oppression.

"The Government has not been unmindful of the material distress of many innocent people within the Bolshevist lines. An attempt was made last Spring to provide for the release of these people through the co-operation of a neutral commission to be headed by Dr. Nansen. The project failed because the Bolsheviki declined to agree to the cessation of hostilities which was considered an indispensable prerequisite.

"The Department of State has subsequently studied other means by which

COOLIDGE SWEEPS BAY STATE

Overwhelming Plurality Given to Governor on Issue of Law and Order.

510,000 VOTES ARE CAST

INDUSTRIAL TOWNS FOR HIM

Press of Country Hails His Victory as a Triumph for Good Government.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Wednesday, Nov. 5.—In one of the greatest outpourings of ballots in the State's history Massachusetts yesterday vindicated law and order by re-electing Calvin Coolidge, Republican, as Governor by a plurality of more than 124,000 over Richard H. Long, his Democratic opponent, as against a lead of 17,035 last year.

Long carried Boston by 5,149, receiving 47,529 to 42,380 for Coolidge.

Party lines were broken in the face of the grave issue presented to the voters by the recent Boston police strike, wherein Governor Coolidge took a firm attitude against the unionized malcontents who attempted to dictate to the city and left its employ when their demands were refused.

Thousands of old line Democrats, disgusted by their candidate's espousal of the cause of the police strikers and further aggrieved over the party platform, which in catering to the Irish vote took a position on the League of Nations covenant in opposition to President Wilson's views, deserted Long and voted for Coolidge.

Many of them took no chance but voted the entire Republican State ticket to emphasize their feelings. Others, however, contented themselves with scratching Long, supporting the rest of their party's candidates.

As a result of this widespread bolt of Democrats, most conspicuous in the smaller towns and cities, but evident everywhere, Coolidge ran ahead of the rest of the Republican ticket, but all were elected, despite the personal issues that made this one of the most complicated of State campaigns.

Altogether it was a red letter day for the independent voters of Massachusetts, and with the help of a ballot specially suited to his needs, he made the most of his opportunity.

Coolidge Issues Statement.

Governor Coolidge, in a statement early last night, said:

"My thanks are due to millions of my fellow citizens of Massachusetts. I offer them freely, without undertaking to specify all who have supported the great cause of the supremacy of the law. The heart of the people has proven again sound and true. They have justified those who trusted them. They have justified America.

"The attempt to appeal to class prejudice has failed. The men of Massachusetts are not labor men, or policemen, or union men, or poor men, or rich men, or any other class of men first. They are Americans first. The wage earners have shown by their votes that they resent trying to use them for private interests. They are for the Government. American institutions are safe in their hands.

"Some of those who have posed as their leaders and argued that wage earners were patriotic because those leaders told them to be, may well now inquire whether the case did not stand the other way about. It begins to look as if those who attempted to lead the wage earners must first show that they themselves are patriotic if they are to have any following.

"Three words tell the result—Massachusetts is American. The election will be a welcome demonstration to the nation and to people everywhere who believe that liberty can only be secured by obedience to law."

Frank E. Hall, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, said tonight:

"The patriotism of the people of Massachusetts has again responded to the acid test. Law and order still remain triumphant. While Republicans rejoice, it is the victory of all right-thinking people. We were assisted by thousands of Democrats and Independents who placed patriotism above party. This is conservative labor's answer to radicalism."

Roosevelt Sweeps In, and Hails a Baby Son

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., N. Y., Nov. 4.—By the largest majority ever given to a candidate, Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Republican candidate for Assembly in the Second District, Nassau County, was elected today. He carried practically every district in the Assembly District.

Elias Raff, (Dem.,) was swamped everywhere, even losing his own district in Sea Cliff by 183 votes. In his home village, Oyster Bay, Col. Roosevelt overwhelmed his opponent by an average of six to one. In one election district only one vote of the first 75 counted was for Raff.

Lieut. Col. Roosevelt was greatly elated by his victory, especially so because of the fact that this afternoon a baby boy was added to his family.

The boy will be named Quentin, after his father's brother, who was killed in aerial combat in the war. The mother, who is progressing favorably, bears the same.

Col. Roosevelt said tonight: "It was a big day for my family—a fine boy, Mrs. Roosevelt doing well, and elected from my home district to the Assembly. It will be my earnest endeavor to stand for the principles of justice and order fearlessly and to aid in the solution of the vital problem of economic readjustment with all that lies in me."

DRYS CLAIM OHIO BY 80,000 MAJORITY

All Four of the Prohibition Measures Seem to Have Been Upheld.

MANY SOCIALISTS BEATEN

Municipal Elections Result in Defeat of Candidates of That Party.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Ohio, so far as may be determined by the most meagre election returns, has ratified the ratification by the General Assembly of national prohibition by at least 80,000 majority. The drys have made uniform gains in the country districts over the vote of 1918, when the drys won by 15,000. The soldier vote was a great disappointment to the Liberals, who, however, have made gains in the city districts.

The cities seem to be going about two to three against prohibition while the country sections have gone about two to one in favor of prohibition. The ratification of the National Prohibition amendment has been accompanied by the defeat of a proposal to repeal State-wide prohibition by about the same majority. The voters in a referendum have approved, it seems, the very drastic Crabbe prohibition law passed by the Ohio Legislature. The voters failed to look with kindness upon a proposal to legalize 2.75 per cent. beers and wines.

The dry gains are uniform at about ten votes to a precinct, although the Crabbe Enforcement act is slightly weaker than the other "dry" propositions. The voters of Ohio have rejected a Constitutional amendment to classify property for taxation, failing to upset the uniform rule that has been in force for three generations.

Throughout Ohio the Socialists were badly snowed under. In Toledo Mayor Cornell L. Schreiber, who broke the strike at the Willys-Overland automobile plant and maintained order, has been re-elected over a Democrat and Socialist by 10,000 majority.

In Hamilton, a home of radicals, Mayor Culbertson J. Smith, Law and Order and Democrat candidate, has been re-elected by twice his usual majority.

In Columbus, the race between George J. Karr, Democrat, and James H. Thomas, Republican, is close, with Thomas probably elected. Councilman Fred P. Zipfer, Socialist, made a surprising run and finished a good third.

In Canton, where Mayor Henry A. Schrantz, Republican, is probably elected. He was named as Mayor when the city was terrorized by aliens during the late steel strike, and Governor Cox suspended the Mayor.

In Piqua, Mayor Hamilton, Socialist, is ousted by a large majority, a citizens' ticket winning.

At 10:30 o'clock tonight James A. White, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Ohio, issued this statement: "Indications are that if present gains continue, the drys will win on all four proposals by from 50,000 to 75,000 majorities."

L. H. Gibson, manager of the Ohio Home Rule Association, with headquarters at Cincinnati, refrained from using any figures, but said:

"The Crabbe and ratification measures are decisively defeated, and we be-

EDWARDS WINS IN JERSEY

Democratic Candidate for Governor Elected in Close Race.

PLURALITY IS ABOUT 10,000

TWO COUNTIES TURN TIDE

Hudson and Essex Overcome Early Republican Lead—Bugbee Loses His Own Precinct.

Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, was elected Governor of New Jersey yesterday, defeating Newton A. K. Bugbee, the Republican candidate, by about 10,000 plurality. Edwards made his campaign almost entirely on a "Wet" platform, and his friends asserted that this alone was responsible for his election. The Democratic candidate had to overturn a normal Republican majority of about 40,000, and he was able to do it by piling an enormous vote in the Democratic strongholds of Hudson and Essex Counties. He carried Hudson County by about 30,000 plurality and Essex by approximately 10,000.

With only 43 districts missing out of a total of 2,011 in the entire State, Edwards was leading Bugbee at 4 o'clock this morning by 10,575, but the missing districts were in the Democratic strongholds of Hudson and Essex counties. The vote stood: Edwards, 208,615, and Bugbee, 198,040. The Republicans refused to concede the election of Mr. Edwards.

Democratic leaders of the State asserted that the election of the Democratic candidate had a direct bearing upon the National Administration, New Jersey being President Wilson's home State. While it was a neck and neck race, early returns from the southern tier of counties, mainly Republican, showed Bugbee well in the lead, but when the returns from the Democratic strongholds began to be heard from, the Bugbee plurality dwindled rapidly.

Edwards swept Jersey City and Newark, obtaining nearly 10,000 plurality in the latter city. Union County, considered safe for Bugbee, was carried by Edwards by about 100 votes. Mercer County, also counted upon for the "dry" candidate, gave indications of going Democratic, and further cutting down Bugbee's lead in the other counties of South Jersey. Bugbee was beaten in his own home district in Trenton, and it is probable that he lost the entire county, Mercer, where trolley fares was the principal issue during the campaign.

Edwards, who is President of the First National Bank of Jersey City, former Controller of the State, and present State Senator from Hudson County, pledged himself to fight by every lawful means the enforcement of prohibition in New Jersey. He contended that the State has the right to make its own definition of what constitutes intoxicating liquor and what steps shall be taken to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment. He also opposed the trolley fare zone system allowed by the Republican Utility Board and pledged himself to an elective board.

Mr. Bugbee took the stand that the Eighteenth Amendment was now the law of the land, and pledged himself to enforce it. He promised a reorganization of the Utility Board and a valuation of the trolley company upon which to base a rated fare.

In all the Democratic counties, Edwards ran ahead of the normal Democratic vote. In the Republican districts on the other hand, Bugbee ran behind the normal Republican vote.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City declared at midnight that Edwards would carry that city by a plurality of 25,000. Mr. Bugbee's friends, however, scoffed at these figures.

One incident which gave the Edwards supporters considerable enthusiasm was the fact that Bugbee lost his home precinct in Trenton. This precinct, the First of the Second Ward of Trenton, is normally Republican, but Edwards received 99 votes to 86 for Bugbee. Mr. Bugbee was present during the counting of the votes, and, when the result was announced, he frankly admitted that the vote in that precinct would seem to indicate that the Democrats would carry the State by something like 30,000 plurality. Mr. Bugbee, of course, did not concede his opponent's election, except in so far as the result was indicated by this one precinct.

Mr. Bugbee's vote in his home precinct was behind that of all three of the Republican candidates for the Assembly. William A. Moore received 105, Williams

KENTUCKY JOINS REPUBLICAN CAMP

Edwin P. Morrow Is Elected Governor Over J. D. Black by Over 15,000 Majority.

MARYLAND FIGHT IN DOUBT

Both Sides Claim the Victory, but Returns Are Still Very Meagre.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4.—Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, was elected today Governor of Kentucky over Governor James D. Black, Democrat.

Morrow's majority is estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000. Haynes Carter, personal manager for Governor Black, in a statement conceded Black's defeat by from 8,000 to 10,000.

Unofficial returns from Eastern Kentucky, where it was expected that the Democratic nominee would cut normal Republican majorities, showed Morrow holding his own and in some cases exceeding figures in the Gubernatorial election two years ago.

In the western end of the State there was a considerable falling off of Democratic normal majorities, while in Jefferson County, which includes Louisville, the Republican candidate not only overturned a majority of 4,063 for Stanley, Democrat, four years ago, but turned it into a Republican victory by approximately 9,000.

Figures on the two constitutional amendments were belated, but seemed to indicate that the Statewide prohibition amendment has carried by a large majority. Tabulators had few figures on the amendment which would remove officers who failed to protect prisoners from mobs.

The issues in the campaign were local, the Democratic platform pledging an "honest administration at Frankfort," the State Capital, and the Republicans promising "a housecleaning."

During the campaign Governor Black made speeches favoring the League of Nations. Mr. Morrow was silent on the subject, but his managers in published statements asserted he opposed it.

Voters in Kentucky poured into voting booths to register their choice for Governor, select 100 State Representatives, 19 State Senators in odd-numbered districts, fill all other States offices, and express opinion on two proposed amendments to the State Constitution, including State-wide prohibition and removal of officers who permit prisoners in their custody to be taken from them by mobs.

MARYLAND CONTEST CLOSE.

Miners Turn Out in Force to Vote in Allegany County.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Nov. 5.—The election in Maryland yesterday was the closest ever held in the State. The result was in doubt at an early hour this morning, and it was believed the outcome would not be definitely known until late today owing to the absence of precise figures from virtually all the counties.

Incomplete figures from Baltimore indicated that Albert C. Ritchie, Democratic nominee for Governor, had carried the city over Harry W. Nice, his Republican opponent, by about 1,500. The Democrats were claiming Ritchie's election by a small margin, based on calculations that the counties outside of Baltimore would be a stand-off.

Nothing but vague estimates had been received from Republican strongholds in Western Maryland.

Owings, Republican for Chief Judge of the Second Circuit, has apparently been elected over Adkins by a safe majority. This circuit takes in the Eastern Shore counties.

In Allegany County, the mining section, the vote of the miners was extremely heavy. The reason for this was that they did not have to lose any time to vote, and, secondly, they were deeply interested in the success of the candidates on the ticket allied with labor.

It is hard to judge until complete returns are in just what effect this had on the results, but there is one thing sure, and that is that it helped materially to pile up the normal majority of that county for the Republican ticket.

The miners were instructed to vote for three Republicans, two Socialists, and

REPUBLICANS GAIN 11 ASSEMBLY SEATS

105 Republicans, 42 Democrats, and 3 Socialists Elected—One Woman Wins.

T. R., JR., AN EASY VICTOR

Speaker Sweet Defeats Woman Opposing Him—23 Republicans from New York City.

Returns from the elections to the Legislature indicate a greatly increased Republican majority in the Legislature, owing to the sensational Republican sweep in this city. Up State the Democrats more than held their own, losing one seat and gaining four.

The present Assembly is composed of 94 Republicans, 54 Democrats, and 2 Socialists. Early returns indicate that the next Assembly will have 105 Republicans, 42 Democrats, and 3 Socialists.

The five boroughs of New York City will be represented in the Assembly, according to early returns, by 23 Republicans, 36 Democrats and 3 Socialists. The representation is divided among counties as follows: New York, 11 Republicans, 11 Democrats; Kings, 11 Republicans, 12 Democrats, 1 Socialist; Queens, 1 Republican, 5 Democrats; Bronx, 6 Democrats, 2 Socialists; Richmond, 2 Democrats.

Two vacancies in the State Senate, which arose as a result of Senators resigning to run for other offices, were filled in yesterday's election. The vacancies were in the Sixteenth Senatorial District in Manhattan, where Senator James A. Foley retired to become the Tammany candidate for Senator, and in the Second Senatorial District, which is in Queens. The Second was represented by Senator Frank Adel, who resigned to become candidate for Justice of the Municipal Court in his borough. Both districts are heavily Democratic and the two Democratic candidates were elected.

Lieut.-Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was elected to the Assembly from the Second Assembly District in Nassau County by the biggest Republican majority ever rolled up in that heavily Republican county. He carried all but two election districts of the Second Assembly District. His Democratic opponent, Elias Raff, was snowed under everywhere, even losing Sea Cliff, his own town, by 193 votes.

Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet of the Assembly, who was a candidate for re-election, had the most spectacular fight of any candidate for the Assembly in the entire State. He won by a big majority in his home county of Oswego. His Democratic opponent, Miss Marion Dickerman, a social worker, had the indorsement of the Socialists and Prohibitionists and made a stubborn fight on the Speaker, who had been indorsed by the association opposed to national prohibition.

Another candidate who won on the "wet" issue was Ransom H. Gillett, candidate for Assembly from Columbia County, who had been savagely attacked by State Superintendent William H. Anderson of the New York Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Gillett even carried the City of Hudson by a plurality of more than 500, though that city is Democratic, and elected a Democratic Mayor. Scores of "wet" candidates up-State, who had been indorsed by the Association Opposed to National Prohibition, went down to defeat, not because they ran on a "wet" platform, but because in most instances the indorsed candidates were Democrats running in heavily Democratic districts. The next Assembly will be called upon to enact legislation to enforce prohibition.

The Socialist Party had Assembly candidates in 124 out of the 150 Assembly districts. Not a single Socialist was elected above the Bronx, and returns received did not give the election to Socialists in more than three districts in this city, with the probability that in complete returns this result will be changed somewhat in favor of the Socialists. In any event, it does not seem probable that more than a handful of Socialists will sit in the Assembly next year.

Eight women candidates figured in the Assembly fights. Of these, according to reports received at an early hour

LA GUARDIA WINS BY 1,530

Beats Moran for President of Board of Aldermen in a Close Contest.

KOENIG ORDERED VIGILANCE

CURRAN DEFEATS BOYLE

Five Republican Votes in Board of Estimate Assured—Clean-Cut Result in Supreme Court.

"Look What I Did to You," Major Kelly Wires Murphy

Major Michael A. Kelly, the war veteran who was nominated for President of the Board of Aldermen on a "Liberty" ticket and ruled off by the court, sent the following telegram last night to Charles F. Murphy:

"Hon. Charles F. Murphy,
"Tammany Hall, New York:
"You put me off the ballot, but look what I did to you.
"MICHAEL A. KELLY."

Tammany Hall went down to defeat once more in yesterday's city election, being beaten by the Republican and Independent candidates for the four principal offices voted for—Ex-Congressman F. H. La Guardia for President of the Board of Aldermen, Henry H. Curran for Borough President of Manhattan, Justice Joseph E. Newburger and Philip J. McCook for the Supreme Court. The Wigwam saved one job, that of Surrogate, electing to that office James A. Foley, son-in-law of Leader Charles F. Murphy.

No doubt whatever was left as to the public sentiment when the votes in the Supreme Court judiciary contest were counted. Justice Newburger, to whom a renomination after years of faithful service on the bench was refused by Charles F. Murphy, easily led the victorious candidates. Running on the Republican ticket, although a lifelong Democrat, Justice Newburger polled a vote of some 227,000, exceeding that for Irwin Untermyer, in whose favor he was rejected by Tammany, by 80,000. McCook, Republican, also won, polling 190,000 votes, against 160,000 for Luce (Dem.) and 147,000 for Untermyer.

James A. Foley, Tammany candidate for Surrogate, proved however to be an easy winner. With returns in from 900 out of 948 districts in New York County the vote was 139,397 for Foley, against 126,401 for his opponent, O'Malley, giving Foley a plurality of 13,272.

Moran-La Guardia Fight Close.

In the chief contest outside of the judiciary, that for President of the Board of Aldermen, after a close fight, in which first one side and then the other seemed ahead, ex-Congressman La Guardia beat Robert L. Moran by a plurality of 1,530 votes.

La Guardia is elected despite an earnest eleventh-hour appeal by Mayor Hylan to the voters to re-elect Robert L. Moran, "your true friend, a loyal and honest public servant," and despite the general sympathy for Mr. Moran, who was stricken down by illness early in the fight.

The race between La Guardia and Moran see-sawed back and forth all the evening. Shortly after midnight La Guardia seemed to be securely ahead. Then reports came in which took the lead from him and gave it to Moran by 4,594 plurality, with 230 election districts missing.

Just before midnight Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee in New York County, notified the Republican County Chairmen in the other four boroughs to watch the ballot boxes carefully and, if necessary, to remain with them all night, as the vote between Moran and La Guardia was very close—a thousand votes either way.

At 1 o'clock this morning revised figures for the Borough of Manhattan gave La Guardia a gain of 1,040. Moran's home borough, the Bronx, came back, however, with a gain of 805 for the Tammany candidate. Revised figures from Queens added two more to his plurality and Richmond gave him 353 additional, leaving his plurality about 2,800.

An hour later Brooklyn turned the tide again toward La Guardia with a gain of 2,870. There were still seventy-one districts to be heard from when this report came in. With La Guardia running ahead in Brooklyn, with an average of about 23 plurality to a district, this seemed to indicate La Guardia's election by about 700 votes, if he broke even in the other boroughs. Manhattan, where La Guardia was also leading, had seventeen districts to be heard from, which, it was believed, would counterbalance any gain Moran might still make in the Bronx, Queens, and Richmond.

Before 3 o'clock returns from missing districts in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Richmond made La Guardia's election sure.

A notable feature in this contest was that Oneal, the Socialist candidate for the office, polled a vote of 111,320 in 2,237 election districts, giving him an estimated total vote of 120,000 in the whole city. This compares with a total Socialist vote of 145,338, including the soldier vote, for Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor in the war election of 1917.

Curran Gets Into Estimate Board.

With the result from the head of the city ticket so close as almost to be in doubt, interest centred on the contest for Borough President of Manhattan. If Moran should win, the only hope for a minority representation in the Board of Estimate would be in this contest, the Borough President of Manhattan having a seat and two votes in the board.

Returns from Manhattan showing only 98 election districts missing, received at 2:30 o'clock this morning, placed the election of Henry H. Curran as Borough President beyond doubt. Curran's vote in Manhattan is 126,669, and that of Edward F. Boyle, (Dem.,) his opponent, 120,523, giving Curran a plurality of 6,146.

With La Guardia and Curran both elected the Republicans will have five votes in the Board of Estimate, the important governing body of the city. Up to the present time the Estimate Board has been solidly Democratic, with sixteen votes. Since Mayor Hylan's election there has been no disposition shown by any of the members of the board to break away from Tammany domination. The Republicans have asserted that with a representative of their party on the board much that is now being done in secret would be forced into the open.

Even with Curran, with only two votes in the board, elected, the Republican would be able to throw a fair-sized monkey wrench into the Hylan machinery.

Judge Smith Returned to Bench.

Judge Richard H. Smith, who having failed to obtain a renomination from Tammany Hall, was then nominated by the Republicans, apparently poled the largest vote among the six candidates for Judges of the City Court. His total vote was 162,406, with 220 election districts missing.

Henry K. Davis, Republican, and Louis Wendel, Democrat, were the other two who seemed to be elected. The vote for Davis was 146,552, and that for Wendel 145,064.

The defeated candidates were Thomas J. Reilley, Democrat, with 143,801; Joseph M. Callahan, Democrat, with 144,911, and William H. Chorosh, Republican, with 135,811 votes. These figures, however, are for 1,047 election districts out of 1,267, and owing to the closeness of the race returns from the missing districts may vary the apparent result.

Bertha Rembaugh Loses.

A number of the present Municipal Court Justices were re-elected. Three Democrats were returned in the First District—John Hoyer, William E. Moore, and James J. A. Caffrey, the first two being re-elected. The defeated Republicans were James Anthony Turley, James D. C. Murray, and Bertha Rembaugh, the latter being the first woman to seek the office.

The fusion, Democrat and Republican candidates, in the Second District, Morris Eder, Benjamin Hoffman, and William Blau, the first two being re-elected, were successful against the Socialist candidates, Alexander Kahn, S. John Block, and William Karlin. Thomas F. Noonan and Thomas E. Murray, both Democrats, were returned to office in the Third District, defeating the Republican candidates, William Armstrong and Joseph H. Hayes.

Thomas H. Ward, the present Democratic incumbent in the Fifth District, was defeated by his Republican rival, Abram Ellenbogen, and in the Sixth District the present Republican incumbent, Solomon Oppenheimer, was defeated by Timothy A. Leary, Democrat.

Close for Bench in Second District.

For Justice of the Supreme Court in the Second District, comprising all of Long Island and Staten Island, Arnon L. Squiers (Rep.) and George J. S. Dowling (Dem.) are running neck and neck with a difference of only 578 votes in a total of 367,508 cast for both of them. No returns have been received from Nassau or Suffolk Counties, and of the 1,497 election districts in the entire judiciary district 339 are missing. Squiers's lead of approximately 9,000 in Kings County is almost balanced by Dowling's plurality in Queens and Richmond. Edward J. Reilly, running on the United Independent ticket, received only 3,715 votes of the 371,253 thus far counted.

publican National Committee, telephoned his congratulations from Washington to Chairman Hall of the State Committee, and said:

"Massachusetts has shown that it stands, as always, for law and order, and the effect of Governor Coolidge's re-election will be felt in every section of the United States."

In conceding the re-election of Governor Coolidge, Richard H. Long, the Democratic nominee for Governor, said:

"Governor Coolidge appears to have won by a decisive vote, and I congratulate him. I still believe in the issues that I advocated, and time will determine the righteousness of our cause. I cheerfully accept the result of the election."

Michael J. O'Leary, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said:

"The reserve vote came out in force and gave Governor Coolidge a handsome vote of confidence."

Shortly after Mr. O'Leary's statement, Francis J. Finneran, President of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts, wired Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National Committee at Washington:

"Massachusetts Democrats in today's election overwhelmingly repudiated National Democratic Administration and its policies. Let it serve as warning. Reorganize the party at once; repudiate Secretary Baker and his policy of Prussianism and universal compulsory military service for our youth."

The sweep in favor of the Governor, which was indicated when the first return was received and established as the figures from the cities and towns began to come in, included pluralities in New Bedford, Fall River, and other large industrial centres.

In the towns of the State, whether in Western Massachusetts, in Essex or down on the cape, the tremendous reserve vote, which came out to make the grand total one of the largest ever cast, went strongly for the Governor.

Four wards of Boston, the 13th, 20th, 21st, and 24th, which were Democratic by several hundred votes in 1918, today gave pluralities for Coolidge, while the Governor came within three votes of Mr. Long's total in Ward 22.

The overturn in the industrial cities from last year was a most impressive feature of the election. Places on which the Long managers counted heavily gave Coolidge in some cases a thumping plurality. The pluralities for the Governor in these cities yesterday, as compared with those cast last year, were as follows:

City.	1918.	1919.
Boston	*[illegible]	5,160
Worcester	2,042	8,689
Springfield	1,836	5,829
Lowell	*1,[illegible]	[illegible]
Lawrence	*1,[illegible]	*1,700
Lynn	*[illegible]	*55
New Bedford	1,[illegible]	3,795
Fall River	611	2,764
Haverhill	*107	3,000
Holyoke	410	460
Pittsfield	683	1,890
Fitchburg	*24	657
North Adams	180	640

*Plurality for Long.

Governor Coolidge carried the town of Framingham, Mr. Long's home, by 232 votes. Last year the Governor led his opponent there by only 29 votes.

The western section of the State showed tremendous gains for the Governor. Town after town which was carried by Long last year turned over to the Governor today. Many of the smaller towns turned out 100 per cent. for Coolidge, giving no vote to his Democratic opponent.

Candidate Long was the first to read the handwriting on the wall, for about 9 o'clock after scanning early returns he admitted his defeat and declared Coolidge had won by 150,000. At the time he had the returns from the towns of Millis, Norwell and Orleans and from a majority of the precincts of the city of New Bedford. He declared the vote from Millis might be taken as typical of the small industrial and shoe centres, and Orleans and Norwell as typifying the sentiment of voters in the country districts. The vote from New Bedford, he confessed, typified plainly sentiment in the big mill centres.

Vote Exceeds Presidential Year.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—A flood of votes, possibly the greatest ever cast in an off-year election, poured into Massachusetts ballot boxes today. The contest between Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican, and Richard H. Long, Democrat, which during the campaign was fought largely around the questions developed by the strike of Boston policemen, drew to the polls great numbers of voters. In some places the early vote equalled that of the Presidential election in 1916. In nearly all cities from which reports came the flood of votes rose higher than in 1918.

In this city, ward leaders said the number of voters far exceeded all expectations. Lines of men formed at most polling places. In the suburbs, the conditions were the same.

The mill cities, which were the object of special campaigning, reported unusually heavy voting. In New Bedford it was said it might be the heaviest ever cast there; Lawrence was expected to show a big off-year total, and Lowell started voting with a rush that indicated a record-breaker. In Fitchburg the total in the forenoon was equal to that of the last Presidential year.

There were also three general referendum questions on the ballot—one for the approval of the rearrangement of the State Constitution, submitted by the Constitutional Convention; another on the establishment and maintenance of continuation schools for employed minors, and the third on regulation of interest payments by savings banks and trust companies.

In several districts there was a referendum on the question whether Senators and Representatives should be instructed to vote to permit the manufacture and sale of beverages containing not over 4 per cent. of alcohol, and to define such beverages as "non-intoxicating." Prohibition forces had worked actively to bring about a majority vote against this proposal, on the ground that any such action by the Legislature would be in conflict with the Federal one-half of 1 per cent. law.

Drastic police regulations were in effect in this city, where State Guardsmen are still on duty as a result of the police strike. Gatherings of more than two persons were forbidden about the polling places. Troops and reserve patrolmen were held in readiness for emergencies in districts known to contain many sympathizers of the striking policemen.

More than 600 new policemen were said to be on duty today, half of them being without uniforms. Officials claimed that with the presence of nearly 400 patrolmen who refused to strike, police conditions were normal for an election day.

Lodge Expresses His Pride.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the Senate, issued the following statement tonight through the Republican National Committee:

"Massachusetts has spoken. It is a national victory and means that the American Republic stands, and will stand, unshaken. It is the verdict of the United States speaking through the people of Massachusetts. I am proud of the people of my State who have thus upheld the Governor and vindicated American principles."

Newspapers of the Country Hail Coolidge's Victory As a Triumph for Law and Order Over Radicals

The following comment on the results of the Massachusetts election is from this morning newspapers:

Not Ready for Soviet Government.

BOSTON HERALD—"Fundamentally the outcome shows that the people of Massachusetts believe in law and order; that they adhere to the ancient traditions of the Commonwealth; that they prefer Bay State conditions to Russia; that they are not ready for a Soviet Government or for the ideals of the Bolsheviki. The issue became very plain, the people of Massachusetts have understood it.

"It would be a short-sighted observer who could see in the result any partisan triumph. The great victory for law and order is the result of an outpouring of substantial and right-thinking men of all party groups and affiliations, who have put the welfare of the State and the influence of Massachusetts in the nation above everything else."

"There She Stands."

SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD—"Massachusetts; there she stands."

Has Kept the Faith.

HARTFORD COURANT—"It is a repudiation of a political trickster who made impossible promises to the voters, and it is a demonstration of the good sense of the American voter. Massachusetts has maintained its reputation for intelligence and independence in voting, and has demonstrated to the nation that it has kept the faith, in spite of the demagogic agitation that it endured during the campaign."

Loyal Americans Will Rejoice.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR—"It was a timely exhibition of the force of constituted authority. Loyal Americans in all States will rejoice in the fact that the Bay State voters have gone on record in no uncertain manner as supporting a man who is not afraid to do his duty in upholding the majesty of the law."

"Thank God for Coolidge!"

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS—"The whole negative, low-brow program of Richard H. Long, including reinstatement of the striking policemen of Boston, opposition to the League of Nations, and prohibition has been defeated. * * * Thank God for Governor Coolidge and the hard-headed people of Massachusetts."

Lesson for Coal Miners.

BALTIMORE AMERICAN—"A clean-cut American victory against the forces of unrest and radicalism. * * * This Massachusetts result should serve notice on the coal mine strikers that the forces of law and order have no part or parcel with the policy of rule or ruin."

A Milestone in History Passed.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) REPUBLICAN—"Massachusetts has spoken and vindicated herself. A crisis has been met and a milestone in history has been passed. The effort to capitalize the elements of disorder has been given a crushing rebuke. * * * Calvin Coolidge, re-elected by an overwhelming vote, occupies a national prominence beyond that of any Governor who has preceded him in many years. * * * The victory would be turned into disaster if it should be taken advantage of by the forces of reaction. Then there would be the battle to fight again."

A Slap at Boston.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) STATE JOURNAL—"Gratifying to friends of substantial government. It is good to know that the old Commonwealth has not lost its equilibrium even though Boston has gone daft."

Shows Opposition to Radicalism.

BUFFALO COURIER—"By re-electing Governor Coolidge, Massachusetts approved the policy of law and order, and thereby clearly indicated American opposition to radicalism."

Result Should Be a Lesson.

NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE—"The result should be a lesson to Executives on the one hand and, on the other, to the sinister forces that seek to substitute license for liberty and loot for law."

Gladdens All Patriotic Hearts.

BUFFALO EXPRESS—"One election result which will gladden patriotic American hearts all over the country is the splendid triumph of Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts. Massachusetts has had the more direct experience, in the policemen's strike at Boston, with the advancing tide of Bolshevism than most cities have had, and she condemns it most emphatically."

Whole Country Will Rejoice.

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION—"The re-election of Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts on the issue of the record made by him in the Boston police strike is a triumph for law and order over which the whole country will rejoice. It is to be regretted that the Democratic candidate was permitted to place the party in the attitude of condoning the conduct of the striking policemen."

Law and Order Upheld.

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE TIMES—"The result of the election in Massachusetts clearly demonstrates that the Commonwealth, in line with her previous history, stands for law and order. In the re-election of Governor Calvin Coolidge by a large majority it may be plainly discerned that soviet government is not to be permitted an entering wedge in Massachusetts."

Bay State True to Tradition.

WHEELING, (W. Va.,) REGISTER says: "Massachusetts has remained true to her great American traditions and has chosen to head her Government a man who will permit of no class rule or allow any show of sentiment that will endanger this Government."

Warning to Labor.

BOSTON GLOBE.—"The verdict was not meant as a blow at the lawful rights and the true interests of organized labor, but as a warning to certain of its rash counselors."

Rebuke to Sovietism.

PROVIDENCE JOURNAL.—"Massachusetts has set a shining example to the rest of the country in her triumphant re-election of Calvin Coolidge. It puts new heart into the forces of law and order everywhere. No Soviet government in the United States, no class tyranny, no division of allegiance by city employes, no labor union government within our city, State, and Federal Governments—that is what the Coolidge triumph means."

Says Massachusetts Serves Notice.

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL-APPEAL.—"The re-election of Coolidge is notice to the nation that the heart of that great State is solidly and patriotically American. Evidently sane-thinking laboring men gave no countenance to the un-American appeals that were made to them."

The Government Is Still Safe.

SEATTLE POST INTELLIGENCER—"The answer of Massachusetts is identical in spirit with the answer of Seattle, and no other answer will ever be given by any city or State in the Union. The Government of this nation is still safe in the hands of the people."

An Overwhelming Repudiation.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER: "No one can misunderstand the magnificent victory in Massachusetts. The repudiation of all the forces of evil which were playing with the fire of revolution and thought the country could be stampeded to accept their crazy ideas of government by anarchy, is of an overwhelming character."

Americanism Triumphs.

PHILADELPHIA RECORD: "The outstanding feature of yesterday's election was the result of the Gubernatorial contest in Massachusetts. The issue was clear cut. It was Americanism vs. anarchy, and Americanism was overwhelmingly victorious."

A Mandate Against Intimidation.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE.—"The re-election of Coolidge under the circumstances is an affair of national importance. It conveys a message that cannot be mistaken. It is a plain intimation that Americans are becoming tired of the attempts to control all industries and politics by resorting to intimidation, and the mandate will be needed by those to whom it is addressed."

Sees Mob Beaten Back.

NEW YORK SUN—"Massachusetts, with a mixed population largely of foreign birth or recent alien extraction, was challenged by the mob. Governor Coolidge accepted the challenge in the name of the State and beat the mob back; and yesterday the electorate of Massachusetts gave its unquestioning and unmistakable verdict of approval of his course. As the mob was beaten in Massachusetts so it will be beaten in other States. America has not lost her respect for law and order and will stand by the public officers who perform their duties fearlessly."

Americanism Vindicated.

NEW YORK WORLD—"Massachusetts, in spite of economic discontent and labor unrest, has magnificently vindicated its Americanism. The victory of Governor Coolidge is the most encouraging proof which could be offered at a time like this that the heart of the nation is still sound and that the old traditions have not been forgotten."

The Voice of America.

NEW HAVEN JOURNAL COURIER—The re-election of Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts by an overwhelming plurality is the stern response of the American people to the threats and intimidation of the Reds. The voice of Massachusetts yesterday was the voice of America. The Republic is safe."

Voted as Americans First.

PORTLAND, (Me.), PRESS.—"The surprising plurality of Governor Coolidge shows that the intelligent voters of Massachusetts have not surrendered their faith in American institutions. Some of them who voted for Governor Coolidge were Democrats but they were Americans first. Some of them belonged to labor unions but they were good citizens first. Their Government had been threatened and attacked and in its hour of danger they rallied in its support."

DRYS CLAIM OHIO BY 80,000 MAJORITY

lieve we will win both amendments. The vote on the latter two propositions we admit will be close, but the result will be in our favor."

Cleveland Against Prohibition.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Ignoring a rainy morning, Cleveland's voters turned out today, re-elected Mayor Harry L. Davis, Republican, over Dr. Robert H. Bishop, showed their displeasure with the State Legislature by repudiating its ratification of the Federal Prohibition amendment, voted strongly against the Crabbe act providing enforcement measures for the State Prohibition act, expressed its favor toward 2.75 per cent. beverages, and voted to repeal State prohibition.

Cleveland, however, like several other large cities in the State, always has been a dry stronghold, and, despite the fact that early indications pointed to a wet gain here, rural communities have not been heard from to any great extent, and they are strongly dry. Wets were optimistic over the showing in Cleveland and were jubilant when it was reported that Erie County, another wet stronghold, had swelled its saloon vote.

Cincinnati, of course, returned a heavy wet majority. All over the State the Crabbe act was largely in disfavor, probably because of its rigidity. Outside of Cleveland, in Cuyahoga County, drys were in the majority in early returns, but this is as it always has been.

REPUBLICANS CARRY WESTCHESTER COUNTY

Majorities Range from 25,000 to 28,000—Republican Mayor Gets Record Plurality in Yonkers.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The entire Republican county ticket was elected today by majorities ranging from 25,000 to 28,000. The successful candidates were: District Attorney, Lee Parsons Davis of Yonkers; Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, V. Everit Macy of Scarborough; County Clerk, Louis N. Elrodt of Mount Vernon; Coroner, Robert Johns of Peekskill.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Harry Scott, Republican, was elected Mayor of New Rochelle over Frederick H. Waldorf, Democrat, the present incumbent, by a plurality of more than 1,500 today. The entire Republican city ticket won. The successful candidates were Harry A. Archibald for Controller, Samuel F. Swinburne for City Judge, John J. O'Brien for Receiver of Taxes, and Benjamin B. Badeau for City Treasurer. The Republicans even carried the Fourth Ward, the Democratic stronghold, by approximately 300 plurality on the vote for Mayor. In this ward, however, Louis Goss, Democrat, was re-elected Supervisor by twelve votes. A recount will be demanded.

William J. Wallace, Republican, was re-elected Mayor of Yonkers yesterday by a plurality of 5,500, the biggest ever given to a Mayoralty candidate in Yonkers. The entire Republican city ticket was elected and the Republicans retain a majority in the Common Council and Board of Supervisors.

The Republicans were generally successful in Mt. Vernon, although two Democrats were chosen. For Mayor, Elmer L. Kincaid, Republican, defeated Albert F. Desheidt by 1,234. George C. Appell, a Democrat, was re-elected City Judge over Frederick W. Clark. The Rev. James Berg, Republican, was re-elected Controller over Abel J. Levine, a war veteran and D. S. C. man. For City Treasurer, Mrs. Emma L. Hollywood, Republican, defeated R. W. J. Flynn. For Receiver of Taxes, John H. Cordes, Democrat, won over George E. Weatherby. For Assessor, Colin MacKenzie, Republican, defeated John S. Lyons.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The feature of the election in Port Chester was the attempt of Rudolph Knieriem, a gospel preacher at street corners, to be elected Supervisor. He ran independently and received only 148 votes. George Werner, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Westchester, was re-elected by a plurality of 1,383. Edward Leibrock, Democratic candidate for Town Clerk, who fought in the big war and lost a leg at Verdun, was defeated by about 500 votes by Charles O. Derby, who was re-elected for a third term.

TO GUARD BALLOT BOXES.

Commissioner Enright Issues Orders for Continuous Oversight.

The following message was transmitted at 10 o'clock last night from Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright to the commanding officers of the precincts of Greater New York:

"The election is very close. There will probably be a recount. You will, therefore, see to it that all ballot boxes are carefully sealed before being receipted for. All ballot boxes shall be locked up in the station houses and a patrolman shall be kept on guard. Wherever practicable use the same patrolman on each tour of duty so as to keep down to a minimum the number of witnesses in any court action that may result from the election."

this morning, only one was elected, Mrs. Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Gillette, a woman physician prominent in D. A. R. circles, who won as a Democratic candidate in the Second Assembly District of Schenectady County, now represented by a Republican.

There are two women sitting in the present Assembly. One is Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, who represents the Seventh Manhattan District and is a Democrat. The other is Mrs. Ida B. Sammis, a prominent club woman who represents the Second Assembly District in Suffolk County and is a Republican. Returns indicate the defeat of both. Mrs. Lilly's district is normally Republican. Mrs. Sammis lost in Suffolk, although the entire Republican county ticket and the Republican candidate for Assembly in the First District were elected. She was opposed by W. G. Carroll, a veteran of the world war.

The other women who lost are Miss Marion Dickerman, who ran on the Democratic, Socialist and Prohibition tickets in Oswego County against Speaker Thaddeus D. Sweet; Miss Margaret L. Smith, Republican, 19th, Manhattan; Mrs. S. M. Bradshaw, Democrat, in Erie, Seventh; Miss Frances Witherspoon, Socialist, Manhattan, Tenth, and Luella B. Clark, Otsego County, also a Democrat.

The Democratic district which was lost to the Republicans up-State was the Troy district in Rensselaer County. For the last three years this district has sent a Democrat to the Assembly. Opposition to the Heath Insurance bill which was before the present Legislature and was pressed by Governor Smith as a Democratic party measure in part and in part the fact that Joseph Murphy, the Democratic leader of Rensselaer has had a disagreement with the Governor, are looked upon as circumstances responsible for the shift.

The membership of the next Assembly, as indicated by early returns, with the possibility of some shifts in New York City districts when complete returns are in, is shown in the following table:

MARYLAND'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR CLOSE

one Democrat for the House of Delegates.

Included in this number is William J. Trickett, Secretary of the United Mine Workers of America of this district, who is a candidate on the Republican ticket. Word had been passed quietly down the line by prominent Republicans that Trickett was not desirable, and it is believed that the greater part of his following voted for Walter M. Fuller, Democrat, in place of Trickett.

Nice, Republican, has carried Allegany, Washington, and Garrett Counties, by from 800 to 1,000 each. Ritchie, Democrat, is running rather strong on the Eastern Shore counties. The indications are that Nice will come to Baltimore City with a plurality of 1,000 to 2,000.

The attempt to inject religious prejudice into the election undoubtedly cost the Democrats many votes in Baltimore City. While the Democratic managers denied having incited the movement, the Republicans charged that they fostered and encouraged the circulation of stories about certain Republican candidates being members of an anti-Catholic organization. The political manoeuvre or trick led several Catholic priests to urge from their pulpits last Sunday the defeat of the Democratic ticket, and circulars to the same effect were distributed at the church doors.

MISSISSIPPI ELECTS RUSSELL.

Socialist State Candidates Poll Less Than 10,000 Votes.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 4.—The Mississippi Democratic ticket was elected in today's general election by a plurality of approximately 50,000, the Socialist State candidates, which furnished the only opposition to the Democrats, polling less than 10,000 votes.

Lee M. Russell, present Lieutenant Governor, was elected Governor, and H. H. Casteel was chosen Lieutenant Governor. James T. Lester, grandson of former Governor Poindexter, was the Socialist nominee for Governor.

The Legislature will be Democratic throughout.

PRESIDENT INTERESTED IN ELECTION RETURNS

Condition Continues to Improve and Is Able to Attended to Executive Business.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—President Wilson's condition has so much improved tonight that election returns were given him as they came in during the early part of the night. The President was especially interested in the returns fro mhis home State of New Jersey.

President Wilson today signed the urgent deficiency appropriation bill carrying $2,500,000 for enforcement of wartime prohibition and the food and fuel control act. The measure also provides $6,000,000 for the Alaskan railroad.

For the first time since he has been in the White House, President Wilson was unable to go to his home in Princeton, N. J., to cast his ballot.

REDS' PROSECUTOR BEHIND.

Brady Leads Ticket in Election for San Francisco District Attorney.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—Police Judge Matthew Brady early tonight had a slight margin over Charles M. Fickert, incumbent, in the race for District Attorney contested here today.

Fickert, who attained prominence as prosecutor of the "Preparedness Day bomb cases," directed his campaign from a sickbed.

James Rolph, incumbent, had a two-to-one lead over Eugene Schmitz for Mayor.

MRS. VANDERLIP WINS FIGHT

Candidate for Ossining Supervisor Defeated by Women.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The fight made by Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, wife of the banker, and other society women against John Jenkins, Republican candidate for Supervisor, bore fruit today when Jenkins was defeated by J. Curry Barlow, Democrat, by 121 votes.

George Vail, Democrat, was elected Auditor. Charles Leary, Republican, was relected Town Clerk by 238, and the rest of the Republican ticket won.

Buffalo Socialists Aid Winner.

BUFFALO, Nov. 4.—Frank C. Perkins, an independent indorsed by the Socialists, today polled the highest vote in a field of six candidates for three vacancies on the City Council. The others elected were Ross Graves, Republican, a State Senator, and Arthur W. Kreinheder, Republican, a member of the present board.

Mayor Buck, who carried over this year, is a Republican.

Perkins drew support from both Republican and Democratic parties chiefly in his fight against an increased fare on the street car lines.

MAYORALTY RESULTS IN UP-STATE CITIES

Women Poll Heavy Vote and Are Deciding Factor in Some Close Contests.

ONE SOCIALIST ELECTED

Ex-Representative Lunn Carries Schenectady on Liberal Sunday Issue—Wet Vote in Little Evidence

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Mayor Hiram Edgerton, Republican, is re-elected by more than 6,000 majority over John Hopkins, Democrat. His plurality was greatly reduced over that of two years ago.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Roslyn M. Cox, Democrat, was re-elected Mayor of this city over Isadore M. Lawrence, Republican, by a majority of 722. The proposition to erect a grammar school here at a cost of $346,000 was carried by 1,690 majority.

OLEAN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—W. Z. Georgia, the Republican candidate, was elected Mayor today.

HORNELL, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Fred A. Robbins, Republican, was elected Mayor of Hornell today by a plurality of 1,382, the largest ever given a Mayoralty candidate here. The entire Republican city ticket was elected.

TONAWANDA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—William C. Hubman, the Democratic candidate, was elected Mayor today.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Maxwell B. Thompson, the Republican candidate, was elected to the Mayoralty today.

CORNING, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Dr. George Lane, Democrat, was today elected Mayor over Andrew Maltby, Republican, by a majority of 504.

ROME, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Carroll, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, was defeated by Mickle, Republican, by 749 votes today.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The election of George W. Peck, Democrat, for Mayor, over W. I. Booth, Republican, by 500, is conceded.

GENEVA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—George S. Stubbs, Republican, was re-elected Mayor today over Dr. C. C. Lytle, Democrat, by a majority of 63.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 4.—James W. Fleming, Democrat, was elected Mayor today by a majority of 901. Nearly one-half of the total vote, more than 21,000, was cast by women.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—After six years of Democratic rule in Utica under Mayor James D. Smith, this city today elected James K. O'Connor, Republican, by 4,440 majority. The women, who cast approximately two-fifths of the total vote of 31,000, proved the deciding factor.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Edwin C. Stewart, Republican, was elected Mayor today.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Syracuse elected Major Harry H. Farmer, Republican, Mayor today, by a majority of about 6,000, over James E. Doyle, Democrat, who stood on a "wet" platform.

Special to The New York Times.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—C. E. Perley, Republican, was elected Mayor of Oneonta by a small vote, with women casting about one-fourth of the total.

"Liberal Sunday" Elects Lunn.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The Democrats and Republicans split about fifty-fifty in today's election. The outstanding feature was the Mayoralty contest, in which former Congressman Geo. R. Lunn won from Charles A. Simon, the present incumbent, by a majority of approximately 1,800. Lunn was beaten for re-election to Congress last year by Dr. Frank Crowther, the present representative.

Lunn, an ordained minister, who was Mayor before going to Congress, based his campaign on Sunday baseball and Sunday movies pledges, while his opponent's main platform was a closed Sunday. He had the support of the ministerial, Sunday Observance, and other church organizations. The victory of Lunn proves that Schenectadians desire a liberal Sabbath.

It is estimated that 35 per cent. of the votes cast were those of women, and a big majority of these, it is believed, went to the successful candidate.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Theodore R. Haviland, Republican, was elected Mayor over Alva J. Zimmer, 2d, Democrat, by 177 plurality.

William W. Chamberlain, Republican, was elected Mayor of Johnstown.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Mayor B. Grant Thorpe, People's Party, was defeated today by George Hornbeck, Fusion, by a vote of 1,470 to 401.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Dr. A. P. Burkhart, Republican, is elected Mayor.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Mayor Ralph F. Butts, Democrat, was re-elected Mayor over Dr. J. Wilson Poucher by a majority of 215. The women's vote was heavy, and it is believed materially to have affected the results in the Mayoralty contest.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Wilson, Republican, is elected Mayor over Seymour, Democrat.

Special to The New York Times.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Theron Akin, a former Representative in Congress, was elected Mayor of Amsterdam by a plurality of 3,804, defeating William B. Maroney, a retired soldier.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Nov. 4.—In a hotly contested election Dr. Eugene J. Sullivan, pledged by pre-election promises to eliminate gambling, was defeated by 150 today by John E. Gaffney for Commissioner of Public Safety, the member of the City Council in control of the Police Department. Dr. Sullivan had promised, if elected, to support racing, but to wipe out common gambling in the city next season. John A. T. Schwartze, present Acting Mayor, was defeated for Mayor by James D. McNulty, a former Village President, by over 1,000.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Robert E. Cahill, Democrat, was elected Mayor over Henry J. Kimball, Republican, at the first election under the commission form of government. The entire Republican ticket was elected by a Democratic, Prohibition and commission government coalition. The women's vote, it is believed, caused the upset of the normally Republican majority of 2,000, they voting to eliminate politics from municipal government. The women's vote was approximately 40 per cent. of the total.

ALBANY, Nov. 4.—At midnight it was practically assured that Mayor James R. Watt had been re-elected, although his plurality had been cut from 10,000, which he received two years ago, to approximately 2,500. Republicans carried Albany County by safe majorities.

Deposed Firemen Win in Newburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The Mayoralty election was one of the most hotly contested in the history of the city. When the volunteer fire department was reorganized by the City Manager, James Miller, a Republican leader, the deposed fire companies organized as veterans and placed in nomination at the Primary Henry Leonard, a Democrat, for Mayor, and James Tweed, and Wygant D. Fowler, Republicans, for Councilmen.

H. Blackwell 94, and George W. Guthrie got 93. S. Roy Heath, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, who made his fight on a wet platform, received 119 votes in this precinct to 66 for former Assemblyman John E. Gill, Republican, indicating a lead which might be difficult to overcome.

Mr. Edwards carried Bayonne by about 2,500 majority.

At midnight, Mr. Bugbee, at Trenton, said:

"The race is close, but we will win by 10,000."

Indications at this hour were that Bugbee would carry Hunterdon County by a fair plurality. He was leading his opponent there by about 200 votes on the returns received up to that time.

In Camden County, Bugbee was leading Edwards almost 2 to 1, and Republican leaders were predicting that he would carry the county by between 6,000 and 7,000 plurality. With a number of districts still missing, indications were that Edwards had carried Trenton, Bugbee's home town, by about 500 plurality, and Mercer County by about 1,500. It was indicated that Mr. Heath, Democratic candidate for Senator in Mercer County, had carried Trenton by about 2,500 and the county by a reduced plurality.

Mr. Edwards at midnight said: "I wish to thank my friends throughout the State for their very generous support."

Complete returns for the State Senate showed that it would be composed of fifteen Republicans and six Democrats, a gain of one Republican member over the last session, when there were fourteen Republicans, six Democrats, and one vacancy. There were two overturns in the Senatorial contests. R. Roy Heath, a Democrat, was elected in the place of a Republican from Mercer County, but William A. Stevens will take the place of a Democrat from Monmouth County. The result of the Assembly elections in Essex County had not been fully determined at 2 o'clock this morning, but were complete for the remainder of the State and showed a net gain of three seats for the Republicans.

The voting throughout the State was heavy during the early hours of the day, especially in the Republican strongholds, which gave the supporters of Mr. Bugbee encouragement that he would win. The election was quiet, and few arrests were made.

In East Orange four members of the election board in the Third District, Second Ward, were arrested and removed from office, charged with contempt of court for refusing to obey an order of County Judge Osborne to place the name of Collier W. Baird on the registered list. A new board was immediately appointed and Baird voted. This was said to be the first time in the history of the State that such a step had been taken in an election.

Edward W. Jacoby, Chairman of the dismissed board, and his fellow-members apologized to Judge Osborne when arraigned on the contempt charge. The court suspended sentence when the offenders stated that they regretted not having obeyed promptly.

Charged with failure to sign the lodging house list, a device intended to aid in preventing plurality voting by men in the lodging house district, five men were arrested in Newark. They were taken into custody when, it is alleged, they attempted to vote. Eighty warrants, charging a similar offense, were sworn out and placed in the hands of detectives.

ELECT SOCIALIST MAYOR.

Lackawanna Incumbent's Defeat Attributed to Steel Strikers.

Special to The New York Times.

LACKAWANNA, Nov. 4.—John H. Gibbons, Socialist, was elected Mayor of Lackawanna today, defeating by 18 votes John A. Toomey, the present Mayor, who was nominated on both Republican and Democratic tickets.

Mayor Toomey's attitude toward the strike of the Lackawanna Steel Company's employes was said to have been responsible for his defeat. The strikers complained that he had acted unjustly in prohibiting their meetings except at one hall in the city. His name appeared only on the Democratic ticket, the pointer on the voting machines in the Republican row being locked in accordance with the State law, and it is contended by his friends that he received only a small percentage of the Republican votes which normally would have gone to him.

Mayor Toomey made an appeal to the Supreme Court last week against locking the pointer in the Republican column, but lost.

HASKELL PROCLAIMS VICTORY OVER DRYS

G. O. P. Candidate for County Judge in Kings Calls Result a Rebuke to Anti-Saloon League.

FAVORS PERSONAL LIBERTY

Anderson Predicts Dismal Future for the Man He Opposed in the Campaign.

Representative Reuben H. Haskell, successful Republican candidate for County Judge of Kings County, who on late returns, led his victorious Republican running mate, Judge Norman S. Dike, by some 10,000 votes, distancing his nearest Democratic opponent by some 48,000, made his campaign a straight-out fight on the personal liberty issue. In a proclamation of victory last night, Haskell explained the result as a distinct pronouncement by the people of Brooklyn in favor of popular referendum on all prohibition amendments and as a stinging rebuke to the Anti-Saloon League, which fought bitterly against him from the moment he espoused the cause of the wets.

In reply to the Haskell statement last night, William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, who took personal charge of the anti-Haskell forces and who twice invaded the candidate's own borough in an effort to win one of the first open-and-shut wet-dry issues joined since the prohibition amendment was enacted, asserted that Haskell would take office saddled with an implied promise to the wets to favor them in the administration of the prohibition laws. Anderson said the wets would be waiting for Judge Haskell with a club at the end of his term if he did not fulfill that promise, and if he did fulfill it "he will probably be impeached." Anderson closed his statement with a prediction for a dismal political future for the man he had opposed so strenuously, saying that future could be neither happy nor wholesome.

Championed Dry Cause.

Not only all Brooklyn, but all those who have concerned themselves with the prohibition fight, had watched the Haskell campaign with deepest interest. Though not a "wet" on the straight-out question of permitting or not permitting liquor, Haskell entered the lists on the wet side on the ground that the prohibition amendment had been enacted without consulting the wishes of the people. From start to finish he championed the submission of the question of all prohibitions, whether liquor, coffee, tea, tobacco, or whatnot, to popular referendum. His record in Congress bears out his stand in the election just finished. As a result, when, last Summer, he sought a straight-out designation from his party for the office of county judge, for which there were two places open on the ticket, he was turned down by a majority of the party leaders on the ground that he might drag in the prohibition issue during the campaign and thus embarrass the whole county ticket.

Haskell, undaunted by the stand of the leaders, went before the people as an independent candidate in the Republican primaries and was nominated with a plurality of 900 over County Judge Dike, present incumbent and candidate for renomination and later for re-election. Haskell defeated Fred S. Martyn by almost 2 to 1.

Anderson entered the fight against Haskell in the primaries, and remained in it till the balloting started yesterday. He charged that the liquor interests were financing the Congressman, enlisted the aid of many Brooklyn clergymen and organized the Alliance of American citizens, an organization of Brooklyn prohibitionists. Anderson challenged Haskell to a debate in the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and, when Haskell declined, appeared there and attacked the candidate bitterly. He went to Brooklyn again last Sunday night, warring upon Haskell's candidacy before a large church gathering.

Predicts Griffin's Defeat.

Sheriff Daniel J. Griffin of Kings County, one of the Democratic candidates for the Judgeship, was linked with Haskell by Anderson, though Griffin did not openly espouse the wet cause. However, he did not deny Anderson's assertion that he, too, favored it.

Though there can be little question that the majority of Brooklynites viewed the Haskell fight as an opportunity for them to have a sort of ineffective but nonetheless directly expressive referendum on the prohibition question, they did not show similiar interest in the Griffin candidacy, and the Sheriff, according to the Haskell figures, was beaten. The other unsuccessful candidate, according to the Haskell returns, was Howard P. Nash, Griffin's Democratic running mate.

The statement issued by Representative Haskell reads:

"My election as County Judge by a handsome majority is a splendid vote of confidence for which I acknowledge my deep gratitude to the people of Brooklyn. Much as this means to me personally it has a greater significance. Brooklyn, the most independent voting sector of the United States, has indicated in the most emphatic way the stand that the Constitution should again be amended to provide a direct vote on prohibition, and further that all amendments proposed hereafter designed to restrict the personal liberties, such as tobacco, tea, coffe, prohibition, &c., shall be submitted to a nation-wide referendum vote. Brooklyn is progressing in thought and action and favors the largest degree of popular rights and freedom for the expression by the people of their voice and vote upon great fundamental questions.

"Those who deliberately tried to misrepresent me and the great principles for which this fight was conducted have properly been rebuked and repudiated for their studied and practical deception, amounting in fact to an attack framed on the people. It is now my purpose to undertake on Jan. 1 next my new duties as County Judge. I have so conducted myself in other offices to hold the continued esteem and confidence of the people of Brooklyn. I appreciate the great trust the people have conferred on me.

"The obligation of keeping our judiciary unsullied as a tribunal for equal justice to rich and poor alike and irrespective of race, creed or color will be safely performed."

When the major part of the foregoing statement was read to Mr. Anderson last night over the telephone, he dictated the following reply:

"Answering Mr. Haskell's statement that he is elected, though I don't know yet whether he is elected or not, I am able to say that his statement bears evidence of having been turned out in the same liquor foundry that prepared most of his campaign arguments. In view of the enormous number of 'wet' Democrats who voted for him it is evident on the face of it that he lost the support of practically all of the decent, conservative, intelligent, thoughtful Republicans and he is welcome to all of the comfort he can get out of that sort of an election.

"If the prohibition forces had had one-tenth the money to put into the fight that the 'wet' forces threw in to help Mr. Haskell he would have been whipped. He wins, if at all, because it was impossible to get the truth to the public generally on account of the attitude of the Brooklyn newspapers and the inability of the Allied Citizens as a new organization in Brooklyn to raise sufficient campaign funds to send out literature to all the voters generally.

"The Anti-Saloon League has not spent or become liable for more than $200 in the Haskell matter from the beginning of the primaries up to the election.

"Mr. Haskell will go into office, if at all, under an implied promise to the wet element that he will favor them in the administration of the prohibition law. If he does not do so, they will feel that he has sold them out and thrown them down and will be waiting for him with a club when he comes up again. If he fails to keep his implied assurance to them he will probably be impeached. In either event there is no happy or wholesome political future for him."

MISS REMBAUGH HAS HOPE.

Will Be Disappointed if She Hasn't Made a Dent in Democracy.

Not one of the candidates up for election was as happy last night as Bertha Rembaugh, who ran for Justice of the Municipal Court in the First District. At 9:30 last evening Miss Rembaugh was sitting before a wood fire blazing in a charming old fireplace on an upper floor of a beautiful little old eighteenth century house at 36 Grove Street. It is Miss Rembaugh's home, which she shares with several women friends. Wearing a red blanket robe for an extra wrap, she was comfortable darning stockings by the soft light of a shaded lamp.

"I thought now that the campaign was over and I know I could not be elected there was nothing to be excited about," she said, "and I have stayed at home. I did go to the headquarters, but there was nothing going on there. I slept late this morning and I had a nap this afternoon. I have a good deal of arrears to make up. Now I shall go back to my regular law work.

"Have I enjoyed the campaign? No, it was like going to the dentist. I had never known anything of the kind before. I have learned something about politics and about cart-tail speeches, and I hope there has been a little dent made in the strong Democracy of the district. If there hasn't been, if I have run way below my ticket I shall be disappointed. This is such a heavily Democratic district that conditions would have to be unprecedented for Republicans to win, but I thought when they proposed to put me up that it would be a good thing for women who might be nominated at another time in districts where there was a chance of winning, to have a woman accept a nomination where she couldn't win, to show that she could put up a gallant fight, more of a fight, perhaps, than would be expected, and could be a good loser.

"There is one thing my campaign helped, I believe, and that was the appointment of Mrs. Jean Norris to her position on the Magistrates' bench. Tammany thought we might be putting something over on them, and thought it would be a good thing for the Democratic Party to be the first to put a woman on the bench.

"I didn't think in the first place when I was nominated that I should do anything, but make a couple of speeches at one or two Republican clubs, but suddenly my friends began to get excited, and I found myself precipitated into the campaign. Now it is over and I am catching up my arrears in a good many things," and Miss Rembaugh held up the silk stockings in which her needle was running in and out.

Miss Rembaugh's friends of her household were out early yesterday watching at the polls and her campaign manager and a number of the members of the Campaign Committee gathered informally at the Brevoort House to get returns late in the evening. The one-time saloon which Miss Rembaugh shared with the other Republican candidates for Municipal Court Justice was tightly closed yesterday, but the children were burning election day bonfires near it.

THINKS THERE WAS FRAUD.

Honest Ballot Association Spokesman Hears of Law Violations.

Although election officers declared they had been unable to obtain proof of any irregularities in the voting, Albert S. Bard, Chairman of a committee of lawyers, appointed by the Honest Ballot Association, Inc., of 18 West Thirty-fourth Street, issued a statement last night in which he declared that it was his impression that fraud still existed.

"Our lawyers have been busy all day," the statement read, "investigating complaints telephoned to us from various parts of the city. We have also made independent investigations for ourselves. We have no comments to make as to the result of the election. Our work is strictly nonpartisan; our effort is to see that every candidate gets what is justly and honestly coming to him.

"My impression, gained from the reports of our lawyers, is that there is still considerable fraud in the casting and counting of the vote, and a far greater number of violations of the election law through ignorance."

KILBANE PROBABLY LOSES.

Late Returns Indicate Champion is Beaten for Cleveland Council.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—Incomplete returns at midnight indicate that Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion pugilist, Democratic candidate for the City Council in the First Ward, has been defeated by Councilman A. R. Dittrick, Republican.

Elect Moore Mayor of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Congressman J. Hampton Moore of the Third Pennsylvania District was today elected Mayor of Philadelphia by a large plurality. The election campaign was a listless one, the real contest being waged at the primary, Moore, with the support of United States Senator Penrose and independent Republicans, defeating the candidate of the Vare faction for the nomination.

PLANS AIRSHIP TO CARRY 150

English Company Maps Out Passenger Service to New York.

Plans for an aerial passenger service which will exceed even the visions of a Verne are being made by the Northern Aerial Syndicate of Great Britain, according to a recent report to the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner Henry F. Grady, in London.

Mr. Grady's report says the syndicate is said to be arranging an airship service to New York, the plans providing for craft that will carry 150 passengers in addition to staffs of cooks, stewards, and crew. At Liverpool, passengers from America will be transferred to smaller aircraft, and taken to their destinations. Moorings for the large ships, according to the plans, will be provided at leading hotels. The program also provides for a service from England to Perth, Australia, seven days being allowed in the calculations for the trip.

Major W. T. Blake, writing in a London newspaper, gives the following specifications for what he considers would be ideal aerial cars for pleasure and for commercial purposes. His suggestions for the pleasure cars are:

Length, [illegible] feet; span, 30 feet; height, 7 feet; engine, 50-horse power, air-cooled, radial; accommodation, two abreast in partially enclosed cabin; top speed, 90 miles an hour; cruising, 70 miles an hour; landing, 40 miles an hour; rising, 40 miles an hour; range, 300 miles; duration, 4 hours; cost, $2,500; upkeep, 24 cents a mile.

His specifications for commercial aircraft are: Length, 45 feet; span, 100 feet; height, 15 feet; engines, two 400-horse power, stationary, water-cooled; passenger accommodations, 20, (plus 2 pilots); top speed, 100 miles an hour; commercial, 80 miles an hour; landing, 45 miles an hour; rising, 50 miles an hour; range, 350 miles; duration, 4 hours, cost, $25,000; upkeep, $1.80 a mile. At present firms are charging $100,000 for a machine of, roughly, these capabilities.

GLOOM AND JOY FILL WIGWAM IN TURN

Early Cheer Succeeded by Depression and Then by Hope as Moran's Fate Wavers.

REPUBLICANS ARE JUBILANT

Newburger Thanks Voters—Untermyer "Content to be Defeated" with His Ticket.

Headquarters of the several parties and the rival candidates were centres of humming activity while the returns from the election were being received last night.

Charles F. Murphy and other Tammany leaders would not concede defeat for the head of the ticket. At midnight Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of the organization, admitted Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia was leading by 1,000 votes over Robert L. Moran, the Democratic candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, with returns from 2,410 districts, leaving 156 districts to be heard from in the entire city. Mr. Murphy left the hall at 12:30 o'clock and half an hour later declared over the telephone that Moran and Foley had been elected. He also said: "I will not concede the election of Curran as Borough President until the full returns are in."

There was no enthusiasm at the Democratic headquarters in Fourteenth Street at any time after the closing of the polls, and as the returns continued to indicate defeat for some of the candidates and that the votes were close for others most of the leaders departed, leaving a handful of gloomy watchers for later returns. When the election of Justice Newburger was reported, Mr. Murphy said he had no comment to make.

About 6,000 men and probably 1,000 women heard the returns read in the big hall of the wigwam during the evening. The women occupied the boxes and galleries and the men had the main floor, which had been cleared of seats. These visitors moved in and out of the hall at intervals and newcomers took their places frequently. When the reports continued to indicate Democratic losses only a few spectators remained for the final announcements.

Governor Smith and others joined Mr. Murphy at the hall at 10 o'clock. Others who were there during the night were Public Service Commissioner Nixon, ex-Senator Foley, Borough President Edward F. Boyle, and District Attorney Swann. Secretary Smith tried to cheer the leaders in the office downstairs with the remark:

"Governor, it was not like this a year ago." Governor Smith, who was then a candidate, laughed. Secretary Smith continued: "That was because there was a Smith running."

Later, at his headquarters in the Hotel Commodore, Senator Foley said: "I am gratified at my election, in view of the clean and dignified campaign that I think I conducted. I feel it is a tribute to my record in the Legislature and as a lawyer."

Confident at Republican Quarters.

At Republican County Headquarters, 105 West Fortieth Street, Samuel H. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, said:

"La Guardia, Newburger and McCook have been elected, and the returns show the other contests are very close. We must wait for fuller returns before we can say how they will come out. Manhattan has been swept by the Republicans. The Republicans have elected more Assemblymen and Aldermen than in years. We have carried the majority of the Assembly Districts of the city. The defeat of Tammany Hall is complete."

He added that Henry H. Curran, candidate for Manhattan Borough President, would win.

Mr. Koenig said his suspicions had been aroused by the delay in announcing the returns in certain districts and that every election district in the city was being "covered" to see that "nothing happens to the ballots."

"We are taking no chances," he said. "We have got this thing won, and we are going to hold it."

Candidates Curran, James O'Malley and William H. Chorosh made their appearance at the headquarters and remained to receive the returns.

At 11:45 o'clock the following figures were given out at La Guardia's headquarters in the Imperial Hotel: Moran, 375,957; La Guardia, 376,994. La Guardia's lead, 1,037. Only 157 more districts were to be heard from.

Mr. La Guardia left to visit the Republican County headquarters around 11 o'clock. At that time the crowd was shouting with jubilation. When he returned half an hour later he found an uncanny silence in place of the merry-making.

After learning of the late reports which had sliced down his lead, Mr. La Guardia sent his campaign manager, Paul Windels, and a committeeman out in an automobile. Their destination could not be learned. It was rumored that some "monkey" business had been going on with the votes in the Bronx. Mr. La Guardia said:

"My military training teaches me not to take my eyes off the enemy until it is all over. So I am still counting the votes."

As the figures were marked up at the hotel, Italian supporters shouted "Viva La Guardia!" One Italian stood up on a chair during one of these exhibitions and shouted:

"I shave-a him for two years!" He was La Guardia's barber.

Curran Pledges Loyal Service.

At 1 o'clock, returns of 800 election districts gave Mr. Curran a plurality of 460, this seemingly assuring his election as President of the Borough of Manhattan.

"I do not regard my election as a personal triumph," said Mr. Curran, "but as the expression of the voters who registered their protest against Tammany and its methods, and against the waste, extravagance and lack of constructive legislation in the City Government. I am deeply appreciative of the honor bestowed on me, and will endeavor to discharge faithfully my responsible duties as President of the Borough, and as a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment."

The new Borough President served two years overseas as a Major with the A. E. F. When he entered the political ring upon his return he was surrounded by men who had been members of his staff on the other side. In consequence his campaign headquarters at the Hotel Navarre resembled a regimental headquarters. All that was lacking were the uniforms. Those assisting him in the campaign went about their work with a quickness and precision that was militarylike.

At the headquarters of Justice Joseph E. Newburger and Judge Richard H. Smith, who were turned down by Tammany Hall for renomination for the Supreme Court and City Court, respectively, many friends of the candidates assembled to receive the returns. In the crowd were many members of Tammany Hall. Among the throng were County Clerk William F. Schneider, William Hannah, Clerk of the Court of General Sessions; William McGuire, Justice Newburger's special secretary; Assistant District Attorney Joseph D. Adelson, ex-Assemblyman Joseph P. Bourke, Thomas P. Burke, editor of the Irish temperance paper; Miss Newburger, a sister of Justice Newburger; Mrs. Smith, wife of the candidate; ex-Congressman Daniel C. Oliver, Irwin Thompson, Executive Secretary of the Campaign Committee of the Independent Non-Partisan Judiciary Committee, and Nathaniel Phillips, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany.

The returns were received with great enthusiasm. Bainbridge Colby, Chairman of the Independent Nonpartisan Committee, at the headquarters said:

"The result is very gratifying from every standpoint."

Newburger Thanks Voters.

Justice Newburger said: "I am sincerely grateful for the splendid manner in which the press has supported the vital principles involved in this campaign; also for the manner in which the bar associations have come to the support of the independence of the bench, and to the public for its enlightened loyalty to the principles underlying the contest."

When the news came that Justice Newburger's election was almost a certainty fifty women who said they had been active supporters appeared at the hotel and were received by the Justice.

Judge Smith had no comment to make.

Irwin Untermyer, shortly after 10 o'clock, conceded his defeat for the Supreme Court in this brief statement: "If the Democratic party has been defeated, I am content to be defeated with it."

Gloom settled over the Untermyer headquarters in the Manhattan Hotel between 8 and 9 o'clock, and there were no happy intervals when it lifted.

George H. Bell, campaign manager for Major Philip J. McCook, said:

"It seems as though Major McCook has been elected by more than 20,000 over his nearest Tammany opponent. This is a highly gratifying result of a campaign in which we have set fairly and squarely before the voters the moral issue which they have fully understood and the merits of our candidate. The people of New York have shown their appreciation of a man who is not only highly qualified to be Justice of the Supreme Court, but who has done more than his share in serving the country."

Major McCook was wounded a year ago tomorrow in the Argonne-Meuse offensive, while fighting with the 9th Infantry Brigade. It is necessary for him to use a cane in walking.

At the headquarters of James O'Malley, Republican candidate for Surrogate, in the Hotel McAlpin, it was said at 10 o'clock that of the returns from districts which had come in, Senator Foley had 54,929 votes, and O'Malley 46,499 votes. Mr. O'Malley spent the night at the Republican Club.

William Randolph Hearst gave out the following statement:

"Justice Newburger has been triumphantly elected. His rejection by the Democratic boss was the main issue of the campaign. The resentment aroused by Mr. Murphy's attempt to control the judiciary operated against the whole Democratic ticket, and resulted in many Democrats being defeated in a city which is usually overwhelmingly Democratic.

"It is to be hoped that this rebuke will teach the bosses to keep their hands off the judiciary."

McCooey Admits Defeat.

Convinced from his own returns at 10 o'clock last night that the Republicans had swept Brooklyn with a clean victory, Jacob A. Livingston, Republican leader of Kings County, issued this statement:

"This is not a victory for Republicans, but for Democrats who are dissatisfied with the policies of President Wilson and other conditions. It indicates what will happen next year in the country."

John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader in Brooklyn, at 10:30 o'clock conceded the defeat of George J. S. Dowling, his candidate for the Supreme Court, and also of Judge Howard T. Nash, for the County Court. Others on the county ticket he predicted would have small pluralities over their Republican rivals. These include Surrogate, County Clerk, Registrar and District Attorney. He was also optimistic regarding the Democratic candidates for the Assembly.

The large increase in the Republican vote in Kings County he attributed to a "multiplicity of causes," none of which he set forth. "The results," he said, "speak for themselves."

Some of his lieutenants thought national issues had been reflected to the local political field, and mentioned among these prohibition, the high cost of living and labor difficulties. The Democratic Party, they said, seemed to be held responsible for all these.

At the Socialist headquarters, 7 East Fifteenth Street, B. L. Gebner, Secretary of the party, predicted that at least seven Socialist Aldermen had been elected.

Mr. Gebner said there was considerable violence in polling places where the Socialist vote was strong. He said that assaults made on several of the Socialist watchers were outrageous.

From reports received, he said, that A. I. Shiplacoff, ex-Assemblyman, had been elected by 900 votes to the Assembly in the Brownsville district of Brooklyn. He said Shiplacoff's opponent had received only 310 votes and the Democratic candidate 210. He said he had heard that four Socialists had been elected to the Assembly.

The State Socialist Party informed him, he said, that several Socialists in Buffalo were elected.

CHEER IN WHISPERS FOR A DRY ELECTION

Small Crowds Lack Enthusiasm and Interest—No Noise to Speak Of.

The streets of New York were quieter last night than on any election night in recent years. It was New York's first "dry" election night. Besides that, interest in the results was apparently slight. Where the bulletins were displayed, there was an unwonted absence of demonstration, except in front of the Jewish Daily Forward office, where an outburst of hisses greeted the announcement: "Governor Coolidge, Breaker of the Boston Police Strike, Re-elected."

There was a crowd of several thousand in Times Square, taking advantage of the triangle north of the Times Building, which was clear of subway construction hamper for the first time in several years. Interest was held by the closeness of the fights between La Guardia and Moran and between McCook and Luce. As the returns continued to show the battle nip and tuck between these two pairs of candidates, the crowd grew and became more interested, but they were about as demonstrative as spectators at a closely-contested chess game.

Horns, bells, and rattles were only heard when a truck load of the field workers of some winning candidate passed by. The merchant adventurers who usually barter in Times Square with stocks of noise generators were absent, conserving against the possibility of a historic New Year's Eve, if things take a turn for the wetter. Orange juice and ginger ale failed to sustain interest at the Times Square cafés and hotel bars in the Moran-La Guardia and McCook-Luce battles. In Harlem, curiosity as to the flavor of one-half of 1 per cent. beer and the hope that there might occasionally be some mistake in the chemical mathematics brought considerable crowds to the saloons, but they dwindled with the night, instead of growing as in the old times.

In Times Square the victory of Governor Coolidge in Massachusetts over Long produced about as much interest as any of the local fights. One of the first questions of newcomers to the crowds was as to how Coolidge had fared, and news of his victory was generally hailed with satisfaction. The big margin established by Newburger over Untermyer also made a hit with the Times Square crowd.

Captain Samuel Belton of the West Forty-seventh Street Station said that, for the first time within his knowledge, there had not been one Election Day arrest in his precinct. On previous Election Day the arrests here never numbered fewer than ten.

Jack Weinstein, 18 years old, of 18 Rutgers Street, was rescued from a crowd of Italians in front of the Forward Building last night after he had made a disparaging remark concerning La Guardia. He was taken to the Madison Street Station, suffering from a slight stab wound and a number of bumps about the face and head. He was not sent to a hospital after it had been found that he was only slightly hurt.

Bridgeport Re-elects Mayor Wilson.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 4.—Mayor Clifford B. Wilson, Republican, was re-elected Mayor today by a plurality of 1,872 over Allen E. Vincent, Democratic-Fusion American Labor candidate. It is the fifth consecutive election of Mayor Wilson.

SINGERS TOOK FOOD FOR PAY

Arrivals on Nieuw Amsterdam Tell of Hunger in Czechoslovakia.

The Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam arrived yesterday from Rotterdam to join the remainder of the company's fleet, including the Rotterdam, Noordam, and Ryndam, which have been delayed by the longshoremen's strike.

Among the 1,128 passengers on board were Felix and Paul Warburg who went to Poland to study financial conditions. Felix Warburg was in charge of the joint distribution committee of the Jewish Relief Fund, and distributed $20,000,000 worth of foodstuffs.

John C. Wiley, Second Secretary of the United States Legation at The Hague also arrived on the Nieuw Amsterdam on leave to see his family.

Several passengers on the liner told of the scarcity of food and coal in Czechoslovakia. Mr. and Mrs. Otakar Marak, who were formerly with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, said they were so hungry sometimes that they had sung for people in the public places to get something to eat.

Fisk Warren who arrived from Cadiz on the Spanish liner Cataluna said he had been in Andorra in the Pyrenees Mountains which is the smallest and oldest republic in the world. There is no custom house, no crime and free trade with all the world. Mr. Warren is the founder of the Single Tax Colony at Andorra where he went to attend its twenty-fifth anniversary.

URGES BRITISH AID I. W. W.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—An active campaign has been started in England by George Hardy, of Chicago, to persuade English workmen to appeal direct to Washington for the release of all I. W. W. men imprisoned in America. The campaign includes propaganda showing alleged wrongs the Industrial Workers of the World have suffered at the hands of American capitalists.

It is understood that a similar campaign will be carried on in all European countries wherever possible.

CITY'S BIGGEST VOTE CAST IN GOOD ORDER

Women Outnumber the Men in Morning Polling—Most of the Ballots Cast by Noon.

NO DISORDER REPORTED

Candidates and Other Notables Go to the Polls Early—Good Weather a Helpful Feature.

When the 2,507 polling places closed last night at 6 o'clock, election officials said that New York had cast the heaviest off-year vote in its history, perhaps the greatest vote in any year.

This record vote was attributed partly to the good weather, partly to the unusually heavy registration and in large part to the fact that more women went to the polls than in any of the few elections in which women have had the right to vote.

Besides being the city's largest election it was the quietest and most orderly.

The vote was out early; in some election districts from 25 to 50 per cent. of those registered had cast ballots within three hours after the polls were opened. By 2 o'clock, it was estimated that 75 per cent. of the vote had been cast. In the afternoon the rush of voters tapered off, but just before closing time the polls were rushed.

The prediction of leaders that the women, constituting approximately one-third of the enrollment, would be active was borne out. They flocked to the voting places in great numbers, in some districts outnumbering the men 6 to 1 in the early balloting. According to officials at the polls, few of the women chanced the risk of losing their votes through errors in trying to split their tickets.

The vote of the women was divided strictly on party lines, and last night, for the first time since the beginning of the equal suffrage movement, the women political leaders did not get the return at the suffrage headquarters. They heard the results of the election at the Republican and Democratic Clubs, according to their party affiliations.

Courts were kept open and Justices were ready at their homes to straighten out election tangles throughout the day, but because of the methodical balloting they had practically nothing to do.

"Everything has been quiet," declared Henry Stanley Renaud, State Superintendent of Elections last night; "there have been no arrests in any part of the city so far as I know, and I have found no traces of fraud of any sort."

"Not a serious thing outside of the spoiling of a number of unvoted ballots in the Thirty-third Election District occurred today to mar the voting," said John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections. "In comparison with previous years I must say that everything has gone off in an orderly and quiet way, and so far as I know in a satisfactory manner. No complaints of a serious character have reached this office by telephone or otherwise. Such few complaints as have been received have had immediate attention.

"Considering the short experience that the women election officials have had in the exacting and laborious work devolving upon them," he continued, "it is my opinion that they have done remarkably well, and in due time, with more familiarity with the election law, there is no question that they will be equal in efficiency with the men."

This statement was issued last night by Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the New York City League of Women Voters:

"Three things that pleased me when I visited voting places today were the early vote, the great number of women in line, and the veteran way in which they voted.

"Some people have asked me whether I think the woman vote will decide the election. Most assuredly not. Many more men registered than women. Women do not vote as a sex, but divide their votes on party lines just as the men do. The only thing we can be reasonably sure about in regard to the woman vote is that it will be blamed for whatever goes wrong, and it is easy to make them the scapegoat."

Among the first of the candidates to vote was Major Fiorello La Guardia, Republican nominee for President of the Aldermanic Board. He and his wife voted in a tailor's shop, one flight up, at 56 East Twelfth Street. He was confident of the result, he said. Robert L. Moran, designated by the Democrats to succeed himself as President of the Board of Aldermen, did not vote. Mr. Moran was stricken with appendicitis shortly before the time for registering and consequently was not qualified to cast a ballot. He received the election returns last night at his home, 1,486 St. Lawrence Avenue, the Bronx, over a special wire from Democratic headquarters.

Both Joseph E. Newburger, Republican candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court, and Irwin Untermyer, his Democratic opponent, voted early. Justice Newburger left his home at 1 West Seventieth Street, shortly after 8 o'clock and went to the polls in a tailor's shop at 2,020 Broadway. He received ballot No. 46 and voted at 8:20 o'clock.

Mr. Untermyer, who lives at 483 West End Avenue, voted at the polling booth at West End Avenue and Eighty-third Street. He cast ballot No. 67 at 8:53 o'clock. He laughed heartily when a bystander declared: "The opposition hasn't got a ghost of a show."

Governor and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith voted at 11 o'clock in Public School 1, Henry and Oliver Streets, where the Governor has voted for years. He cast ballot No. 261. Mrs. Smith voted immediately ahead of him. Mrs. Smith proudly announced that she "voted the straight Democratic ticket." Governor Smith predicted an all-around Democratic victory, being especially optimistic over the chances of Justice Luce and of Irwin Untermyer. As an indication of the speed of the voting, more than 50 per cent. of the registration in the Governor's voting district, the Sixteenth Election District of the First Assembly District, had voted at the time he appeared.

Miss Bertha Rembaugh of 26 Grove Street, Republican candidate for Justice of the Municipal Court for the First District, voted ballot No. 157 at a booth at Grove and Hudson Streets. She appeared at the booth attired in a heavy ulster, with a dark felt hat and feather and wearing a four-in-hand tie. The woman candidate for the bench was accompanied by two women friends. She refused to venture an opinion on her chances.

James A. Foley, Democratic candidate for Surrogate of New York County, voted at the same place. Governor Smith, His Republican rival, James O'Malley, was among the first to vote at the polls of the Thirty-ninth Election District of the Eleventh Assembly District, at 2,573 Broadway. Another who voted at this booth was Miss Mary Garrett Hay.

Mayor Hylan voted Ballot 75 in the Fifteenth Election District of the Twentieth Assembly District in Brooklyn. It took him just four minutes to mark his ballot, while Mrs. Hylan, who voted at the same time, took a little longer. The Mayor declined to comment on the outcome of the election.

Charles F. Murphy entered the polling place at 341 East Sixteenth Street and received Ballot 361. In thirty-five seconds he emerged from the booth deposited the ballot, and withdrew from the polls, with a bow to the women inspectors. Mrs. Murphy voted at the same place an hour later.

One thing that stood out in the balloting was the light vote cast by soldiers stationed here who were qualified to vote. Two polling places were opened for their special benefit, one in the 69th Regiment Armory, Lexington Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, and the other in the 23d Regiment Armory in Brooklyn. It was said that not more than 100 men of the services appeared at either of the polls.

The first section of the city to indicate that the voting was to be exceptionally heavy and fast was the east side. The polls over there had scarcely been opened before they were thronged. This was attributed to the efforts of the Socialists, who had announced that every effort would be put forth to bring out the entire strength of the party. Julius Gerber, Executive Secretary of the Socialist Party of New York County, declared last night that he expected a vote of "several hundred thousands" and the election of many Socialist Assemblymen.

Down, however, in the 17th Election District of the old Second Assembly District there was another reason for the early turnout of voters. John de Salvio, Democratic Captain of the district, who is better known as "Jimmy Kelly," brought the enrollment of his district out in full force by offering to every voter, irrespective of party, a gift of three pounds of sugar. In as many minutes after the polls in Public School 130, at 143 Baxter Street, were opened eighteen voters had gone to Salvio's grocery store at 143 Baxter Street and claimed the precious inducement. De Salvio said he gave away 1,500 pounds of sugar during the day.

Election Day in Brooklyn was the most quiet in recent years. There was no excitement at any of the more than nine hundred polling places, and the police on election duty had an easy time of it. The women voters were out as early as the men, and it was estimated that about half the registered vote of the former was polled by noon. Even among the women, however, there was no marked display of enthusiasm over the election. Last evening the usual crowds assembled at the newspaper bulletin boards around Borough Hall and at the Long Island Railroad station to get the returns.

The Legal committees of the Republican and Democratic organizations were at the party headquarters all day to look after the interests of enrolled voters who might be challenged, but they had nothing to do.

Two voters were arrested at the polls at 22 East 112th Street by Election Inspector Louis Prirstein of 1,331 Fifth Avenue on his own complaint. They were Israel Wishegrad, a student, 20 years old, of 1,698 Madison Avenue, charged with voting without having the necessary residence period in New York State, and Miss Sophie Udin, a librarian, 26 years old, of 2 East 111th Street, charged with having voted without having proper citizenship papers. The two were taken to the East 104th Street Police Station by Patrolman Jacob Storch, and later were arraigned before Magistrate Tobias in the Harlem Court. Both were paroled until Nov. 10 at 9 A. M., when they will again appear for a hearing.

GAY SCENES IN HOTELS.

Prohibition Fails to Curtail Election Night Festivities.

The first prohibition night found the hotels quite as gay as they have been in years gone by, contrary to predictions that the town would be "dead," now that prohibition is in full swing. The managers of the hotels did their share in providing the usual noise and fun making souvenirs and much jazz music for dancing, all of which went far to enliven the scenes and start the crowds in a long evening of gaiety.

Private dinner parties were arranged at all the larger hotels, and while the patrons were later than usual in making reservations for tables, there was not a place to be had by 6 o'clock at any of the important eating places along Broadway. As there has been quite a lull for the last two days in the demand for rooms in the New York hotels, the managers were skeptical about the success of the election night festivities, but when the time came the people appeared and filled the streets and places of amusement, according to custom.

Election returns were announced at five-minute intervals in the Waldorf-Astoria, McAlpin, and other Boomer Hotels for the benefit of the patrons of the dining rooms.

There was the added interest in the women candidates, and the women everywhere took an interest in the returns as they came in. At the tables there were heated discussions between the men and women as to the worth of some candidate, a novel scene for New York. The women were ready with their arguments and often floored their opponents in the friendly debates that were to be heard in different parts of the restaurants. Several prominent suffragists were seen dining at the Vanderbilt.

The scene at the Martha Washington was a particularly interesting one, for this hotel has been a hot-bed of contention for several weeks, because of the fact that several women candidates reside there. Magistrate Jean Norris, who took office Monday following her appointment by the Mayor last week, was the centre of a lively group. The Captains of both factions had scouts stationed there all day to see that not a woman failed in her duty, and by dinner time the restaurants and lobby were filled with women voters eager for returns.

The other hotels were comparatively quiet during the day, for many voters, after their votes had been cast, were lured to the country because of the fine weather, and it was said that the country clubs and nearby resorts were filled to overflowing. Many transients left town on Friday and Saturday in order to take advantage of the extra holiday, and the unusual exodus gave rise to the rumor that prohibition was having its effect and as never before hotel rooms were vacant under the dry law.

Many gay parties were given in the uptown hotels. At the Hotel Majestic the ballroom was reserved for a dinner, which was followed by dancing. Morgan Kingston, the singer, who was one of the guests, became so interested in the returns that he proclaimed the victory of some of his favorite candidates by singing the returns for the guests.

GOMPERS ENJOINS STRIKE LEADERS

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, as advocating withdrawal of the strike order as a step toward settlement.

Mr. Lewis's statement follows:

"If the injunction is vacated the miners will be willing immediately to enter joint conference to negotiate a wage agreement."

The statement, issued earlier in the day, said:

"The machinery of the joint system of bargaining in the mining industry is intact. It would be a simple matter for the Government officials to again set in motion the machinery to negotiate a wage agreement."

Lewis's comment on the statement.

Lewis's comment on the temporary restraining order was:

"The machinery of the mine workers' organization is intact. It would take only anything to further the purpose interpreted here as an invitation to the Federal Government, operators and the miners together again to bring the coal crisis commission of agreement. The machinery to negotiate an joint system of bargaining to which he refers is made up of the strike, is invitation to the sion, of miners and Federal Government, operators. This machinery has already failed to bring about an agreement.

Early steps for settlement of the strike are expected, and they will be welcomed by the mine workers. The strike is understood called in accord with the decision of the Cleveland convention and having gone into effect, the leaders are said to feel that they now have more freedom to negotiate than they did while the operators now have a different situation to deal with.

Under the instructions of the Cleveland convention the leaders were required to call a strike for Nov. 1, unless a satisfactory wage agreement was made before that time. The conferences between the scale committee of miners and the committee of operators at Buffalo, Philadelphia, and Washington did not succeed.

Faith has been kept with the Cleveland convention and it is held that it would not be bad faith now to consider any method advanced for the settlement of the strike.

PALMER TELLS LABOR LAW MUST BE OBEYED

Answers Protest and Orders Vigorous Steps for a Permanent Injunction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—It was officially announced tonight that the Government would ask in the Federal District Court at Indianapolis next Saturday morning that the temporary restraining order issued by Judge Anderson last week forbidding the officials of the United Mine Workers of America from interfering with the production or transportation of bituminous coal be made a permanent order of the court. This was stated at the office of Attorney General Palmer.

Judge C. B. Ames will again represent the Department of Justice in the proceedings and will leave for Indianapolis on Thursday. His instructions will be to contend vigorously" for the permanency of the order. In the event that the court makes it permanent the Attorney General states that this will judicially decide the question as to the illegality of the strike.

If the court adjudges that the strike is illegal," Attorney General Palmer holds, "I apprehend that the miners as law-abiding citizens will discontinue it."

The Government's opposition in the legal proceedings now pending was made plain in a telegram sent by it to a union of shipyard workers in Philadelphia by Mr. Palmer. It was in reply to a protest against the Government's action in obtaining the restraining order which was telegraphed to Attorney General Palmer last night. The Attorney General dictated his reply over the long-distance telephone from his home in Stroudsburg, Penn., before he had gone to vote.

The telegram from the shipyard workers read:

Philadelphia, Nov. 3, 1919.

Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer,
Department of Justice,
Washington, D. C.

The Delaware River Shipbuilders' Council, representing approximately 80,000 employes in the shipyards of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, loyal supporters of the Administration, at a convention held at Chester Saturday evening, passed a resolution vigorously protesting against the application for injunction against the coal miners by your department. Government by injunction has been denounced in the platform of the political party which you represent, and in view of the magnificent efforts of the coal miners during the war, as well as organized labor, the Government should at least thoroughly investigate the situation before taking such action.

EDWARD KEENAN, Secretary.

Palmer Explains Government's Plan.

The Attorney General's reply was:

Washington, Nov. 4, 1919.

Mr. Edward Keenan, Secretary, Delaware River Shipbuilders' Council, Philadelphia, Penn.

Dear Sir:

I have your telegram of the 3d inst., advising that the Shipbuilders' Council has passed a resolution protesting against the application by the Government for a writ of injunction in connection with the strike in the bituminous coal fields.

It is true that I have always opposed government by injunction and I may say to you that I still oppose it. Permit me, however, to point out to you the distinction between what we commonly understand by that phrase and the facts in this case. This case is brought by the Government—not by an employer—to protect the whole body of the American people from a calamity almost equal to war itself, not to settle a controversy between labor and capital.

The Wood and Fuel Control act expressly provides:

"That it is hereby made unlawful for any person to conspire, combine, agree, or arrange with any other person: (a) To limit the facilities for producing any necessaries; (b) To restrict the supply of any necessaries; (c) To restrict distribution of any necessaries."

By the specific language of the act "necessary" includes fuel as well as food. The act further provides:

"That the provisions of this act shall cease to be in effect when the existing state of war between the United States and Germany shall have terminated, and the fact and date of such termination shall be ascertained and proclaimed by the President."

Not later than Oct. 22 the Congress recognized that this act was still in force, amending the provisions and imposing heavy penalties for its violation. You will observe that by the express language of this act agreements or arrangements between two or more persons to restrict the output of coal are specifically forbidden and made criminal offenses. The present strike is, of course, an agreement or arrangement between a large number of persons to restrict the output of coal, and, therefore, is forbidden by the law.

It is my duty as Attorney General to enforce this act of Congress, and it is the duty of the miners to obey it. It represents the will of the people of the United States, whose commands are binding alike upon the coal miners and upon me.

There were only two ways open to me to enforce the law, one by criminal and the other by civil process. I might have instituted criminal prosecutions against hundreds of American citizens, but I preferred to believe that in ordering this strike they were not conscious of the fact that they were violating the criminal laws of our country, and that it would be better to have the question adjudicated by the courts in a civil proceeding.

I assume that the miners are law-abiding citizens, and that they do not intend or desire to disobey the laws of the United States. If the strike is unlawful the court will so adjudge; if it is lawful the court will so decide.

The Government has submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the courts in order that the issue may be decided. It has placed itself upon terms of equality with its citizens in order that there may be an official decision of the legal proposition involved.

You will, of course, agree with me that the laws of the land must be obeyed and that there is no organization, great or small, in the United States which is superior to the law of the land.

The issue will be submitted to the court at Indianapolis next Saturday calmly and dispassionately, and if the court adjudges that the strike is illegal I apprehend that the miners, as law-abiding citizens, will discontinue it.

You understand, of course, that the Government is not interfering in the wage controversy. This is a matter to be decided in a lawful way and the Government stands ready to co-operate with the mine owners and the mine workers in an effort to decide it fairly and justly.

Upon reflection, I hope you will see that this is better than criminal prosecutions and a vast number of civil actions for damages which might be brought by the injured persons against the United Mine Workers and its membership. The course which the Government has taken is designed to protect the whole American people against an intolerable catastrophe and also to protect the mine workers themselves against proceedings which would be injurious to them.

Yours very truly,
A. MITCHELL PALMER,
Attorney General.

Central Coal Committee Named.

The Railroad Administration continued its preparations for the distribution of the available coal supply under priority regulations today. This central committee was named and will have headquarters in Washington:

Henry B. Spencer, Chairman, director division purchases and supplies; M. Bruce Clagett, assistant to the Director General; S. Porcher, assistant director of purchases and supplies; A. J. Roth, manager stores section; P. H. Phillips, fuel purchases section; S. C. Wright, assistant director of storage; S. M. Whittaker, manager inland fuel transportation section; A. G. Gutholm, assistant manager inland fuel transportation section; S. E. Freund, assistant general counsel; N. F. Saint, representing the Shipping Board.

Senator Kenyon of Ohio, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Labor and Education, introduced a joint resolution in the Senate today which calls for the appointment by the President of a committee of three, authorized to try to bring the coal strike to an end by arbitration. The Senator said that the resolution was not intended to conflict in any way with the efforts of the Government to control the fuel situation.

COAL STRIKE WEAKENS IN COLORADO DISTRICT

More Than 51 Per Cent. Are Back to Work and Others Face Prosecution in Courts.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 4.—Colorado's strike is weakening today. More than half of the State's miners are back at work, assert the operators, while prosecution faces those who hold out. As the result of an opinion by Attorney General Keyes this morning, in which he declares the strikers guilty of violation of the thirty days' notice clause of the Colorado Industrial laws, and liable to prosecution. The law, which has never been tested, will be thoroughly tried out, he asserts.

"In the fields, with troops scattered now through all the affected districts, the miners are going back to work steadily. In the Trinidad district, 234 more men are back today than yesterday, and in the Walsenburg district 220 men have swelled the total at work to larger proportions. In all, combining the figures from both districts, 51 per cent. of the miners are now working.

The situation through the State continues orderly and peaceful. The dispatch of State troops to Walsenburg brought more than 200 men back to work. In the Walsen Mine 186 were working yesterday.

The strikers, by the ruling of Attorney General Victor Keyes, may be prosecuted individually on the charge of misdemeanor as a result of failing to give the required thirty days' notice of strike. The announcement of this ruling is expected to further influence the return of the miners. The punishment upon conviction, according to the statute, is a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $1,000, or imprisonment or not more than six months or both.

Drying Fish

One of the problems of the North is feeding the dog teams which draw sledges from one Revillon post to another. The main reliance for this purpose is dried white fish cured on racks like the one shown above. Every fall the post employees place nets in a nearby lake and in about two weeks' time catch fish enough for the winter's supply.

FIREMEN TOLD HOW TO VOTE BY DRENNAN

Commissioner Sends Message to All Men in Department Not to Support La Guardia.

READ IN THE FIRE HOUSES

Communication Issued Monday Night and Published at Morning Roll Call.

Surprise was expressed yesterday when it was learned that members of the uniformed force in the Fire Department had received what virtually amounted to an official warning not to vote for Representative La Guardia, the Republican candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen.

At the morning roll call in all the firehouses this message, transmitted at 9 o'clock Monday evening from Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan to the Division Chiefs, was read:

"It has come to my attention that the campaign manager for a certain candidate running for the office of President of the Board of Aldermen has written to civil service employes generally, and firemen and patrolmen as well, extolling that candidate's record and intimating that the present administration has done nothing to improve the working conditions of the members of this department.

"As your Commissioner, I ask you personally if the candidate in question has ever done a single thing for your benefit, and, secondly, if it is not a fact that every single wage and working condition was granted you by the present administration?

"THOMAS J. DRENNAN,
"Fire Commissioner."

The Division Chiefs, under instructions from the Commissioner, transmitted this message to the Battalion Chiefs, with directions that copies be made and taken to the firehouses in department cars and compared with a copy received at each firehouse by telephone. The company officers read it to their men. The message from the Commissioner also embodied instructions that it be read at the 9 o'clock roll call this morning.

As far as could be learned, this is the first instance on record where a Fire Commissioner has openly sought to influence the vote of his men, though that it frequently has been done "on the quiet" is an open secret.

Late Monday night a rumor was current at headquarters of candidates that a "tip" had gone out to firemen and policemen to vote for Mr. La Guardia. Where the word came from was not disclosed, but it was inferred that officials of some of the benevolent organizations had bestirred themselves on behalf of the Republican candidate, who had made pledges that, if elected, he would endeavor to have the salaries and working conditions of the men improved.

GARY WORKERS PLAN GUARD

Returned Soldiers Will Take Over Protection of the Plants.

GARY, Ind., Nov. 4.—Returned overseas soldiers among the employes of the Gary steel mills are organizing a military company, it became known today. The new unit will take the place of armed guards employed to protect the plant, its organizers said, and the plan will be extended to other steel mills in the Chicago district.

The military guardsmen are to be independent of State or Federal Governments and will be operated by the steel mills.

necessities might be provided for the people of Central Russia without being used for purposes of political constraint and also class deception. No feasible project has yet been found, but the problem continues to receive attention.

"In the meantime provision has been made for the immediate relief of the people in any areas which may be freed from Bolshevist control as a result of current military operations. Stores of food estimated to be adequate for the relief of Petrograd for nearly one month were delivered to Russians by the American Relief Administration and are now at Viborg, Finland, whence they can be transported to Petrograd whenever that city may come under the control of authorities with whom it is possible to deal.

"Definite arrangements have, moreover, been made with the United States Grain Corporation to provide further shipments of flour for this region, in the event of its liberation, and for the people in the north of Russia, which is under the control of a democratic government."

A statement published in a dispatch from Omsk saying that Colonel George H. Emerson of the American Railway Mission had ordered the withdrawal of the American Railway Corps from Siberia is denied by State Department officials. Members of the mission at Omsk have moved to Irkutsk because of the advance of the Bolsheviki and officials said this fact probably gave rise to the report that the railway corps was to leave Siberia.

Japan, replying to a note from the American Government last September regarding conditions in Siberia, has expressed a willingness to co-operate with the American authorities, both military and civil, in that country. This announcement was made at the State Department, but the text of the Japanese reply was withheld. What plans were suggested, either by the American or Japanese Government, was not disclosed, nor was there any announcement as to whether the negotiations had been concluded.

The note sent by the United States to Tokio in September has never been made public by the State Department, but dispatches from Tokio a month ago said that the United States had pointed out that Japanese troops in Siberia had failed to protect the lives and property of the American railroad engineers and had failed to co-operate with them in the broad spirit of conducting the railroad in the interest of the Russian people by permitting the transportation of food supplies so necessary to the Russians.

The American note also was said to have asserted frankly that unless effective co-operation could be arranged the United States might feel obliged to withdraw its troops from Siberia, and that should this course be decided upon the American Government might feel compelled to make public the reasons for the withdrawal.

HEAR SOME MINERS MAY RETURN TO WORK

Pittsburgh Gets Word of Meetings of Strikers to Discuss a Break with United Mine Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4.—Reports of meetings of striking miners in which the question of breaking away from the United Mine Workers of America and returning to work were received in Pittsburgh today from points in the Allegheny Valley and West Virginia, but in no instance was definite action taken. Should any material break occur in the ranks of the strikers it is believed here that the coal strike would not last long.

I do however, object to that part of the resolution that pledges support of any kind to the Mine Workers of this country in their revolt against our Government, and I fear that pledging such support is violating the restraining order issued by the Federal courts representing our Government. I will support our Government.

I can see nothing but discredit resulting from this policy, and knowing the Mine Workers as I do, I am confident that had they known in convention that the strike policy recommended to them for adoption, was going to bring them in conflict with the Government, and was in violation of our laws, this action would not have been taken. The membership of the organization who have not as yet had an opportunity to vote and express themselves as to whether they favor the strike or not, will, I am sure, hasten to correct the wrong and the injustice done by having the strike called off, and negotiations entered into in accordance with the principles of trade unionism and on the basis which has proved so successful in the past."

DEMANDS NEW MEXICO MINES KEEP UP OUTPUT

Governor Tells Operators That the Public Must Not Suffer from Lack of Coal.

SANTE FE, N. M., Nov. 4.—Governor Larrazolo, of New Mexico, today informed the mine operators of New Mexico that the mines must be kept up to the standard quantities and this must be done by getting the regular miners to work or by putting others in their places, otherwise Federal troops, now in the coal fields, may be withdrawn.

The public must not suffer for lack of coal, the Governor declared.

TROOPS AT ALABAMA MINES.

Reports of Intimidation of Workers at Mu ga Bring In National Guard.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 4.—Reports of intimidation of miners at the Mulga mines of the Woodward Iron Company and the Virginia City mines of the Gulf States Steel Company have caused the dispatch of National Guard troops to those points. The troops began patrolling the sections this afternoon.

President Kennamer of the mine workers said today he expected to be put in jail at any time now as the result of the strike injunction.

Coal operators claimed today there were 7,000 men at work in Alabama mines, but Kennamer, head of the miners' union, insisted that 23,000 men were out.

Training for Home Management

Many of the young women who enter employment quite naturally look upon their work as an opportunity for an active and profitable interval between school and marriage—a most commendable and natural attitude.

As a training for managing a home successfully or for a business future, the advantages of store experience are valuable. Women do the greater part of the family purchasing, and the first essential of a good home manager is the ability to buy wisely. Where can she gain so broad and accurate a knowledge of qualities and values as in a good store?

We welcome to Lord & Taylor the young woman to whose life we can contribute something of permanent value besides her weekly pay.

IT was a France grown fay once more that dyed handkerchiefs in tints of raspberry and heliotrope and spotted them with oddly conventionalized flowers. In a lighter mood she ruffled their edges with black net or frilled them with fine laces. It was a patient Madeira that embroidered the corners of fine linen squares with exquisite designs and scalloped their edges with perfect, even stitches. It was a romantic Ireland that spun the sheerest linen handkerchiefs and interwove their borders with finest tapes and cords. And it is a skilled workroom of Franklin Simon & Co. that will mark a handkerchief as exclusively one's own by embroidering an initial or monogram in a corner.

AMERICAN CARS WIN FAVOR OF CHILEANS

95 Per Cent. of Automobile Imports Are Made in the United States.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR TIRES

Trade in Motor Trucks and Parts Keeps Pace with Increase in Machines for Passengers.

Possibilities for the foreign expansion of the American automobile trade are strikingly illustrated by the increase in motor vehicles of United States make in Chile, which is chronicled in a report just issued by the Department of Commerce in Washington.

In 1913, according to this report, America's share of the automobile import business into Chile amounted to a little more than 5 per cent., being exceeded by Germany, France, Great Britain, and Italy. The total value of Chile's imports of cars, motor trucks, and parts, including tires, was $644,877. In 1917, America's share of the business was 95 per cent., while Chile's imports in this line had reached a total value of $4,211,634, an increase of nearly 700 per cent. in four years.

This increase has not been due wholly to the elimination of European sources of supply during the war, according to the report. It has been due in large part, it says, to a growing familiarity with the conveniences of motor driving, combined with the discovery that these advantages are possible for persons of moderate means through the comparatively low prices of certain American cars.

Moreover, the high-grade American makes have been demonstrated with success to those who can afford expensive machines. In the social life of the Chilean cities the motor car has become an essential, replacing the old family coach or carriage.

Figures for the fiscal years ending June 30, show that where seventy-eight American passenger cars were imported into Chile during the year 1913, the imports in 1918 were 3,399 cars, while during the year ending June 30, last, the total was 1,057. The value of the imported American passenger cars in 1913 was $109,982. In 1918, the value reached a total of $3,576,511, and the value for the year just ended was $1,606,758.

Two commercial cars of American make, valued at $10,743, were imported into Chile in 1914. In 1918, 220 American machines were imported, valued at $282,838, and in the year just over, 152 with a value of $223,733. The value of motor parts imported into Chile has grown from $4,711 in 1913 to $775,556 in 1919, with the highest point of $906,015 reached in 1918. The value of American tires imported has increased steadily from $2,844 in 1913 to $1,130,873 in the year ended June 30 last.

About four-fifths of the automobiles imported into Chile go through the port of Valparaiso, from which point they are distributed through the central agricultural section of the country, the largest share going to Santiago, the capital. In 1917, the passenger cars imported at Valparaiso were value at $2,629,062 and the motor trucks at $49,979. Talcahuano, the port of Concepcion, received passenger cars valued at $269,786 and motor trucks at $7,281. Antofagasta, the largest port of the ore and nitrate region, received passenger car imports amounting to $184,167 and motor truck shipments to $43,064. Punta Arenas, the southernmost city of the world, imported passenger cars to the value of $127,210, and motor trucks worth $26,800.

A recent consular estimate places the number of cars in Valparaiso at 4,000. No census from other automobile centres is available, but United States records show that this country has shipped 8,282 passenger cars and 460 motor trucks to Chile in the last seven years.

The use of the automobile outside the large cities is seriously affected by the lack of good roads. Two mountain chains extend the 2,500 miles of the country's length, and in the mountain region road construction is a problem. Between the mountain regions there are level areas, but the scarcity of good roads prevents much touring. In the dry regions of the north, some of the roads from the mining centres to the principal towns are mere faintly defined mule paths. In the central part, where lives the mass of Chile's population, heavy rains and numerous streams are a constant menace to road improvements.

Chilean statistics say that 21,002 miles of road are available, but even trails and mule paths in that country may be designated as roads. In the southern provinces, where swamps frequently are encountered, logs are placed on the mud to form corduroy roads. In the desert of Atacama, a road built by the Incas for their armies still is in use, and another in the province of Tarapaca is a principal north and south highway.

The cart roads from Chiloe to Valdivia and from Valparaiso to Santiago were built in the sixteenth century by Spanish Governors. Formerly a week was required to make the ninety-mile trip from the port to the capital. Incidentally, a close relation may be found between the poor roads of Chile and the rapid growth of the automobile tire importing industry.

In a circular on the automobile market in Chile the Department of Commerce says:

"The most popular cars for use in the cities of Chile are limousines, landaulets, and similar models, with decorative finish and luxurious upholstery. Black or dark blue cars should not be shipped except on special order. Not many small cars are used, and the few to be seen usually have a small seat behind for the liveried chauffeur, for though the owner of the car drives, he is required by custom to have a chauffeur in case of need.

"The two-passenger car is not popular, as it seats only one person besides the chauffeur. 'Smart' cars are liked, and cars of notable elegance are preferred by all who can afford them. The taxicabs, of which a large number are in use, represent the less expensive makes, and are usually purchased by individuals or companies on the installment plan."

City Authorities to Negotiate for End of Lockout.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—Thirty-four thousand workers were unemployed as a result of the first day of the lockout in Barcelona. In the nearby region outside of Barcelona a majority of the factories were in operation.

The Cabinet continues its deliberations on the lockout, but has decided before taking any action to await the negotiations between the municipal authorities of Barcelona and the employers, which are expected to be satisfactory.

All the newspapers in Barcelona appeared this morning. The lockout, however, was complete in the port and in the railway depots, leaving the city without means of transport.

GOMPERS ISSUES APPEAL.

Asks All Unions to Contribute Generously to Steel Strikers.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Nov. 4.—Little change was noted in the iron and steel strike situation today. Officials at the corporation offices said tonight that they were gradually forgetting there had ever been a strike, but at the headquarters of the Strike Committee there is considerable activity, especially along the line of relief. All the commissaries are going full blast now.

The Secretary of the National Committee, W. Z. Foster, tonight gave out a copy of a letter sent out by the American Federation of Labor from Washington by President Gompers and Secretary Morrison, calling for help all over the country for the iron and steel men now on strike. The synopsis of the appeal reads:

"Every local union is urged to contribute as generously as its resources will permit, and every member of every organization is urged to do likewise."

LADY ASTOR TALKS TO WOMEN VOTERS

SHE REBUKES HER HECKLERS

Won't Take "Sass" from Them—Advises Them to Quit Yelling and Go to Work.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 4. (Associated Press.)—Lady Astor today made her first official speeches in the campaign which is to determine whether an American born woman shall be the first of her sex to sit in the House of Commons. She told The Associated Press correspondent that she thought it quite appropriate that a daughter of Virginia, the first English settlement in the United States, peopled by West Country folk, should become the representative of that section of England in Parliament.

At noon Lady Astor drove in her carriage to the Almshouse, where, during a twenty-minute stay, she greeted, talked with and chaffed goodnaturedly nearly fifty residents—all old women.

She asked one of them how she was feeling, and the woman answered "middling," whereupon Lady Astor recalled that in Virginia they frequently said: "Just loafin', and achin' 'round."

She invited each to attend a women's meeting to be held in the afternoon and asked each to vote for her. Many of the women promised to do both.

Lady Astor next visited a tenement house, where, standing in the dirty roadway, she talked for several minutes with women and children leaning over the balconies in front of each of the four stories of the building, from which much washing hung. She invited questions, and the invitation was compiled with in considerable volume. Then she defended Premier Lloyd George and silenced the champions of her Labor opponent, W. T. Gay, pointing out that he was really not the Labor candidate, but an Independent Laborite, and had boasted that he had evaded military service.

One question related to her attitude on prohibition, and she answered this by saying:

"No one can make me say that drink ever did any one any good. You can't make me smother my real opinions. But I tell you frankly that I do not intend to take away what you want. I believe in giving you the opportunity to vote however you please in such matters."

Followed by Scores of Children.

Wherever the candidate went, her carriage was trailed by scores of children calling "Lady Nancy."

With reference to her attitude on various debated questions, Lady Aster informed The Associated Press today that she favored Federal devolution as "the only practical solution of the Irish question."

"What I do hope to bring into the House of Commons," she said, "are sound views pertaining to the interests of women and children."

Questioned as to whether she thought prohibition would be forced into the forefront in the campaign, she said:

"I do not think my opponents will try to force the issue, but I am determined not to allow it to take precedence, as it is not vital in this fight."

Asked whether she thought women would meet with a more cordial reception in public life here than in the United States, she replied: "There is nothing like the stubbornness of the American men in such matters, is there?"

Lady Astor declared that it would not be necessary for the Commons to alter the rule forbidding members to walk in the aisles wearing their hats, should she be elected, as she was quite willing to go hatless and adapt herself to all the rules, so that her advent would be attended with a minimum of fuss.

At the afternoon women' meeting, Lady Astor received an ovation from women of all classes, many of them carrying babies and market baskets. Her speech was frequently interrupted by questions. To one who asked whether she favored old age pensions, Lady Astor replied, smilingly: "You are too young and pretty to worry about old age pensions."

Similar apt replies seemed to bring satisfaction to the questioners.

Meetings in different sections of the city were addressed by the three candidates tonight. At one of them the correspondent found 300 persons huddled in a small schoolhouse, and scores outside clamoring for admission. Lord Astor was standing at the schoolmaster's table, speaking.

"I want you to realize that the reconstruction period is a jolly difficult time for the coalition," he said. "I want to tell you a few things the coalition have done."

"Tell us what they haven't done," came a voice from the back of the room, and the heckling of a group of Laborites became so frequent and persistent that Lord Astor, seemingly disconcerted, finally and abruptly concluded by presenting his wife as "your candidate."

Lady Astor, taking the table top, began: "I have been handling soldiers for the last four years—you'd better watch out!" which brought laughter and cheers. "I just want to tell you some things that I am going to get done if I get into the House of Commons. What's more, I am going to get there. Just remember that!"

There were more laughter and applause, and Lady Astor launched into her speech. When the interrupters became active she exclaimed vehemently: "Don't give me any of your 'sass'! I shall come right down there to you. What you fellows want is to stop yelling and get to work."

There was one heckler who had previously identified himself as champion of the Independent Socialists. Concerning him, Lady Astor declared: "If it had been in your power during the war, the whole British Army today would be goosestepping in Berlin."

Among the epigrams which characterized her speech were these:

"The only panacea for the world's ills is to get greed out of the human heart."

"Loving your neighbor as yourself is the only way to eliminate the capitalist class."

"We cannot say the world is at peace unless we ourselves are at peace."

In concluding her speech, Lady Astor said: "You had better take me while you have got the chance."

At the Guildhall the Liberal candidate, Isaac Foote, addressed a large meeting. His contention was that the Government seemed unable to learn common sense.

The standard bearer of Labor, W. T. Gay, who has been characterised by Lady Astor as "a too successful manager of co-operative boot manufacturing," spoke at length on the future advantages to the world which would come under pilotage by the workmen's leaders.

The formal nomination of candidates for the Parliamentary elections has been fixed for Friday, Nov. 7; the polling for Nov. 15, and the declaration Nov. 28.

Objects to "Your Ladyship."

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 5.—Lady Astor's smart replies to hecklers are becoming a feature of the daily newspapers, which are reporting her campaign with unusual prominence.

They relate today, among other incidents, that Lady Astor was accosted by a woman with a question, which the woman introduced with "Your ladyship." To this Lady Astor retorted: "Please wash that out."

Lady Astor told the story of how she saw a young American sailor looking at the outside of the House of Commons. She asked him if he would like to go inside, to which the sailor replied with dignity: "You are the sort of woman my mother told me to avoid."

After loud laughter by her hearers had subsided, Lady Astor added: "You know we've got to take risks. You know, nothing risked, nothing won."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 4.—Lord Astor is seeking means to drop his peerage so that he may re-enter the House of Commons.

"I can't wait till they reform the House of Lords," he told THE NEW YORK TIMES representative today. "I want to get my own case dealt with immediately."

How such an unprecedented step may be taken is now under consideration. If he succeeds, Lady Astor's political career will be cut short, but she will not object.

"I give my word I won't run against him," she said last night at her nomination meeting. "Some find it very difficult to get titles; my poor husband finds it difficult to get rid of his."

The relationship of the Plymouth Conservative candidate to the retiring member lends piquancy to the situation. The Viscount recommended his wife to his constituency "because I know more about her than anybody else." The Viscountess replied: "I intend to be no warming pan, though I hope your late member will soon be back."

She said she had very definite views of her duty as the first woman member of Parliament. "You won't expect long reasoned speeches from me," she told her constituents. "I can't do it—it is not my style." But she knows Plymouth, "its mothers and infants, its streets and its alleys, its great heart and wonderful spirit," and she means to champion them.

Put through a formal catechism today on the main political issues, she frankly refused to discuss a capital levy because she was not an economist, but she flashed out in scorn on war profiteers.

"There is a place in politics for women," she added earnestly. "They have the spiritual qualities needed in politics. Men may have the brains, but they haven't the courage to show them; so women are needed in the House of Commons."

But on the platform Lady Astor hardly shows this deeper side of her nature. Clad in a black velvet gown with V-shaped neck, relieved with one touch of white, and with a pearl necklace and brooch and a black velvet hat with a large ostrich feather, she seemed born to public life.

"I have the birth of the British Tommy," she said. "I can laugh when going over the top; and she made her audience laugh when she dropped into broad Devonshire dialect and described the old fogies of women in Parliament.

General support of the coalition Government is the most definite pledge Lady Astor has given, and she justifies her faith in Lloyd George by declaring that a fortnight spent in Britany with him taught her much.

"His heart is sound as a dollar, and he has the welfare of the country at heart," she said. She is a Unionist, she explains, because that party stands for the British Navy, and that stands for the civilisation of the world.

In answer today to a reference to her American birth, Lady Astor accepted the challenge at once. "Why, will my Virginia birth and my Devonshire residence, I am just the woman to be the first in Parliament," she said. "I will bring to my task all the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers."

No one doubts her spirit, and Lord Astor has borne testimony to her effectiveness. "If it comes to getting anything done," he told a public meeting, "she is miles ahead of all the other candidates together."

An Old Love Song

What memories of old-time romance live imperishably in such charming ballads as "Annie Laurie" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes"! Appealing alike to the little child or the most erudite technician, their tender beauty touches a chord of sentiment that lies in all of us. Lullabies our mothers sang, old love songs and ballads—these are the music of the home and fireside, the music of universal appeal.

Through the Ampico you may hear the simple beauty of such music interpreted with the most exquisite feeling by talented artists, you may hear the whispered cadence of an old song, the lilting measures of a sparkling waltz or the rich chords of a favorite hymn.

The world of music is at your command! The old songs, light classics, the popular music of the day, the great classic masterpieces and delightful selections from grand opera. All this is possible through the wonderful Ampico through which you will hear such pianists as Godowsky, Levitzki, Ornstein, Rachmaninoff and a hundred other talented masters of the pianoforte who are always at your command, ready to play for you in your own home the music you love best.

You are cordially invited to hear the art of the great pianists in the Ampico Studios

J. M. HANSEN,
President.

642 Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.
October 31, 1919.

Hon. William J. Graham, M. C.
Chairman, Subcommittee No. 5, on Expenditures in War (Ordnance) Department,
House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Sir:

The Chicago Tribune of October 23, 1919, contains the following statements:

"Criminal prosecution of at least a dozen army officers and civilians will be asked by the congressional subcommittee which last night completed its inquiry into the $27,000,000 munition contract scandal involving the Standard Steel Car Company of Hammond.

"The announcement was made at the close of the final hearing in the assembly rooms of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank by Congressman William J. Graham, chairman of the subcommittee.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

"In making his statement Congressman Graham declared credit for the expose belonged to the Government accountants, mainly L. H. Blakey, stationed at the car plant in Hammond, Ind.; the military intelligence department and the Tribune.

"CHARGES GIGANTIC FRAUD."

"'The subcommittee is satisfied that the Government is the victim of a gigantic fraud on this contract,' he said. 'We shall make our report to that effect on Monday or Tuesday, and we shall see that it is read before the house.'

"The report will ask that several—probably a dozen or more—army officers, members and aids of the Chicago district claims board, and officials of the Standard Steel Car Company be prosecuted under the Federal criminal code for abetting a fraud against the Government in war time.

"Perusal of the testimony heard and evidence submitted in private by the intelligence department shows that there was a preconcerted scheme to put this graft across.

"MULCTED OF $13,000,000."

"It cost the Government in excess of $25,000,000. The gun carriages were supposed to cost $40,000 apiece. Only 200 were finished—$8,000,000 worth. Allowing for the cost of preparation, the Government still is mulcted of between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000, as I figure it."

An Associated Press dispatch appearing in the evening papers of October 23d and the morning papers of October 24th quotes the same authority more briefly to the same effect.

This communication assumes that you are correctly quoted. If we are in error in this respect, we shall be glad to be corrected and to make such changes as the correction may require.

These statements were made after the testimony of several witnesses had been taken upon the subject, but before the explanation of the Acting President of the War Department Claims Board. No officer of this Company was called to testify.

Your printed interview states that they "Remained out of town and out of reach of the summonses issued for them," but Mr. W. G. Cory, Assistant to President, who had been immediately in charge of the settlement of this claim, was present in Chicago on October 22d. In the examination of witness, Frank Owen May, on that date, you state that, "Mr. Cory has just been in here and spoken to me—Mr. Cory of the Standard Steel Car Company." Mr. Cory at that time offered to furnish you any records or information required.

Mr. Cory offered to testify and told you that Mr. P. G. Jenks, who had been in direct charge of the work under this contract and had taken an active part in the preparation of the claim, was then on vacation, but that he and any other officers of this Company were available if you desired their testimony.

All the officers of the Government who were concerned in the settlement of the claim were available. Some of these were called, but the Committee failed to call those representatives of the Government who were most closely connected with it and best knew all its details.

Your Subcommittee thus closed its ears absolutely to the testimony of witnesses who knew most about this settlement and opened them wide to rumor and unsupported suspicion. The principal witnesses relied upon by your Subcommittee were subordinate accountants and clerks, unfamiliar with the details of the settlement, and a few of the superior officers of the department who supervised the settlement, but whose knowledge did not extend intimately to the details upon which it was based.

No notice was given to the Standard Steel Car Company of the hearings either in Washington or Chicago. No opportunity was given for them to cross-examine the adverse witnesses. This would have disclosed the lack of personal knowledge of the witnesses who were examined, but who through your questioning were made to appear as manufacturing, engineering and artillery experts. Their testimony is largely opinion and guess.

The hearing was thus ex parte and one-sided. Upon such hearing, so conducted, positive findings have been made, as stated in the above newspaper quotations, that the Government is the victim of a gigantic fraud and that it was mulcted of between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000, and judgment has been rendered that at least a dozen army officers and civilians are guilty of crimes demanding prosecution and punishment.

An investigation so conducted is a travesty upon justice. As a method of eliciting truth it is farcical. A judgment so concluded and announced is iniquitous. The natural conclusion is that the object is political capital, rather than the discovery of truth and the furtherance of justice.

With judgment already pronounced after such an inquiry, it would be absurd for the officers of this Company now to request that they and the United States officers most familiar with the facts should be called to testify. They could not expect a fair consideration of their testimony. They could look forward to nothing but an effort to distort the most candid accounts of a perfectly straightforward transaction, in an effort to sustain a judgment already hastily pronounced against them.

All these witnesses are still available to your Subcommittee, if it desires to ascertain the truth. This Company will do everything possible to secure prompt attendance of its officers upon the issuance of subpoenas by your Subcommittee, and to produce any records which may be desired besides the voluminous papers already in the possession of your Subcommittee. But if such further necessary inquiry is to be made, the adverse judgment already pronounced should be withdrawn with the same publicity as was given the charge, and such procedure adopted by your Subcommittee as will be designed to elicit the truth and not to sustain a prejudiced judgment already pronounced.

Intelligent study of the facts relative to this contract and claim discloses the eminent services of this Company to the Government, its absolute good faith, its entire devotion to the prosecution of the war, and its fairness in the negotiations for the settlement recently concluded.

This was the largest ordnance artillery contract during the war. The work was once offered to this Company and refused because of the great difficulties involved in transforming a car building plant into an arsenal. It was finally accepted on the representation of the War Department that this Company's facilities and organization were better than were otherwise available, and that the manufacture of these gun carriages was essential to the successful prosecution of the war.

The difficulties involved are apparent when it is made known that the contract was for 964 of such gun carriages, and that the French Government during the entire period of the war had made only 125 of them. Each one involves nearly 15,000 different pieces. They have the mechanical nicety of a watch.

The difficulties apparent before the contract was undertaken were tremendously multiplied later. The French plans had to be entirely revised for American practice and for quantity production. The work required the original invention by this Company of entirely novel machinery and its construction, as preliminary to production.

Revision and approval of plans by the War Department in the crowded exigencies of the war were greatly delayed. The Government was unable to furnish promptly the parts reserved for manufacture by it or by independent contractors. The Government admitted these delays by written extensions of time.

Had these difficulties not occurred, the gun carriages could have been produced practically within the time contemplated in the contract. At the time of the armistice quantity production was well under way and, had the war continued until the spring of 1919, as was expected, the full quantity of gun carriages contemplated by the contract would probably have been in use on the battlefield.

At the termination of the war the Company was left with an enormous quantity of costly war material on hand, useless for purposes of peace except as scrap. At the time of the settlement now complained of the Company had never received a cent of its guaranteed profit. It had not been reimbursed for all its expenditures. It had vast obligations to its subcontractors, a large share of which has not yet been discharged by the Government. The entire peace business of this plant was disorganized by the changes required under this contract. The plant was encumbered with war machinery which could not be disposed of except with the approval of the Government.

Negotiations for settlement of the contract began as early as March, 1919, and dragged through complicated administrative processes until September. The machinery of the War Department, which had successfully settled minor contracts, operated with difficulty in the presence of the complications of so great a piece of business as this. The settlement demanded and received the most careful consideration of the Chicago Claims Board, the Ordnance Bureau Claims Board and the War Department Claims Board. It was only by the joint co-operation of these Boards that a final settlement could be reached. Repeated conferences were held at Chicago and Washington with representatives of these Boards. The minutes of these conferences were carefully preserved and are available if not already in the hands of your subcommittee, showing the extreme care and the frank publicity of the action of the governmental authorities. As a fruition of all such consideration, personal investigation was made on the ground by representatives of these three Boards and other branches of the War Department. The settlement was reached only after most careful conferences and consultation between them. The officers of the Company rendered every possible aid. The records both of the Government and the Company were carefully scrutinized.

The items of the claim involved not merely the details of accounting for expenditures, but the exercise of judgment and discretion in determining a proper compensation to the Company for its losses of other business caused by undertaking this great enterprise for the value of the continued occupation of its works for an unexpectedly long period and for the sudden cessation of work due to the termination of the order.

That the Company exercised its stewardship so economically is shown by the fact that out of a total appropriation of $42,000,000 for this work but $18,000,000 was expended by the Company. This reduction was in large part due to the originality of the methods adopted by the Company in manufacture, improving both in time and quantity upon methods used by the French, British and American Governments.

The Government has paid on this contract approximately $18,000,000. All payments have been approved by Government officers and accountants present at the works. The interview quoted charges that the Government "Still is mulcted of between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000, as I figure it." Is it intended in sober truth to say that this Company spent only $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 on account of this contract, and that all the balance was fraudulently paid by collusion of Government officers? Or is this a striking instance of sensational statement for political effect? Has the sentiment of justice wholly departed from legislative halls?

The principal witness relied upon by your subcommittee to sustain the charges is a subordinate accountant of the Government office at Chicago. Intelligent cross-examination of this witness would have disclosed the fact that in July, 1919, he applied to the Standard Steel Car Company for employment, that this application was then declined, that it was renewed on September 17th, at the very time when this settlement was under consideration, and that the witness was then informed that it was not considered ethical by the Company to take into its employ persons stationed by the Government at its works in such capacity as his. The interview with this accountant which appeared in the Chicago Tribune during the period between July and September could not have been more complimentary to the Company had it been dictated by the officers of the Company, yet in a very few days after the final rejection of his application for a position, his denunciation of the claim settlement was printed in the Chicago Tribune of October 1, 1919. It is this denunciation which was used as a basis for your subcommittee's investigation.

This company's arduous labors on this and other war contracts were highly appreciated by the War Department and other branches of the Government. This appreciation has been expressed in written commendations in the possession of the Company. It is grossly unjust that the Company should now be held up to public scorn upon an incomplete hearing of irresponsible witnesses making charges beyond their knowledge, without effort to secure the truth from officials of the Government and of the Company thoroughly familiar with all the facts.

The apparent disposition of your subcommittee to set before the public statements, and to make accusations, not based on fact or on the evidence and without the least opportunity for the accused to be heard, must be condemned in the strongest possible terms. It is propaganda, nothing more, and the continuation and spread of such propaganda must in time tear down the ideals and safeguards of our American nation. The bolshevists can find no material better suited for their purposes than that which is thus supplied.

Respectfully,
STANDARD STEEL CAR COMPANY,
(Signed) J. M. HANSEN, President.

STRIKING DOCKMEN APPEAL TO GOMPERS

Insurgent Longshoremen Ask Him to Use His Influence to Have Case Reopened.

BUTLER FOLLOWERS ACT

Gompers Sides with O'Connor and Has Urged Strikers to Go to Work.

The insurgent faction of the striking longshoremen, headed by Richard Butler, appealed yesterday to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, to use his good offices to induce the ship owners and the officials of the United States Shipping Board to grant the request of the strikers to have their case reopened and considered by any tribunal that does not include members of the National Adjustment Commission. Resolutions adopted by the insurgents were presented to Mr. Gompers at the Hotel Continental just before he left for Washington yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Gompers did not make any statement on the question, but it is known that he has taken the side of T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, who has refused to sanction the strike and has repeatedly urged the men to return to work. Mr. Gompers made known his position in a letter to Mr. O'Connor some weeks ago.

The delegation which presented the resolutions to Mr. Gompers was headed by Butler. Conciliation Commissioner H. Paul A. Vaccarelli accompanied the committee to the hotel. Mr. Vaccarelli was also in conference with Mr. Gompers Monday night for some time.

After citing the fact that the strike is now about to enter its fourth week and declaring "the possibilities are that it may go on indefinitely, owing to the arbitrary stand that the steamship companies and other employers have taken in refusing to take the men back pending 'arbitration,' the resolutions set forth the 'seven points' as promulgated last Saturday night, providing in the main for a new hearing before a different tribunal, and continue:

Therefore, be it resolved that we, twenty-five longshoremen locals out of the twenty-seven in the Greater New York and the Jersey shore, do hereby unanimously at this meeting assembled appeal directly to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, to try and use his good offices and influence to induce the employers to accede to the requests of the men, as outlined above, because, as has been repeatedly shown, and positively proven, the longshoremen now on strike had no say in the selection of those who should have represented them both on the National Adjustment Commission and also as to those who should present their case to the National Adjustment Commission.

The false newspaper reports that 12,000 men have returned of the 30,000 tends only to roil the men now out on strike, and make them more determined than ever to stay away from their work, unless their matter is given a hearing in any fair court of arbitration, as outlined above, or any other form of arbitration that may be suggested by Mr. Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

Be it further resolved, That we further appeal through Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, that our honest willingness to return to work pending arbitration, which has always been the fundamental principle of the American Federation of Labor, be given the same publicity through the medium of the press, as the false stories given that men are returning to work and that the strike is over.

Butler asserts that only a few hundred regular longshoremen have returned to work and declares that there has been no break in the ranks of the locals which he represents.

There was considerable work done along the waterfronts yesterday and a few hundred men were at work at the Chelsea piers.

PROMISE CHEAPER EGGS.

Produce Dealers Plan to Eliminate Waste and Hasten Shipments.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Executive officers of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association, representing more than 1,200 produce dealers throughout the East and Middle West, today were pledged to help lower prices to the consumer. Elimination of the vast waste of breaking and "ripening," it was stated at the meeting here last night, will enable the wholesale men materially to reduce prices. Standardization of shipping methods and mechanics also will permit dealers to cut down their overhead and loss by deterioration and reduce the cost to the consumer.

"We also aim to speed up transportation between producer and consumer, so that the buyer will be more directly affected by daily fluctuations," said H. F. Jones of Chicago, Executive Secretary.

BRINGS DEAD FROM FRANCE.

Bodies of 111 American Soldiers on the Lake Daraga.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—It was announced today that the steamer Lake Daraga was bringing home the bodies of 111 soldiers from Brest.

The Lake Daraga is bound for New York, and is due to arrive there Nov. 12.

Anglo-Chilean Treaty Ratified.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Great Britain and Chile have ratified the arbitration treaty, negotiated some months ago, the State Department announced today. The treaty is to continue in force for five years and automatically extends itself until a year after notice of intended termination by either Government.

SLAIN ON MEXICAN TRAIN.

Twenty-nine Guards and Passengers Wounded Killed and Passengers Robbed by Bandits.

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 4.—Details were received here today of an attack by Mexican bandits on a train on route from Guadalajara to Mexico City early on Saturday near Calaya, State of Guadalajara, in which eight of the forty guards were killed, seven of the passengers wounded, and many passengers robbed.

The bandits were declared to have been commanded by General Malagon, apparently a newcomer in the bandit field.

WALES TO SEE ANNAPOLIS.

Is to Represent Whole Empire on United States Visit.

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—The Prince of Wales today on his second visit here described the capacity in which he will visit the United States next week.

"I shall regard myself as going there, not only as an Englishman and a Britisher, but as a Canadian and a representative of the whole empire," he said.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—The Prince of Wales will visit the Naval Academy about Nov. 14, it was announced today by Rear Admiral Scales, Superintendent of the institution. Captain Blake, naval attache at the British embassy at Washington, is expected here soon to confer with the academy authorities and arrange for the visit.

Auctioneers to Use Blue Flag.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Auctioneers here have generally agreed to adopt a blue flag in place of the red emblem so long associated with their profession. The change went into effect today.

TRY TO KIDNAP OWN CHILD.

Couple Held for Attempt to Take Girl from Her Foster-Parents.

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 4.—In default of $2,500 bond each, Ernest W. Siebert and wife, of Cleveland, are held in the county jail to await the action of a grand jury on charges of having attempted to kidnap Elizabeth Albee, seven-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Albee, yesterday.

Counsel for the defendants holds it was a case of intense mother love which induced Mrs. Siebert to spirit her child away.

TO NATIONAL ADVERTISERS SEEKING AGENCY CONNECTIONS

After a most complete and gratifying success as a space-salesman, with thorough experience in copy-writing, advertising managership, lithography and colorplate printing, and after doing business with several hundreds of advertisers, I am making arrangements to join a New York advertising agency.

As this is a purely personal statement, I will defer, until the interview, giving the name of my new connection. You are certain to approve of it.

Speaking of my own work I may say that out of eighty of my more recent customers, twenty-five per cent. have, to varying extents, adopted my ideas. The list includes many of the giant advertisers in the national field; producers of tobacco, cigarettes, soap, cereals, chocolate, lead pencils, writing paper, watches, washing machines, office specialties, tea, etc. This has kept me very close to big movements in advertising.

In the agency I may influence but I shall not write or construct copy. That will be done by men much better than I at such work. I shall be the contact-man, receiving the kicks and conveying the praises bestowed by my clients on the agency. What individual power I may have will be merged in the collective force of my agency.

I believe in serious, simple advertising, strikingly presented, rather than in cleverness, which, however, has its use.

I believe in close communion between the advertising department and the selling-forces of a concern.

I do not believe that bigness, in an agency, is necessarily a merit. Mediocrity and all-alikeness often creep into the work of the agency which has too many clients.

I promise, in advance, not to exploit your appropriation for the maximum of agency profit and the minimum of agency work.

Though having, doubtless, my share of self-conceit, this public emphasis of myself disturbs me. I apologise for so much "I" and beg for interview.

LEWIS SAXBY

ROTARY CLUB Activities

The Rotary Club of New York is an organization of men representing all lines of commercial activity. Its purpose is to lift men and business to a higher ethical level. Its slogan is "Service Above Self." These advertisers are pledged to respect your confidence and fulfill your wants.

Self Starter for Boys

Highlights in history each disclose an individual—a superman—who, self-inspired, self-instructed and self-managed, has risen to the heights and become a leader of men. But these supermen are few; future history will have to disclose many more of them to maintain a balanced proportion to the increased population.

Probably Abraham Lincoln is the most glowing example of the self-starter in boyhood. At any rate he is best known of the type, to Americans. But it takes many generations to produce one Abe Lincoln. Most boys have to be started in the right direction, by a saner and an older mind than theirs. The self-starters among the boys of to-day are rare, especially when environment persistently works against ambition and accomplishment.

The greatest instrument in molding the boy so that he may become a man worth while is an interest in life and the opportunity to develop it along the proper lines. This is what the Rotary Club of New York is endeavoring to do in its great campaign of Boys' Work.

In establishing recreation centres, boys' clubs, athletic grounds and summer camps for the under-privileged boys of New York it is giving the lads who have nothing to look forward to in their own homes, an object of interest, a chance to get together under wholesome conditions and a start in life which will prove invaluable when they reach manhood.

The Rotary Club is devoting time and money to the purpose and is asking the co-operation of other clubs and organizations so that the results may be as successful as the cause warrants.

The Rotary Club employs an experienced Boys' Man as special secretary for this work. He is located in the Club headquarters on the 22nd floor of the Hotel McAlpin, and will be glad to co-operate with any person or organization expressing a wish to help the under-privileged boy.

DANIELS DECLINES TO DISCIPLINE SIMS

Rear Admiral Had Permission to Write His Experiences in the War.

IRISH COMPLAINT IGNORED

Alleged Reflections on Sinn Fein Party Not a Matter for Navy Department's Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary Daniels today replied to the complaint made by Daniel T. O'Connell, director of the Irish National Bureau, against certain statements in a magazine article by Admiral Sims to which the bureau took exception. After informing O'Connell that his letter has been referred to Admiral Sims, the Secretary's letter says:

"When he returned from Europe, upon the conclusion of his service as head of the American naval forces abroad, he requested permission to write a series of articles upon the navy and its services in Europe and the Department granted permission. He has published his articles without censorship by the department because it could rely upon his judgment. I am sure Admiral Sims will be glad to have you furnish him a statement, and, if he has made any statement in his articles based upon misinformation, he will be very glad to correct it."

FOR IRISH HOME RULE.

One Thousand Delegates Attend Irish Race Convention in Melbourne.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 2.—The Irish Race Convention here, attended by about 1,000 Australasian delegates, unanimously passed today a resolution in favor of self-determination for Ireland and the creation of a fund to assist the movement.

In the course of a reception by the Mayor to the delegates, Sir Robert Best, former Vice President of the Executive Council of the Commonwealth and now a member of the Federal House of Representatives, declared that the attempt to make the convention desirous of a constitutional government was merely a cover for a rebellious movement against Great Britain.

In opening the convention Archbishop Mannix of Melbourne declared that the most notable feature of the convention was the fact that an Englishman, Archbishop Redwood, was the mover of the resolution concerning self-determination.

PLAN CURFEW FOR IRELAND.

Government to Seek to Prevent Raids in Certain Districts.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A Government proclamation imposing curfew regulations in certain districts in Ireland is expected immediately, according to a Dublin dispatch to The Evening Standard. The measure is intended to prevent raids by masked bands, also night drilling.

Permits will be issued to persons having legitimate business during the night hours.

SCOUT RUMOR FROM TOKIO.

Japanese in Washington Say the Cabinet Could Not Be Impeached.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—In Japanese circles here it was said today that cable dispatches from Tokio to the Hawaii Hochi, a Japanese newspaper at Honolulu, that the Japanese Privy Council favored the impeachment of the Hara Cabinet and the Japanese delegation to Paris for the unsatisfactory peace terms, was inaccurate.

It was explained that there was no provision in Japanese law for the impeachment of administrative officials, and that the only recourse left to the hostile majority in the Diet was a refusal of a vote of confidence, which might or might not cause the resignation of the Cabinet.

Officials who have just arrived from Tokio said that, while the committee of the Privy Council which had been studying the report of the Japanese delegation of the proceedings in connection with the negotiation of the peace treaty found some things to criticise, on the whole they approved the treaty, as was evidenced by the subsequent ratification of the document by the Emperor on the advice of the Council.

THIEVES FOR GRAND JURY.

Man and Woman Plead Guilty to Robberies in Rooming Houses.

Carrie Mathews, 21 years old, and Frank Pacourek, 23 years old, both of 2,040 Madison Avenue, pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny when arraigned before Magistrate Bernard J. Douras in West Side Court yesterday and waived examination. They were held for the Grand Jury.

Pacourek, who also was charged with violation of the Sullivan law, was held in $27,000 bail on motion of Deputy Assistant District Attorney Morris Lynch, while the bail of the woman was fixed at $25,000.

Lieut. Commander Hiram Knight, U. S. N., of 114 West Eighty-fifth Street, charged that the defendants had stolen from his home a fur coat valued at $2,500.

The man and woman were arrested Monday night at Eighty-first Street and Columbus Avenue by Detectives Cornelius Manning and Bertram Maskiel of the Fourth Inspection District. The detectives who had been investigating a number of cases in which a man and a woman had rented rooms in fashionable residential districts of the city and then burglarized the apartment of their landlady.

At the arraignment yesterday about thirty persons, living in various parts of the city, appeared in the court room and identified the defendants as the man and woman who had hired rooms of them.

ELEVATED TRAINS COLLIDE.

Six Slightly Hurt in Accident on Ninth Avenue Line.

Six persons were injured slightly when a northbound local elevated train of the Ninth Avenue line collided with a train waiting in the station at 145th Street and Eighth Avenue yesterday morning. The ends of the train and part of the station boarding were damaged, but the service was not delayed, northbound trains being switched to the centre track.

The northbound local in charge of Motorman J. Felleman of 2,647 Eighth Avenue, which left the South Ferry at 8:37 o'clock, struck the rear end of the train in charge of Edwin Witherbee of 3 Bradhurst Avenue, which was waiting in the station. A large crowd was on the station platform at the time. None of the injured persons waited for medical attention.

RELEASE [illegible] URDER SUSPECTS

Political wo[illegible]ers in the Hunters Point section of Lon[illegible] Island City were greatly surprised yes[illegible]rday when they learned that John Ki[illegible]us, 29 years old, of 241 Vandeventer Avenue, and McKinley Healy of Ste[illegible]way Avenue, both of Astoria, had bee[illegible] released from the Queens Jail on $20,0[illegible] bail each. Kilgus had been indicted by the Queens Grand Jury for murder [illegible] the second degree and Healy for the same offense as an accessory for the murder of Christopher Molloy of Third Street, Long Island City. They had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The murder of Molloy took place on Sept. 4, just after he had left one of the political headquarters in the Long Island City section. He was shot just as he was leaving a saloon in the vicinity of the Queensboro Bridge Plaza and after he had made a round of saloons and political headquarters in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn and in Long Island City. Neither Kilgus nor Healy took any part in the election.

SOUNDS like a Symphony—

Our shoe-man sets up a tune about his splendid provision of shoes and wonderful values.

Our hat-man chimes in, saying something should be said about the great variety, superior quality and modest prices of our hats.

The furnishing-man sings the praises of the charming variations of everything he has provided from socks to ties and the impressiveness of soft-pedaling on prices.

Our leather and sports-goods man joins the chorus and intones, if the public knew how well provided we are with everything for out-door sport and traveling, business would be humming.

While we are in perfect harmony with this concerted movement, our gala performance is the featuring of clothing for men and boys because that is our major production.

This moderate space does not permit of a recital of all, our men would like to tell you—if it did, the house would not be large enough to hold all the enthusiasts who appreciate real technique.

How can Sherman Service be Misunderstood?

Sherman Service has recently been attacked by the radical element of labor who are opposed to the Americanization of the industrial forces of this country and to the maximum and uninterrupted production which is so essential to the continuity of national progress.

Our successful activities along constructive lines in harmonizing the relationship between employer and employee wherever we serve, developing a spirit of wholehearted co-operation, is the greatest stumbling block which the recent-day agitator is forced to overcome in the attack.

No man, no organization, no movement that is honest and above board has anything to fear from Sherman Service.

No employer, no manufacturer or worker on earth need misconstrue our object.

We have but one purpose, and that is to increase the productivity of plant and worker and to add to the prosperity of both.

Our aims are to teach management and workers to do more and earn more—to understand one another, that both may realize the fundamental reasons for unlimited productivity.

We are not opposed to the basic principles of unionism in any way, shape or manner.

We are opposed to any idea which seeks to disrupt our nation, or our industries, through pulling down the productivity and earning power of management and men.

Through earnest endeavor, we are applying our knowledge and experience to eliminate, in so far as we can, the unrest in industry, which has caused exorbitant labor turnover cost and tremendous waste due to the discontented mind.

Our endeavors are overcoming the ignorance which is continually manifested by workers in the fundamentals of the Constitution of the United States, which should be known and understood by every employee in our land.

We do not oppose collective bargaining by and with the parties vitally interested.

We aim to have the SQUARE DEAL understood by employer and employee. We are opposing anything which tends to disrupt those ideals laid down by our forefathers, who established a government of, for and by the people in our great country.

We are causing through our efforts an understanding which does not allow deterred effort—and throughout hundreds of industries, management and workers are realizing their duties one to the other, and enjoying a prosperous relationship which has not existed heretofore.

Those who wish can be made to fully comprehend that we are a great group of men and women talking, suggesting, and, by examples set, practising in so far as it is humanly possible the Golden Rule throughout industry.

We fear no man, nor group, because we are doing our utmost to make employer and employee think and do right.

How can Sherman Service be misunderstood?

HOME-RULE PLAN DRAWN FOR IRELAND

Ministerial Committee Said to Have Reached Almost Unanimous Agreement.

PARLIAMENT FOR ULSTER

Another for the Rest of Ireland, with a "Council for Ireland," to Control Customs.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent says he understands that the Ministerial Committee on Ireland met yesterday and agreed with practical unanimity upon a plan for the settlement of the Irish controversy. The correspondent says:

"The committee was in favor from the beginning of separate treatment of Ulster as a principle. The next thing to be ascertained was the application of a scheme of partition to the rest of Ireland in such a way as to accommodate or placate the Nationalist sentiment that was so strongly opposed to partition.

"What the Ministerial Committee have done, it seems, is to try to reconcile the two extremes in Irish opinion by proposing a Parliament for Ulster and another for the rest of Ireland and to satisfy so far the insistent demand of the Ulster Unionists that they should be left out of a Dublin Parliament, while they save the situation for the Nationalists and Sinn Feiners by creating a legislative council called in the scheme the Council for Ireland, to which is to be trusted the control of customs and excise.

"There is, however, no county option. This in the circumstances would be hardly relevant, except it were applied to Ulster itself."

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 5.—The Cabinet Committee on Ireland yesterday accepted the proposals of its sub-committee providing for the creation of two separate Irish Parliaments—one in the Protestant counties of Ulster and the other for the remainder of Ireland—with some form of supreme authority representative to both to embody the idea of a United Ireland, says The Daily Mail today.

"The function of the Supreme Council has not yet been decided," the newspaper adds, "but it is proposed that it shall be elected and that the two Parliaments shall have general direction of all Irish affairs.

"The committee also recommends the immediate introduction of a bill further suspending the operation of the Home Rule act, but they realize that Parliament will not agree to this unless it is accompanied by a definite proposal from the Government. Frequent meetings of the committee will be held to expedite the work, and the Government may be able to make a statement in the House of Commons next week."

COST OF WOMEN'S CLOTHES.

France and England Move to Modify Prices as They Soar.

In these days, when one is left breathless with dismay after reading the prices appearing in advertisements of wearing apparel, word comes from Europe that prices for women's clothes have soared to such a level in London that the Government has decided to take measures to stabilize them.

In 1918 standardized garments were manufactured under Government supervision at a cost price of $14 to $16 a garment. The present plan provides for the manufacture, under Government supervision, of 500,000 standard costumes and coat frocks for women from material which is available for this purpose. In Leeds alone it is understood that there is available for such use about 2,000,000 yards of material. The cost price of these costumes will be $18 to $20, which is a considerable advance over the cost price of $14 to $16 for similar garments manufactured a year ago.

"National" ready-made clothing is also being offered in France at prices far below those asked by the clothing houses. In Paris 3,500 suits a month are being put on the market at 110 francs a suit, where the clothing house prices run up to as high as 250 francs a suit.

FIND ZIMMERMANN EVADES WAR BLAME

Bethmann Hollweg Answers Some Questions for Him at Inquiry.

TELL OF ARMY OPPOSITION

Ex-Chancellor Says He Urged Peace on Wilson After Sussex Sinking.

BERLIN, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—Today's sitting of the sub-committee of the Assembly which is investigating the question of responsibility for the war was notable for the evasive answers of Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, former Secretary for Foreign Affairs, concerning Germany's treatment of Belgium, which caused Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, former Imperial Chancellor, to go to the assistance of Zimmermann and answer for him.

Both Zimmermann and von Bethmann Hollweg protested that they had made efforts against the all-powerful military party in regard to the deportation of Belgians.

Germany's peace offer was again brought up. Von Bethmann Hollweg reiterated that he frequently had discussed peace with James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador. After the torpedoing in March, 1916, of the English Channel steamer Sussex, and when Ambassador Gerard was preparing to return home, von Bethmann Hollweg said he spoke to the Ambassador, saying:

"Now, President Wilson has a free path. Urge him to act. We have done our utmost."

To this von Bethmann Hollweg added: "What could have been a stronger appeal for peace?"

Discussing President Wilson, von Bethmann Hollweg said that the President wanted to be [illegible] world, but that Germany had been so alienated by American ammunition shipments to the Allies that she was mistrustful. He said that, nevertheless, he had asked Mr. Gerard to relate to President Wilson Germany's general conception of peace.

Eduard David, Minister of the Interior, embarrassed von Bethmann-Hollweg and Zimmermann by demanding to know whether it would have made the United States almost an ally had Germany accepted President Wilson's peace proposal. To this von Bethmann Hollweg replied that the German people were too embittered to reconsider accepting President Wilson's offer.

ORGANIZE TO 'SAVE FRANCE'

Labor Federation to Form Council to Nationalize Industry.

PARIS, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The General Federation of Labor announced today the organization of its economic council of labor to "save the country from the ruin which has threatened it."

The country's salvation, according to a formal statement, "lies in organization looking to intensified production," to be attained through the co-operation of those interested, who are workers, and technical men, who should be coordinated by professional men and the functionaries of cooperative societies, who represent the consumers.

The real object of the movement is declared to be "nationalization, which means putting into the hands of producers and consumers the means of production and exchange, their products, which are being taken from them for the profit of a few persons."

It is asserted that 2,000,000 members will support the work, which is undertaken because "the Government has responded only with a grotesque caricature." In solving the cost of living problem the Government's normal price-fixing is termed "the caricature of action covered with ridicule and discredit."

To carry out its program, the General Federation of Labor has the co-operation of the National Federation of Cooperatives, the National Federation of Functionaries, and the Unions of Technical Workers of Industry, Commerce and Agriculture.

International action along the same lines is advocated.

A Hot Spot Chalmers Starts Quickly on a Raw Day

MANY an owner of a Hot Spot Chalmers takes a fresh delight in his car on a raw day.

When he steps on the starter button he gets quick results. His engine gets under way quickly, and in a few moments it is running at high efficiency.

Hot Spot and Ram's-horn are great friends on such a day. For they "crack up" the gas, "predigest" it, and hurry it to the cylinders for instant use.

As a result the engine "warms up" in a hurry.

If you've ever had trouble in starting a car in raw weather try a Hot Spot Chalmers. On the rawest day you can find, you'll be agreeably impressed.

Camels hand out keen enjoyment!

Your real appreciation of cigarette satisfaction dates from the hour you begin smoking Camels!

Camels will win you as they have won enormous numbers of smokers throughout the whole civilized world!

Camel CIGARETTES

Camels are unlike any other cigarette—entirely a creation that has proved a revelation to smokers.

They are so refreshing in flavor, and wonderfully mild; yet, Camels have "body" that exceeds your most exacting demands!

Camels charm is due to their quality and to their unusual and expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos.

Once you know Camels you'll prefer their expert blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

No matter how liberally you smoke Camels they never tire your taste. And, they never leave any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor!

You'll prefer Camels quality to premiums, coupons or gifts.

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

REPORT CHILE CEDES OUTLET TO BOLIVIA

Strip Reaching to Pacific Said to Have Been Given—Discredited at Bolivian Legation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Chile has given to Bolivia an outlet to the Pacific Ocean by ceding a strip of land north of the Province of Arica, according to official advices received here today.

At the Bolivian Legations the report that Chile had ceded the territory to Bolivia was discredited. Minister Calderon said that such reports had been current in years past, but that nothing had come of them.

Details as to the extent and exact location of the territory reported to have been ceded were not given in the dispatches.

Bolivia was cut off from the Pacific thirty-five years ago, when Chile captured the Provinces of Arica and Tacna from Bolivia and Peru. The territory, in which is the world's greatest supply of nitrate, has since been in dispute between Chile and Peru by reason of the failure to carry out the provisions of the treaty between the two countries calling for a plebiscite in the provinces ten years after the ratification of the treaty.

The claim of Bolivia to the territory apparently was not seriously considered. After the end of the war that country refused to negotiate a treaty with Chile. A treaty was finally ratified about ten years ago, however, and recently Bolivia sought to obtain an outlet to the Pacific.

Some months ago suggestions were made that the whole question be submitted to the League of Nations, and Bolivia then was reported as determined to submit her claims.

WAR VETERANS SEEK BONUS

Former Soldiers Start Campaign for a Christmas Gift.

Plans to obtain bonuses for soldiers were discussed last night at a meeting of the War Veterans Bonus League, held at Visitation Hall, Veronica Street, near Richard Street, Brooklyn. The Chairman of the meeting was the Rev. John Long, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Visitation. About 350 world war veterans attended. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Non-Partisan Service Men's Committee.

The object of the meeting was to prepare for a nation-wide canvass in order to present to Congress the names of 50,000 men and women of the country in favor of giving the overseas soldiers a bonus by Christmas. The slogan of the organization will be "A bonus by Christmas."

The principal speaker was Congressman John B. Johnstone.

JUDGESHIPS ARE NOT POLITICAL SPOILS.

It was a day of wrath and chastisement for CHARLES F. MURPHY, for all who profess and practice the Tammany theory of politics. MR. MURPHY, long accustomed to treat every office as his personal property, to be conferred in his discretion upon any who have faithfully served him in politics or otherwise, dared this year, as he has often before dared, to lay his desecrating hand upon the Bench of the Supreme Court in this First Department. Quite without fear of ill for himself, for his organization or for his candidate, MR. MURPHY had the hardihood to deny renomination to Justice NEWBURGER, who had had a long career of faithful and intelligent service upon the Bench, denying him the renomination which as a matter of custom and principle should have gone to him without question. That was a direct challenge to good citizenship, and the good citizenship of Manhattan and the Bronx gave its answer yesterday with an emphasis that MR. MURPHY will long remember.

Both of the Tammany candidates for the Supreme Bench are beaten. Judge NEWBURGER, nominated by the Republicans after his own party had denied him, and MR. MCCOOK are both elected. The result is not merely gratifying, as a matter of mere political arithmetic it is astonishing, for it is proverbially a most difficult undertaking to elect other than a Democratic candidate for the Bench in this First Department. Judge NEWBURGER's plurality of some 80,000 over the candidate regarded as his immediate opponent is to be compared with Judge WAGNER's plurality of 93,000 over his nearest Republican opponent, Judge OTTINGER, in the election of Supreme Court Judges last year. It is a tremendous reversal. But it is not an occasion for surprise, only for solid satisfaction, that upon this issue of established principle, raised in a manner to stir all the impulses of good citizenship and to arouse the resentment of the community, this exemplary reproof has been administered to the Tammany chief.

What an example it is of the vice of the system of an elective judiciary! Times without number Tammany bosses have named their Judges and elected them; nothing but the peculiar circumstances of this case, which centred public attention upon MR. MURPHY's procedure, estopped him from putting upon the Bench another Judge of his own choosing. Ordinarily, he would have had his way. We have seen a Judgeship of the Supreme Court made the subject of an extraordinarily bitter contest. It is a monstrous solecism that the Bench should be involved in the strifes of politics. The mind of a Judge should be free from all those passions, from all considerations of gratitude or resentment for support given or withheld. The Judge should be chosen, not through the choice of a boss ratified by a machine, but by the deliberate processes of the executive mind, acting under a sense of public responsibility; he should be chosen because of recognized high fitness and character, and he should pass unchallenged to his seat upon the Bench. All this is a mere counsel of perfection, for in most of the States of the Union the courts have been put into politics, and we fear they will never be taken out of politics.

Tammany has possibly suffered another reverse in the election of MR. LA GUARDIA to be President of the Board of Aldermen, an office which carries with it a seat and three votes in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Much would be gained by securing the presence and the vote in the Board of Estimate of one Republican member. MR. FOLEY's election to the office of the Surrogate was expected and foreseen. It is an important trust, and he is worthy to assume it.

PROHIBITION AND ITS FRIENDS.

That public sentiment draws a clear distinction between the fact of prohibition and the methods of its most ardent advocates would seem to be a fair deduction from the elections in which the issue played the leading part. Ohio, which a year ago voted itself dry by 25,000, has approved by a much larger majority the action taken in the absence of the soldiers. Such a vote is good evidence for the contention that the action of Legislatures which voted the country dry was not in conflict with the preponderance of public sentiment.

Public disapproval of some prohibitionists, as distinct from prohibition, can be inferred from the imposing margin by which Congressman REUBEN L. HASKELL, Republican candidate for County Judge in Kings, ran ahead of his likewise victorious companion on the ticket, Judge DIKE. MR. HASKELL vigorously opposed prohibition in Congress, and for this prohibition was made the issue in his candidacy—made more by the active MR. ANDERSON than by MR. HASKELL. Of course, as County Judge MR. HASKELL can do nothing at all to impede prohibition; but his large vote, partly an indication of urban as contrasted with rural sentiment on the prohibition question, seems to have been still more a repudiation of the Allied Citizens of America and their view that a man who has once antagonized the Anti-Saloon League is thereafter debarred from holding public office.

In New Jersey the prohibition issue was even more clearly than in Brooklyn the defiant shaking of a futile fist at Destiny. MR. EDWARDS, the abstemious Democratic candidate for Governor, expressed the desire to "make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic Ocean," which of course he would be entirely unable to do so long as the Federal Government was interested in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. MR. BUGBEE, his Republican adversary, who professes no personal hostility to the social glass, but takes his stand upon the Constitution, "the rock upon "which our Government has been "built into a citadel of strength," seems to have been beaten by the admirer of the Atlantic. If Jersey is joined to his idols, as some have asserted, this is no very impressive demonstration of it; especially since MR. EDWARDS's attacks on the zone fare have very possibly had something to do with the result.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSERTS HER SOVEREIGNTY.

Imperfect but sufficient returns from Massachusetts show that Governor COOLIDGE was re-elected yesterday by a surprising majority. Last year he defeated MR. LONG, the Democratic candidate, by a plurality of 17,000. This year the Massachusetts Democrats, flying in the face of public opinion, catered to the spirit of "direct action" and Sovietism that found expression in the Boston police strike. They attacked Governor COOLIDGE, whose calm resolution, courage, and energy in dealing with that strike, which gave Boston up to looters and ruffians, and whose refusal to reinstate the policemen who had broken their oaths and deserted their posts, won him respect and honor from men and women of all parties that believe in the reign of law.

MR. LONG made himself the apologist and the champion of those disloyal public servants who forgot their allegiance and duty to the State, ceased to enforce the laws, and let the mob be master. Candidates on his own ticket repudiated his course and the Democratic platform on the police strike. Influential Democrats denounced both. Thousands of Democrats voted for MR. COOLIDGE not as a Republican but as the protagonist of law, of order, of the right of the State to the complete obedience of its public officers, subject to no other authorities than their lawful superiors.

In Boston itself, where the Democrats are strongest, MR. LONG's 1918 plurality of 20,000 was cut to about 5,000. That tells the story. The people who saw with shame and horror their ancient town, with its noble traditions and history, made the prey of pillagers and ruffians, had no patience with the man or party that patted anarchy on the back and coddled police mutineers and deserters. Not as Democrats, not as Republicans, but as American citizens bound that the Constitution and the laws shall rule all the time, without interruption, the men of Massachusetts voted for the upholder of the Constitution and the laws and the sovereignty of the Commonwealth.

The conduct of Governor COOLIDGE in reference to the Boston police strike, his assertion of the law and public right, was one of the finest achievements that the year has seen. The steady support which Massachusetts gave him, the clear perception of the vital issue by the whole country, was reassuring and significant proof of the soundness of American public sentiment in spite of all the radical propaganda talk and action whereof we hear so much. Approving by a mighty and an essentially nonpartisan majority the vindicator of the law, Massachusetts has done another notable service to orderly American freedom. Hers was the cardinal election of the year. Its happy result will encourage and strengthen sober good sense, conservative feeling, the resolution to maintain American institutions, yielding nothing to violence or wild innovation.

REAL NATIONAL REVIVALS.

From the sentimental point of view the resurrection of the Polish and Czechoslovak States was one of the most gratifying consequences of the war, the recovery of freedom by two peoples of ancient and distinguished cultural history which had suffered under alien misrule for centuries. But there was more than sentiment in it. The Czechoslovak revolution was almost a model for a national movement toward liberty, begun by long and painstaking education in which patriotism and learning went hand in hand; promoted by peaceful methods so long as possible; then brought into the open by a handful of condemned exiles who, whether in Paris, London, or Washington, were the true representatives of their people; and bought by the blood of men who died in Galicia, in Siberia, and on the French and Italian fronts. The Poles were more divided, as their situation made inevitable; but the tireless efforts of MR. PADEREWSKI here and MR. DMOWSKI and others in Europe, the heroism of PILSUDSKI and HALLER and the armies which would fight only for Poland, will remain among the most brilliant pages of Polish history. Without allied victory their struggles would have been in vain, but these two peoples did all they could to earn their freedom.

In the national struggles for liberty Americans of Polish or Czechoslovak birth or descent played an important and honorable part, and they are doing no less in the economic reconstruction of these countries which suffered so heavily from the war. Wealthy Polish-Americans have started a steamship line from New York to Danzig; Czech-Americans and Slovak-Americans have begun the shipment of cargoes to their own country; personal credit is being pledged to start the first shipments of raw materials which will set the idle factories to work once more. Many of them, of course, are at work already; the picture of economic conditions in the Czechoslovak Republic given by Captain VOSKA in last Sunday's TIMES is that of a nation working as hard as its materials will permit; and the Poles, though hampered by wars and threatened wars, are turning their energies to industrial recovery as rapidly as they can. To both nations the ratification of the Treaty, the final conclusion of peace in Central Europe, will give a tremendous impetus. Barring another general European war or a universal revolution—and neither of these events seems very probable, despite the Trotzkys and von der Goltzes—both these States should go forward in their recovered freedom to a high degree of prosperity.

All this does not accord with the vague notions of Slavic impracticality which we used to cherish, but those notions, with some others, need to be thrown overboard. There is no nation in the world less impractical than the Czechs, and the Poles have shown that in more ways than one they are determined to avoid the mistakes of centuries ago. As peoples which in a difficult position, economic and political, are raising themselves to prosperity by their own efforts, by hard work and intelligent prevision, the Poles and Czechs are setting an example which larger nations could profitably follow.

TO SAVE THE TREATY.

Senator HITCHCOCK is trying to save the Treaty from destruction even by resort to the extreme measure of defeating by the votes of thirty-three or more Democratic Senators the Republican resolution of ratification embodying conditions and reservations so extreme, amendatory, and hostile to the purpose of the compact that their adoption would make its acceptance by this country a futile and barren formality. Senator LODGE's program involves the consideration, one by one, and expected adoption of the reservations reported from the Foreign Relations Committee, and a vote on Nov. 12 upon the ratification of the Treaty with these destructive incumbrances. An understanding of what the two Senators, respectively, are trying to do is essential to a just judgment of the responsibility for whatever fate may befall the Treaty.

The preamble to Senator LODGE's committee reservations provides that ratification by the Senate is not to take effect or bind the United States until all reservations and understandings adopted "have been accepted as "a part and condition of said instru-"ment of ratification by at least three "of the four principal Allied and As-"sociated Powers, to wit: Great Brit-"ain, France, Italy, and Japan." Senator COLT, one of the mild reservationists, takes the position that reservations, as distinguished from amendments, affect only the Power that makes them; other parties to the Treaty need take no notice of them unless they choose to reject them. This path to a possible effective ratification of the Treaty, with reservations, is blocked by Mr. LODGE's preamble.

The second of the committee reservations is the deadliest of all. It relates to Article X., which contains the very heart and soul of the covenant, since it is in that article that the members of the League agree and undertake "to respect and preserve "as against external aggression the "territorial integrity and existing po-"litical independence of all members "of the League." It is a preventive agreement; the nations pledge themselves to throttle war in its cradle, to take action to prevent attacks upon one nation by another or others, which is the chief and commonest cause of war. The committee reservation disclaims for the United States any obligation to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country, or to interfere in controversies between nations, or to employ military or naval forces, under any article of the Treaty for any purpose, unless "in any particular case" Congress "shall by act or joint resolution so provide." In respect to Article X. a reservation declaring that the military or naval forces of the United States could not be employed save by the authority of Congress would have been unobjectionable and all-sufficient; superfluous, nevertheless, since nobody contends or supposes that military force could be used without the assent of Congress. The committee reservation, with what intent may be well imagined, goes much further. If it does not actually nullify Article X., it attenuates our obligations thereunder to such a degree that no other ratifying Power would view our acceptance of the Treaty with that reservation in any other manner than as a repudiation of the pledge. President WILSON has declared that this reservation is "a dagger planted in the back of the Treaty."

We think it would be evident to candid and unbiased minds that, should the Democrats, under Senator HITCHCOCK's leadership, vote against ratification of the Treaty thus stripped of its substance and vital meaning, the responsibility for its defeat would not be chargeable to them. As we have already said, such a resolution of ratification would relate not to a living Treaty, but to a covenant slaughtered in the house of those who should have been its firmest friends. Mr. LODGE's plan, should he carry it through to execution, would establish for this country no contractual relation upon which other parties to the Treaty would set value. This view of the responsibility for the defeat of the Treaty is confirmed and justified by two circumstances of convincing weight and moment. In the first place, Senator HITCHCOCK and the Democrats who support him have labored from the beginning with unsparing zeal to secure a ratification of the Treaty of Versailles; they ardently desire its ratification. Second, Mr. HITCHCOCK intends, if the Democrats are forced to vote against a meaningless ratification, immediately to offer substitute reservations of an interpretative character which, while safeguarding every interest and principle vital to the United States, would not impair the validity of the Treaty, would not involve the obvious and great peril of resubmission to the other Powers, and especially to Germany, would, in fact, admit the United States to full membership in the League of Nations, pledged to resort to those preventive measures against war which our fundamental law would sanction, which all civilized and enlightened nations fully expect it to employ and would be amazed if it withheld.

LABOR'S REACTION.

Mr. SCHWAB rivals Judge GARY in the serenity with which he meets a crisis, and both earn the right to counsel others to follow their example. Mr. SCHWAB thinks this is a good time to take a vacation, and on his way to the Springs he says that there has been too much calling of names, too much talk of autocracy, Bolshevism, and revolution. Instead of agitation against agitation he urges "wise counsel and quiet methods." Nothing could be less like OLE HANSON's way, which would be a very good way if Seattle were a sample of the United States. On the contrary, Seattle was so much unlike the rest of the country for specific reasons that it needed OLE HANSON's leadership as much as the rest of the country needs the quiet which it may expect after the election, and under the sobering effect of the strikes which have failed and are failing. It is premature to add the coal strike to the list, but it gives unmistakable signs of surrendering to public opinion like the others before it—the Boston police strike, the steel strike, our several shipping and longshore strikes, the express strikes, and others like them.

The reason of their failure is epitomized in the roster of their leaders—FOSTER, LEWIS, FARRINGTON among them. Those names do stand for unrest and revolution, but they are leaders in the lost cause of a minority which is giving ground to a majority so overwhelming that it is seen to be insulting to regard them as representative Americans, or even as labor leaders, since labor rejects them. Labor sees that success under them would be as disappointing as the success of the Railway Brotherhoods with Congress. The success with their wage plans emboldened them to bring forward the Plumb plan for nationalizing the railways under the control of wage earners, and for the increase of wages by substitution of them for profits. That plan has been abandoned, and it is clear that the railways have more to expect from Congress because of the obnoxious mingling of political with labor questions. No question settled in these ways is settled on the merits, and therefore gain in that manner is like fool's gold. The counting room controls the shop not because of power, but because of demonstrated fitness. The shop, perhaps, has the power to take control of the counting room, but certainly has not the fitness to make its control either profitable or permanent. When labor extorts an uneconomic wage by domination it plants the seed of reaction, or even self-ruin.

Accordingly it is better to speak of present labor troubles in a lower key, either as a method of "collective bargaining" which will be dropped when it is seen to have lost its merit, or as an educational process which will result in better politics and economics. The cry of "down with the courts" because free speech is strangled can hardly survive the disclosure of the sort of free speech which is controlled by the police and the courts. As the Pittsburgh court decided, the steel unions were not prevented from meeting as unions in their accustomed manner. What the police broke up was a mass meeting held contrary to law and endangering the peace.

The farmers, too, have seen that labor is playing a losing hand. In Maryland and Missouri and Illinois conventions of national significance have been held demanding that labor and capital shall work as hard as the farmers, and give the country peace and plenty. The strikes which fail are good things to leave behind us, with unrest fomented for the sake of more unrest, and profit only for the idle and unstable. Labor has come to the crossroads where it must decide whether it will be wiser and richer or wilder and poorer. The signs are that the rule of reason and plenty will prevail.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Reflections on Milk and Wages.

Everybody knows, of course, that, as wages increase, so does the cost of living, and usually by an increment that multiplies several times the wage advance. The truth of this sequence, however, rarely has had such nearly instant demonstration as it has received in the case of the milk wagon drivers, for, no sooner have their demands been granted, though it was only in part, than the milk companies pass their added expenditure on to the consumer. That this would be done was inevitable, and is hardly a subject for just criticism, for in the very nature of things the consumer always does pay and should.

But the milk wagon drivers are not very many compared with the number of those they serve, and it would be interesting—perhaps even to the drivers themselves—to know the relation between their aggregate increase of wages and the aggregate increase of expenditure for milk by the public.

Incidentally, recent investigation had shown that the price of milk was already prohibitive for a considerable fraction of all American families, and that for lack of milk not a few thousand American children were suffering seriously. More of them, naturally, will now suffer more seriously. In circles where this is happening it would not be surprising if somebody asked why, if there was legal warrant for reducing to inactivity the official leaders of coal strikers, the same suppressive power is not invoked against men who plan to cut off the supply of milk—a necessary of life as truly, if not as much, as coal.

The same reasoning applies to several other strikes now in progress or threatened, and notably to that of the longshoremen.

Dead Laws Should Be Buried.

As no effort whatever is made by our police authorities to prevent or punish election betting, it would be well if the law which prohibits and pretends to penalize it were repealed. It is, of course, a good and proper law, as everybody knows and admits, but in the evident estimation of the public the evil it was designed to suppress is not sufficiently serious to create a demand for the enforcement of the statute, and, as usually or always happens in such cases, it is not enforced.

To treat any law with contempt and openly to defy it lessens respect for all law, and therefore this one, being dead, should be buried.

There has been comparatively little of election betting this year, at least in this State, yet a good many hundreds of men and not a few women went to the polls and voted yesterday, though they had made bets, large or small, on the result and therefore had no legal right to cast a ballot. They are all conscious lawbreakers, and that they feel no compunction or remorse is the very worst feature of the situation which the existence of this law creates.

Pot Hooks for Carburetors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Enter into the melodrama of labor strife the well-educated, underpaid stenographer. From a casual glance of the ads in THE TIMES, (and THE TIMES is the only paper that carries good help ads,) how many positions as secretary or stenographer extend beyond the thirty-dollar-a-week mark? Sometimes a college education is specified in the qualifications; often experience in technical or professional lines. Professional and business men as a general rule have minds like waste paper baskets when around their offices, and very seldom lay their work out in an orderly, systematic manner. "Where was I at?" "Where did I leave those papers?" "Read what I said." Most of them are really dependent upon their stenographers for orderly conduct of their businesses, yet few get ten dollars' worth of work out of their thirty-dollar-a-week right-hands, owing to personal inefficiency.

The writer is going to work at a better-paid job that calls for less skill and see if he cannot elevate the financial calling that keeps a good stenographer down. I made the break once before into farming, and had it not been for the war would have been at it yet. Now I plan on becoming a private secretary in fact, but an automobile driver in reality. And the stenographic world will lose a highly trained, experienced man. A. M.

ADMIRAL SIMS'S CHARGES.

Those Who Served in the American Flotilla Know They Are Correct.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As one of the few American journalists who were attached by official permission to the United States Navy on foreign service, may I avail myself of your columns to substantiate in every detail the story which Admiral Sims recently published concerning the attitude of the Sinn Feiners to the sailors of the American flotilla? From the very first, exactly as Admiral Sims writes in his just and fair-minded review, the Irish republican groups, not the Irish people, met our men and every evidence of pro-Ally activity with a marked and constant hatred. United States sailors were again and again insulted and jeered at, even set upon and brutally beaten, not because, as Mr. O'Connell suggests, they formed a danger to Irish virtue, but because they represented a great new source of strength for the allied cause.

Mr. O'Connell will have no criticism of Sinn Fein because a large number of Irish soldiers fought in the allied armies. This is too much. Let me tell Mr. O'Connell that Sinn Fein not only did everything in its power to prevent the enlistment of these brave men, but also has, since their return to Ireland, so persecuted and embittered them that the Irish press is full of their story. His neighbors maliciously set against him by Sinn Fein propaganda, disowned by friends and business associates, an outcast in the land which he preserved from German domination, the tragedy of the Irish soldier is the most poignant of the war.

Admiral Sims's article contains no insult to American citizens. His appreciation of the work done by American sailors of Irish lineage is as fine a tribute as any superior officer has made to Americans of any race. The truth of Sinn Fein hostility to the allied cause in Ireland ought to be known, and Admiral Sims has given us the truth.

HENRY BESTON SHEAHAN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You print in this morning's TIMES an account of the efforts being made by certain Sinn Fein officials in this country to have Admiral Sims reprimanded for telling the truth about the activities of that organization in Ireland, and especially its relations to the American naval forces based on Ireland during the war.

Every officer and man of the flotilla knows that the statements made in his articles are really conservative. We remember the attempts at theft and sabotage by Sinn Fein sympathizers in the guise of workmen from dockyards. We remember the galling restriction to the environs of Queenstown, and even on one or two occasions to our ships in harbor, so as not to offend the loyal Irish eye by sight of the uniform. We remember the open hostility to that same uniform and the cases of assault upon officers and men because of the anger which its sight occasioned—before Cork was put "out of bounds." But, more than any of these things, we remember the great numbers of British troops holding the lid down in Ireland—immobilized there and prevented by the threat of Irish insurrection from throwing their weight into the then teetering balance on the western front.

No, there can be no doubt that Admiral Sims writes restrainedly and that Sinn Fein was one of the most effective allies Germany possessed in the great war. They made their choice deliberately, and it is too late for them to try to wriggle out of it now.

The School Survey.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial article commenting upon the school survey, published in your issue of today, statements are made with reference to the directing investigator of the survey that are without foundation.

The assertion that the directing investigator "began work on the survey (without yet having reported progress) two months before he was formally appointed by the Board of Education" is disproved by the records.

The Board of Education on Aug. 12 authorized and empowered the Committee on Survey to employ an investigating staff. The committee met and voted unanimously to retain me as directing investigator. The Chairman of the committee on Aug. 22 notified me of the appointment and also that service was to begin on Aug. 25. A general outline of the plan for the survey and of its progress to Oct. 14 has been reported to the members of the committee.

The directing investigator has never been a candidate for any position in the Department of Education. He has never asked any member of the Board of Education or any member of the Board of Superintendents to support him for any office. It is a matter of public record that has been published in the news columns of THE TIMES that the Board of Superintendents nominated the directing investigator for the position of director of reference, research and statistics; that the directing investigator informed the members of the Board of Education that he could not accept the position; that prior to such nomination the members of the Board of Education, meeting in committee of the whole, decided to elect the present investigator as executive manager, and that in a communication to the then President of the Board of Education he requested that his name be withdrawn from consideration as he could not accept the position.

With reference to the general editorial comments upon the survey the only statement to be made at this time is that the survey, as planned and as being carried out, until it was suspended by the Board of Education upon the basis of facts presented to the board by me, had but one purpose in view and that was and is to improve the public school system.

For the Circle for Negro Relief.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Circle for Negro Relief, Incorporated, at 469 Fifth Avenue, is greatly in need of funds to carry on its work. It was easy enough to raise money while the war was going on, but this organization, like many others, is suffering because the usual American lassitude has set in. People do not seem to realize that noble works must still be continued; and the problems confronting us all must be met by a willingness to respond when we know that the work is really worth while. Is it asking too much to request that those of your readers who are interested may send contributions to the address given above? Harrison Rhodes is the President of the Circle and I am on the Board of Directors. The Circle is indorsed by the National Information Bureau and works in co-operation with the Red Cross and all other welfare agencies.

AUTUMN.

A chastened glory lights earth's vista now,
 When Summer's glow has ceased its lavishment;
 Pain's subtle charm is with each soft ray blent,
As, on the hill's fast browning, rugged brow,
The wind-shorn trees to Autumn's mandates bow.
 Unrest is vanquished. Fever heat of life,
Youth's rampant ardor, labor's energy,
Relax alike beneath the minstrelsy
 Whose music brings nepenthe for past strife.
Now comes fulfillment of the patriot's vow,
 The harvest's yield, the laborer's recompense.
Peaceful the skies, the wind-sung melody,
 Yet from our shrine of all beneficence
Still the pale light of war's long agony!

EXPRESS SERVICE BY AIR.

Government Plans Delivery Between New York and Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A daily express delivery service via air between Chicago and New York, with stoppages at intermediate points, is the plan now under consideration by the Government as a means of increasing the efficiency and utility of the present aero mail service.

The project was discussed today at a conference between Post Office officials, members of the South Park Commission and officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce. According to the plan, the express service will be conducted in conjunction with the aerial mail delivery. Several large Martin bombing planes are now said to be under construction by the Government which will enable both mail, express and valuable bank papers to be carried between New York and Chicago in ten hours.

The new machines will be equipped with two 400 horse-power Liberty motors capable of making a speed of 125 miles per hour. The cost of each plane is estimated at $40,000.

AIR RACE OFFICIALLY ENDS.

Aviators in Transcontinental Flight Ordered Home.

Official notification that the army's transcontinental airplane flight was ended was received at Mitchel Field, Long Island, yesterday by Colonel Archie Miller, Commander of Long Island Army Flying Fields, from Major Gen. Charles T. Menoher, Chief of the Army Air Service.

General Menaher stated in a telegram that Lieutenant D. B. Gish, who was forced down at Chicago on his way back from San Francisco, had been ordered to proceed direct to his home station. He was the only man still on the route.

PLANS FOR ELECTRIC PLANE

Chicago Said to Have Designs for a Novel Globe-Circler.

Henry Woodhouse, in a telegram from Chicago yesterday, said that plans have been disclosed in that city for a new type of aircraft designed to make the flight around the world.

The new machines are to be propelled by electricity, have 6,000 horse power, and will be capable of carrying seventy-five to 100 passengers. The wings are to be 240 feet in breadth and 180 feet in length.

FRENCH DEMAND COAL.

Urge the Government to Take Some Action to Relieve Suffering.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The coal shortage which has already held the attention of the French public has become more critical within the last few days on account of the snow and intense cold.

The newspapers insist that measures be taken without delay to meet the crisis.

Louis Loucheur, Minister of Reconstruction, in an interview with Le Petit Parisien, attributed the shortage to the reduction of the world output, calling attention to the fact that France's coal supply for the current year was about 42 per cent. of a pre-war year's production.

Strikes throughout the world, in progress since the beginning of the year, according to the Minister of Reconstruction, further diminished the coal stock, but he expressed the belief that the situation would improve with enforcement of the peace traty.

PLAN A NEW RHINE CANAL.

It Would Parallel the River from Huningen to Strasbourg.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Plans for the building of a canal running parallel to the Rhine River from Huningen to Strasbourg (a distance of about eighty miles) have been perfected by Albert Clavelle, Minister of Public Works.

The canal, according to plans announced in Le Matin, would have a width of twenty meters, a draught of six meters, and would be operated in a manner to permit of the construction of ten hydro-electric stations, with a total capacity of 7,000,000 horse power.

TENEMENT INSPECTION.

Work of City Department Considered Necessary and Not Over-Costly

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The figures of the tentative budget realize the worst fears of the taxpayers, even though everybody knew that a big increase over last year's appropriation was inevitable. The Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York has made its annual demand for economy, with which a large section of the community will be in sympathy. It is a pity that, having a good case, it should undertake to sustain it by specious arguments in at least one particular.

This year, as every year, the board urges the abolition of the Tenement House Department, and pretends that the work of that department is a mere duplication of the work of the Bureau of Buildings and the Health Department. Persons familiar with the work done by the Tenement House Department know that there is no justification for this statement, but the general public may be deceived.

The suggestion is that the inspection of the tenement houses be left to the Bureau of Buildings and to the Health Department. That the Health Commissioner has more responsibility on his shoulders than a single official ought to have is obvious to the least observing. Inspectors of the Bureau of Buildings have no training which qualifies them to undertake the work of the Tenement House Department. The proposition to abolish the Tenement House Department, therefore, means that the tenement house owners of the City of New York should be permitted to operate their buildings without fear of interference from the city.

Five-sixths of the department's service is sanitary police work, which no other department pretends to do and which must be done if the city is not to become a plague spot. The other sixth of the department's appropriation is for new building inspection in matters of light, ventilation, sanitation, and fire protection, which secures uniformity of construction in tenement houses throughout the city. It costs less than $95,000.

The Real Estate Board's Budget Committee puts the saving which would be effected by the abolition of the department at $800,000, when as a matter of fact its tentative budget is $871,000, and is likely to be reduced. When normal accruals arising from vacancies, absences, &c., are deducted, the actual cost to the city will not much exceed $825,000. Would it not have been fairer for the Real Estate Budget Committee to be accurate? Overstatement defeats its own purpose and betrays animus.

The Tenement House Department costs the City of New York about one-fifth of 1 per cent. of the annual budget. If it were abolished the ordinary taxpayer would not know that anything had happened. It is therefore clear that the demand for the abolition of the department arises from another motive than economy, and that that motive is one which at the present time runs directly counter to the general interest.

RED CROSS WORKERS APPEAL TO VOTERS

Every Election Booth Canvassed in the Third Roll Call Campaign.

MANY RECRUITS OBTAINED

Hotels and Theatres Visited—Actors Co-operate—King of Greece Sends Thanks.

"Vote under the Red Cross" was the slogan yesterday of more than 5,000 young women who were at every polling place in the city. With politics the chief activity of the city, the workers carried the third Red Cross roll call campaign right to the voters. There was no discrimination between Democrats or Republicans or Socialists or Prohibitionists. Every one was asked to sign and contribute for the privilege.

Not only during the day, while the vote was being polled, but also at night when the streets were crowded to hear the election results, the Red Cross workers were busy. They invaded the theatres, hotels and restaurants, and mingled with the crowds gathered in front of election bulletin boards.

A three-hour continuous performance will be put on this afternoon at noon on the steps of the Public Library. Jack Pringle, the clown, better known as "Silvers," is the manager. Included in the company are Harmon McGreal, Harry Stockbridge of the "East Is West" company, Robert Armstrong of "Boys Will Be Boys," Robert Rocque and Bradley Barker of the Famous Players, Sydney Mason of World Film, Charles Velle of vaudeville, Douglas MacPherson, leading man for Dorothy Dalton; W. F. Granger of "Lightnin'," A. J. Herbert of the G... mont Studios, and Stanley Whiting.

Many of the workers report that many of the contributors to the campaign are giving more than the sum set for a year's or life membership. Mrs. Ha... de Wolf Fuller, who leads the workers at the Great Northern, Buckingham and Berkeley Hotels, reported yesterday that Mrs. Adelaide H. Munroe had paid $500 for a life membership. Four ... who had just arrived from Canada at one of the hotels paid $5 each for a year's membership. One man in Ma... paid $150 for a year's membership.

In many of the theatrical attractions the stars are introducing some lines in the play to appeal for Red Cross memberships. Tim Murphy in "Fi... o'Clock" and Raymond Hitchcock in "Hitchy Koo, 1919" are among these.

Miss Alice Lavinia Day was in charge of the canvassers at the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations. The women worked in shifts and stayed until midnight, adding hundreds of members hourly from among the holiday crowds.

King Alexander of Greece, in a message forwarded from Washington yesterday to Brig. Gen. George R. D..., Chairman of the Metropolitan Committee, expressed the gratitude of his country for the work done by the Red Cross. Here is the message:

"I wish to express to the American Red Cross, and through it to the millions of Americans whose generosity made the Red Cross work possible, the sincere thanks and the deep gratitude of my people for the great and noble work it has done in Greece and for the splendid support and constant sympathy it has shown the Greek people.

"The assistance given by the Americans in combating the spread of typhus and in feeding and clothing the thousands of unfortunate refugees poured into Macedonia after their ... in Bulgaria and Turkey was a service which won our highest admiration, one which will long be remembered by my country."

LABOR SWEEPS ENGLAND

Wins Seats in Kensington, Bath and University Towns.

LONDON, Nov. 3, (via Ottawa.)—Further reports on the results of municipal elections held throughout the country Saturday emphasize the completeness of the labor victory. In the ... lar district of London the Labor Party captured thirty-nine seats out of forty-two. Nine labor candidates were elected in Chelsea. Even in fashionable Kensington six laborites were returned.

The newspapers generally ascribe the labor victory to the "real heart put into the party's electioneering."

The Times says the chief lesson to be learned from the election is the proved existence of an "election-winning labor machine" all over the country, and notes that the party won successes at such unlikely places as Bath, Brighton, Oxford and Cambridge.

HARVARD FUND GOES HIGHER

Endowment Total Reaches $9,015,542—Boston Still in Lead.

Although yesterday was a holiday the Harvard Endowment Fund reached $9,015,542. New York is still behind Boston in the amount collected, as the New York teams have turned in $3,273,808, while the Boston collections total $3,568,923.

Among the late subscribers were Dr. Louis Arkin, Boston, $500; Samuel H. Watts, New York City, $500; Samuel J. Rosenshon, New York City, $500; Edwin M. Dodd, Boston, $500; William A. REPORT BUS LINES PROSPER

Commissioner Whalen Says New Routes Are Making Money.

Reports to Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, which were received yesterday, were to the effect that the new lines of buses in Manhattan and Brooklyn, which were started on Monday, were a great success. Eleven of the buses operate across this borough from the East River to Riverside Drive via Eighty-sixth Street. They ran on a five-minute headway and made the trip in from ten to twelve minutes. This service was established to fill a need caused by the failure of the crosstown cars to run further west than Eighth Avenue, leaving several long blocks without public conveyances.

The two new bus lines in Brooklyn, and the one in Queens, are making money for their owners, according to reports. While the permits for the running of the buses expire in December, Mr. Whalen is sure that they will be extended indefinitely if they prove of good service.

FOURNIER FACES CHARGES.

Appears to Answer for Surrendering Maubeuge to the Germans.

PARIS, Nov. 4, (Havas.)—Brig. Gen. Fournier, who commanded the French fortress of Maubeuge at the outset of the war, appeared today before a special court-martial to answer for the surrender of the fortress to the Germans in September, 1914, during their great sweep south toward Paris in the first stage of the war.

A large audience, comprising many Generals and higher officers, was in attendance. The Government applied for a postponement, which was granted against the objection of the defendant.

DR. CALVIN THOMAS OF COLUMBIA DEAD

Head of Germanic Languages and Literature for 23 Years Passes at Home, at 65.

AUTHOR OF GERMAN BOOKS

During the War He Said No Good Life Was Possible Until Prussianism Was Done Away With.

Calvin Thomas, Professor of Germanic Languages and Literature at Columbia University for twenty-three years, died suddenly yesterday morning of heart disease at his home, 490 Riverside Drive. He had been in poor health for some time, but only became ill the day before his death. He was born near Lapeer, Mich., in 1854.

Professor Thomas, who became one of the greatest authorities in America on German literature, particularly Goethe, was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1878, from which institution he received an LL.D. in 1904. After a brief period of teaching Latin and Greek in a Grand Rapids High School he went to Leipsic for a year's study. On his return he entered the Faculty of his alma mater and remained there till 1896, rising from instructor in German to full professor in eight years.

During his life at Columbia Professor Thomas impressed himself on his students and the life of the university by his learning and his strong personality. Unlike some specialists in Teutonic subjects he showed scant sympathy with the enemy during the war as is shown in these words written by him in the spring of 1918:

"Prussianism has now unmasked itself; it stands for just what Attila and Tamerlane and Genghis Khan stood for; that is, for conquest, domination, and swag. It has become plain as a pikestaff that there will be no good life possible on this planet for those who love liberty, justice, and fair play until the menace of the Beast is done away with.

"It is no time now for those who are professors of German, who have lived in Germany, who have loved many things in German life, and who sincerely wish well to the German people—it is no time for us to sentimentalize in an unpractical strain and urge that the Germans are fond of flowers and Christmas trees and folksongs. They have given themselves over to the Beast, and we have got to fight the Beast until he is no longer dangerous. Never since time began did a nation fight in a nobler cause."

Among a lengthy list of books and articles, of which he was the author, may be mentioned: "A Practical German Grammar," "Life and Works of Schiller," "German Literature," (a history,) "Goethe." He was also the editor of several of Goethe's works, a German literary anthology, and many German classics for school and college use. To the New Standard Dictionary he contributed twenty-six articles on the letters of the alphabet.

His wife, whom he married in 1884, was Miss Mary Eleanor Allen of Grand Rapids.

RIDERS OUT IN DRAG HUNT.

Hounds Take Them Over Farms in Monmouth County.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 4.—A large field of riders took advantage of the election holiday and enjoyed a drag-hunt over farmland and meadows in Middletown township. Starting from the Red Bank railroad station, the Monmouth County hounds were taken to the Overbrook farm near Lincroft, where the pack was thrown in. Running fast over a number of farms the hounds checked in McCue's meadows. They were again thrown in on Major Joseph Field's place at Nut Swamp, and ran over the Vernelle and Carton farms and checked on Brasch's farm.

After a rest the hounds started again at Ogden's Corner and ran over the John Kelly, John Dolan, and the Toomey farms and finished on the Everett Road near the school house. The hounds took the scent well and ran fast all the way, taking the riders at a rapid pace, covering about eleven miles. Many high fences and ditches were encountered.

Among those in the saddle were Rufus C. Finch, master of the hounds; Thomas S. Field, G. Jason Watkins, Miss Mary Jones, Miss Helen Hughes, Arthur Jones, George H. Churchill, Arthur Borden, George Churchill, Jr., and J. Straus. William G. Stonebridge was huntsman and J. Jasper whip.

Belmonts Hosts to Prince of Wales.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—According to present plans for the entertainment of the Prince of Wales, he will not stay at the White House or the British Embassy, but at the residence of Captain and Mrs. Perry Belmont at New Hampshire Avenue and R Street, which will be put at the disposal of the Government. The Prince and his suite are expected to arrive Monday and remain three days.

Rosebach-Hess.

J. Harry Rosebach, a Philadelphia merchant, and Miss Sophie Hess of Atlanta, Ga., were married last evening in the apartments of the bride's stepfather and mother, Dr. J. A. MacLeay and Mrs. MacLeay, in the Hotel Majestic. Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott officiated in the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends. Miss Janey MacLeay, sister of the bride, was her attendant and Walter Rosebach was his brother's best man. The bridegroom was recently mustered out of the service, having been overseas. He is an Andover graduate and studied for three years in England and Switzerland. Mr. and Mrs. Rosebach have gone to the West Indies for their honeymoon.

Japan's Naval Estimate $824,000,000

HONOLULU, Nov. 4. (Associated Press.)—An eight-year naval program costing $824,000,000 has been decided on by the Japanese Government, it was announced here today in a cable message to the Shinpoub, a Japanese daily newspaper. The program includes the construction of four 40,000-ton battleships of the Nagato class, four battle cruisers, twenty light cruisers, eight destroyers, seventy submarines, and thirty other craft.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—The French aviator, Lieutenant Etienne Poulet, arrived at the airdrome of San Stefano, near Constantinople, on Friday on his flight from Paris to Melbourne, Australia. He had flown from Saloniki on the latest stage of his flight.

ACCUSES THE TYPOTHETAE.

Trade Commission Charges Coercive Measures to Obtain Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Federal Trade Commission has filed formal complaints of unfair competition against the United Typothetae of America and seven of its officers, alleging that the commission has reason to believe that the organization, an association of 2,000 members, mostly employing printers, is "coercing manufacturers into payment of bonuses and attempting to annul free competition in the printing trade by setting up standard prices for its membership."

The complaint charges that the United Typothetae is seeking to establish a "three year plan," the object of which is to collect assessments from manufacturers and merchants selling paper, printing presses, type, ink, and other supplies purchased by employing printers. The money is "to be applied to alleged educational purposes, but mainly to induce employing printers to use a uniform system of cost accounting and a standard price list compiled by the United Typothetae."

Coercive methods, the complaint charges, have been used to obtain subscriptions to this fund, "in that the organization published and circulated monthly bulletins containing names and addresses of subscribers, in order that the employing printers could discriminate in the purchase of supplies in favor of those who had subscribed and against those who had not." Publication of this list, the complaint alleges, "has intimidated manufacturers and dealers in printers' supplies and has caused them to contribute to the fund against their will, in order to avoid being discriminated against."

The organization and the seven officers named, Benjamin P. Moulton, Arthur E. Southworth, Charles L. Kinsley, George M. Gardner, E. H. James, Fred W. Gage, and Joseph A. Borden, have been directed to file answer with the commission at Washington on Dec. 15.

FIVE PRIESTS OFFICIATE.

James V. Smith Marries Miss R. C. Etzel in Church of Holy Name.

The wedding of James V. Smith, who was overseas as a Knights of Columbus Secretary, and Miss Regina Cecilia Etzel, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Etzel, of 306 West 93d Street, took place yesterday morning in the Church of the Holy Name, Amsterdam Avenue. The officiating priest was the Rev. Edward Loehr of Peekskill, assisted by four priests from Buffalo and the clericals of the Church of the Holy Name, all of whom attended the wedding breakfast at the Hotel Marseilles.

Mrs. James D'Arcy was her sister's matron of honor and Miss Caroline Etzel, another sister, was her bridesmaid. Frank A. Smith was the best man and the ushers were Albert Etzel, Jr., and William and Charles Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live in this city.

DO NOT BE ALARMED

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

Rev. Dr. Jowett, the fighting parson, used to say: "Get the thing done and let them howl."

"Big men, who are doing big things that have never been done before, act on this basis, otherwise they would be ironed out to the average, and their dreams would evaporate like the morning mist," wrote my friend, Elbert Hubbard, in one of his "Little Journeys."

To tell the story of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, is to tell a story of a tremendous growth.

In a few years the number of those who entrusted the care of their dear departed to Frank E. Campbell, has increased manifold.

Here is an institution without precedent and growing beyond human thought.

Advertising kept pace with the increased responsibility, and still, responsibility is forging ahead of the publicity.

"You cannot keep up an advertising campaign of this magnitude," said a client to Mr. Campbell, "unless you make good every statement and claim."

"Power flows to the man who can shoulder it, and burdens come to those who can carry them."

Frank E. Campbell made "the care of demised" his life's study. That he succeeded beyond human thought is due to his untiring efforts, his knowledge, his foresight, his belief in the judgment of men and women whom he has served, and his courage to do big things that have never been done before.

The Funeral Church belongs to all the people, people of every creed and belief, be they rich or poor. More people avail themselves of The Funeral Church from day to day.

To meet the issues as they arrive, the men at the head must grow with the business. Be not alarmed over the growth of The Funeral Church; it is the natural outcome of services well rendered. Thus you will find at all times the same attention, the same careful carrying out of all your wishes, the same studious efforts to do things a little better than promised, a little better than even expected.

Banks everywhere use the L. B. Card ledger—

Twenty-five years ago the first bank installed the L. B. Card ledger. The list has grown steadily. Today this master-method of handling active, inactive and savings accounts is used by banks, large and small, in every section of the country.

These banks adopted it only after careful investigation and comparison. They found, as you will find, that no other ledger can approximate it in speed, in accuracy, in simplicity.

Reference to any account is almost instantaneous. The cards are easily and quickly handled. The method of guiding leads the fingers straight to the right card. The L. B. Card ledger is especially adaptable to posting by machine; —assuring speed-with-accuracy.

A visit to our sales rooms will show you why the L. B. Card ledger is making good—not only in banks, but in commercial houses of every class.

RAISE MILK PRICES TO CITY CONSUMERS

Sheffield Farms Company Announces Increases of 1½ and 2 Cents for November.

GO INTO EFFECT TODAY

Higher Wages Paid to Employes Given as Reason for the Advance.

An increase in the retail price of milk, effective today, was announced yesterday by the Sheffield Farms Company, Inc., 324 West Fifty-seventh Street. Grade B milk is advanced to 17½ cents a quart, an increase of 1½ cents over October. Grade A will be 20 cents a quart, an increase of 2 cents a quart. Other grades show corresponding increases.

No announcement of prices was made by the Borden Farms Products Company. Branch managers said last night they would sell at the old prices until further advices had been received from their general offices. Usually all the distributers charge the same prices for milk, and it is likely that course will be followed this month.

Milk wagon drivers, wholesalers, retailers, and branch store managers of the Sheffield Farms Company were notified that retail prices today would be:

Grade B milk	17½c	per qt.
Grade B milk	10c	per pt.
Sealect Grade A milk	20c	per qt.
Sealect Grade A milk	12c	per pt.
Sheffield certified milk	28c	per qt.
Brookside certified	30c	per qt.
Buttermilk	12c	per qt.
Condensed milk	18c	per ½ pt.
X Cream	28c	per ½ pt.
XX Cream	36c	per ½ pt.
Sour	18c	per ½ pt.

It was said at the offices of the company that "dip" milk will sell at 18 cents a quart. The price of bottled milk in the stores will be the same as on the wagons. It was said that out-of-town customers probably would be asked to pay a larger increase than patrons in the city.

The increases were made necessary, according to Isaac A. Van Bomel of the company, by the higher wages paid to drivers and other employes, and because of an increase of one-half cent a quart in cost to the producer. The retail price of Grade B last November was 17 cents a quart, he said.

Milk wagon drivers, under the agreement reached Sunday, will receive $35 a week salary, an increase of $3, and 2 per cent. commission on collections, as compared with 1 per cent. heretofore. The average wage for the driver will be $42.50 a week, it was said. A strike of milk company employes was threatened Sunday until Governor Smith persuaded the men to accept a compromise proposal of the employers.

EXTEND MEMBERSHIP DRIVE.

Campaign of Foreign Wars Veterans to End Nov. 10.

Announcement was made yesterday at headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 32 Union Square, that the time limit of its membership campaign will be extended to Nov. 10, because of the interest shown by overseas men in the organization. The time limit originally was set for Nov. 1.

In Manhattan, the organization reports the establishment of twenty new posts and says that posts already existing have more than tripled their membership. In the Bronx there are a dozen new posts organized or completing their organization. The number of posts in Brooklyn have been doubled in the drive. In Staten Island, a post with a membership of more than 500 has been organized among wounded overseas men at the Fox Hills Hospitals.

Among recently organized New York posts are the Belleau Woods Post, composed of marines who fought with the 2d Division, the Caduceus Post, in Brooklyn, organized by surgeons and Medical Corps men, and the Motor Transport Corps Post, limited to officers and men in that service. Admiral Henry B. Wilson will present to the post in Yorkville, named in his honor, a stand of post colors.

RAIDS RECTIFYING PLANT

Chief Revenue Agent Aims to Close Illicit Stills by Cutting Off Spirits Supply.

In announcing the seizure of an illicit rectifying plant, Harry W. Mager, Chief Internal Revenue Agent, announced yesterday that it would be the policy of his department to cut off the source of the alcohol supply from such places and thus definitely abolish with one stroke the possibility of evading the law.

The illicit rectifying plant was found in an apartment on the second floor of a house on East 135th Street. The apartment had been under observation for several days by revenue agents and policemen in the hope that the owners of the plant might appear. When it was felt that the men had become suspicious and were keeping clear of the place, the raid was made. It revealed several five-gallon cans of grain alcohol in addition to flavoring extracts such as prune juice and caramel which were used in making imitation whisky.

The liquor was confiscated and taken to the Alexander Avenue Police Station. In explaining that he was working on a plan to strike at the source of supply of "speak-easies" and "blind tigers," Mr. Mager said that under present conditions it is difficult for the Government agents to apprehend violators of the law, as those saloon keepers who are dispensing whisky are doing so to their friends or to old customers. His plan, he said, is to "dry up" the places doing an illegal business.

Commenting on the grade of whisky being dispensed in New York by law violators, Mr. Mager said the stuff is nothing but high proof spirits or grain alcohol rectified and diluted with coloring matter such as prune juice or caramel. In this way the stomach which will be safe from tear out of a person who drinks it." The alcohol seized in the raid, he added, best illustrates the manner in which the whisky now being dispensed in the city is manufactured.

"The grain alcohol which is being used by the makers of this illicit whisky runs about 190 proof and is diluted to one-half its strength by prune juice or caramel," he declared. "This grade of whisky is very, very bad."

In order that the saloon, or "poor man's club," may not be rendered obsolete as a gathering place for men after the day's work is over, the Church Temperance League for Patriotic Service is planning to introduce a combination canteen and club for men who want to eat, drink, play games, read and rest during the day or night. Service will be free and food and drinks will be served at cost. Vacated saloons will be used for the canteens.

LIQUOR SUPPLIES HERE GOING ABROAD RAPIDLY

Export and Import Figures for Beverages Released During the Last Eight Months.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Radical changes in the foreign trade of the United States in spirits, wines, and liquors due to national prohibition legislation are reported by the Department of Commerce.

For the eight months ended with August, 1919, the value of liquors exported was nineteen times as great as the imports, while in the year 1914 the value of the imports was five times the value of the exports. Intoxicating liquors imported during the first eight months of the present year totaled $516,314 in value, or at the rate of $774,324 for the complete year, while in 1917 the import trade of the United States in this commodity amounted to $17,679,132, and in 1914 to $20,347,5[illegible].

Exports for the eight months ended with August amounted to $9,989,058, as compared with $5,[illegible]3,013 for the corresponding period in 1918 and $8,417,178 in 1917. Continuation of this export trade is expected by the department in view of the great quantities of liquors now in bonded distillery and customs warehouses.

SCORN FOREIGN VIEWS.

If Aliend Don't Like Prohibition Let Them Go Home, Methodists Say.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The assertion of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, that prohibition was contributing to unrest in the United States was characterized as "not only unfortunate but deserving of rebuke" in a statement issued here today by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals of the Methodist Church.

"Radicalism in England and France and throughout the Continent of Europe," the statement said, "is very much more rife than it is in America despite the floods of alcohol. Bolshevism is a thing of ignorance; prohibition commands the support of 90 per cent. of Americans with high school educations. Bolshevism is a thing of saloons, barrel houses, and slums; prohibition is the product of schools, churches, and homes.

"If it is true that foreign-born laborers are rebellious against the country because of prohibition, it may be said that the country is not being run effectively for their benefit. If they do not like the way things are being done let them go back to Europe."

DRY ENFORCEMENT PLAN.

Committee Appointed by Commissioner Roper to Work Out Details.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A committee of eight to work out and aid in the inauguration of a plan of organization for the enforcement of national prohibition throughout the country, under authority of the new prohibition enforcement law, has been appointed by Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Deputy Commissioner Gaylord has been appointed Chairman of this committee. Its other members are Revenue Agents David A. Gater of Arkansas, Thomas E. Stone of Ohio, S. Brame of Virginia, Daniel J. Gantt of Georgia, Daniel L. Porter of New York, and John L. Considine of California, also Judge Charles J. Orbison of Indianapolis, who will be associated with the committee in an advisory capacity.

This demonstration is made for a two-fold purpose: (1st) to more broadly advertise the fact that this shop is headquarters for the nation's finest brands of clothes, and (2d) to prove that we are able to save every man $5 to $20 on his clothing purchases.

To this end, we have segregated something like 4,000 Suits and Overcoats, embracing 40 famous nationally advertised brands, every one of which is marked at the one price of $40 each.

The frost was still in the ground last year when we placed our orders for this season's stock—long before the turmoil of strikes, shortage of materials and scarcity of labor began to make itself felt as keenly as it has since. This constitutes one of the most remarkable value-giving events projected in New York in months.

Sheffield Farms Co. November Milk Prices

WE have just completed a new agreement with our employees which provides a material advance in wages not only to organized labor but to other employees as well. It includes a reduction in working time from seven to six days a week. In addition, farmers will receive ½c. per quart more than they received in October.

Public health demands fresh milk every day.

Therefore the Sheffield Farms Co. will require 200 additional delivery men and truckmen to allow each one a day off every week.

Notwithstanding this radical change in the operation of the industry the consumer is asked to pay only ½c. per qt. for Grade B bottled milk over the price set by the Federal Food Administration in November last year.

Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx, Jersey City, Union Hill and Vicinities.

Prices Effective Nov. 5th, 1919.

Grade B milk	17½c. per qt. bottle
Grade B milk	10c. per pt. bottle

SENATE GIVES HOPE OF RUSHING TREATY

Agrees to Vote Today on Last Amendments—May Reach Final Action in a Week.

SHANTUNG PROPOSAL KILLED

Second Lodge Amendment Is Lost—Borah Withdraws Plan on Article X.

LABOR AMENDMENT WAITS

Capitol Hears That Hitchcock Has Consulted the President Indirectly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A glimmering hope of a vote on ratification of the Peace Treaty by the end of the week loomed up today when the Senate, by unanimous consent, agreed to act tomorrow on the remaining amendments proposed to the treaty. With the amendments disposed of the Senate will plunge at once into consideration of the reservation program promulgated by the Republican majority.

The unanimous consent agreement was reached on the suggestion of Senator Lodge, who moved that a vote on the pending La Follette amendment to strike the labor provisions from the treaty be taken at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Coupled with this was an understanding that the Senate would come to a vote on the Gore amendment, providing for a referendum to the voters on any question involving the United States in war, before the La Follette amendment is reached.

Debate on the La Follette amendment in the meantime had struck a lull. Senator Lodge explained that a vote tomorrow was desired instead of today in order to give Senator Reed of Missouri, who was unable to be at the Capitol on account of illness, an opportunity to speak on it. The Gore amendment, Mr. Lodge explained, would occupy only a little time to debate.

After the unanimous consent had been given Senator Lodge put in an amendment to strike from the treaty the three sections under which the economic rights on the Shantung Peninsula are awarded to Japan. This amendment he announced he would offer early in October, when the Senate defeated the committee amendment on Shantung by a vote of 55 to 35. The Senate voted down today's amendment by 41 to 26, without a little time in debate.

The vote was:

Borah Withdraws Amendment.

After the Shantung amendment had been defeated, Senator Borah offered an amendment to strike from the treaty Article touching the guarantee of the territorial integrity and political independence of members of the League of Nations. After two hours of debate on it Mr. Borah withdrew the amendment, explaining that he would await the Senate's action on his reservation to limit the obligation imposed on the United States under the article.

In the debate on his amendment, Senator Borah asserted the committee reservation on Article X. "does not get anywhere," as the obligation of the United States to comply with any decree of the League of Nations under the article, he argued, was left untouched.

"Under the committee resolution," said Senator Borah, "the United States would be effectively bound to carry out any mandate of the League of Nations that involved sending our forces to fight in foreign wrangles. If the League of Nations decreed that the United States send soldiers to Silesia or China, the President, acting under the authority given him under the League, could send them without consulting Congress."

Hitchcock for 15-Minute Speeches.

After the remaining amendments have been voted on Senator Hitchcock will endeavor to obtain unanimous consent to limit debate on the reservations, with the view, as he said tonight, of coming to a vote on ratification by Saturday.

Mr. Hitchcock will not ask for the fixing of a definite date for a vote on the reservations or on ratification, he explained, being convinced, after the experience of yesterday, that no agreement can be made that will fit in with the ideas of both sides in the treaty battle.

"The majority object to our proposal because they maintain it gives us an advantage," said Senator Hitchcock. "We object to theirs because it manifestly gives the advantage to them. I hope that a compromise can be effected on the limitation of debate. If my proposal is agreed to I do not see why a final vote should not come by the end of the week."

Senator Hitchcock favors restricting debate on the reservations to fifteen minutes on each reservation for each Senator. As the principles embraced in the various reservations have been thoroughly thrashed out the Senator believes that debate will not be exhaustive.

Although the Senate may reach a vote on the treaty on Saturday, or, failing that, early next week, there was nothing to indicate today that the treaty would be disposed of finally whenever the vote came. With the Administration forces insisting that they will vote against the resolution of ratification if the committee reservations are adopted and the majority leaders calmly predicting that they will vote down any compromise reservations that may be offered later by the Democrats, the prospect, according to impartial observers, appeared to be that the treaty might lay suspended in the Senate.

The impression prevailed at the Capitol during the day that Senator Hitchcock had been in touch with President Wilson indirectly, laying the treaty situation before him, and that the President had urged that the Administration Senators vote down the majority resolution if the committee reservations were carried as a part of it. Mr. Hitchcock would not confirm this, but said, in reply to a question, that he did not expect to have a personal interview with the President.

Saxon Miners Vote to Work Longer to Spur Coal Output

BERLIN, Nov. 3, (Associated Press.)—Anthracite and brown coal workers of Saxony, recognizing the critical situation due to the coal shortage, have voted to resume working eight hours a day until March, according to advices to the Vossische Zeitung from Dresden. They have also decided to work on Sundays and holidays.

The men will meet again in February to determine whether an extension of the arrangement is necessary.

NEW FIUME PROPOSALS MAY BE MADE TO US

Paris Paper Says French Plan Has the Support of Great Britain.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—France has taken the initiative in presenting to the Washington Government a new proposal for settlement of the Fiume question, according to the Echo de Paris. The newspaper says the move has the support of Great Britain.

ROME, Nov. 2 (Associated Press.)—"England has decided to support the solution proposed by Italy relative to the Adriatic question, and has given instructions to this effect to her Ambassador in the United States," says the Tribuna.

The real solution of the Adriatic problem, according to Admiral Thaon Di Revel, former representative of Italy upon the Inter-allied Naval Council at Paris, is to make that sea a "disarmed sea." Such a disarmament of the Adriatic, presumably by the prohibition of fortifications or the maintenance of naval forces there, would make that sea absolutely safe for Italy, in his opinion, and obviate the necessity for Italy to maintain it in a state of defense.

Italy's relations with other nations having their outlets on the eastern coast of the Adriatic would become most cordial, he believes, from the day on which this dream would be realized because suspicions, rancor and menaces would disappear.

He holds, however, that Italy cannot be the initiator of this disarmament of the Adriatic until her safety is absolutely insured.

LONDON, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—It is authoritatively stated that Great Britain has no policy apart from the Allies on the Adriatic question and has made no separate agreement. This statement is made in reply to the assertion that Great Britain has decided to support Italy's Adriatic proposals.

Great Britain's sole aim is to obtain a solution for the dispute satisfactory to all the Allies, including Italy, and maintains that this is a matter for settlement by the Peace Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—No new proposal for the settlement of the Fiume question has reached the American Government either from France or Great Britain, it was said today at the State Department. Further than this statement officials would not discuss the question.

In other quarters, however, it was said that any instructions which might have come from London to the British Ambassador to support the latest Italian proposal for the settlement of the Fiume problem would only be in extension of previous efforts in that direction. In these quarters it is felt that only the illness of President Wilson has prevented a solution of the problem before this time.

TROOPS OUT IN CHILE STRIKE

Miners on March Alarm Rancagua City—May Check Nitrate.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—Troops have been ordered to the minnig region a short distance south of Santiago to keep order during a minnig strike, which offers possibilities of disorder. The general strike at the Braden Co.'s mines at El Teniente, near Rancagua City, forty miles south of here, has assumed great proportions. The impending arrival of 10,000 strikers, who are coming down from the mines into town after being laid off, has caused alarm, and a regiment of infantry and one of cavalry were sent there today to keep order.

Operations in the nitrate fields of Northern Chile may, it is feared will, be affected by another strike which has broken out at Antofagasta, the important nitrate export port. A number of unions of longshoremen and other harbor workmen are on strike for higher wages. It is expected that the port will be tied up and the strike movement may extend to the nitrate fields themselves.

FRENCH TO DIRECT VOTING IN SILESIA

Council Gives Them the Chairmanship of the Plebiscite Commission.

STUDIES HUNGARY'S STATUS

Sir George Clerk's Report on the Budapest Situation a Subject of Discussion.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The Chairmanship of the inter-allied commission to supervise the plebiscite in Upper Silesia to determine whether this highly important mining region is to belong to Poland or Germany was assigned to France by the Supreme Council today. An American representative may head the commission to supervise the plebiscite in Teschen, demanded by Poland and Czechoslovakia, but until ratification of the treaty by the United States France will furnish the Chairman of this commission also. The Chairmanship for the Allenstein district of East Prussia was assigned to England, and that for Marienwerder, East Prussia, to Italy.

The council today studied the report of Sir George Clerk on the situation at Budapest arising from the disinclination of Rumania to withdraw its troops from Hungary, and discussed the problem of Hungary generally.

The latest note to Rumania from the Supreme Council, insisting on immediate action by Rumania to clarify the Hungarian situation, and to demonstrate whether there is a Government in Hungary which the Allied and Associated Powers can recognize, is expected to bring the Hungarian situation out of the twilight zone.

Many French officials and publicists, as well as Italian officials, have blamed the United States for the Supreme Council's policy toward Rumania; but as the French and Italian members of the Council have always approved the actions of the Council, their efforts to charge the United States, and Great Britain to a less regree, with what the French and Italian newspapers term "the harsh treatment of Rumania," and the attempts to shoulder the entire blame upon the United States have not been wholly successful.

The council discussed the Hungarian situation, but, so far as appeared, made no great progress toward a solution of the problem of dealing with the Rumanians, who are still occupying a considerable section of the country. France and Italy have both been charged with lukewarmness in supporting the position of the inter-allied mission at Budapest, and some reports of today's council session were to the effect that there had been no perceptible strengthening of their attitude in support of the mission. They were said, however, to be looking at the question from separate points of view and not to be in harmony with each other.

Nov. 10 has been fixed by the Supreme Council as the date when the plebiscite commission created under the German peace treaty shall meet in Paris to discuss the elections in the various areas the political affiliation of which is to be settled by popular vote. The United States will not be represented, even unofficially, at this meeting.

The Council has advised Holland that it adheres to the decision previously reached not to recognize the Dutch ownership of German ships purchased by Holland after the opening of the war.

Belgium has asked the Council to release ships from Finland loaded with material destined for Belgium. The question has been referred to the Armistice Commission, which it is expected will allow these ships to pass through the Baltic blockade of Soviet Russia.

The Bulgarian peace delegates left Paris tonight for Sofia to confer with their Government regarding the signature of the peace treaty. The answer of the Allied and Associated Governments to the Bulgarian observations and criticisms upon the draft first submitted will be discussed with the Bulgarian Government and Parliamentary leaders.

No Formal Peace Before Nov. 25.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The prediction made in these dispatches several days ago that the Versailles treaty would not come into effect before the last days of November or the first of December was borne out by the announcement today that the plebiscite commissions provided for in the treaty with Germany would meet in Paris Nov. 10 to make plans for their work, and that the deposit of ratifications of the treaty would not take place until ten days after that meeting.

It may be stated that the formal declaration of peace will not take place before Nov. 25, and will probably be a few days later. Much depends on the action of the United States Senate. England, France, and Italy hope that if they delay the ceremony of ratification until after the 25th the ratification of America may be deposited at the same time as theirs. Japan's certificate of ratification is expected in Paris about Dec. 1, and thus it is possible that the ratifications of Germany and all the great Entente Powers may be deposited on the same day.

The United States will not be represented on the Plebiscite Commission at its Nov. 10 meeting.

MRS. REYBURN GETS DIVORCE

Wins Case Against Former Congressman on Cruelty Grounds.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 4.—Georgie Fontaine Reyburn of this city, formerly of Washington, was granted a divorce from William Stuart Reyburn, also of New London, formerly a Congressman from Philadelphia, on the grounds of cruelty. The decision was handed down by Judge Joel H. Reed, who heard the case in the Superior Court here about a month ago.

The couple were married in Washington. They are well known in New London society, having resided in the fashionable Pequot Summer colony. Mrs. Reyburn is very attractive in appearance.

Mr. Reyburn is a son of the late John E. Reyburn, former Mayor of Philadelphia.

OLD INN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Flames from Building on Coogan Estate Damage Elevated Railroad.

The old inn on the Coogan estate at 159th Street and Eighth Avenue at the Harlem River was destroyed by fire last night. The flames spread to the elevated railroad structure and for a time threatened a power house and switch tower. Two alarms of fire were sent in and the stoppage of trains created such congestion in traffic that the police reserves were called out to straighten out the tangle.

The inn was a long square frame structure one story ni height and in the days when trotting horses were in their heyday it was the rendezvous for horsemen. Recently it has been unoccupied. The fire was supposed to have originated from an election fire. The flames spread rapidly through the building and mounting high in the air caught on the woodwork on the eelvated structure.

It was because of the danger to the powerhouse that a second alarm was sounded. In order to fight the fire it was necessary to turn off the power in the section from 155th Street to 159th Street. Traffic was delayed about forty-five minutes.

Secret Lusitania Evidence Shows Captain Admitted He Disobeyed Admiralty Orders

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A parliamentary paper made public today containing secret evidence in the inquiry into the sinking of the Cunard liner Lusitania shows that Captain W. T. Turner of the Lusitania admitted that he disobeyed the instructions of the Admiralty in steaming only at the rate of 18 knots an hour. The Captain testified, however, that had he gone faster the Lusitania would have reached the bars at Liverpool before the vessel could cross it, owing to tidal conditions.

Captain Turner also testified that he had not steered a zig-zag course at full speed, as the Admiralty had ordered, because he thought this order applied only when a submarine had been sighted.

It was contended by Captain Turner that although he had been warned by the Admiralty to avoid the headlands, he was justified in coming within ten miles of Old Head of Kinsale, (near where the Lusitania was torpedoed,) in order to fix his position. If he had remained longer out of sight of land, he declared, the weather might have become foggy and he would have been worse off.

Captain Turner claimed that the course he steered was far enough from land, if it was not exactly in mid-channel. He was trying his best, he said, to follow the Admiralty instructions, but his aim was to find land. Had he run into a fog without doing this, he asserted, he might have run ashore.

The evidence shows that the Admiralty instructed Captain Turner to keep in mid-channel and avoid the headlands, because submarines appeared to be operating, chiefly off the prominent headlands. Captain Turner said he thought ten miles was giving the headlands a sufficient wide berth. He admitted that he kept a long distance off Fastnet in order to avoid submarines.

Later, Captain Turner, pressed under cross-examination said he was steering a course that would have taken him close to the Conningbeg Lightship and was not in mid-channel, because he understood there were submarines in mid-channel.

Asked why he had not said this before, the Captain replied: "I forgot it."

Captain Turner's testimony was given on June 15 and June 18, 1915.

A dispatch from London on July 17, 1915, said that the Court of Inquiry into the sinking of the Lusitania found that the liner had been lost as the result of an act of a German submarine, which not only intended to destroy the ship but planned to blot out the lives of its passengers. The decision exonerated Captain Turner and the Cunard Line from all blame and commended the discipline of the crew.

The only secret evidence known to have been taken by the Board of Inquiry was on the first day of its session, when the proceedings were interrupted in order to permit the court to inquire regarding certain instructions sent by wireless by the Admiralty to Captain Turner. The parliamentary paper made public in London probably has reference to this secret evidence.

British Army Critic to be Reprimanded.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Lieut. Col. J. Sherwood Kelly, a holder of the Victoria Cross, was sentenced today by a court-martial to be severely reprimanded. The offense, to which he pleaded guilty, was the writing to a London newspaper of letters in which he charged that there had been "a scandalous waste of lives and of vast sums of money" in British military operations in Russia.

DENIKIN'S ADVANCE STRONGLY RESISTED

Bolsheviki Concentrate Picked Troops Against Centre of Southern Army.

THEIR FLANK ATTACKS FAIL

Reds Driven from Kiev After Bold Attempt to Recapture the Ukrainian Capital.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROSTOV-ON-THE-DON, Oct. 28.—I should like to be optimistic and say we shall be in Moscow before the end of the year, but intimate experience of Russian revolutions and civil war is profoundly sobering and I shall not prophecy until the break has actually come and the Bolsheviki are on the run along the whole front.

They are not yet on the run. They have lost the initiative, they are being stubbornly pressed back, but they are still maintaining a very hard defensive struggle.

The Czarist Generals who are serving Trotzky out of fear or on some cynical calculation are exerting all their strategical and tactical resources to stave off disaster. Their offensive plans having failed they have concentrated their strongest picked troops in the centre where the volunteer army is forcing its way to the very defenses of Moscow.

For the last ten days in the neighborhood of Orel and on the road to Briansk the struggle has been fierce and bitter, and in order to secure opportunity for manoeuvre the Volunteer Army has had to retire temporarily to a short distance south of Orel. Meanwhile it retains its very advantageous position at Jelets Junction, east of Orel.

A like consideration explains a slight setback at Voronez, in the upper Don Valley, where the Bolsheviki by a heavy frontal attack reinforced by accretions of Red troops retiring from the south, have temporarily recovered possession of this unfortunate town.

Against these local reverses must be set a very great improvement on the flanks. General Wrangel has held Tsaritsin on the Lower Volga by a series of brilliant defensive manoeuvres in face of an overwhelming Bolshevist onset. During the last attack the town was nearly surrounded and only a supreme display of tenacity and cool inventiveness on the part of Wrangel and his generals and their admirable Kuban Cossacks turned an imminent Bolshevist victory in crushing defeat.

These Bolsheviki were driven far north toward Kamyshin, and this reverse, coupled with the resolute and uninterrupted advance of the Don Cossacks northeastward from the middle Don has completely dispelled the menace that hung over Denikin's eastern flank and impeded operations on his centre.

On his western flank in the Ukraine the Bolsheviki tried at Kiev a bold coup that completely failed. Concentrating a large force on the Jitomir highroad, they carried defenses on the river Irpen, which guards Kiev from the west, and on Oct. 14 they broke into the outskirts of the city. The small voluntary garrison, reinforced by volunteers from the civil population, for three days fought invading bands in the streets near the station and prevented their gaining access into the centre of the town. Finally, on the 3d, a skillful blow on the Bolshevist line of communications on the Irpin forced the invaders to beat a hurried retreat toward Jitomir.

A number of buildings suffered from bombardment, but as the Bolsheviki were never in undisturbed possession of any part of the town, they fortunately were unable to commit any serious excesses.

General Petlura, who has now definitely shown his hand as an auxiliary of the Bolsheviki, has been roundly defeated on the Bug River. West of the Dnieper Basin Denikin's cause is steadily winning.

STANDARD OIL IN GERMANY.

Hamburg Expects a Fleet of Tank Steamers to Arrive Soon.

BERLIN, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Standard Oil Company, it is reported from Hamburg, will soon resume operations in Germany through its subsidiary company, the German-American Petroleum Association.

A fleet of tank steamers is expected to arrive soon.

Lille Building Strike is Settled.

LILLE, Nov. 4.—The building trades strike which has been in progress here has been settled, the employers agreeing to pay higher rates provisionally for the months of November and December. This will mean an additional expenditure by the employers for the two months of 35,000,000 francs.

REPORT YUDENITCH ARMY SURROUNDED

Bolsheviki Also Claim Further Successes Against Kolchak and Denikin.

FINLAND REFUSES AID

Tells Northwestern Commander She Cannot Co-operate for Deliverance of Petrograd.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A claim that the Northwestern Russian Army of General Yudenitch, which has been attacking Petrograd, has been surrounded by the Bolsheviki is made in a Soviet Government wireless dispatch from Moscow, date today.

Giving details of the capture of Catchina by the Bolsheviki, the dispatch says the Red troops entered the city at 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon and immediately advanced toward Yamburg. The White army carried off males of from 18 to 45 years of age, and also all supplies.

Another Soviet message reports a further capture of 800 prisoners in the region of Petropavlovsk and a similar number in the Tchernaya district of the Crimea.

The revolt against General Denikin, the anti-Bolshevist leader in the south, it is asserted, is spreading to the Caucasus, and the rebels have occupied Corsny, Berbent, Ekaterinodar and Novorossyak, and are besieging Petrovsk.

The Soviet Government has issued a manifesto addressed to the "workers of the world," calling for a protest against attacks on Russia.

General Denikin has concluded an armistice with the Ukrainians, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The terms of the armistice provide that Denikin shall evacuate Ukraine.

An Associated Press dispatch from Helsingfors says the Finnish Government informed General Yudenitch today that it was unable to co-operate with him for the deliverance of Petrograd.

The reply to Yudenitch's appeal sets forth that it is impossible to accede, owing to Finland's internal political situation, her weak finances, the uncertainty of obtaining war materials, and the fact that the Entente has not guaranteed that future Russian Governments would recognize Finland's terms demanding independence for her intervention.

Mr. Guievitsch, the representative of the Northwestern Government at Helsingfors, has through the Finnish Government called upon all Russians living in Finland to join General Yudenitch.

BRITISH PARLEY WITH REDS

Is Solely to Obtain Release of Prisoners, Foreign Office Says.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Foreign Office is preparing to open direct negotiations with Soviet Russia for the release of 117 British subjects held by the Bolsheviki.

It is authoritatively denied that Great Britain intends to discuss any other subject with the Bolsheviki.

The London Daily Herald, the labor organ, on Monday, said it had learned on good authority that Great Britain was favorably considering a proposal for a conference of Soviet Russia with the Entente Allies.

The newspaper added that the conference would take place in a neutral country and be along the lines proposed for the abandoned conference at Prinkipo Island.

Chaliapine Not Killed by Reds.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The recent rumor that the opera singer Theodor Chaliapine had been killed by the Bolsheviki in Russia is disposed of, says The Daily Mail Helsingfors correspondent, by a statement of the novelist Kuprin, who declares that Chaliapine enjoys the title of "First Soviet National Artist." The correspondent adds that the report is that Chaliapine resides in his own house in Moscow, and arranges concert tours for which he receives large amounts of money.

REALTY MAN A SUICIDE.

Brother Finds William C. Stewart Dead in His Office.

Made despondent by illness, William C. Stewart, 62 years old, a realty operator, living on Front Avenue, near Palmer Street, Bronxville, West, shot himself with a revolver in his offices, at 1 East Forty-second Street, last night.

David Stewart, a brother, was in another room when he heard the shot. He opened the door and found his brother dead. Mr. Stewart retired from the firm a year ago, but re-entered business, ostensibly to forget his illness. He was married.

Death for Five More Negroes.

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 4.—The quick disposal of the trials of negroes concerned in the uprising in the southern part of Phillips County in October continued here today, five negroes being convicted of first-degree murder. The total number convicted since Monday is now eleven. Conviction automatically carries death by electrocution.

SHERMAN INCENSES LABOR CONFERENCE

Some Delegates Favor an Adjournment Because of Attacks in Senate.

CLASH OVER 8-HOUR DAY

Capital and Labor Delegates Further Apart on This Issue Than Any Other.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Incensed at critical remarks of Senator Sherman, of Illinois, in the Senate, several members of the International Labor Conference tonight declared that unless official assurance was forthcoming that the addresses delivered yesterday and today were not representative of the attitude of the Senate, steps might be taken to adjourn the conference or move it elsewhere.

Before the conference met, Senator Sherman launched an attack on it in the Senate. He said the conference contained "a number of Socialists and also a number of those who go beyond Socialism—radicals, alien firebrands, but a few degrees removed from those who believe in Soviet principles."

Germany had delegates in the conference who were here to "promote industrial mischief," Senator Sherman said, while Japan had delegates planning inroads on American industry.

Senator Sherman predicted that the conference would declare against the American "open shop" and subject the United States to economic boycott if the decrees of the conference were not observed.

While Senator Sherman's remarks were barely mentioned in the conference hall, delegates freely discussed the matter among themselves, and several declared their willingness to leave Washington. Conference officials, however, are making an effort to smooth out the difficulty and to avoid any break.

Advocates of a forty-eight-hour week, which is favored by the report of the Organizing Committee, clashed today with defenders of a straight eight-hour day on the floor of the conference. Opinions of capital and labor delegates on this question are further apart than on any other item of the agenda, members say, and if the conflicting views can be reconciled, speedy agreement on the other issues may be expected.

The debate was opened by George N. Barnes, member of the British War Cabinet and Government delegate to the conference, with a speech in which he indorsed the forty-eight-hour week instead of the straight eight-hour day, because he regarded the former as more "elastic" and capable of being put into effect more readily by all countries. Mr. Barnes, after his address, moved that the draft convention of the forty-eight-hour week prepared by the Organizing Committee be adopted by the conference as the basis of discussion, but that the question of its application to tropical and industrially undeveloped countries be referred to a committee for consideration and report.

Immediate protest against this motion was raised by F. M. Draper, Canadian Labor delegate, who declared that Mr. Barnes's proposal would shut out consideration of the eight-hour day. Léon Jouhaux, French Labor leader, joined Mr. Draper's protest and added that the forty-eight-hour week was only "an incident of the principle of the eight-hour day."

Louis Guérin, representing French employers, wanted the question referred to a commission, as the other items of the agenda had been, while D. S. Majoribanks, British capital delegate, suggested that debate on the question be adjourned for twenty-four hours. The conference finally adjourned until 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, but over the protest of Gino Baldesi, Italian Labor delegate, who declared that every time a difference of opinion arose in the conference some one moved to adjourn.

The conference approved the appointment of commissions to undertake a study and report on all the questions before the conference except the eight-hour day.

By a vote of 5 to 1 the Committee on Admission of New Nations decided to recommend that all countries requesting admission be accepted as members of the International Labor Organization. Canada voted against the proposal.

In accordance with this decision the committee recommended the admission of Finland. As Luxemburg, Santo Domingo, and Mexico have not officially requested admission to the conference, the committee recommended that no action be taken on the matter of admitting them.

AID FOR WORKING MOTHERS.

Women's Labor Congress Debates Schemes for Maternity Benefits.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Legislation extending financial assistance to mothers and exempting them from labor for a period of six weeks before and after child birth was indorsed today by the International Congress of Working Women. Consideration of laws proposed and those already in effect in different countries, led to a long debate.

Suggestions by the French delegation that maternity benefits be extended to all women brought quick disapproval from most of the other representatives, especially those from Italy. An American delegate said the French position was based on the fact that there was a very low birth rate in that country, while that of the Italian representative resulted from the high birth rate in Italy.

A proposal by a British delegate that payment be made on a basis of income aroused immediate protest, many delegates insisting that this was "unthinkable" as it would force women to the "humiliation" of admitting their actual income.

OFFERS TO ARBITRATE SHIP SALES TO DUTCH

Germany's Answer to the Protest of the Allied and Associated Powers.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 4.—Germany has replied to the Interallied note demanding the surrender to the allied and associated powers of German ships turned over during the war to shipping companies in The Netherlands which are at present in German ports. Germany offers to arbitrate the question.

"Purely guided by proper regard for the rights of neutrals," says the German note, "we are ready to submit to an arbitral decision based on an agreement between the allied and associated powers and The Netherlands, even should this decision be contrary to our views."

The allied note to Germany declared that the sale of five German vessels in 1915 and 1916 by the Hamburg-American Line and the Cosmos Line to Dutch shipping companies was irregular in that Germany had been reminded frequently that the transfer of tonnage to neutrals by Germany during the war could not be recognized.

Want Franz as Magyar King After a Period of Tutoring

BERLIN, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—A dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung from Budapest reports that the crisis in regard to the formation of a government there has been overcome by a compromise between the Royalists and the Republicans, which will eventually bring the son of the former Emperor and King, Carl, to the throne of Hungary. Ex-King Carl will be asked to make a new and formal declaration, renouncing his rights to the Iron Crown of Hungary.

His oldest son, Franz, will then be brought to Budapest, where he will be thoroughly tutored in Magyar traditions, the State Council in the meantime assuming power under a sort of regency. The new constitution will be patterned after the English model.

DR. SATTERLEE UNDER KNIFE FOR SIXTH TIME

Radiologist's Right Hand Again Operated On to Prevent Spread of Cancerous Growth.

Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee of 216 Percy Street, Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Herbert L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. His physicians have advised the amputation of his arm, but he is reluctant to consent until absolutely convinced of the necessity.

Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist and was one of the pioneers in the development of X-ray photography for surgical use, and it is believed by the surgeons that the cancer, which started in the second finger, was caused by burns he received in his work years ago before the dangers of the powerful light were fully appreciated.

The first two operations were of a skin-grafting nature. That was three years ago, when the trouble first appeared. Then Dr. Robert Abbe of 13 West Fiftieth Street removed one by one all three joints of the second finger, operating on three separate occasions. Since the last of these amputations two years ago the growth did not bother Dr Satterlee until recently.

12 ARE KILLED, 30 HURT IN WRECK NEAR PARIS

Simplon Express, Standing Between Pont-sur-Yonne and Sens, Hit by Another Train.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Twelve persons were killed and about thirty were injured when a train bound for Geneva ran into the Simplon Express, at 10 o'clock last night, while the latter was at a standstill between Pont-sur-Yonne and Sens, (about sixty miles southeast of Paris.)

The authorities have gone to the scene of the wreck.

HONORS FOR FRENCH DEAD.

State Ceremonies on All Saints' Day for Those Who Fell in War.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The first All Saints' today of notable tributes to the memory Day after the war was the occasion of, those who had died for France in the great struggle. Despite the weather, which was cold, misty, and generally dismal, the cemeteries about the city were crowded with people covering with flowers the stones that had been raised in honor of the dead. President Poincaré, Mme. Poincaré, and the members of the Municipal Council paid visits to the cemeteries at Bagneaux, Ivry, and Pantin, where they placed wreaths on the various monuments. In addition, thousands of travelers crowded the trains on the northern and eastern lines yesterday for visits to the graves of relatives or friends buried in the cemeteries at the front.

In Paris there was a touching ceremony in honor of the orphaned wards of the nation, held at the Sorbonne in the presence of a large assemblage and presided over by President Poincaré. One hundred of the little ones were grouped in the front rows of seats, typifying the great army of war orphans for whom the nation is caring. Speeches were delivered by Marshal Foch, ex-Premier Viviani, Léon Bourgeois and others. The final speaker was President Poincaré, whose impressive words stirred the audience deeply. Addressing the little orphans, he said:

"If your fathers died, it was that France might live and that you might live free to be worthy of your sires and to preserve the life of your country."

HAMPER BOSTON RECRUITING.

Organized Obstruction Attributed by Army Officers to Reds.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—An organized and systematic endeavor is being made against recruiting activities in this vicinity, according to Major F. B. Shaw and his assistants in the Boston recruiting service. The army officers are firm in the belief that this opposition is of Bolshevist origin.

Some weeks ago the recruiting station at 3 Tremont Row received a threatening letter from some person who signed himself "Friend of Liberty." While none of the acts of violence promised have been undertaken, so far as is known, men inclined to enlist have been constantly intercepted by others who claimed to be former soldiers and who assured the prospective recruits that the promise to send them to France was false, and that the army was seeking to inveigle men into the service to send them to Siberia and Silesia.

One Russian was caught in the act of spreading this kind of talk. The recruiting soldier who captured him took the law into his own hands and gave him a sound beating.

It is openly stated that the radicals are at work in Boston advocating the overthrow of all law and organized government. They are spreading their propaganda with no great effort at secrecy. The trail of their activities leads not alone into the homes of the foreign elements, but into the Back Bay district as well, where the "parlor" species of Red is sometimes found.

Hundreds in this community are following the teachings of Lenin and Trotsky and are bending their efforts, it is said, toward the radical labor element and the negroes. Newspapers, books, pamphlets and other material containing revolutionary appeals are being sold.

Expect Break in Tennessee Miners.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4.—Coal operators of District 19 today predicted that within a few weeks 75 per cent. of the miners in the Tennessee-Kentucky field would return to work. They conceded, however, that 100 per cent. of the men were on strike.

Berlin Strikers Issue an Ultimatum.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The striking metal workers today issued a forty-eight-hour ultimatum to the employers to meet their demands and at the same time issued an appeal to all metal workers to join in a general strike if the employers fail to comply.

Strike Cuts Off Dresden's Food.

DRESDEN, Nov. 3 (Associated Press)—Shipping and transport workers here went on strike this morning. Food supplies of the city are cut off by the strike.

CLEMENCEAU BIDS WORLD TO WORK

His Strasbourg Speech an Appeal to All Nations to Speed Production.

PLAIN WARNING TO REDS

"It Is Between Them and Us a Question of Force," the Premier Declares.

TELLS HIS FAITH IN ALLIES

American and England, He Predicts, Will Not Grudge Financial Aid to France.

STRASBOURG, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The solution of the many problems the world is now facing may be summarized in the single word "work," according to the declaration made by Premier Clemenceau in his keynote speech for the Government party in the Parliamentary election campaign, delivered here today.

The speech was also the farewell message of the aged Prime Minister on the eve of the retirement from political life which he contemplates.

The Premier said his address was not a message meant for France alone, but an appeal to the entire world to renew its labors as they had been performed before the war and produce for the world's needs.

M. Clemenceau briefly reviewed the Treaty of Versailles and said that, although France had been apparently parsimoniously treated as to reparations, he hoped confidently that the Allies had not abandoned her. He said that England and America had not bargained for their blood and would not grudge financial help to France.

After felicitating the people on the disappearance of Prussian militarism and the return to France of Alsace-Lorraine he said the Peace Treaty was a diplomatic instrument without precedent in the history of the world. He praised the French republic, which, he said, with the aid of its valiant allies, had saved civilization for the world.

Dealing with social equality, M. Clemenceau declared that workmen had rights which it was their due to have respected, but that they also were bound to respect the rights of others. The factory workman was not the only one of these. There was also the farmer, who would not admit of an appeal for disorganization of work and relaxation in production with the aim of keeping society in terror by violence. The Premier pointed out that the interests of the farmers and the workmen were the same, and added that those who did not desire accord "are the ones who openly are seeking the establishment of Bolshevism.

"It is between them, and us a question of force," the Premier continued, "since in demanding liberty for themselves they are pretending to impose upon us a dictatorship of absolutism."

M. Clemenceau asserted that loyal Frenchmen, working in unison, would be strong enough to erect an impassable bulwark against disturbers.

Practically the entire intellectual, religious, and military world in Alsace was represented at the function, which was most impressive. Admission to the hall was limited, but a crowd of 5,000 stood outside. Nosler welcomes may have been accorded other speakers, but none which the correspondent has witnessed has shown deeper feeling than the welcome which greeted "the liberator of Alsace," as Alexandre Millerand, the Governor of Alsace, introduced him.

The Premier, who reached the city at 9 A. M., was met by M. Millerand and other notables and was cheered by thousands of the populace as he passed before the guard drawn up in his honor. A picturesque feature was furnished by Alsatian girls in national costumes throwing flowers as the Premier went by.

"This is one of the greatest days of my life," the Premier exclaimed. "It was worth living for. Now I know I have not lived in vain."

Brushing aside M. Millerand and others near him, the 78-year-old Premier mingled with the crowds of Alsatians who had broken through the cordon formed by the police, who were not too insistent in keeping them back. Pretty girls virtually mobbed the "Grand Old Man" of France, who gave every appearance of enjoying the experience immensely. The girls and women welcomed him in the Alsatian dialect, which the Premier does not understand, but their resounding kisses on his weather-beaten cheeks needed no interpreter.

FRENCH ANTI-RED GROUPS.

Several Factions Develop in the Union Against Bolshevism.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The union of all Republican parties for the campaign against Bolshevism and extreme radicalism in the coming elections has already divided into groups, depending upon the relative conservatism of the members. The first group, called the Republican bloc, does not admit an extension of the movement to include candidates from the Right. Its leaders are members of Parliament who were opposed to Premier Clemenceau, and it includes in its membership the anti-Clerical group.

The second faction admits to its ranks all Republicans, including Nationalists and Liberals, and its members, while acknowledging that the Church disestablishment laws and those secularizing the schools must remain unchanged, renounce all religious intolerance.

Several other parties have been created for the election, among the prominent ones being the New Democracy Party and that known as the Action Française.

Nearly all the tickets reserve places for veterans of the great war, and in some districts the veterans have even put up special tickets. The Socialists have placed on their tickets only those members of Parliament who have taken a definite position in favor of non-interference in Russia and of the Soviet Government. Dissident Socialists, who voted in favor of the treaty of peace or have not taken a stand in favor of the Bolsheviki, have been accepted in many instances as candidates of the Left Republicans.

Sleeping Sickness Case Unchanged.

The condition of Mrs. Dora Hinz of 740 Trinity Avenue, the Bronx, who is ill at the Willard Parker Hospital with what is described as sleeping sickness, was said yesterday morning to be unchanged.

SYRACUSE TAKES MEASURE OF RUTGERS HANDILY IN STRUGGLE ON POLO GROUNDS GRIDIRON

SYRACUSE DEFEATS RUTGERS BY 14 TO 0

Up-Staters Outclass New Jersey College Eleven in Game at the Polo Grounds.

TRICK PLAY FOOLS GARNET

Combined Lateral and Forward Passes Catch Foster Sanford's Team Off Guard.

Rutgers College failed to stop the football team of Syracuse University at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, losing a quickly played and rather perfunctory game by the score of 14 to 0. The two touchdowns and goals did not begin to tell the difference in the strength of the two elevens, for the scarlet-jerseyed men from New Brunswick were outclassed all the way, in spite of the fact that Syracuse did not score until the second half.

The one weakness displayed by Buck O'Neill's up-Staters was a tendency to fumble, and it was only through this that Rutgers figured as a contender at any time. At that the ball was almost continually in the losers' territory, and with the exception of a long run made by Duffy after an intercepted forward pass Foster Sanford's charges never gave the slightest hint of an impending score.

Syracuse had three chances to try for field goals, one of them from inside the 25-yard line, and none of the three missed by large margins. Her first touchdown came as the result of a perfectly executed trick play, ending in a forward pass, with not a soul to interfere with Schwarzer's catching of the ball and crossing the goal line. The second completed a series of steady gains from midfield, after an ill-advised on-side kick had presented the winners with the ball.

Rutgers Weak on Offense.

The much-heralded attack of the Rutgers eleven turned out to be an absolute nonentity. Sanford's men were well drilled in defensive play, and game to the core, but they showed nothing that remotely resembled a reliable scheme for gaining ground. They played mostly straight football, depending upon the strength of the man with the ball to carry him past the line of scrimmage. This was varied by an occasional whirligig formation similar to the old-fashioned turtle-back, a concealed pass, or a quarter back kick of the almost obsolete kind, which yesterday led only to disaster.

Even when the score stood 7 to 0 and 14 to 0 against them, with everything to gain and nothing to lose, the Rutgers warriors stuck to their "safety first" policy, uncovering nothing in the way of tricks or effective forward passes and pounding away in stubborn hopelessness against a line infinitely superior to their own. If the Rutgers team knows any offensive football it gave no indication of it yesterday.

In every department of play the New Yorkers were more impressive, even on defense. Rutgers made only two first downs in the entire game, as against seven by Syracuse, exclusive of the plays on which the touchdowns were made. Syracuse completed four out of eight forward passes, one of which resulted in a score, whereas Rutgers tried four and completed only one. In five punts, well distributed throughout the game, Ackley of Syracuse outkicked Baker of Rutgers by a wide margin, although the latter was called upon no less than twelve times to lift the ball out of danger. With the lone exception of Duffy's brilliant run to midfield, every gain of more than moderate length was credited to the Syracuse side.

Duffy, of whom nothing much had been said before, proved the hero of the beaten team. He was the only back who could pierce the Syracuse line for any appreciable distance, and it was his individual work that brought a first down early in the second quarter. Duffy also performed valiantly on defense, and contributed the most spectacular run of the game after intercepting a forward pass near his own goal line.

Captain Garrett played some good football, chiefly of a defensive kind, while Gardner and Storck were valuable in the Rutgers backfield, and Mount in the line.

Ackley Stars for Syracuse.

On the Syracuse side it was difficult to pick a star, as every man proved himself a master of his position. Ackley probably possessed the greatest all-around value, for he punted magnificently, besides throwing most of the forward passes, running back kicks, and generally directing the play of his team in a highly efficient manner.

All three of the other Syracuse backs, Abbott, Fallon, and Erwig, showed unusual ground-gaining ability, Schwarzer was a wizard at receiving forward passes, and the entire line formed a stone wall, both against the assaults of Rutgers and as a protection for their own backfield on offense. It was the impenetrability of the line that largely explained the ease with which Syracuse worked her winning trick when she needed it.

This play depended upon a lateral pass for its success, and was foretold in the first half by a similar formation which, while it went wrong, practically guaranteed success for the later variation. Abbott started it with what seemed a run around left end, but tossed the ball back to Ackley just when he was about to be tackled. Ackley's share in the play was a long forward pass to one of the waiting ends down the field. The first time he sent the ball straight down on the left side, and it was intercepted by Baker, backing up the Rutgers line. The second time, however, the pass traveled diagonally across to the right, where Schwarzer lurked without a sign of a guardian. A third variation of the lateral pass, disclosed in the final quarter, produced a twenty-yard end run, which helped considerably toward the second touchdown. On the whole, it seemed a formula worth knowing.

Up to the time of the first touchdown it had been a dull and commonplace game of football. Fallon had made a first down for Syracuse in three plunges after winning the toss and receiving Raub's kick-off. The opening exchanges of punts indicated the tremendous advantage that Syracuse was to enjoy in this department.

Ackly's first forward pass to Schwarzer was smeared by Baker, who temporarily laid off the end in the process. But the next attempt, Abbott to Erwig, was good for a thirty-five yard advance. Fallon negotiated another first down, but the march to a touchdown was stopped by Abbott's fumble, Storck falling on the ball for Rutgers.

Misses Field Goal.

Early in the second quarter, Brown had a chance to try a placement kick from about mid-field. The ball was teed up as if for a kick-off, and carried for plenty of distance, but to the left of the posts.

Rutgers took the ball on downs, after an unsuccessful forward pass, when the Syracuse attack had become threatening again. When Baker was forced to punt, Ackly was given the benefit of a very uncertain signal for a fair catch, being presented with a fifteen yard penalty when Garrett tackled him.

Then came the first trial of the lateral pass formation, Baker getting the ball by close guarding. But Storck's answering forward pass was intercepted by Gulick, and when Ackly tried another long one it fell to the ground uncaught.

A second placement kick from midfield, with Ackley supplying the motive power, also traveled to one side of the goal posts, and after the ball had been brought out Duffy gave Rutgers her only first down of the half.

Soon after the resumption of hostilities, Syracuse, having escaped from two successive fumbles, apparently made up its mind to score. Erwig dashed around right end for seven yards, after which the successful combination of lateral and forward pass was launched from the Rutgers 40-yard line, resulting in an easy touchdown for Schwarzer. Ackley kicked the goal.

A tremendous punt by the same player, after the receipt of the kick-off, put Rutgers immediately on the defensive again. Baker's return scarcely carried to midfield, and another forward pass, Ackley to Schwarzer, brought the goal-posts within easy reach. But Ackley's attempt at a field goal, from about the 20-yard line, failed again.

Duffy Makes Long Run.

Erwig's fine catch of a forward pass, after a good run-back of Baker's punt, put the ball on the Rutgers 12-yard line, and once more a touchdown seemed imminent. This time Duffy intercepted a spiral toss in the very shadow of his goal, and raced past midfield before being tackled from behind by Erwig. Baker's attempted on-side kick, which went out of bounds a few yards beyond the scrimmage line, sacrificed whatever advantage Rutgers might have gained by this sensational run.

The last quarter began with Syracuse again in the mood for a quick score. Abbott got a first down around left end, and the lateral pass worked again for more than twenty yards, Erwig taking the ball from Abbott and being stopped by Scudder on the 14-yard line. Fallon hit the Rutgers line three times in succession for another first down, but three more attempts failed to complete the score. With only one down left, Erwig forced his way through the centre and across the line. Ackley punted out successfully to Fallon and then kicked the goal.

Rutgers finally completed a forward pass, Storck to Redmond, but it gained only nine yards. Gardner made it a first down and Storck was hurt and had to be carried off the field after the next play. Another on-side kick accomplished nothing, and two attempted forward passes were grounded. The Rutgers version of the lateral pass also proved futile. M. Redmond had just time for a low punt and the game was over.

The 10,000 spectators in the stands were loud in their applause of the courageous battle put up by Rutgers against overwhelming odds, but it was generally agreed that the Syracuse team looked like one of the best of the season.

The lineup:

VICTORY FOR GRACE WORTHY

Morris's Mare Wins Again in Speedway Trotting Races.

Grace Worthy, J. J. Morris's brown mare, scored her second victory in the fourth of the series of New York Drivers' Association trotting races at the Speedway yesterday. The races had been postponed from Sunday because of the weather. Grace Worthy did not win without a struggle. In fact, she did no score her victory until the last two heats of a four-heat race. Three of the four horses which competed in the 1:08 trot scored wins in the different heats. The summaries:

COSGROVE AND BARTON WIN.

Score Victories in Billiard Tournaments at Doyle's Academy.

In the three-cushion tournament at John Doyle's Academy last night Joseph Cosgrove defeated Charles Adair by a score of 25 to 15 in thirty-six innings. Adair is a particularly strong amateur player, and his defeat occasioned some surprise, although Cosgrove is rated as one of the best carrom billiardists on Washington Heights.

In the pocket billiard tourney George Barton defeated B. A. Howe by a score of 50 to 27. Howe was beaten chiefly because of a run of 21 balls by Barton. Barton is a spectacular player, and he was at his best last night. Things broke nicely for him, and he made several difficult combinations and kiss shots.

SOCCER ELEVENS IN TIE.

Crescent A. C. and Staten Island Teams Score One Goal Apiece.

Meeting in a championship fixture of the Field Club Soccer League on the grounds of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Ridge, the elevens of the Crescent A. C. and Staten Island Football Club battled for an hour and twenty minutes to a tie yesterday. Each side scored one goal.

Fifteen minutes from the start Messinger, inside left on the home team, took a pass from Waters on the right and drove the ball into Staten Island's net. The visitors evened up the score five minutes later, when Rae cleared partially and Menzies got possession, shooting the goal that deprived the Brooklynites of victory.

Class C Billiards Play Tonight.

The Class C 18-2 balkline billiard tournament, to be held under the auspices of the A. A. B. A. for the championship of the metropolitan district, will begin at Fuller's Academy, 110th Street and Broadway, tonight with seven strong players entered. The winner of the Class D tourney at Canfield's will be eligible to start. Besides him, C. J. Wackerow, A. R. Macy, Dr. C. W. Tuggle, Cyril Sloan, Nelson Mayo, and J. A. Lange will compete. Wackerow and Dr. Tuggle will meet in the first game tonight.

TRINITY IS SWAMPED BY VIOLET ELEVEN

New York University Gets Six Touchdowns and Defeats Hartford Collegians, 39 to 0.

The New York University football eleven woke up to its own possibilities at Ohio Field yesterday afternoon and buried Trinity under a 39 to 0 score. The Violet ran wild through the Hartford collegians and scored without trouble in every period. They scored three touchdowns in the second period and one in each of the others. Weinheimer, Captain Howard Cann, Tyne, and Cohen were the N. Y. U. players who furnished the propelling power, and time and again they swept past the Trinity wings, ripped big holes through the tackles, and kept the Connecticut players in a constant state of worry with an accurately manipulated forward pass.

The Trinity eleven was a much lighter team than N. Y. U., and at no time during the game were the visitors able to get an attack working against the Violet. Trinity's little quarter back, Lynch, succumbed to the hard attack of the New York eleven early in the game and had to leave the game when a knock in the head left him so dazed that he couldn't bark out the signals. Trinity fought hard and gamely right up to the end. At one time in the third period the scrimmage was so spirited that Storey of N. Y. U. and Pearce of Trinity became gaily mixed up in a little side play at fisticuffs, so they were both taken out of the game to get cooled off.

A good-sized crowd turned out, and had more chance to cheer and yell than a N. Y. U. gathering has had for several seasons. Among the spectators were the members of the Columbia eleven, who got a fine idea of the bruising attack which they will try to stop later in the season. The Violet eleven showed great improvement and displayed a forward pass which will make trouble for any team. Captain Cann took care of the punting and he got his kicks away well and for good distances. The team shows the results of coaching and the feeling now runs high among the N. Y. U. followers that there is a big surprise in store for the Blue and White when these two local elevens clash for their annual football revel.

Violet Scores Quickly.

New York University lost no time in trying out its strength. Johnson kicked off to Weinheimer at the start and the Violet half back ran the ball back 25 yards before he was downed. The Trinity line withstood the opening New York University attack and Cann punted. Trinity failed to gain and kicked. Behind compact interference, Weinheimer jammed through the left side of the Trinity line for a 30-yard gallop. Tyne ripped off a 10-yard plunge and Cann tossed a pretty forward pass to Weinheimer. This brought the ball to the 10-yard line and a plunge by Tyne brought the ball to the 5-yard mark. Two plunges by Cohen brought the ball over for the first touchdown, Cann failing to kick the goal.

The Violet broke loose on a busy scoring session in the second period. Trinity's attempts to advance the ball were hopeless and Bruce punted. New York University took the ball on the 40-yard line and marched straight down the field and carried the ball over for a touchdown in about ten plays. Cann, Tyne, Weinheimer, and Cohen did the rushing and not once was the Trinity defense able to stop them. Cohen carried the ball over from the 3-yard line and Cann kicked the goal, making the score 13 to 0.

Two perfectly timed forward passes made it possible for New York University to score its next touchdown. Cann tossed one to Cohen which netted the Violet 20 yards and this play was followed up with another long pass which Cann tossed to Weinheimer, who caught the ball on the 10-yard line and rushed over for another score. Cann again kicked the goal and the score was 20 to 0. Another forward pass, Cann to Jackson, brought the ball within striking distance of Trinity's goal and plunges by Weinheimer and Cohen brought the ball over again, Cann kicking the goal. The score at the end of the second period was 27 to 0.

Forward Passes Work Well.

As the game progressed Cann became more and more deadly in throwing the forward pass. His tosses were long and straight, and none of them went wild. In the third period he chucked one to Gilloon which netted eighteen yards, and then Weinheimer tried his skill at the pass and tossed one to Cann, who tore along through the Trinity team until he reached the 5-yard line. Cohen again carried the ball over for a touchdown, and Cann missed the goal.

It was during this scrimmage, when Cohen jammed through the right side of the Trinity line for the score, that Storey and Pearce became entangled in a spirited argument. Umpire Ed Thorpe was peacemaker and quelled the uprising before any damage was done.

The N. Y. U. players were pretty well tired out after this period, and Trinity gamely held them off for a great part of the final period. The Violet backs were unable to tear through with their accustomed ease, and Weinheimer attempted a field goal from the 30-yard line. The kick was blocked and the ball rolled wild. Brinn of N. Y. U. recovered the pigskin on Trinity's 5-yard line. Weinheimer took the ball and in a terrific charge swept the Trinity line asunder and went over for the last score of the game. Cann had retired to the side lines, pretty well tired out, and Weinheimer attempted to kick the goal, but the ball went wide.

The lineup:

COLGATE TO START SUBS.

Trains Second Team in Preparation for Rochester Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 4.—In spite of the hot day, the Colgate football squad held a light practice this afternoon. Most of the 'Varsity were in togs, but the coaches ordered them to the showers after a short, fast signal drill, which lasted about half an hour. The coaching staff plans tomorrow to undertake direct preparation for the Syracuse game.

This afternoon the staff continued preparations for the Rochester game Saturday by giving the second string men a stiff workout. The coaches fear to keep all their 'Varsity men out of the game, as Rochester has a comparatively strong team. Nevertheless, they have set about picking a complete second team and lined up a tentative one today against the third team. The scrimmage that resulted was fast and furious with the third team on the offensive. The second team held the third and did not permit the latter to make a score, which pleased the coaches. The coaches kept the second team on the defensive, because of the skillful and swift aerial attack that Rochester is known to have.

FIELD GOAL WINS FOR ERASMUS HALL

Wally Chandler's good right foot saved the day for Erasmus Hall High School's football eleven yesterday in a clash with Manual Training High School in their annual gridiron meeting at Ebbets Field. Erasmus Hall, after its hardest struggle of the current season, eked out a victory over the Blue and Gold players by a margin of 3 to 0. Chandler, substituting for Hartell, lifted a field goal over the cross bar from Manual Training's 40-yard line about the middle of the final period, and gave the Buff and Blue the spoils of the day. Immediately after his task was completed, Chandler was taken out of the fracas, and Witmer went to the backfield.

A crowd of about 5,000, the largest that has witnessed a scholastic gridiron struggle this season, attended the game. The majority were Buff and Blue partisans on the scene to see their team ride roughshod over Manual Training's Blue and Gold clad athletes. The latter organization had scored but one victory in four games this season, while Erasmus Hall had compiled an unblemished record of four straight successes.

Three passes were intercepted soon after the start of the final period, the Buff and Blue losing twice by the aerial game. A fumble then gave Erasmus Hall the ball on the Blue and Gold 45-yard line. Wardell shot a 15-yard pass to Boohecker, who raced fifteen yards before being downed on Manual Training's 15-yard line. At this point Chandler was sent in from the side lines, but he failed to report to the referee, and a 15-yard penalty was inflicted on Erasmus Hall. After an incompleted forward pass Chandler dropped back to the 40-yard line and kicked the goal which brought victory to the Buff and Blue.

The lineup:

ERASMUS HALL (3)		MAN. TRAINING (0).
Washington	L. E.	Baclie
Bonomo	L. T.	Boenan
Ruch	L. G.	Hodgskin
Wyckoff	C.	Greene

McMullen	R. E.	Kelly
Boohecker	Q. B.	Pease
Wardell	L. H. B.	Martin
Berry	R. H. B.	Tobie
Hassnoot	F. B.	Reynolds

Goal from field—Chandler.

Substitutions—Erasmus Hall: Teague for Bonomo, Freidman for McMullen, Bonomo for Teague, Hartell for Berry, Chandler for Hartell, Witmer for Chandler. Manual Training: Blake for Martin, Beattie for Reynolds, Reynolds for Beattie.

Referee—R. J. Shearer, Dickinson College. Umpire—E. H. Hastings, Cornell. Linesman—A. Mainer, Springfield College. Time of periods—Ten minutes.

COMMERCIAL BEATS BOYS'.

Wins by 7 to 6 When Conroy Fails to Kick Goal.

The surprise of the season in Brooklyn scholastic football was provided yesterday when the Commercial High School eleven triumphed over the strong Boys' High School team in a close and exciting tussle on Commercial's gridiron, by a score of 7 to 6. The Commercial lads, showing a varied attack, kept their rivals on the defensive throughout the first half, but the team lacked the necessary strength to break through the Boys' defense for a score. The Boys' eleven was several times forced to fight grimly in defense of their goal line, when Commercial seemed on the verge of a score.

In the third quarter Commercial discarded its ground attack and resorted to the forward pass. Soon after the period started a pass and a crash through centre brought the ball to Boys' 15-yard line. Another forward pass was attempted which was intercepted by Weil and rushed back to midfield. The play was declared illegal, however, and the ball brought back. Grieves crashed through centre for a gain of three yards and on the next play Rube Hassel made up the remaining twelve yards on a dash around right tackle. Grieves's kick sailed straight and true over the crossbar.

Boys' redoubled its efforts thereafter. The Commercial line showed a strong defense, however, and the margin was held safely until within a few minutes of the end of the game, when Commercial threatened to weaken. Boys' got the ball to its opponents' 5-yard line, where it was held for downs. Grieves's punt from behind the goal line was brought back to the 17-yard line by Weiner, and then a 15-yard penalty was inflicted on Commercial, advancing the Boys' ball to within two yards of their rivals' goal. Dickman went over for a touchdown on the first play, but Conroy's attempt at goal went wide of the mark.

The lineup:

COMMERCIAL, (7.)		BOYS' HIGH, (6.)
Bernstein	L. E.	Conroy
Talmadge	L. T.	Schaap
Starbin	L. G.	Calman

COMMERCIAL H. S. WINS.

Cross-Country Team Has Low Total in Brooklyn Run.

Commercial High School's cross-country runners triumphed yesterday in the triangular scholastic hill and dale race conducted in Brooklyn over the Prospect Park course of about three miles. Representatives of this school compiled the winning low total of 30 points. Bushwick High School's team finished second with 37 tallies and Boys' High School was third with 47 markers.

William Peak and Jack Mulaney led the Commercial quintet to victory in a field of twenty-five starters. These two youngsters, showing surprising ability, were in front of the pack for the greater part of the distance. Peak was the stronger, and with a burst of speed near the finish line, led his schoolmate to the tape by about fifteen yards. Peak covered the trying course in 18:13.

Peak, Mulaney and Casey Wiggins, the last named of Boys' High School, had a three-cornered battle for the leadership in the early stages of the race, but as the field entered the climb of Lookout Mountain Wiggins turned on his ankle and was forced to retire. With the elimination of Wiggins, Craven of Bushwick High School, came along and carried off third laurels.

The order of finish follows:

Pos. Name and School.	Time.
1—Peak, Commercial	18:13
2—Mulaney, Commercial	18:17
3—Craven, Bushwick	18:27
4—Rosenblum, Commercial	18:33

No Chance for Penn-Yale Game Now, State Officials

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4.—No hope of a Yale University-Pennsylvania football game in the future is held out by either Professor Clarence W. Mendell, Chairman of the Athletic Board of Control, or Dr. Albert Sharpe, the new athletic director. Both stated that Yale's schedule was as heavy as they believed it could be made, especially if plans for a Yale-West Point game were perfected. Yale last Spring suggested a game with the army, believing that if the West Point team came here the attendance would completely fill the bowl. Colonel Robert M. Danford, who had charge of the Yale artillery battalion for two years just before America's entry into the war, is now Commandant at West Point. The place for the proposed Yale-Army game is uncertain, but it is not impossible that Yale will go to West Point for the match.

HARVARD TRIES NEW PLAYS.

'Varsity Indulges in Long Workout for Game with Tigers.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 4.—The Harvard Stadium was a busy place again today. Conditions on the field did not favor the workout Bob Fisher had planned for the team he is going to take to Princeton this week, but he went through with the program, nevertheless. The drill included not only a very thorough session between the 'Varsity and the substitutes, but also a few minutes of the hardest sort of play between the regulars and the scrubs. Today the second team, which heretofore has been showing the 'Varsity some of the Tigers' plays, was entirely on the defensive, the regulars turning loose some new wrinkles on attack.

Harvard to date has not shown much that has not been seen in games of other years, but this Fall has been working out a few additional plays for its running game. There wasn't any scoring in the scrimmage. The 'Varsity lined up as it did yesterday, both Sedgwick and Hubbard being in at left tackle. The former has taken hold well since his return, and if he starts the game at Nassau Saturday it will be because of his great speed. Hubbard is more of a plugger than Sedgwick, and is more dependable. He is therefore perhaps more valuable, in the opinion of the coaches, as a player to have on tap. There is no question of his being in the game some time.

Harvard will have every man on the squad in shape on Saturday, according to the verdict passed down today. This means that even Lockwood can be used at tackle if need be. This afternoon two ends, Phinney and Frothingham, were with the substitutes. If Phinney stands the wear and tear of the next two days' work he very likely will get a chance to play against the Tigers. Before he was hurt he was the most dependable end for receiving forward passes, both of the short and long variety.

Humphrey did some good kicking this afternoon and will have the call in the big game. Ralph Horween was active today, and it is proposed to send him out for some actual football tomorrow.

Captain Murray is working with the same back field that has been used since the middle of last week. Casey, Burnham and Humphrey are getting together splendidly. The combination is light, averaging only a little more than 170 pounds. A. Horween continued at centre with the substitutes, and if he is going to be tuned up for backfield work again this will have to be done in a hurry.

YALE IN LONG SCRIMMAGE.

'Varsity Football Team Is Coached in Defense for the Forward Pass.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4.—Tested for endurance and defense, the Yale football eleven was sent through forty minutes scrimmaging this afternoon, twenty-five of which was devoted to trying out the ability of the team to handle forward passes. Marked improvement was shown in the forward pass defense. The scrubs were unable to gain a first down through this ruse, although they completed four tosses.

During the fifteen minute period, which was devoted to developing the attack, the 'Varsity scored twice. Jim Braden, who today went to fullback for the first time since the Boston College game, registered the first touchdown when he picked up a blocked punt behind the scrub goal and touched it down. Tackle Leon Walker blocked Jones's kick, the scrub team fullback, who had attempted to punt behind his own goal after the 'Varsity had driven the scrubs back in an exchange of kicks.

Five minutes later the 'Varsity had again rushed the ball forty yards in short line plunges to the scrub's five-yard mark, where Donald Welles smashed through guard for the second and final touchdown.

Welles and the veteran, Chester Laroche, were also promoted to the 'Varsity line-up today, after an absence of three weeks. Herbert Kempton, who has been used throughout the practice for several days, followed the play but did not engage in the scrimmage. Captain Callahan was at centre throughout the scrimmaging, and Acosta and Galt exchanged guard positions. During the second half Fred Graham and Ed. Welles were tried out as the 'Varsity ends.

Ten visiting coaches attested to the response for assistance in giving a punch and sting to the 'Varsity attack. They included Ray Bigtow, Paul Veeder, and Frank Butterworth, the former head coaches, "Cupid" Black, Captain three years ago, and George Moseley, "Pudge" Heffelfinger, Ted Lilley, Douglass Bomeisler, John Field, and Heyliger Church.

DARTMOUTH IN GOOD SHAPE.

Spears Gives Team Stiff Workout—Leave for New York Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 4.—After a day of complete rest the Dartmouth squad took the field this afternoon for a stiff signal workout, which was followed by a short scrimmage. The men that took part in the hard game of last Saturday are in first-class condition.

Coach Spears held his men in the gymnasium for a long talk on plays for the first part of the afternoon, then took them out for a hard workout. It is not the policy of the Dartmouth trainers to slacken up the work of preparation for Pennsylvania, if today's practice can be taken as an indication.

The lay-off of Monday and the fact that the team leaves on Thursday makes the time short in which to work up anything new to be used against the Red and Blue. A departure from the usual training plans for the Dartmouth team was announced by the Athletic Council today. It is planned to have the team leave Hanover on Thursday morning and to stay over night at the New York Athletic Club house at Travers Island. There the men will be given a workout on Friday afternoon.

This is being done because of the fact that, if the team is taken to a New York hotel, there will be too much excitement for the men on the eve of the game. The coaches want no repetition of the season that terminated with the fatal Carlisle game at the Polo Grounds.

DEMPSEY AGREES TO MEET BECKETT

Bout to be Staged at New Orleans March 17—Champion May Also Box Brennan.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 4.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, signed an agreement here today to fight Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight champion, in New Orleans next March 17, according to announcement here tonight by Dominick Tortorich, New Orleans fight promoter. The bout is conditional on Beckett winning his forthcoming fight with Georges Carpentier, the French champion.

An offer of $75,000, to be posted in the form of a certified check, as Jack Dempsey's end for a match to defend his title against Knockout Bill Brennan of New York, was received here tonight from Johnnie Abrams, New Orleans promoter, following an announcement that the world's champion heavyweight had signed an agreement to meet Joe Beckett, the English boxer, on March 17.

The conditions are that Brennan wins his match with Tom McMahon of New Castle, Penn., which is scheduled in New Orleans, Dec. 1, and that Dempsey agrees to meet Brennan during the racing season at New Orleans.

QUAKERS TRY OUT DEFENSE.

Penn Eleven Prepares to Meet Dartmouth's Shift Formation.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Practice on the University of Pennsylvania football field this afternoon was of the most serious nature, behind gates closely guarded. Coach Folwell, in his attempt to increase the scoring power of the team before the big game with Dartmouth Saturday on the Polo Grounds, sent Straus, Pearce, and Derr to the back field, with Captain Bell directing the plays.

Against the scrubs, the 'Varsity was able to put over one touchdown. Joe Straus, whose playing thus far has been indifferent at times, made the score. Today the young Texan tore through the scrubs' line for large gains, finally skirting his right end for the only touchdown put over in the short scrimmaging session. Folwell tried Graves at end in place of Ray Miller and Hopper, who were relegated to the second team with Brunner, the star punter, who appears to be working out a penalty for the poor showing he made against State. Brunner, however, will be needed in the game against the Green on Saturday, as there is no other man in the squad who can punt to any considerable degree.

Ray Miller and Captain Bell both worked out today, but, even in practice, these men cannot get off the long drives that feature Brunner's boots. The quakers showed a strong defense today against the Dartmouth shift, practiced by the scrubs. Coach Allie Miller of the scrubs witnessed the Dartmouth game Saturday and stated that the team is better than the State eleven, which defeated Penn on Saturday.

Light, who has been the Quakers' mainstay on the defensive this Fall, was in togs, but did not take in the work, owing to his injured nose. Lou Little, the tall tackle, was also under a blanket. He had a slight operation performed on his foot, which will keep him out of practice until Thursday. The Penn team will leave for New York on Friday morning.

LINE WORRIES ROPER.

Princeton Coach Tries New Combinations for Harvard Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—Head Coach Roper drilled the Tigers again today behind tightly barred gates. Enough news leaked out, however, to show that the Princeton coaches are making a last desperate bid to round the team into shape and send a lineup against the Crimson next Saturday that will redeem Princeton defeats at the hands of Colgate and West Virginia.

Roper sent the first 'Varsity and the second 'Varsity against each other in a long scrimmage drill, in which he tried out several tentative lineups in an effort to get a line on the team that will meet Harvard. The work of the line against the mountaineers last week was still unsatisfactory, and Roper still says that there are seven line jobs open for the seven men who show up to best advantage in these last three days of practice. Davis's work against the Gold and Blue was of such a brilliant nature that he held down the 'Varsity left end position this afternoon, while Bigton went in at left tackle, pending the return of Stan Keck. Keck was on the field in uniform, but will not get into the hard work until tomorrow or Thursday.

The backfield presents an even greater problem than does the line. With the return of Lourie, Trimble, and Garrity, Roper finds himself confronted with the task of choosing a backfield from some twelve men, all of whom have earned serious consideration. Today's combination consisted of Strubing, Lourie, Trimble and Garrity, the backfield that appeared to such good advantage in the first three contests of the schedule.

After this had been tried out, however, Roper sent in practically every backfield man on the squad. Scheerer, Wilmer, Destefano and Murrey are all brilliant defensive backs, while Scheerer, with his long twisting punts, and Murrey, with his dangerous drop kicks, would balance any running attack and round out a formidable combination. Besides these men, MacPhee and Knox are entitled to close consideration, and Opie is fast returning to his early season form. Surely it will take a wise man to pick the Tiger 'Varsity before it takes the field Saturday afternoon.

NOVICE WINS ROAD RUN.

Saccomano Leads Home Ten Rivals in Pennant A. C. Race.

J. Saccomano, a novice runner of the St. Francis Catholic Union, scored a surprising victory yesterday when he led home ten rivals in the four-mile invitation road race conducted by the Pennant A. C. of the Bronx. Saccomano, racing along with the leaders from the start, suddenly jumped out in front of his rivals about half a mile from the finish, and in a brilliant burst of speed crossed the finish line about fifty yards ahead of J. Horne of the Bronx Church House. The victor's time was 21:25.

The order of finish follows:

J. Saccomano, St. Francis Catholic Union, 21:25; J. Horne, Bronx Church House, 22:05; S. Mazzio, St. Francis Catholic Union, 22:55; W. Mecham, Pennant A. C., 23:13; J. Hotz, Pennant A. C., 23:48; J. Kurtzo, Pennant A. C., 23:50; J. Nydigger, Pennant A. C., 24:27; H. Elias, Pennant A. C., 24:30; A. Ladner, Pennant A. C., 24:45; F. Wolfe, Pennant A. C., 24:51; S. Baker, Pennant A. C., 25:01.

JERSEYMEN WIN AT SOCCER.

Paterson Defeats New York Football Club by a Score of 2 to 1.

Runner-up in both of the big cup competitions of last year, the Paterson Football Club was the attraction in the soccer match at Lenox Oval with the New York Football Club yesterday. The Jerseymen won by 2 goals to 1, after a rattling exhibition of fast play on both sides.

Midway in the first half a long drive by Vandeweghe gave Paterson the lead, which was maintained up to half time. In the midst of a spirited bombardment by Paterson, Bleich, New York's centre forward, equalized the score. With 10 minutes to go, the Jerseymen engineered a breakaway, and Brown, following up well on the left wing, shot the winning point for Paterson.

BENJAMIN PROVES WELLING'S MASTER

California Lightweight Outpoints Chicagoan in Newark—Valger and Dundee Win.

Joe Benjamin, California light weight, who is being advanced as a formidable contender for the title, justified a lot of the nice things that have been said about him last night at the Newark Sportsmen's Club. Benjamin, making his first important appearance since coming East, gave Joe Welling of Chicago a sound thumping in their eight-round bout, which was one of a quartet of contests conducted by the Newark promoters. The Californian, showing an ability which impressed a capacity crowd, carried off the laurels over Welling in five of the eight rounds. Welling earned two, the sixth and seventh, and the eighth was to toss-up, both finishing in a whirlwind of flying fists, in which each accomplished about an equal amount of damage.

Benjamin's showing stamped him as a boxer of the first order. In outpointing the Chicagoan, he accomplished something many other prominent lightweights have failed to do. The Californian showed that he is clever, fast, a quick thinker, a terrific hitter with the right hand, and a tantalizing jabber with the left. All this was demonstrated in the first five rounds. Welling was surprised by the attack of his rival, and his efforts to return it were ineffectual.

The Westerner carried the fighting consistently and several times rocked Welling with heavy right hand blows to the jaw. This was particularly true of the third and fourth rounds, when Welling was shaky in the knees from well directed rights to the jaw. A right hand uppercut near the bell in the fourth made Welling blink, but Benjamin was a trifle slow in following his advantage and Welling heard the welcome clang of the gong.

Leonard Coaches Benjamin.

In the fifth round, Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, who has pronounced Benjamin one of the most likely successors to his title, jumped into the Californian's corner and coached him in battle. Welling started the round with a smashing right to Benjamin's jaw, but the latter bobbed right back with a retaliation. Welling missed several leads then, and Benjamin, getting inside his rival's defense, crashed home two stiff lefts and as many crushing rights which had Welling groggy. Coacher Leonard was like a wild man in the Californian's corner, yelling instructions to "his man." Welling weathered the storm, however, and in the following two rounds came back with a concentrated attack on Benjamin's stomach, which upset the Californian's attack and enabled Welling to carry off the laurels of the two rounds. In the final session both slammed each other hard in a closing rally, which ended about even.

Benny Valger, the French flash, trounced Johnny Drummie of Jersey City in the second eight-round number. Valger, who is clamoring for a match with Johnny Kilbane, belabored Drummie with an assortment of hooks, jabs, swings, and uppercuts from beginning to end of the bout and administered a severe beating to the Jerseyite. Drummie, however, absorbed the punishment without flincing and was always willing to mix matters. Valger earned every round.

Gets Inside Brooklynite's Defense.

The Bronx middleweight solved his rival's style in the second session, however, beating Bartfield to the punch frequently and getting inside the Brooklynite's defense with stiff jolts to the face. Thereafter Ratner's cleverness kept him in the lead in the point of compilation.

Johnny Dundee, the Italian lightweight, scored a surprising victory over Tommy Touhey, the rugged Paterson boxer, in the final bout of the evening. Dundee gained a technical knockout over Touhey, when the referee stopped the match in the fifth round to save Touhey from taking further punishment. This ending to the bout was a surprise, for Touhey was expected to stand before the Italian, particularly since, several weeks ago, the Paterson lad gave the greatest exhibition of gameness ever seen in a New Jersey ring. For four rounds, the milling was hot, with Dundee leading in points, but Touhey always a willing mixer. Soon after the start of the fifth round Dundee floored his rival with a right to the jaw. Touhey regained his feet only to be sent crashing to the canvas again. When the Paterson lad arose this time he was helpless and the referee stopped the match, five seconds before the bell that would have ended the round.

Clason Point Seconds Win.

Clason Point Military Academy's second football team defeated the Morris High School freshmen eleven yesterday on the Clason Point gridiron by the overwhelming score of 91 to 0. The victorious team scored touchdowns in bunches, brushing aside Morris' feeble defensive and making frequent marches down the field. Greene led in the Clason Point scoring, accounting for six touchdowns. J. Reilly scored three and Patterson and Slattery two each. Another was registered by Schwartz. C. Reilly kicked seven goals from touchdown.

NADHERNY TIES NAT LEWIS.

Victory Boosts Him in Play for Class D Billiard Championship.

E. V. Nadherny tied Nat Lewis for the lead in the American Amateur Billiard Association Class D metropolitan straight-rail billiard championship tournament by defeating Louis Baum at Cranfield's Academy last night. The score was 150 to 31. It was just as decisive a beating as the score indicates; in fact, it was a bad night for Baum all around, for he later was defeated by H. V. Hall by a score of 150 to 137.

Nadherny's victory was featured by his steady playing. He was consistent throughout. The fact that he ran 13 points six times during the match gives a pretty good idea of how consistent he was. He made a high run of 18. He averaged 4 18-33. Baum's high run in this game was 5 and his average 31-32.

In the second game, that won by Hall, the winner made two high runs of 14 and had an average of 2 30-60. Baum made high runs of 16 and 12 in the match and averaged 2 15-16.

DUETTISTE WINS MANLY MEMORIAL 'CHASE AT PIMLICO

DUETTISTE LEADS PIMLICO FENCERS

Captures $10,000 Manly Memorial Steeplechase Handicap by Eight Lengths.

LORD BRIGHTON A WINNER

Hildreth's Stable Finally Scores Victory in Forest Park Handicap —Damask Takes Sprint.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 4.—The Manly Memorial Steeplechase Handicap, with a value of $10,000, was won here today by J. E. Widener's Duettiste, which proved that he is quite the best cross-country performer now in training over a distance of two miles and a half. The aged fencer scored an impressive victory, taking the winner's share with an advantage of eight lengths from Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Toppy Nix, while third place went to the Green Stable's Debadou. Duettiste had the race in hand from the time he took command, and won easily despite the fast pace that was set throughout. His victory was popular, for he was the favorite, and had been heavily supported.

The Manly Memorial is the richest of the season's steeplechase events, and accordingly it brought out the cream of the fencers. There were ten starters, and the only notable performer missing was The Brook, that sturdy little horse, which always carries the top weight in all contests he enters. He has not run for several months, but, had he been present today, he would have met with keen competition. Included in the field were Warlock, a consistent performer in Maryland; Barklie, and Brooks, among others. The latter had the highest impost, 155 pounds, while Barklie carried 154, and the winner 153.

The attendance at the Pimlico course was almost as large as on the opening day, owing to the holiday, and the stands were once more crowded to near capacity. The crowd was favored with a clear day, though the track was heavy from overnight rain and favored the mud-larks again.

An Exceptionally Good Race.

The starters in the steeplechase were so well matched that any one had a chance to win, and, as a result, there was a great deal of play for all of them. Toppy Nix, because of his tendency to fall, was one of the long priced entries. The race was exceptionally good, as there were no mishaps, despite the big field. Toppy Nix jumped much better than usual, going to the front at the start and setting the pace for nearly two turns of the field. One time he had stolen a lead of eight lengths. Duettiste was kept under restraint throughout the early running, and Byers did not attempt to move up until he was on the last lap.

By that time Toppy Nix was showing signs of tiring, though still well out in front. Byers began to move up slowly but steadily with Duettiste, until at the last turn, he came abreast of the leader. The pair raced close together for a short distance, and then Duettiste began to draw away and took the last jump several lengths in front of his rival. From that point to the finish, it was just a gallop for him and he seemed fresh when he crossed the line.

Debadou had never been able to get up to better than third position, but Powers rode him hard through the last half of a mile and made the tiring Toppy Nix extend himself to save second place. Warlock, which could not follow the pace at any time, was ten lengths back of the third horse, and was lapped with Weldship at the finish. The others were outrun at all times, Brooks and Barklie in particular failing to show their usual speed in this high-class company.

Hildreth Lands a Winner.

The fortunes of Sam C. Hildreth took a turn for the better today and he finally scored a victory with one of his performers after it seemed that his horses could accomplish little at this course. The turn came with the victory of Lord Brighton in the Forest Park Handicap at a mile, in which the Hildreth three-year-old had little competition. He was in front all the way, to beat Jack Stuart by a length without making a serious effort, while Rapid Day, the only other starter, was a bad last.

This race was made easy for Lord Brighton when John F. Schorr withdrew The Porter. The latter would have been the logical favorite as the race was originally arranged, and the track was just to his liking, but he is being saved for other stake events to be run this week and next.

There was a surprise in the Juvenile Handicap at six furlongs, which was one of the features of the card. This race went to H. P. Whitney's Damask, which made a dash through the stretch and romped in at about 15 to 1. The mutuels paid $35.10 for the winner. Damask defeated Walter M. Jeffords's Kinnoul and R. F. Carman's Carmandale, both of which were heavily supported. Carmandale was the favorite at post time.

Damask was aided by the fact that Kinnoul and Carmandale went out in front and raced each other to pieces, with the result that neither had anything left when the challenger came along. Kinnoul and Carmandale raced neck and neck for half a mile, with scarcely any advantage to either. However, Carmandale was on the outside all the way and Kinnoul carried him wide at the last turn. Though these two had opened up a gap of three lengths, both went so wide that Damask was able to come through on the rail and saved enough ground to make his rush successful. When he finally caught the leaders they were tired from their efforts. Kinnoul lasted to take second, while Carmandale easily saved third place.

STEIN BEST GUNNER IN N. Y. A. C. SHOOT

Wins High Scratch Prize at the Traps with 180—C. L. King Is Second.

Conrad Stein was the winner of the Election Day shoot of the New York Athletic Club yesterday. He took the high scratch prize with a card of 182 out of a possible 200 targets. Taking into consideration that a high wind was blowing throughout the shoot, the score was excellent. The winner's individual strings were 22, 20, 23, 25, 22, 22, 25, and 23. He was ten down on his first 100. In his second trip around the traps he broke 92 of the tiny blue rocks.

Forty gunners took part in the shoot. In addition to the high scratch prize there were four other scratch trophies and five for the best handicap gunners. The second high scrach prize was taken by C. L. King, who had a card of 180. He was the high handicap gunner of the day with a total of 198 targets. As he could not win both cups, the high handicap prize went to J. I. Brandenberg with a card of 195 targets.

GOLFERS AT FOX HILLS.

Byrne and Scofield Are Winners in Tournament Against Bogey.

Several score of club golfers gathered at Fox Hills on Staten Island yesterday to play in a two-round tournament against bogey. The contestants benefited by their handicap allowances, and could elect the better eighteen holes in the competition for the prizes. In Class A, E. L. Byrne was the big winner, finishing 8 up on the mythical colonel. Byrne played remarkable cold-weather golf, shooting a 76. His handicap was nine strokes. W. H. Follett gave ample evidence that he could play as well as he could write golf, and his margin was 7 up. E. T. Villareal finished his selected round 6 up, and H. C. Dennison was 2 up.

In the Class B group, where larger handicap allowances obtained, G. S. Schofield was 7 up on bogey and H. H. Lloyd was 2 up.

BEAT GOLFERS WITH BOWS AND ARROWS

Dr. Joseph Blake and F. W. King Are Clever Archers on the Sleepy Hollow Links.

The Election Day visitors at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club in Scarborough saw a miracle yesterday on the golf links. They watched a pair of archers start from the first tee and actually defeat a pair of golfers at the latter's own game, in one of the most novel tournaments that has been staged during the remaining days of the 1919 season at the country club.

Dr. Joseph Blake, the noted surgeon, who has recently returned from France, where he conducted a large hospital during the war, proved yesterday that archery is not a dead sport, but one very much alive and throbbing with interest and excitement. Paired with his friend, F. W. King, also an exponent of the bows and arrows, the combination matched against C. G. Comstock, one of the club's leading golfers, and A. J. Sanderson, the Sleepy Hollow professional, and beat them by 1 up in eighteen holes.

The archers made a bad start, so bad that they trailed for the first half of the journey and were still 2 down to the golfers after the fourteenth hole. Then King and Dr. Blake adjusted their strings and began to get even longer flights with their arrows. The match was squared on the seventeenth, and they teed off for the 482-yard, par 5, home hole. Here King's bow was working in top form and he succeeded in holing out in a birdie 4, whereas the best ball of the golfing twain was 5.

The archers used a collection of bows, for different purposes and distances, similar to the golfer's array of wooden and iron shots. For the drive a bow capable of a power force of ninety pounds was employed, and the average distance was 275 yards when held at an angle of 45 degrees. Correspondingly lesser motive forces were sufficient for the approach shots. A novelty was introduced into the archery for use on the greens. Instead of an arrow Dr. Blake and King "putted" with a small paper disc 4½ inches in diameter, and when this lodged over the golf hole the "put" was regarded as having been made.

APAWAMIS GOLFERS BUSY.

Coles and Watkins Lead in Several Events on Rye Links.

Between voting and trying to win a prize on the links later in the day, the golfers of Apawamis put in a busy election day on their course at Rye. There were tournaments and special events galore, with attractions for the really brilliant shot makers and affairs for those whose handicaps climb up into double figures. W. H. P. Coles gathered in the big prize of the day when he won the Apawamis Cup event, a trophy competition wherein the prize must be won three times. In getting the first leg on the cup, Coles shot an 80, which score was cut down to 72 with his handicap of 17. C. L. Watkins and E. M. Decker tied for second. Watkins had 90, 5—75 and Decker 93, 18—75.

Two handicaps were held for the golfers of Class A, whose allowances are nine strokes or less and those of Class B who get ten or more. In the higher division Watkins was adjudged the winner with 80, 5—75 and M. W. Laidlaw was second with 87, 8—81. Coles led the group of inferior players with an 80, 17—72 and Decker was second with 93, 18—75. Later in the Day Decker entered a special handicap competition for club members with handicaps of 18 or more and won the low net honors with 83, 10—74. R. W. Presperich was second with 109, 36—73.

Sweepstakes were played both morning and afternoon, Coles, Watkins and Decker finishing the morning round in that order. In the afternoon F. W. Howland had 80, 5—75; E. Harris had 85, 5—80; S. Buttell had 92, 12—80, and E. G. Brown had 98, 18—80.

Still another contest was held as a benefit for the United Hospital Endowment Fund. This was an 18-hole competition which was won by Coles.

BANK TEAMS ON LINKS.

Golfers from Nine Institutions to Play at Fox Hills Saturday.

Golf teams representing nine New York City banks have been entered in the first match to be played for a cup which Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, has offered as a trophy. This match will be played Saturday at the Fox Hill Course, Staten Island.

Each team is to consist of five players, who have been with the institution which they represent for at least two months prior to the date of the match. They are to be amateur golfers in good standing. The matches, all of which are to be played at one time, are to be at scratch. The team winning the match is to have the custody of the trophy, which will be known as the Sabin Cup, for the ensuing year, and the names of the winners each year are to be engraved upon the cup.

The teams which have agreed to compete are those from the National City Bank, Bankers Trust Company, Chase National Bank, Liberty National Bank, Guaranty Trust Company, Equitable Trust Company, Columbia Trust Company, Irving National Bank, and the Federal Reserve Bank. The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of C. M. Marvin, Guaranty Trust Company of New York; L. L. Thomas, Bankers Trust Company; M. Starring National City Bank, and J. A. Conway, Guaranty Trust Company, who is the Secretary.

One way to reduce carbon trouble

Heavy carbon deposits in the combustion chamber and on piston heads cause lots of engine trouble ranging from pre-ignition of the fuel charge to the destruction of the lubricating oil. This can be avoided. With uniform, high grade gasoline that possesses even vaporizing and ignition qualities, carburetion can be so perfectly regulated that the fuel charge is burned up completely, leaving a minimum of carbon deposit.

SOCONY Motor Gasoline meets every motor fuel requirement. It is carefully refined to a definite standard of high quality. It is as uniform as modern science can make it. Its carburetion and ignition qualities assure dependable power under all weather conditions. Standardize on SOCONY for motoring economy and satisfaction.

BAKER IN SHARP TILT WITH CHAMBERLAIN

Secretary Denies Using Axe on Army Officers Who Disagree with Their Superiors.

SENATOR CITES ANSELL CASE

Colonel Was Guilty of Slander, War Chief Retorts—Opposes Military Appellate Court.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Secretary Baker and Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, Oregon, former Chairman of the Senate Military Committee, clashed sharply today at a hearing of a subcommittee dealing with the military justice controversy.

"Whenever an inferior officer gets into a disagreement with his superior, he is likely to get the axe very suddenly," Senator Chamberlain declared.

"That isn't a fact," Secretary Baker said.

"But I say it is," Senator Chamberlain responded. "We know it up here."

"Oh, of course," Mr. Baker said, "when an officer comes up to Congressional committees and says things that are independent of department views, you class anything that happens to him after as punitive punishment."

"Take your own actions," said Senator Chamberlain—"what did you do to General Kenly for his aircraft statements up here?"

"He was not disciplined," Secretary Baker returned.

"No, you don't call it discipline," Senator Chamberlain remarked. "What happened to Ansell? (former acting Judge Advocate General.) You put him in a place of innocuous desuetude, and reduced him in rank."

Baker Charges Slander.

"I did that," Mr. Baker replied. "He was not only disagreeing with his superior, he was slandering him."

"Yes, and what became of Adjt. Gen. McCain when he thought his office ought not to go under the General Staff?" asked Senator Chamberlain.

"I gave him the opportunity to command a division in the field, the heart's desire of every soldier," Mr. Baker said. "Yes, but did he ask to be relieved?" Senator Chamberlain persisted.

"He'd never had anything but office experience. I confess that I did not know his military record," Mr. Baker said. "I thought he had commanded troops."

Senator Chamberlain named other officers of lower rank, and the Secretary conceded that some of them had been demoted and transferred.

"When a man can't get along with his chief he ought to get out of the service," the Secretary concluded, "unless his chief is wrong, and then you ought to change the chief."

Secretary Opposes Change.

The committee was considering a bill drawn by Senator Chamberlain to carry out recommendations by Ansell as to changes in the army courts-martial system. Mr. Baker declared his opposition to the proposal to create a military appellate court on the ground that it would make army legal machinery too inflexible in wartime, however desirable it might be in peace.

"I do not believe," he said, "that a system ought to be established in peace which could not be maintained in war."

Beginning his examination of Secretary Baker, Senator Chamberlain called attention to the cases of four privates condemned to death in France for sleeping on post, or disobeying orders, but pardoned by President Wilson.

"General Ansell's statement that he had anything to do with influencing my action in connection with that had no basis in fact," Mr. Baker declared.

The Secretary told in detail of the recommendations by Generals Pershing, March, and Bullard that the sentences be executed, concurred in by Major Gen. Crowder, Judge Advocate General. Later, he said, General Crowder had expressed to him grave doubt doubt as to whether the sentences ought to be carried out.

MME. HELEN STANLEY SINGS

Soprano Pleases in French Song "Triptyque" and Other Novelties.

Mme. Helen Stanley, who has sung both in opera and concert here, gave a holiday song recital yesterday in Carnegie Hall with something of holiday atmosphere. She presented, for the first time in America, it was said, a "Triptyque" by the French song writer, Georges Hue, giving without pause its three moods, "Sur ce mure rose," "Avant de quitter la maison," and "Parmi les tombeaux." Also new, and dedicated to the singer, were Ferrari's "I Know," and Marion Bauer's "Last Butterfly," with further novelties of Cyril Scott, Beryl Rubinstein, and Mary Helen Brown.

Mme. Stanley's soprano voice gave pleasure, a tone rich and ringing rather than agile or emotional. Her best English diction was in Tschaikowsky's "None But the Lonely Heart," which she added as an encore, with Elmer Zollner, pianist, and a 'cellist unnamed, who appeared by magic with instrument and music rack when the house called for more.

Edwin Hughes, Pianist, Plays.

Edwin Hughes, a pianist of clear, incisive style, played to a matinee audience in Aeolian Hall yesterday his own paraphrase of a Strauss waltz, after other new music of a Californian little known here, Fannie Dillon, one of whose works a tone-study of morning, noon and sunset light in "The Desert," the other a canon in octave intervals from actual notes of "Birds at Dawn." Mr. Hughes's tribute to the romantic in Beethoven's sonata op. 31, No. 3, and in a Chopin group, was conveyed in the form of appreciative program annotations by himself, more than in the restrained, clean-cut playing. His communicative sympathy in another line, with the cool Northern narrative not epic of a Grieg ballad, won a response from his audience, and he gave the composer's "Cradle Song" for encore.

Ruth Ray, Violinist, Makes Debut.

Ruth Ray, a young violinist with good command of tone and style, made a first appearance in concert here at Carnegie Hall last evening. With Coenraad Bos at the piano, she was heard in Hartini's G-minor sonata and Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," and pieces by Auer, Grasse, Debussy and others. Though Election Night was not fortunate for a serious debut, there was present a large audience, and the agreeable qualities of Miss Ray's playing found a welcome, as they have elsewhere before now.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

James K. Hackett will have the principal role in the Theatre Guild's forthcoming production of "The Rise of Silas Lapham" at the Garrick. Rollo Peters, who has been the director of the organization, will withdraw on Nov. 15.

The premiere of "Wedding Bells" at the Harris Theatre will take place on Tuesday night of next week instead of Monday.

"The Challenge" will return to New York on Nov. 17, when it will begin an engagement at the Manhattan Opera House.

"Lifting the Mask," by Bruce Reynolds, will be placed in rehearsal by the Shuberts next week. Sarah Elisabeth Reynolds has been engaged.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The Beethoven Association.

In the Beethoven Association are united a large number of some of the finest and most distinguished artists now before the public, vocal and instrumental, with the purpose of giving, without profit to themselves, a series of chamber concerts entirely of Beethoven's music. The first of these was heard last evening in Aeolian Hall by an audience large, but not so large as was to be expected in view of the great interest of the undertaking and the excellence of the performance to be expected and actually realized by the event.

The chamber music of Beethoven comprises many things that are not often heard in the concert room, because they do not fit into the schemes of the established order. The program last evening was made up chiefly of music of the more familiar sort, though some of the numbers were unfamiliar. The performers were Harold Bauer, Jacques Thibaud, William Willeke, who played the trio in B flat, Opus 97, and Louis Svecenski, who took part with them in the piano quartet, Opus 16, and John McCormack.

The trio is, of course, well-known to all lovers of Beethoven's chamber music, the greatest of his compositions in this form—a work in which his genius is at its finest flowering. The performance had great distinction; it was one in which each of the three artists took part with an eye single to the beauty of the ensemble and with a deeply felt sympathy for the music. If the beauty of the ensemble was disturbed at all it was by some excess of emphasis in certain of the passages for the piano—passages for the most part in which the piano carries the chief burden.

There was less of this in the quartet Op. 16. One of the master's earlier works, arranged by his own hand from its original form as a quintet for piano and wind instruments. It has the hall mark of the younger Beethoven in its lastic freedom and spontaneous melody not yet wholly freed from the influences of Mozart and Haydn; and it was played in that spirit, with great charm. When Mr. Svecenski appeared with the others and to play in it, he was given a special reception, which the others gladly yielded to him—a reception freighted with memories of his long years as a chamber music player.

Mr. Thibaud played Beethoven's Romance in F, a work not unfamiliar to most in the audience, with great purity and dignity of style and a remarkable warmth of feeling—a performance where significance was enhanced by the fact that Mr. Bauer, with the willing abnegation of a true artist, played the piano accompaniment.

Mr. McCormack's co-operation added much to the distinction of the performance. He sang first an air, "My Heart is Sore Within Me," with its preceding recitative, from "The Mount of Olives," Op. 85, an oratorio that is as good as unknown to most music lovers. Both the recitative and the air are in a dramatic style; and Mr. McCormack delivered them with great intensity of expression, and with a diction of extraordinary clearness and significant accent. Some of his effects of sustained and tender phrasing were heard in his singing of "Adelaide," which was full of lyric beauty, and intelligible as to its text from beginning to end.

RECORD OF ARMY EXPORTS.

Dawes Says 7,600,000 Tons of Supplies Were Sent Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A total of 7,600,000 ship tons of supplies were sent from the United States to American armies in France between June, 1917, and December, 1918, and 10,192,000 tons were purchased in Europe, Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, former Brigadier General and purchasing agent, today told the Senate Military Committee. He said the purchasing power for the Army should not be centralized in a single official.

"I thought all purchasing ought to be centralized when General Pershing made me head of the supply board," Mr. Dawes said. "Three weeks experience showed me that the practice of allowing every Army service to buy for itself was a necessity for fighting. Nothing should interfere between the order for supplies on the fighting line and its execution. A central office takes the pressure off."

The cost of material bought in Europe, Mr. Dawes said, was $1,084,000,000, and it included 184,000 tons of motor vehicles, over 1,000,000 animals and over 1,000,000 tons of coal, wood and timber.

Ten-Year Sentence for Jewel Theft.

James Adams, 29 years old, of 7 Thomas Avenue, Arverne, will be taken to Sing Sing today to serve a sentence of not less than ten years or more than nineteen years and six months imposed by Judge Humphrey in the Queens County Court. Adams was convicted of stealing jewels and ornaments of Mrs. Blanca Perez Peña, wife of Santiago Perez Peña, the Chilian representative in New York City. This is the most severe punishment that has been passed upon a prisoner for a larceny offense in Queens in some time.

Miss Marbury to Talk on War.

Miss Elisabeth Marbury will give a talk at the Hotel Plaza Thursday afternoon, Nov. 6, at 3:30, before the League of Catholic Women. Miss Marbury will tell of her recent experiences abroad.

EUROPE RELIES ON US, SAYS PAUL WARBURG

Returning Banker Declares We Cannot Shirk Responsibility Assumed in the War.

POINTS TO TWO BASIC EVILS

Asserts Rising Prices and Reduced Output Threaten Bankruptcy or Communism.

Paul Warburg, the banker who was Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board during the war, returned yesterday on the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam from a three months trip to Europe, where he went to study financial conditions. He declined to make any comments upon his trip when he landed at Hoboken, but later in the evening Mr. Warburg gave out a statement at his house, 17 East Eightieth Street, in which he said:

"Few people realize how little we know in the United States about the intimate developments going on at the present time in the various parts of Europe and, conversely, how impossible it is in Europe to follow closely what transpires with us. Every country is so taken up with its own troubles that neither time nor space permit to observe or report more than at best a rough outline of the events. Before venturing to express very specific views, after an absence of three months one feels therefore a very natural and keen desire to "read up" and post oneself about what has been said and done in the United States during that period. However, it may be timely to state some general thoughts and impressions.

"One cannot spend two months in Europe without being deeply impressed with the fact that war has opened wide the dykes once protecting our old form of society and that the unloosened currents, still uncontrolled, are raging over areas far beyond the boundaries of the countries directly involved in the war. Nobody can foretell at this time what the world's picture will be when ultimately the floods will subside. How far it will remain submerged or be able to emerge will not be the result, however, of an automatic process. As it was the will of men that broke the dykes, dykes, it is true, that had grown too weak and that attempted to constrain gigantic forces within too narrow a compound—so it will be the will of men that will determine the final outcome. The lesson that one brings home from Europe is therefore that we must not stand by idly with folded hands while the world is drowning; but that it is our duty, and within our power, to arrest a movement, which, if unchecked and permitted to run into extremes, will engulf us all.

Says We Cannot Shirk.

"There are many who, disgusted and disheartened, believe that we, in the United States of America, should wash our hands of Europe and leave it to her to straighten out her own affairs. It is too late for that. By the decisive part we played in deciding the war and the peace we have assumed a moral responsibility, which we now cannot shirk, and even were we inclined to do so, we could no more free ourselves from the leashes that now link us to Europe. For the future course of the world will be influenced very materially by economic forces and these forces we largely control as, inversely, to a certain extent they control us. In order to survive, Europe needs our products and requires them largely on credit and it is our moral duty to furnish these goods. While our self-interest is involved in this Europe's dilemma is so much more acute than ours that it places in our hands the key to the situation, but, at the same time, the responsibility of using it wisely.

"The present problem is not a simple one, it is the upshot of many influences and conditions varying in degree in the several countries affected; but there are two fundamental evils common to all which must be eradicated if world bankruptcy or communism are to be avoided. These are the continuous 'increase of prices' and 'decrease of production.' Prices must continue to rise as long as the leading countries spend every year billions more than they collect from taxation and other regular revenues, covering the resulting deficiencies by issuing additional currency, treasury bills or other Government obligations. As long as this 'watering process' is indulged in the value of capital must further decline and, if persisted in long enough, it must end in something like the Russian or Austro-Hungarian conditions where the savings of the past invested in money and securities have been practically wiped out.

"While to some extent the present labor unrest is 'psychological' and in certain aspects, so far as it disregards the public interest, may be considered destructive and immoral, there cannot be any doubt but that, so long as the rise in prices continues, labor will have to fight for and be entitled to increased wages. On the other hand, it is obvious that a higher scale of wages is in itself a factor making for a further increase in prices. This unfortunate reaction cannot be avoided until the prime driving force has been eliminated, which is the persistent depreciation of capital by the continuous issue of Government securities and currency for the purpose of covering deficiencies caused by excess current expenditures.

America's Important Role.

"Prolonged disregard or sound economic principles will wreck business enterprises as well as Governments. To issue Government obligations or currency for the purpose of paying idling men, or for providing below cost such things as transportation, or food, or for covering extravagant military or other expenditures, is an insane business practice that, sooner or later, must lead to ruin or bankruptcy every country indulging in such methods. As far as expenditures cannot be reduced receipts from taxation must be increased and—with the rapid and wide distribution of wealth resulting from the war—indirectly will have to play as important a part as direct taxation. Capital levies cannot be safely made in order to pay for recurrent expenditures; they may at best be applied, and even then only exceptionally, for the purpose of reducing the capital debt of a country.

"It is easier for the United States to place its budget on a sound basis than for any other of the leading powers involved in the war. Our responsibility in this respect is a heavy one and demands not only that we establish model conditions for ourselves, but also that we insist that sound principles be adopted by countries requiring our financial support. Unless we work toward this end the increase of prices cannot be arrested, and, moreover, we would be acquiring the obligations of debtors headed for insolvency. Our responsibility goes even further than that. Of all the leading countries we are the only one that, for the time being, has an open gold market where the relation between gold on the one hand and goods and service on the other can establish itself on a fairly natural basis. No other country, therefore, will play as decisive a rôle in determining the future level of prices as we.

"A great deal is being said about the necessity of stabilizing foreign exchanges. To my mind it is futile to attempt to tinker with this problem of stabilizing the level of these various foreign reservoirs and to establish their definite relations to one another and to the dollar, which will be the pivot of all, until the leaks have been stopped; and that is not possible as long as the Government printing presses work overtime manufacturing new money and Government obligations. When once this baneful process is arrested, discount rates may again become powerful influences in bringing about deflation. Until budgets are properly balanced discount rates, however, are powerless in this respect.

"The prewar level prices are gone for good and ever. Somehow we had to pay for the waste and expenses of the war, and if the future price level should establish itself at 100 per cent. higher than that prevailing before the war, that would mean that the saving of the past through the watering process have been cut in two and that to that extent they have been consumed in order to pay for the war. Whether the destruction of capital has gone that far or how much further it will proceed will depend upon the steps that we shall now take to arrest it. The longer we wait, the greater will be the loss.

"While the proper balancing of the budgets must, therefore, be the first step, without which the world cannot rid itself of its present predicament, this measure in order to bring relief must be accompanied by others. Everybody knows that in order to prevent a further rising of prices it is necessary that production be increased and consumption be decreased. The necessity of such a course has been forcefully urged by many, it is conceded by all—and practiced by nobody.

"In Europe and in the United States there never was a greater recklessness in spending money than there has been prevailing since the conclusion of the armistice. The ease with which a larger amount of depreciated money can be earned has diminished the respect for money and the eagerness to save. A willingness to subordinate or sacrifice one's wishes and pleasures to the greater advantage of the country, splendidly manifested during the years of the war, has ended in the present reaction; of an orgy of brazen self-indulgence at the very moment when the war bill is presented for payment.

"Labor suffers from insufficient wages, capital is being decimated, and the middle classes, practically wiped out, are viewing the future with deep despair. And all of this for the reason that for five years the world has destroyed and consumed more than it produced and has not yet been aroused to the realization that the longer it persists to remain in this foolish and fatal condition, the more terrible will be the chaos and the suffering for which we are headed. This is a world state of mind based with some on cynic frivolity, with others on scorn and exasperation or deep disappointment over the failure of human society.

"In these circumstances may we hope to be able to persuade the working man that, while striving for adequate adjustments of wages is generally recognized as legitimate, and while honest efforts are made in almost all countries of the world to comply with his just demand for a reasonable representation and co-operation in the management of his employer's affairs, any tendency on his part to reduce production is nothing short of a crime against the very society of which he is a part.

"May we hope to convince the reckless consumer that his guilt is as heavy as that of the slacking producer—except by necessity, the only taskmaster whose authority will still be respected? Only when the world ceases covering deficits by printing new money and obligations; only when a greater scarcity of money can assert its influence will excessive consumption be brought under control, and will there be called into play a consequent greater supply of labor and a greater willingness to work. This presupposes, however, that terrorism will not be permitted to threaten those willing to work.

"In Europe it is believed that our Senate does not fully realize the gravity of the situation. Friends and enemies condemn many features of the peace treaty. But all agree—even the Germans, who more than any other nation deplore some of the terms—that nothing could be more fatal than to prolong the present uncertainty; that the treaty must now go into effect, and that when once a foundation, even though a defective one, has been laid we can begin successfully to combat the baneful forces that now threaten the whole world. In this work the United States cannot be missed.

"Europe counts on our influence, not only in solving the economic problems involved, but also in straightening out the League of Nations (which in its present form is disappointing to independent minds in all countries) and through it some of the inequalities that now mar the instrument. The Reparation Commission, as a first step, will have to clarify the situation by studying and determining the limit of the burden to be imposed upon Germany, a burden which may not exceed her maximum power of taxation if bankruptcy is to be avoided. The power to make or break Germany lies thus in the hands of the Reparation Commission and the United States cannot shirk the duty of co-operating in reaching a wise conclusion, upon which will depend the fate of not only that country, but also that of her main creditors—who, in turn, are our debtors. That, however, opens a chapter which it would lead too far to discuss at this time.

"The first thing to be done is—as a prominent British financier put it—'to deflate our ideas.' The world lives in a fool's paradise based upon fictitious wealth, rash promises, and mad illusions. The disease is world wide, it is spread too far to enable us to deal with it as a whole. We may agree on the principles on which it must be fought, but each country will have to be treated in accordance with its own particular conditions. The first step, however, is to prick the bubbles of false promises and to begin by clearing the world balance sheet of fictitious assets as far and as fast as we can. As the situation will thereby gain in clarity and simplicity we shall grow in strength and competence to deal with whatever difficulties remain to be overcome."

Mr. Warburg was accompanied on the Nieuw Amsterdam by his brother, Felix Warburg, who went to Poland on a special mission.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Western disturbance has moved to Ontario with diminishing intensity during Tuesday, attended by general rains and some snows from the upper lake region and the upper Ohio Valley eastward and by strong winds in the lake region. There are evidences of a secondary disturbance near the south of New England. There is also another disturbance in the extreme Northwest, the general depression covering the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions, with rains over the north district west of the mountains. Elsewhere, except Florida and along the East Gulf and South Atlantic Coasts, the weather was fair. It is much cooler in the upper lake region, the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys and the Southwest, and decidedly warmer in the central Rocky Mountain region. There will be local snows Wednesday in the lake region and rain in Eastern New York and New England, followed by clearing weather in Southern New York. There will also be showers Wednesday in the Florida Peninsula, but elsewhere east of the Mississippi the weather will be fair Wednesday, and fair weather will prevail Thursday over the entire district east of the Mississippi. It will be cooler Wednesday in the lake region, the upper Ohio Valley, and the interior South except Florida, and warmer Thursday in the upper lake and western lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States.

Storm warnings are displayed on extreme east Lake Superior, Lakes Huron, Erie, and Ontario, and on the north New England coast from Point Judith to Eastport.

Winds Off Atlantic Coast.—North of Sandy Hook: Strong east winds shifting to southwest and west; Wednesday night, rain. Sandy Hook to Hatteras: fresh shifting winds, becoming west; rain, followed by clearing and colder.

Hatteras to Florida Straits.—Moderate west and northwest winds, with fair weather, except variable on the Florida coast with showers. East Gulf Coast—Moderate northeast winds over north portion with fair weather, gentle to moderate variable winds over south portion; unsettled. West Gulf Coast—Moderate east to southeast winds with fair weather.

Western disturbances now over Ontario, moving east, and evidences of secondary disturbance near and south of New England. Northeast storm warnings displayed Point Judith to Eastport.

FORECAST: TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Rain or snow north, rain, followed by clearing south portion, Wednesday; Thursday fair.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Clearing and colder Wednesday; Thursday fair.

OPPOSES SUGAR CONTROL.

Louisiana Senator Says New Crop Will Relieve the Shortage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The shortage of sugar will end when the new domestic crop reaches the market, said a minority report filed in the Senate today by Senator Ransdell, Democrat, of Louisiana, opposing the majority plan to extend Federal control of sugar and authorize purchase of domestic and Cuban sugars. The majority bill would "single out" the American sugar industry for Government control and work "irreparable injury" to American producers, Senator Ransdell declared.

"Now that the war is over the natural law of supply and demand should return throughout the nation as promptly as possible," he said.

Senator Ransdell indorsed recommendations to Attorney General Palmer by the Sugar Equalization Board that the Government restrict use of sugar for candy, drinks, and other luxuries.

PORTO RICAN FOOD EMBARGO

All but Sugar Shipments Prohibited to Conserve Island Supplies.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 4.—Governor Yager has placed an embargo on all food shipments from the island of Porto Rico, with the exception of sugar. The measure was taken to conserve the diminishing food supply caused by the tieup at the New York docks on account of the strike.

Ex-Food Commissioner Lee was named yesterday as "Fair Price" Commissioner.

CONVERTED TO ADVERTISING

Latin Americans Are Waking Up to Its Possibilities.

American business has assumed a very important position in relation to world commerce, and there is a keen growing interest in American business methods. One of these which is claiming much attention in some countries is American advertising.

"The dealers and importers of Chile are beginning to realize the economic function of advertising," says Trade Commissioner J. W. Sanger, an investigator for the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in his recent report on the advertising situation in Latin America.

"Chile is at present passing through a transition period as regards both advertising and merchandising. It has not broken entirely away from the old methods of having the entire business of the country practically controlled by a small group of strong importing commission houses, who advertised only in a perfunctory way and depended more upon their acquaintance with the trade and their ability to extend credit suitable to the buyer. These houses have buying offices established in all the important centres, particularly in Europe, and the consumer found them willing and eager to extend credit on anything from a plow or typewriter to the entire equipment for a factory.

"They have been established for generations and have filled a want that was met in no other way. At present, however, the smaller merchants are coming more and more to buy direct from the factories, placing their orders with the salesmen who make regular visits, or with American houses that have established branch agencies.

"Formerly the dealers were skeptical of the wisdom of American manufacturers in making huge appropriations for domestic advertising, but now the importers, especially those handling such lines as automobiles, enthusiastically accept advertising as a means of reducing selling expense."

Commissioner Sanger points out that the importance of this situation lies not so much in the fact that other countries have not used advertising extensively, but in the possibilities of developing abroad a power in the domestic use of which we are unrivaled.

MORE OIL-BURNING SHIPS.

British Prepare to Build Motor Liners of 4,000 Horse Power.

British shipping is on the eve of remarkable developments, including the use of internal-combustion engines for ocean-going vessels as well as the employment of oil-fired boilers, according to a statement made by The Petroleum Times of England.

While motor ships of from 5,000 to 10,000 tons already are quite common, it says, at least one British shipbuilding firm is prepared to build motor liners of 4,000 horse power. The Elder Dempster Line has three motor vessels on order, it says; the Leyland Line has placed orders for twenty; the Glen Line has given orders for a number, and a motor liner is being built for the British India Company.

It adds that the pipe line which was laid across Scotland from Glasgow to Grangemouth, so that German submarines could not interfere with the supply of oil fuel to the navy during the war, but which had not actually been finished when the armistice was signed, should now be of great commercial value.

CANADA'S NEW INDUSTRIES.

War Leads Dominion Into Many Lines of Manufacture.

The influence of the war in creating new industries has had a marked effect upon the business life of Canada. With the usual sources of supply cut off, either by the lack of shipping or by the reduced output in nations which produced the articles bought abroad, the Canadians engaged in a number of new enterprises which are said to have turned out profitably.

Frederick M. Ryder, the United States Consul General at Winnipeg, has compiled a partial list of the new industries started in the Dominion since August, 1914. Among their products he lists: Margarine, candied peel, phonograph records, steel for motor car frames, galvanized sheets, beet-slicer knives, steel barrels, ribbed hosiery, knitting machinery, equipment for electric furnaces, semi-rotary double-acting pumps, steel plates, gear hoppers, machine tools, lathes, a considerable range of chemical products, machinery of various kinds, collapsible baskets, electric bulbs, semaphore lenses and ruby lantern globes.

facts on factoring

Truth is stranger than fiction. A firm we are factoring for came to us the early part of this year with an annual business of about $200,000 BUT they had good ideas and the commission house they were doing business with would not co-operate with them, so they transferred their account to us. We backed up their ideas with the result that they are now doing at the rate of a million dollars a year. This is what we call co-operation. Let them tell you their own story.

Come in and talk it over.

FEDERAL RULES FOR STOCK TRANSFERS

Internal Revenue Department's Regulations Provide Method for Keeping Sales Records.

DETAILED REPORTS NEEDED

Persons Engaged Wholly or Partly in Buying, Selling, or Transferring Stock Must Maintain Them.

The Internal Revenue Department of the United States Treasury in "Regulations 40," relating to the stamp tax on issues, sales, and transfers of stock, and sales of products for future delivery, describes in detail how the records of sales or transfers of stock should be kept. Articles 16 and 17 of the regulations deal with the keeping of those records, and returns by persons making sales, showing clearly how such records should be kept and how the returns should be filed. Article 16 reads:

"(a) All persons who are wholly or partly engaged in the business of buying, selling, or transferring shares of stock, whether at public or private sale, or whether or not they are members of an exchange, including persons engaged in transactions known as 'matched' or 'on-orders,' or 'pass-outs,' or 'give-ups,' or settled directly between the seller and buyer, or cleared or adjusted through a clearing house or otherwise, or engaged in accepting and procuring the transmission or orders for purchase or sale of shares of stock shall keep a record showing:

"(1) Date of transaction. (2) Line number, (if at an exchange.) (3) Name of broker or salesman who executed the order. (4) Name of party to whom sold, or from whom bought. (5) Number of shares dealt in. (6) Name or description of stock. (7) Price of stock, if without face or par value. (8) Amount, (or total market value,) of stock. (9) Face or par value of stock per share. (10) Tax paid on share having face or par value. (11) Tax paid on shares without face or par value. (12) State tax paid, if any, (optional.) (13) Total amount to ledger, (optional.) (14) Folio number, (optional.) (15) Name of customer for whom sold or transferred, or from whom bought or transferred. (16) Number of shares loaned or borrowed. (17) Number of borrowed or loaned shares returned. (18) Method of settlement or adjustment.

"(b) Persons keeping such records may incorporate therein additional columns that will be of use to them, such columns to be placed so as not to interfere with the columns and headings hereby prescribed. These records must be in book form, and all entries therein must be legibly written in ink and the records kept for a period of at least two years. Such record forms will not be supplied by the department."

Subdivision (c) of the article is a sample record form drawn from the foregoing instructions. Continuing, the article reads:

"(d) Provided, however, that brokers known strictly as 'floor brokers,' or 'two dollar men,' or 'room-traders,' in lieu of the foregoing record, whether their transactions are settled directly between seller and buyer, or by 'matched,' 'x,' 'on-order,' 'pass-out,' or 'scratch sale,' or 'give-up,' or any other kind of sale or purchase, or are cleared through a clearing house or otherwise, shall keep a record showing:

"(1) The date of the transaction. (2) The name of the seller. (3) The name of the purchaser. (4) The name of the stock. (5) The number of shares. (6) The par or face value of the shares. (7) The price, if the stock has no par value. (8) Whether the transaction is 'matched,' 'on-order,' 'pass-out,' 'scratch-sale,' or 'give-up.' (9) Name of person to whom 'given-up.'

(e) Provided further, That persons engaged in accepting and procuring the transmission of orders for the purchase or sale of shares of stock to be executed at a brokerage office or an exchange, board of trade, or similar place, shall keep a record showing:

"(1) Date and acceptance and transmission of order. (2) Name of person from whom accepted. (3) Name and address of person to whom transmitted. (4) Name of stock. (5) Par value of stock. (6) Number of shares. (7) Whether purchase or sale. (8) Price. (9) Whether order was executed at an exchange; and, if so, what exchange. (10) Date of execution of order."

Article 17, entitled, "Returns by persons making sales," reads:

"(a) All persons who are wholly or partly engaged in the business of buying, selling or transferring of shares of stock, whether such sales, purchases, or transfers shall be made, cleared, or settled, or adjusted through a clearing house, or otherwise, shall on or before the fifteenth day of each month, and at any other time designated by the Commissioner, render under oath a true return of all such sales and purchases to said Commissioner for the preceding month or for any other period designated by the Commissioner, containing in detail the following information:

"(1) The month for which the return is made. (2) The name and address of the person, partnership, corporation, or association making the return. (3) The number of shares sold and purchased elsewhere than at an exchange. (4) The number of shares sold and purchased at an exchange and cleared by a clearing house. (5) The number of shares purchased at an exchange and not cleared by a clearing house. (6) The number of shares having a par or face value. (7) The number of shares without par or face value whose actual value is less than $100 per share. (8) The number of shares without par or face value whose actual value is in excess of $100 per share. (9) The number of shares of stock loaned. (10) The number of shares of such loaned stock returned. (11) The number of shares of stock borrowed. (12) The number of shares of borrowed stock returned. (13) The amount of tax paid. (14) The amount of stamps on hand on the first day of the month, or other period. (15) The amount of stamps purchased during the month, or other period. (16) The amount of stamps on hand on the last day of the month for which return is being made.

"(b) Provided: That brokers known strictly as 'floor-brokers,' or 'two-dollar men,' or 'traders,' in lieu of the foregoing return shall render a return only as to such transactions as were not 'given-up' to or cleared through some other broker, including direct settlements, 'pass-outs,' or 'scratched-sales.'

"(c) Provided, further, That in the event any broker who has not closed business shall make no sales or purchases of stock during any one month he shall file with the Commissioner a statement to that effect in lieu of a return."

TO SELL HULLS AT $75,000.

Government Puts Nearly 200 Wooden Ships on Market.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Announcement was made tonight that the Emergency Fleet Corporation has fixed $75,000 as the price for the 3,500-ton Ferris-type wooden ship hulls the Government intends to sell. Nearly 200 wooden ships, mostly of the Ferris type, are to be sold. The price applies to the hulls now in mooring basins in their present state of completion, and is on the bare boat basis. Equipment on the vessels will also be sold.

"To purchasers of hulls, who so desire," the announcement said, "we will sell equipment at such prices that we estimate Ferris hulls can be finished as steamers for $230,000, or $65.71 per deadweight ton."

The Amortization of Preferred Stocks

It is not generally recognized that some preferred stocks have been issued under provisions which specify that a certain percentage of the stock outstanding must be purchased annually by the issuing corporations. In other words, such an arrangement is practically the same as sinking funds which retire mortgage obligations.

We can offer such preferred stocks at prices to yield over 7%.

Why Preferred Stocks Are So Popular

Many corporations are financing their requirements through Preferred Stock issues rather than by Bonds and Notes because in this way they decrease their taxation. Twelve Preferred Stocks yielding from 5.94% to 8% which compare favorably with Bonds are described in a new circular which we will send on request.

We call your attention to a letter from Mr. W. M. Spaulding, President of the Company, which we summarize as follows:

BUSINESS: The business of the Company was established in 1851 and was purchased by Messrs. H. C. Graton and J. A. Knight (a partnership) in 1861. It was incorporated under its present name in 1872 in Massachusetts. The Company tans hides and manufactures leather belting for industrial uses, automobile leathers, shoe leathers, harness material, leather packing, valve washers, straps and other leather specialties. IT IS THE LARGEST MANUFACTURER OF LEATHER BELTING IN THE WORLD.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds will be used to increase working capital for expanding business; and to retire present outstanding Preferred Stocks and 7% Serial Notes.

SECURITY: The Company will maintain at all times net current assets equivalent to 120% and total net tangible assets equivalent to 200% of the par value of Preferred Stock outstanding.

The Company will not place any mortgage upon the fixed assets of the Company without the consent of the holders of 75% of the par value of this stock. If 25% or more of the holders of this Stock object, the Company will not issue any secured or unsecured bonds, notes, debentures or other funded obligations payable more than one year after their date.

ASSETS: The balance sheet at October 4, 1919, after giving effect to the present financing will show net current assets of over $220 a share for the Preferred Stock and total net tangible assets of over $260 a share for such stock.

INCOME: During the last five years (1919 estimated) the average annual net income was $1,060,536, or over three times the annual dividend requirements on this issue, and the annual average net income for the last three years (1919 estimated) was $1,050,112, or over three times the annual dividend requirements on this issue.

PREFERENCES: This stock is entitled to 7% cumulative dividends. If called for redemption, or upon any distribution of capital assets, the stock is entitled to 110 and accumulated dividends.

SINKING FUND: Out of the net income (after payment of preferred dividends) of the fiscal period ending January 1, 1921, and each succeeding fiscal period, the Company will set aside not less than 15% of such net income for the redemption of this stock at 110 and dividends, if not purchasable at a lower price.

We offer this stock, if, as and when issued and received by us, and subject to the approval of counsel at

100 and accrued dividends

It is expected that Temporary Certificates will be ready about November 17th.

GET MORE SUGAR, BUT SEND IT ABROAD

Imports in the Last Fiscal Year Were 1,100,000,000 Pounds Greater Than in 1918.

HOME CONSUMPTION LESS

Prices of Both Imports and Exports Are More Than Double the Pre-War Figures.

The scarcity of sugar which is confronting the eastern section of the country today exists despite the fact that the United States has imported from other countries more sugar within the last eighteen months than at any time since before the war.

In the fiscal year which ended June 30, sugar imports exceeded the amount brought into the country in the previous year by 1,100,000,000 pounds, an increase of 16.5 per cent. At the same time the sugar consumption per capita for the United States was only 82 pounds during the twelve months ending June 30, as compared with 86 pounds during the last fiscal year before the war.

These and other important facts are brought out in official statistics prepared by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in Washington, which have just been made public.

It is shown, for instance, that the average import price during the last fiscal year was 5.3 cents a pound, and the average export price 7.3 cents a pound. The average price of imported sugar during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, just before the war, was 2 cents a pound, and the average export price 3.6 cents a pound.

The import figures also disclose an increase of 13.60 per cent. in quantity and of 179.2 per cent. in the value of sugar received in 1919 over 1914, and the export figures a gain of 900.6 per cent. in quantity and of 2,195 per cent. in value.

Between these years occurred the war with its disruption of shipping schedules, its rationing of sugar, and its breaking down of trade traditions in the sources of supply. Certain countries in Europe that became large purchasers of sugar from the United State has sugar industries of their own which were interrupted or destroyed by the war. Others had been accustomed to receive their supplies from Germany and Austria-Hungary.

When the normal sources of supply no longer were open, Northern Europe and Greece, Italy, and Spain in Southern Europe, made heavy calls upon the American market, with the result that the sugar exports increased from 97,052,340 pounds to 1,124,125,271 pounds in the five-year period.

The export of these demands is shown in the following table for the last year before the war and the year in which the war was ended:

Belgium	....	57,142,473
Denmark	....	3,297,128
France	1,000	385,113,162

Canada	419,353	59,671,218
Panama	8,716,106	1,906,643
Mexico	5,426,125	18,497,090
Newfoundland and Labrador	12,763,285	6,745,675
West Indies	9,746,079	1,883,934
Argentina	52,530	216,200
Uruguay	10,000	18,531,400
Philippine Islands	5,755,294	10,976
British Africa	318,296	681,347
Other countries	5,892,644	45,942,509
Total to foreign countries	50,805,726	1,115,865,524
Alaska	6,171,735	4,354,504
Hawaii	1,393,070	631,812
Porto Rico	16,855,067	276,172
Re-exports of foreign sugar	21,536,134	3,017,259

It will be noted in this table that the increases in the exports of sugar to Canada and Gibraltar were remarkable. The exports to Canada increased from 841,892 pounds in 1917 and 11,326,008 in 1918 to 59,671,218 pounds in 1919. To Gibraltar there went in 1917 560,000 pounds; in 1918, 112,000 pounds, and in 1919, 48,059,500 pounds. In the last year a great part of the exports to Gibraltar were shipments destined for Italy, Jugoslavia, and other countries of Southern Europe.

To satisfy these foreign calls, and to meet the domestic demand not filled by American-grown sugar cane and beet sugars, the United States imported from foreign countries and outlying possessions 7,755,000,000 pounds of sugar in the fiscal year ended June 30, as compared with 6,823,000,000 pounds in 1914, 7,237,000,000 pounds in 1915, 7,620,000,000 pounds in 1916, 7,473,000,000 pounds in 1917, and 6,657,000,000 pounds in 1918.

Receipts of sugar from foreign countries and insular possessions in the year before the war and the year ending June 3 of this year are shown in this table:

The production of cane sugar in the United States for the year 1918-1919 was 569,000,000 pounds, and of beet sugar 1,530,000,000 pounds, a total of approximately 2,100,000,000 pounds. This, with imports, gave a total of in the neighborhood of 9,855,000,000 pounds available in the home markets. Deducting from this the exports from continental United States of 1,057,000,000 pounds of domestic sugar, re-exports of 3,017,000 pounds of foreign sugar, and shipments to insular possessions of 5,242,000 pounds, made in round numbers, the net amount retained for home consumption about 8,790,000,000 pounds, an average consumption of 82 pounds.

THE FUNDAMENTAL USE OF MONEY

MONEY is the most democratic commodity in the world—its value is the same no matter through whose hands it passes. It is employed as its owner wills.

The sole basis in determining the use of money entrusted to this bank is this:

DOES IT AID in the building up and carrying on of the fundamental business activities of our nation?

Each proposition, large or small, receives the same test.

THE NATIONAL PARK BANK OF NEW YORK

Our Officers cordially welcome conference or correspondence regarding domestic or foreign banking subjects.

Commercial Loans—Acceptances

Line of credit extended, based on balance and financial statement.

Our service to business concerns in this respect has all the advantages of the best commercial banks and our resources permit sufficient accommodation for necessary requirements.

Special arrangements for liberal accommodations on a basis of Trade or Bank Acceptances. Loans made on collateral.

We shall be glad to consider your banking requirements.

NEW LINE TO BRAZIL OPENS.

The Thorwald Halvorsen Arrives from Norway for South America.

Bringing twenty-five passengers, the Thorwald Halvorsen arrived yesterday from Christiania, Norway, inaugurating the new triangular freight and passenger service of the North and South Atlantic Line, Peter Kleppe & Co., 11 Broadway. Among the passengers was Miss Signe Bentsen Petersen, on her way to Valparaiso, Chile, to wed Alexis Lund, the Norwegian Consul in the Chilean city. Miss Petersen is the daughter of Dr. Philip Petersen, director of the library at Christiania, Norway, and herself has the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Christiania.

Peter Anker, a banker of Christiania who is making the round trip on the ship, 14,000 miles, said that he would study the importing and exporting conditions while staying here for two weeks before the ship sails for Brazilian ports. He said that Norway was now suffering from a depreciation in shipping and industrial shares which were bought by the people at abnormal prices during the period of the war, when immense profits were made.

Valdemar Gjems, former Governor of Christiania, was also one of the passengers making the round trip on the Thorwald Halvorsen.

Oil Imports to Siberia

Prior to the European war the importation of petroleum and its products into Siberia was forbidden by the Government, and the supplies were furnished from the Russian fields. But now the Omsk Government has notified the American Consulate at Omsk that permission is granted to firms to ship these products to Siberia, since it is impossible under present conditions to obtain oil in any other way.

The Government exercises a control over the importation of petroleum and its products. Governmental enterprises must first be supplied at fixed prices, and if a surplus remains importers may sell to private firms at the market price.

PROPOSALS.

STATE OF NEW YORK.
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.
Albany, October 27th, 1919.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS:

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol at Albany, N. Y., until twelve o'clock noon of Tuesday, November 25th, 1919, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read, for improving the New York State canals pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 147 of the Laws of 1903, and of the acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, and Chapter 670 of the Laws of 1918, as follows:

1.
Erie Canal—Section 9.

Erie Canal—Section 9.

For completing the excavation of the canal channel in the Genesee river from the north end of Contract No. 191, near Elmwood avenue, to the Erie railroad crossing.

Sheets 1 to 5, inclusive.

And for the construction of Barge canal terminals, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 746 of the Laws of 1911, and of the acts amendatory thereof, as follows:

For constructing an extension to the existing dockwall and a frame freight house at Cohoes.

Contract Plans Sheets 1 to 7.

Contract Plans Sheets 1 to 8.

5.
TERMINAL CONTRACT NO. 116 (Revised).

For furnishing and installing four three-ton electric semi-portal revolving jib cranes on Barge canal terminals, two each at Greenpoint and West 53rd St., New York City.

Contract Plans Sheets 1 and 2.

For constructing a headhouse and installing a water main and electrical work on Pier 93, West 53rd St., New York City.

Contract Plans Sheets 1 to 25, inclusive.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineer's estimates of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at Albany, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y., at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y., and at the office of the State Engineer and Surveyor, Hall of Records, New York City.

Copies of detailed plans or drawings may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the city of Albany or New York, issued by a national or state bank, or trust company in the case of terminal contract in good credit within the state and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award and delivered to him or them in person or mailed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The bond required for the faithful performance of each contract shall be in such sum as shall be fixed by the Superintendent of Public Works, which sum shall not be less than twenty per centum (20 per cent) of the estimated cost of the work, according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds co-insurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be endorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the state for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the state will be enhanced thereby.

EDWARD E. WALSH,
Superintendent of Public Works.

Office of THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Notice to Holders of NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION

First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds Dated November 1, 1916, due November 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($187,500.00) Dollars, being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund.

The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 25, 1919, of such bonds. As provided in said mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half (102½%) per centum.

As soon as may be, on or after November 18, 1919, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 25, 1919.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 18, 1919.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE.
Pittsburgh, Pa., November 1, 1919.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Bronx lots within a few blocks of subway stations and trolley lines sold for as low as $200 each at the second day's sale of the vast holdings of the Hunts Point Terminal Corporation held yesterday in the Vesey Street auction room by Joseph P. Day.

There had been some question as to the advisability of holding the sale on a holiday, but the fact that the plan went with general approval was shown by the crowd of bargain hunters that crowded the salesroom long before noon.

The feature of the sale was the disposal of the six remaining water front plots in the Hunts Point section owned by the Bronx Terminal Company. The fact that the Dollar Steamship Company, which operates a steamship line between San Francisco and the Orient, had purchased fourteen acres of water front at the terminal and proposes to extend its system to this portion of the Atlantic seaboard stimulated interest in this section of the property and the bidding was unusually lively. The first parcel offered was located at the foot of Hunts Point Avenue and the East River. For a figure that totaled $478,875 George J. Vernon, representing a client, secured two plots containing together 24½ acres. The bids were taken at the rate of so much per acre. Mr. Vernon's purchase adjoins the 222 lots recently purchased by the Dollar Steamship Line.

George J. Kohn, acting for an unnamed client, paid at the rate of $19,100 per acre for two plots adjoining on the north, and containing in all about 16⅞ acres. His purchases totaled $319,925.

L. Rodney Berg, representing a client, was the successful bidder for the next two water front parcels, paying at the rate of $19,200 per acre for the southernly one and $19,400 for the northerly parcel. The two containing approximately 29⅝ acres. A total of $1,720,970 was obtained for the water front acreage, including the Dollar purchase.

The bargain-hunters, many of whom were women, did not begin to reap their harvest until Mr. Day offered 25 by 100 foot lots adjacent to the waterfront property on Preble and Falconer Streets and Hunts Point Avenue. The bidding started at $100 and many lots were knocked down at $200, the corners going for prices ranging from $400 to $600. H. P. Schuck, general Eastern manager of the Dollar Steamship Company, purchased two lots in Preble Street for $260 each. A number of women bought lots, paying from $200 to $1,000 each, the higher-priced lots being nearer the subway and trolley lines. Several of the buyers declared their intention of improving their property at once.

The sale was adjourned at 9 P. M. last evening until 11 o'clock this morning, when the remaining lots, 267 in number, will be disposed of.

During yesterday's session 724 lots were sold for a total of $242,760. This brings the total amount obtained for the property, including the waterfront acreage, up to about $2,600,000.

Lots scheduled for today's sale are located in Hunts Point, Oak Point, Longfellow and Whittier avenues, which are in the last section of the property.

Investor Buys Broadway's Tallest Apartment, Held at $1,000,000.

The highest apartment house on upper Broadway, located on the southeast corner of 165th Street, has been sold by T. J. McLaughlin's Sons, contractors and builders, to an investor.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET A FINE HOME CHEAP.

My family, which was a large one, has reduced itself to my wife, myself and the servants. I have bought a smaller property in my immediate vicinity which meets my present requirements and desire to sell my large home. To do so quickly, I am offering it at a fraction of its real value to some one of culture and refinement who would be acceptable to my neighbors and myself. The grounds, which include an excellent tennis court, were beautifully landscaped by a prominent architect several years ago and elaborately planted with flowers and shrubs. Fine trees abound. The house is a gem, in absolutely perfect condition from cellar to attic. The purchaser could move in on 24 hours' notice and avoid the many annoyances and expense incident to occupying a new house. The first floor consists of a huge veranda facing east, a panelled living room 35 ft. long with immense inglenook fireplace, a spacious dining room, a tiled breakfast room, two butler's pantries and kitchen. Five master's bedrooms, one 15 x 30 ft. with open fireplace, and two very large tiled bathrooms comprise the second floor. The third floor has a pool and billiard room, extensive servants' quarters and servants' bath. The location is ideal, within five minutes' walk of the express station, with fine commuting service to New York City. The neighborhood is exclusively residential and occupied by an unusually fine class of people. Elevation over 900 ft. All city conveniences for comfortable living in the country prevail. I will sell for $18,000 complete, $10,000 of which can remain on first mortgage, and easy terms can be arranged for the balance. Complete details, including plans and several pictures, can be obtained from the writer by addressing P. O. Box 378, City Hall Station, New York City.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE.
A wonderful future stretches before this great city of New York; more and more commerce will centre here, more and larger ships will enter our harbors; more and swifter trains will rush in and out of our stations; more business, involving bigger affairs than ever before, will be transacted in our buildings.
By its very nature, the telephone business must increase as the city develops; as industry grows and expands, its demands for telephone service grow larger and more exacting; it is the duty and privilege of the Telephone Company to anticipate and meet these demands.
There are wonderful opportunities right now in telephone operating; girls and young women are needed to handle the present enormous telephone traffic; these young women will rise to higher positions with greater responsibility and higher salary as the increasing demand for telephone service creates new opportunities in the telephone business; the junior operator of today is the supervisor, assistant Chief Operator and Chief Operator of tomorrow.
Girls 16 to 23 are wanted for for Telephone Operating.
Young women, 21 to 35, for Night Telephone Operating.

A MAN WITH IDEAS WANTED.

This may be the chance of a lifetime for a young man with ideas. It is an opportunity to learn the business of building circulation for a group of big magazines at a good salary to start. Tell me in confidence all about your experience, especially if you have had anything to do with selling to agents or by mail; send samples of your work, which I will return if requested. K 330 Times.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO MEN WHO WANT TO MAKE MONEY.

Selling education in the form of The Book of Knowledge is to the right person a profitable and agreeable occupation; backed by the largest educational publishing house in the world, you are bound to make good if the seed of successful salesmanship is at all in you.

We are not looking for "agents" nor for "canvassers," but for a few men and women who are big enough for the proposition. The remuneration is on a commission basis. Book of Knowledge salesmen and saleswomen throughout the country find their work most congenial and most remunerative, simply because all parents are interested in the welfare of their children.

If you have sold goods, or if you believe you have the ability to sell, submit your application by mail or in person.

THE GROLIER SOCIETY, 2 WEST 45TH ST., NEW YORK.

Instructions.

JUNIOR ACCOUNTANTS EARN $35-$50 A WEEK.

SENIOR ACCOUNTANTS EARN $50-$200 A WEEK.

If you are ambitious to become a successful accountant, our training should enable you to make yourself a junior accountant, earning from $35 to $50 a week, within five months, and WITHIN TWELVE MONTHS should qualify you for a position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert at a salary of at least $75 a week, with possibilities of double that, or more.

It is only a question of industry—a fixed purpose to devote a few spare hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business training system ever devised, under the tutelage of a corps of eminent certified public accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.

We have given hundreds of ambitious, earnest men and women the start that has put them over the top, and have their records to point with just pride; we can do as much for you if you are made of the right stuff. It is worth your while to investigate.

A. B. NORWALK & CO., INC. Sole Distributors Spacke Motor Cars

New York, October 31, 1919.

The New York Times:

As a result of our advertisements for distributors of the Spacke cars which appeared in The New York Times at a cost of $294.45, we closed contracts with dealers for over $1,000,000 worth of cars.

On the same date we also advertised in ten other newspapers in the larger cities east of Pittsburgh outside of New York, and the actual results from all these papers combined did not equal more than one-quarter of the sales made through The New York Times.

ORDER DRUG CLERKS TO STRIKE TODAY

4,000 Members of Union to Quit in Fight for Regular Hours and More Pay.

WILL AFFECT 3,300 STORES

Walkout Will Not Apply to Hospitals, Asylums, and Other Institutions.

Four thousand drug clerks will strike at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, because of the failure of their employers to meet their demands, according to the announcement yesterday of Charles A. Affenkraut, 63 Park Row, counsel for Drug Clerks Local No. 825. The union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The decision to call a strike was made by officers of the union early yesterday at the office of Mr. Affenkraut. The demands of the clerks include recognition of the union, an eight-hour day and six-day week, and an increase in salaries.

The strike order does not affect hospitals, asylums, institutions, clinics, and dispensaries. Drug clerks whose employes have signed contracts with the union were not called out.

"The strike has been called after serious consideration of the public," Mr. Affenkraut said. "It has been postponed for some time, and we have taken this action only as a last resort."

Figures given out by Mr. Affenkraut showed that 3,300 drug stores would be affected. He said that Health Commissioner Copeland made an unsuccessful attempt Monday to settle the differences between the employers and clerks.

The average pay of the clerks, he said, was $30 a week for an average work day of twelve hours. The clerks are demanding a $50 wage. First-grade clerks, who now receive an average of $20 a week, are asking a $15 increase. The union will meet tomorrow night in the Labor Lyceum, Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue.

TWENTY RIDE IN AIRPLANE.

MITCHEL FIELD, L. I., Nov. 4.—Twenty persons, including the crew, were carried in a final test flight made today of the Handley-Page airplane Atlantic, which is expected to start within forty-eight hours on a nonstop flight to Chicago. The flying today was within a radius of ten miles of here, the machine passing over the homes of residents of Roslyn and Wheatley Hills.

Twenty is the largest number of persons carried by the giant airplane since its arrival here from Parrsboro, N. S., where it was repaired after a crash last Summer. Among the passengers were Henry Tattnall, First Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Frederick Straus, a New York banker; Malcolm Whitman, formerly national tennis champion, and Mrs. Whitman of Cedarhurst, L. I.; Robert E. L. Cowie, First Vice President of the American Railway Express Company; Mrs. Cowie, and W. E. Griffiths of Colombia, South America. Admiral Mark Kerr was in command and Major Herbert G. Brackley was pilot.

The time for the start has not been chosen. It was said the machine would leave early in the morning, probably about 4 o'clock, either tomorrow or Thursday, but more probably Thursday.

FRENCH GIRLS JOIN Y. W. C. A.

Headquarters Here Report More Than 3,000 New Members in Four Towns.

More than three thousand French girls joined the Y. W. C. A. in four towns in France during a one-week membership campaign held last week in the Foyers des Allies, a cable message just received at Y. W. C. A. headquarters, 600 Lexington Avenue, reports. The committee which conducted this drive for members consisted of Miss Edna Sandlin of Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Sarah P. Watson and Miss Katharine Treat of Bronxville, N. Y.; Miss Alice Robbins of Berkeley, Cal., and Miss Agnes M. Winter.

The new yearly memberships are divided among the four cities, with 857 at Tours, 790 at St. Etienne, 663 at Roanne, and 735 at Bourges. These four foyers are among the many throughout France which are to be permanent results of the Y. W. C. A. war work in France.

REVIEWS 3 MONTHS' CRIME IN OIL FIELDS

Report Tells of Six Murders and Robberies of $71,895 Charged to Mexicans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A compilation just completed of crimes during the months of July, August and September of this year in the Tampico oil fields has been placed at the disposal of this Government, it was learned today. According to this document six employes of the oil companies were murdered and a total of more than $71,895 in American gold secured by Mexican bandits in the three months. The specific charge is made that some of the robberies were committed by Carranza soldiers. In others Carranza soldiers participated.

On Sept. 23 an oil camp at Tamale was raided by 400 government soldiers, who entered the camp house, stole most of the clothes of the foreign employes, and drove away the last mule in camp. They ordered the employes to cut away all the brush around the houses of the peons, but, upon warning by a rebel force operating in the vicinity that they would kill any one cutting any of the brush, it was not cut.

On Aug. 11 two masked men with rifles entered a camp near El Tigre and murdered the boss carpenter in the presence of his wife by cutting his throat. The carpenter and his wife were the only persons in camp at the time and the wife was prostrated. The bandits then cleaned out the camp, taking everything they could carry away. One discarded his old shirt for a better one, and the shirt he discarded is said to bear the Mexican Federal stamp which is placed upon soldiers' clothes.

On Aug. 16 Luis Guitterres and an American named Kenneth de Lacy were robbed of a payroll containing $6,000 in American bills.

On Aug. 26 a launch of the same company was commandeered by Army Paymaster Antonio Legaspi, according to the report, accompanied by two officials and assistants. The craft was loaded with tequila and beer, and for six days was kept at Palo Blanco by the military, who, with a number of women, engaged in a protracted spree. Finally, in the course of the orgy the boat was set on fire and seriously damaged.

On July 1 and 16 the camp of an American company at Guayaballi was raided and more than $12,210 in currency, a $1,400 automobile, clothing, and supplies were stolen.

On Aug. 14, seven armed Carranza soldiers entered the camp of an American company at Alvarez terminal and forced the company's employes to open the safe, from which they took $11,782 in Mexican gold money. Upon complaint to the military authorities at Tuxpan, three men were captured, who confessed, implicating Lieut. Col. Barnade Rodrigues, who was also detained. Two of the men who confessed were publicly executed on Aug. 17, and the military authorities announced that they would turn over the other prisoners to the civil authorities for prosecution. About $2,000 of the stolen money was recovered.

On Sept. 7 General Eusabio Gorosabi, with 100 of his revolutionary troops, visited the Mata Redonda terminal and four of the camp guards were killed. During a temporary absence of General Gorosabi, several of the men lined up the Americans and robbed them at the point of their rifles. When the General returned he is reported to have been indignant and ordered his men to return "most of the property" they had taken, after which he reprimanded them.

LAST OF WAR BRIDES COMING

BREST, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The last of the war brides of American soldiers left here yesterday for the United States on the steamer Northern Pacific. There were nine of them. One hundred and seventy-three left Sunday on the President Grant.

This virtually completes the "war brides work" of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Seymour, the executive in charge of foreign work, said: "I am proud of our American boys. So far as is known only one war bride is coming back of nearly 3,600 we sent to the United States."

MAINE LEGISLATURE MEETS.

Governor Says Industry and Frugality Will Solve Living Problems.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 4.—Ratification of the Federal constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women, the high cost of living, a bonus for soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the world war, and highway improvements were among the subjects presented by Governor Milliken for possible consideration by the Legislature in his address at the opening of the special session of that body today.

The session was called primarily to arrange for the $8,000,000 bond issue, authorized at the special election in September, for construction of highways and bridges.

After referring to the decision of the Maine Supreme Court relative to the prohibitory amendment that a Federal constitutional amendment cannot be submitted to a referendum vote of the people of the State, Governor Milliken said there was no serious reason for such a vote in the case of the suffrage amendment.

"Even a cursory study of the conditions contributing to the present high cost of living makes it clear that no complete remedy is possible by rhetoric or by acts of Legislatures," the Governor said. "In the main the situation is the result of operation of economic laws that are as inexorable as the law of gravitation. Nothing but the return of the old-fashioned virtues of industry and frugality will solve the problem."

Wilson Praises Redfield.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Correspondence between President Wilson and William C. Redfield on the latter's resignation as Secretary of Commerce, which took effect Nov. 1, was made public today at the White House. Paying tribute to Mr. Redfield's successful administration, the President expressed regret at the loss of his "efficient, active, and watchful service" as Secretary of Commerce.

"Few Men . . . . . Far Fewer Women . . "

C. M., a life insurance solicitor, writes, in answer to a letter which appeared recently in the Sun:

"With this income ($4200) a woman . . . . . certainly wouldn't have to worry about going out to work. The crux of the matter is, however, that L. G. S. cannot be sure that he will still have the $72,000 quick assets at the time of his death. Furthermore, if he has, has his wife the ability to safely and conservatively invest the money? Few men are really capable investors, and far fewer women."

Plainly, C. M. has had unusual opportunities for watching insurance money. In his opinion, few people have a natural talent for investing money.

But your family is "exceptional." Perhaps you feel sure they would take excellent care of the property you leave them.

A faith most laudable, but unfortunately not justified by the law of averages.

By appointing the Mercantile Trust Company executors and trustees under your will, you can make sure that your family will be safeguarded in the possession of their inheritance.

This practical business arrangement insures for them the experience and judgment of the Mercantile TRUST COMMITTEE, a permanent body whose business is directing trust investments in the interest of Mercantile clients.

The members of this Committee are selected from the Mercantile Board of Directors by the directors themselves—on the basis of special fitness. The President of the Company serves with the Committee ex officio.

INTERIM RAILROAD BILL NOW PLANNED TO ALLOW RETURN

Congress Will Press Permanent Legislation, but Doubts Ability to Enact It Before Jan. 1.

WOULD CONTINUE PAYMENTS

Cummins Says House Bill Will Be Reported Soon and Will Be Rushed with All Speed.

HINES GIVES WILSON STAND

Asserts President Is Determined to Turn Back Carriers to Owners at New Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Interstate Commerce Committees of the House and the Senate agreed on a tentative program today to protect both the railroads and the public should the railroads be turned back to private ownership on Jan. 1 as President Wilson has announced is his intention. The program calls for the pressing of permanent legislation in the House and Senate, but as the leaders doubt their ability to enact permanent legislation before Jan. 1, they consider, in that emergency, the passing of temporary legislation insuring the railroads the standing return from Jan. 1 until the permanent legislation is enacted.

The House committee held a meeting this afternoon and agreed to report out the Esch bill next week, with the hope of passing it before the House adjourns. Every effort will be made to hasten the legislation, it was said, for members of the House are anxious to have a rest before the Winter session.

In his conference with Senator Cummins, Chairman of the Senate committee, which took place late yesterday, Director General Hines declared that the President would undoubtedly return the roads to their former owners on Jan. 1, whether the interim protective legislation had been passed or not. He said, in addition, that the Government's deficit in operating expenses was piling up, and that the personnel of the operating force, which the Government had gathered from many quarters into the Railroad Administration, was disintegrating because these operating managers were returning to their former railroads.

It was the desire of the Director General that Congress should pass legislation insuring to the railroads a continuance of the standing return, covering the period from Jan. 1 until the permanent legislation had been enacted.

Cummins Tells of Plans.

The statement by Senator Cummins follows:

"It is not true that the effort to pass permanent railroad legislation at this session has been abandoned. Quite the contrary. The House will undoubtedly pass a bill. Though it is not yet out of the committee, it will be reported very soon. I shall make every effort to pass it at this session, and if that is not possible then before Jan. 1.

"We are informed definitely that the railroads will be returned by the President to the companies on Jan. 1. In that situation, and with the uncertainty about passing much-needed legislation before they are returned, the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce has been in a conference to consider the possibility of taking steps to pass temporary measures to render the transitional period easier. By that I mean, particularly, the extension of the guaranteed return for some brief period until the permanent reconstruction legislation can be passed.

"There was complete agreement as to the necessity for getting legislation passed before the roads go back, but realizing the difficulties that will confront it in the Senate I have begun to doubt whether we could pass it at this session, or even before the beginning of the new year."

Cummins Meets House Committee.

The Senate Committee held a meeting this morning at which Senator Cummins told his fellow-members the gist of Mr. Hines's conference. This afternoon Senator Cummins conferred with representatives of the House committee.

No actual date for the return of the railroads is set in the Cummins or Esch bills, but both assure a continuance of the standard return for a time after the roads are turned back. The Esch bill sets this continuance at six months, and the Cummins bill at five months. Under the present wartime law, through which the Government took control of the systems, they are returnable by the President within twenty-one months after peace is declared.

It was said yesterday that some leaders in Congress proposed to push a temporary plan for dividend guarantees, instead of the standard return. This plan, it was said, would be based on the idea that some railroads had earned much more than others and that therefore these railroads would not be entitled to the same benefit as the poorer systems.

If the Peace Treaty should be completed next week in the Senate that body could then consider the Cummins bill, while the House took up the Esch bill. This would expedite procedure on the permanent legislation and allow an earlier reconciliation of any differences between the two bodies on the two bills.

Representative Sims of Tennessee, the ranking Democrat on the House Interstate Commerce Committee, has introduced a bill containing Government control until Jan. 1, 1921, unless permanent legislation has been put into effect before that date.

Maine Ratifies Suffrage, Making the Nineteenth State

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 5.—The suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution was ratified in the House today in concurrence with the Senate. The vote was 72 to 68.

"Maine is the nineteenth State which has approved suffrage," Miss Alice Paul of Washington, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, said in a statement after the ratification vote had been taken. "Four other States are expected to ratify within the next few weeks."

INVESTIGATE RISE IN PRICE OF MILK

MEANS $1,000,000 A MONTH

Dr. Copeland Calls on Distributors to Justify Increase in Schedule.

Federal, State, and city authorities began investigations yesterday to determine whether the increase of 1½ cents a quart in Grade B milk, and a corresponding increase in other grades for this month, as announced by the Sheffield Farms Company and several other distributors, is justified by increased costs.

The Federal investigation is being conducted by Henry A. Guiler, Special Assistant to United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey. He is assisted by Special Assistant District Attorney R. W. Joyce and R. H. Williamson. A number of witnesses were examined.

For the State and city authorities, Health Commissioner Copeland, as Chairman of the Governor's Fair Milk Price Committee, made arrangements for a hearing at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the City Hall. The increase will cost consumers in the city $1,000,000 during November, Dr. Copeland estimated.

The names of the witnesses in the Federal inquiry were not revealed, but Mr. Guiler said the inquiry would be continued today, and as long as is necessary to get the desired information. When his work is finished, he said, a report will be made to the Attorney General at Washington.

An inquiry into the general food situation, including milk, has been going on before Mr. Guiler since Aug. 22, but when announcement was made yesterday of the jump in the price of milk, the general phase of the situation was laid aside temporarily, and the specific question of the milk price taken up. Since the hearing started, evidence has been given by dealers and producers, officials of the Dairymen's League and consumers.

Copeland Asks Six Questions.

Commissioner Copeland sent to Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, a letter announcing tomorrow's meeting of the Fair Price Milk Committee, and inviting Mr. Horton and other officers of the company to be present and to answer six question. The letter read:

I observe in the public press this morning that your company is about to make a material increase in the price of milk for November. Will you be good enough to appear before the Governor's Fair Price Milk Committee on Friday, Nov. 7, at 2:30 o'clock at the City Hall, prepared to answer six questions? It seems to me it is proper to urge you to have the other officers and Directors of your company present in order that they may share responsibility with you regarding your statement to the committee. The particular questions I wish to put to you are these:

1. With the November price to the farmer $3.33 per hundred, as against $3.11 in October, an advance of 22 cents per hundred, or approximately four-tenths of a cent per quart, what additional cost on this account are the dealers justified in adding to the price of milk for this month?

2. Does the price 17½ cents for Grade B mean that the purchaser of a single quart will pay 18 cents? If so, how much do you estimate will be the amount of income derived from this one item of a half-cent?

3. How many employes, by classification, are affected by the new salary schedule, and how much is the actual increase in salaries?

4. With the new schedule of pay for your employes, what additional cost on this account are the dealers justified in adding to the price of milk for this month?

5. With the advance in the price of milk of approximately 1½ cents per quart, as I figure it, the increased cost of milk to the citizens of New York during the month of November will be approximately a million dollars. How much in excess of last November's profits to the dealers will the estimated profits of this November be?

Increased Profits Queried.

6. Assuming that the people will endure this added burden and will buy an equal amount of milk, deducting the additional pay to the farmer of four-tenths of a cent per quart, and the additional cost of distribution due to the increased pay of employes, what will be the increased income of the milk distributor over October, by reason of this raise in price?

In justification of the increase as announced by the Sheffield Farms Com-

THIS ELECTION NEAR A COLLAPSE FOR TAMMANY

The Worst Blow Fell Yesterday, When Curran's Plurality Went Up to 9,703.

LA GUARDIA IS SAFELY IN

One Lone Survivor, Besides Foley, of the Braves Who Went Into the Fight.

AND ONLY TWO IN BROOKLYN

Mild Talk of a Contest Over La Guardia Not Taken Seriously—Curran May Be Groomed for Mayor.

Complete returns from Tuesday's election when they became available yesterday showed that Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, had received a plurality of 1,363 over Robert L. Moran, his Democratic opponent and present holder of that office. It was the only one to be filled by a citywide vote. Mr. La Guardia carried Brooklyn by a large majority and even won in Manhattan, Tammany's own stronghold. Mr. Moran carried the other three boroughs by reduced pluralities.

Bad as this blow was, however, Tammany did not learn the full extent of the disaster which had overtaken it until last night, when corrected returns showed that the actual plurality of City Magistrate Henry H. Curran, Republican candidate for Borough President of Manhattan, over Borough President Edward F. Boyle, the Tammany candidate, was 9,703, and not as the earlier returns had indicated, approximately equal to that of Representative La Guardia.

This plurality, which would have become known a great deal earlier but for a curious transposition of Republican and Democratic figures in the returns from the Twenty-third Assembly District, hit Tammany like a blow between the eyes. In the first place, the vote for Magistrate Curran and Borough President Boyle was confined to Tammany's home borough. Next, Borough President Boyle hails from Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy's own Twelfth Assembly District, where he is a co-leader with his political chief. And still more, Borough President Boyle is Chairman of the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall. There is not a Tammany man more highly regarded in the organization, and after many years in office he holds an enviable record for capability and integrity.

The Judiciary Debacle.

Just how badly Tammany had fared with regard to its judiciary nominees was shown when full returns from Manhattan and the Bronx were scrutinized. These showed the victory of Justice Joseph E. Newburger of the Supreme Court, who was sidetracked by Tammany when he sought a renomination; Justice Richard H. Smith of the City Court, who suffered a similar fate, and Philip J. McCook, the Simon Pure Republican candidate for Supreme Court Justice in the First District, by more impressive pluralities than even the most optimistic among their friends and supporters had ventured to hope for.

About the only gleam of sunshine there was for Tammany and its leader was the election of ex-Senator James A. Foley for Surrogate of New York County by a plurality which, while below normal, was ample evidence of his personal strength with the voters and that of Joseph M. Callahan of Bronx for a vacancy in the City Court.

SUPREME COURT.

Joseph E. Newburger, (Rep. and Dem. fusion,) 56,216.

Philip J. McCook, (Rep.,) 22,000.

CITY COURT.

Richard H. Smith, (Rep. and Dem. fusion,) 19,098.

Joseph M. Callahan, (Dem.,) 2,430.

Louis Wendel, Jr., (Dem.,) 1,757.

SURROGATE.

James A. Foley, (Dem.,) 15,467.

Of the eleven vacancies on the Municipal Court Bench, Tammany Hall candidates won six and Republican candidates five.

Two Saved in Brooklyn.

In Brooklyn the Republicans came near making a clean sweep of all the county offices. The sensational plurality of 76,486 rolled up for Representative Reuben L. Haskell undoubtedly is to be accounted for only by a large number of Democratic votes being cast for him, for, running on a "wet" platform, he was cut right and left by "dry" Republicans.

But even his Republican running mate on the county Judiciary ticket, Norman S. Dike, was elected by an impressive plurality, although there was in his fight no issue not local to complicate it. As it was, the McCooey Democratic organization in Kings saved only two of the county offices, electing their candidates for Surrogate and for County Clerk by pluralities that were far from flattering, considering the political trend manifested in recent elections in Kings.

Here is a list showing the successful Judiciary and county candidates in Kings and the pluralities they received:

SUPREME COURT.

Arnon L. Squiers, (Rep.)	31,810

COUNTY JUDGE.

Reuben L. Haskell, (Rep.)	76,486
Norman S. Dike, (Rep.)	53,084

SURROGATE.

George A. Winslate, (Dem.)	6,879

Wilson Congratulates Coolidge on 'Victory for Law and Order'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President Wilson from his sick bed today telegraphed Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, congratulating him on his re-election as follows:

Hon. Calvin Coolidge, Boston, Mass.:

I congratulate you upon your election as a victory for law and order. When that is the issue all Americans stand together.

WOODROW WILSON.

White House attaches said that this was probably the first time that a President had congratulated a candidate of the opposite party on his election to office.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—In reply to President Wilson's message Governor Coolidge sent the following:

I deeply appreciate your telegram of congratulation. I trust the election here will aid in the upholding of the laws of America in particular and strengthen the hand of righteous authority everywhere.

PIER STRIKE ENDS; MEN WORK TODAY

HOPE FOR A REHEARING

Strike Lasted a Month and the Losses Will Run Into the Millions.

The unauthorized strike of longshoremen, which yesterday rounded out its fourth week with a day to spare, during which time the transatlantic and coastwise shipping in this port was virtually at a standstill, was brought to an end yesterday afternoon when 2,000 or 3,000 insurgents, led by Richard Butler, voted unanimously at a meeting of the Special Federal Commission in Tammany Hall to return to work this morning.

The insurgents also voted to ignore what they call the "Woolworth award" of the National Adjustment Commission, by which they got 70 cents an hour and $1.10 for overtime, and will return to work at the old rate of 65 cents an hour and $1 for overtime. Mayor Hylan promised the strikers that he would get a rehearing of their case before the National Adjustment Commission just as soon as possible, and intimated that this might be before Dec. 1, the time originally set by the commission for reopening the case, if the cost of living had not decreased by that time. He advised the men to the effect that the award made early in November was binding on them, through their representatives.

The loss in dollars and cents sustained by the shipping interests as a result of the tie-up of the harbor will run into the millions. Steamship owners last night said they would not even hazard a guess of the approximate loss, but that it has been heavy. According to the estimate of the Shipping Board, made early in the strike, of a loss of $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a day, the cost would be between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Tammany Hall Meeting.

Mayor Hylan and F. Paul A. Vaccarelli, two members of the commission, were present at the meeting in Tammany Hall, James L. Hughes of Philadelphia, the third member, was reported to be in Washington. Richard Butler, the leader of the insurgent longshoremen, who have hitherto refused to obey the order of President O'Connor of the International Longshoremen's Union to go back to work, was also present. A letter was read from Frederick Toppin, representing the shipping interests, to the effect that they could not consider a reopening of the case, as both sides had agreed to abide by the decision of the National Adjustment Commission.

Mayor Hylan then made reply to Mr. O'Connor's charge that he was delaying the return of the men.

"The statement," he said, "of Mr. O'Connor laying the blame on me for keeping the men from work is in keeping with the way he has conducted your affairs. He knows it is absolutely untrue. You know that I have tried in every way possible to get you men to go back to your jobs and let your case be further considered by the Adjustment Commission in the meantime."

Mayor Hylan continued by saying that if the men had been properly represented on the National Adjustment Commission there would have been no strike, which statement was loudly applauded, as was the further remark of the Mayor in praising the efforts of "Dick" Butler and Thomas Weldon.

With a final appeal to the men to return to work this morning, Mayor Hylan presented Thomas Weldon as "My good friend." It was Mr. Weldon who two weeks ago "threw the wrench into the works" and caused the meeting to vote solidly to stay out on strike. When he stepped to the edge of the stage yesterday his first act was to suggest a vote of thanks for Mayor Hylan. Put in the form of a motion, it was unanimously carried by a rising vote. It was then evident that the surrender had been complete and the strike was ended.

Mr. Butler announced after the vote to return had been taken that the strike had been carried on for four weeks at an expense of only $300. He said that $300 of the original $600 remains in the treasury. Of the total amount expended $100 was for printing and $90 for car fare, he said.

The action of the insurgents came to-

PARTY LEADERS SENSE DRIFT

Coolidge's Victory Taken as Warning to Stand Fast Against Extremists.

WILSON'S MESSAGE PRAISED

EFFECT ON 1920 CAMPAIGN

Both Sides Likely to Take a More Independent Position on Labor Unions and Strikes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Politicians of both parties are united in the opinion that the results of yesterday's elections do not reveal any indications of the trend of public sentiment on the Presidential election of 1920. But they are equally united in the belief that Bolshevism in American politics has received a decided setback, and that law and order have been triumphant over the forces of disorganization, and extreme radicalism has been rebuked.

Democrats as well as Republicans are rejoicing in the decisive victory of Governor Coolidge in the Massachusetts election over Long, his Democratic opponent, who indorsed the police strike in Boston. The general view of this outcome was exemplified in the action of President Wilson, who from his sick bed sent a congratulatory telegram to Governor Coolidge. Democratic Senators and Representatives expressed gratification over the President's course, while among Republican Senators and Representatives there was no disposition to attribute the Republican victory in Massachusetts to any other desire than that of a majority of the people of that State to sustain law and order.

The satisfaction of President Wilson in Governor Coolidge's victory was no surprise to the members of his Cabinet and other high officials of the Administration.

One of those closest to the President, who is supposed to have reflected the President's sentiments, expressed the hope yesterday that Long would be defeated. He said that Long had not only endorsed the Boston police strike but had catered to the soldier vote and to other elements in a cheap way. In the Cabinet and rather generally in administration circles it was felt that a victory for Governor Coolidge would do much to encourage Federal, State and municipal officers in opposing radical propagandists and others who incited social unrest.

In the House President Wilson's message of congratulation to Governor Coolidge was read and got a round of applause, while the general temper of the House was shown when Speaker Gillett, upon his appearance on the rostrum, received an ovation as a tribute to the Governor of his State.

The widespread, almost unanimous view, among Congressmen that a great moral triumph has been achieved by the success of Coolidge over Long is already being construed as having a deep significance for the country at large and for aspirants for political office in the two major parties. It was said today by many expert politicians that it would have the direct effect of bolstering up weak-kneed political aspirants who have been flirting with radical elements and will make both political parties take a stronger position in dealing with labor questions than might otherwise have been expected of them. For the first time in recent American political history the situation is presented where men who are deep in politics are ready to come out strongly against strikes that endanger the happiness and welfare of the people at large or against social radicalism in any form.

Different Treatment of Labor Questions.

There seems to be no longer any reason to doubt that a reaction has set in among politicians who are dependent for their success on the votes of the people. Heretofore they have catered to organized labor, which has been a bugaboo in every political camp at the outset and during the progress of most political campaigns.

There was no disposition among politicians in Congress today to reflect in any way on organized labor as a whole, but it was apparent that the radicalism in the ranks of organized labor which has given its most recent manifestation in the coal strike is to find itself strenuously opposed by politicians who in the past have steered a very careful course in their public statements and their platform declarations with reference to labor questions.

Another interpretation of yesterday's result in Massachusetts and in other States is that no particular class of the population can be delivered outright to any party or any candidate. Charles F. Murphy, it is pointed out, has good reason to realise this, while Long is mentioned as likely to appreciate fully that the effort to bring this or that class of citizens to rally around his political standard by catering to what he con-

West Virginia Operators Plan to Seek Damages From Striking Miners for Breach of Contract

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Coal operators in the unionized Kanawha fields, whose contracts with the United Mine Workers have been abrogated by the general strike order, will probably bring damage suits against the union, it was announced here tonight by representatives of the mine owners. The same procedure, it was said, will be taken as in the Danbury, Conn., hatters' case.

The strike is costing the operators in the Paint Creek fields approximately $100,000 a day, including the losses on coal sales, D. C. Kennedy, Secretary of the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association, asserted. Thousands of dollars more of losses, he said, are reported in the Cabin Creek field.

Mr. Kennedy declared that some action must be taken to "impress fully upon the United Mine Workers that their contracts must be upheld."

Declaring in favor of bringing damage suits against the union, C. A. Cabell, Vice President of the Carbon Fuel Company, owners of large Kanawha mines, asserted that the operators would probably ask the union to furnish bonds or other security to guarantee performance of contract.

Ten Additional West Virginia Mines Open

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Ten additional coal mines in West Virginia, employing union labor, opened today, and production in both union and non-union fields increased, according to a statement issued tonight by the Secretary of the West Virginia Coal Association.

Seven of the mines which opened up today are in the New River district, one in the Wheeling district and two in the Northern West Virginia fields.

DEMOCRAT LEADS IN MARYLAND

Albert C. Ritchie Apparently Elected Governor Over Harry W. Nice by 327 Votes.

LEGISLATURE DEMOCRATIC

Republicans, Refusing to Concede Defeat, Will Insist on Open Canvass of Returns.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 5.—Indications tonight, with practically all counties accounted for, are that Albert C. Ritchie, Democrat, has been elected Governor of Maryland over Harry W. Nice, Republican, by the narrow margin of 327 votes. With Garrett County only estimated, the total unofficial vote follows:

Ritchie, (Democrat,) 111,145; Nice, (Republican,) 110,818.

Galen L. Tait, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, tonight in a formal statement, refused to admit Mr. Ritchie's election, declaring that when the complete returns were at hand they would show the election of Mr. Nice and his associates on the State ticket by "several hundred plurality."

The Legislature appears to be Democratic. The Democrats have a majority in the Senate and have converted a Republican majority in the last House of Delegates into a Democratic majority.

E. Brooke Lee, Democrat, was elected Controller, and Caleb Magruder, Democrat, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, on the face of the returns, but T. J. Keating, Democratic nominee for Attorney General, appears to have been defeated by Alexander Armstrong, Jr., Republican.

Chairman Tait said that the Republicans in every county and city would have representatives at the meeting of the boards of canvassers tomorrow and that they would insist upon a "full and open canvass of all the returns."

Mr. Tait accused election officials in Baltimore County of having held back the returns in two precincts.

KENTUCKY PLURALITY FOR MORROW 35,000

Majority So Far Against the Prohibition Amendment Indicated as 18,963.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 5.—Complete unofficial returns from 119 out of the 120 counties of the State tonight gave Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, a majority of 29,902 votes over Governor James D. Black, Democrat, in yesterday's balloting for Governor of Kentucky. Republican State headquarters estimated Morrow's majority at approximately 35,000.

Unofficial returns received from thirty-six counties up to tonight indicated a majority of 18,963 against the prohibition amendment. Twenty-two of these counties favored it and fourteen did not. It is known that the cities of these counties voted "wet" heavily, while the rural districts gave it majorities.

Officers of the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League said today that it had been impossible thus far to say whether the prohibition measure had been defeated or ratified, but that the result probably would be known tomorrow or Friday.

Tabulators here had received only meagre returns tonight on the amendment which would remove peace officers who fail to protect prisoners from mobs.

OHIO 'WETS' CLAIM PARTIAL VICTORY

Say Ratification of National Amendment and the Enforcement Act Are Beaten.

LEAD ON ALL 4 PROPOSALS

But Dry Leaders Predict Victory on at Least Three of Them.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Unofficial figures compiled tonight of the returns of yesterday's balloting on four liquor questions, are fairly complete. Returns from fifty-nine of the eighty-eight counties, including all the more populous ones. These figures gave the wets a lead of 14,000 on the repeal amendment, 27,000 on the 2.75 per cent. beer amendment proposal, 48,000 on ratification, and 78,000 on the Crabbe act enforcement referendum.

The twenty-nine missing counties last year gave the drys a majority of 32,000, which is thought to be enough to wipe out the wet leads on the repeal and beer amendments. Dry gains in nearly all of these counties over last year makes this certain, in the opinion of election experts.

J. A. White, head of the Anti-Saloon League, tonight admitted that the outlook on the Crabbe act was "critical," but would not concede it to the wets. All other proposals were says for the drys, he asserted.

L. H. Gibson, manager of the Home Rule Association, issued a statement declaring that the Crabbe act was overwhelmingly beaten and ratification proposal decisively so.

While returns to Secretary of State Smith tonight remained at thirty-nine complete and incomplete counties, Smith said that they indicated that the dry victory estimates of last night were much too high.

Complete returns from Cleveland show that the "wets" made a gain of 16,000 votes in that city as compared with last year, when they polled a majority of 18,000. This year their majority was 34,000. The "drys" made a small gain of more than 2,000 in Cincinnati and Hamilton County and had a small loss in Mahoning County.

Officials of the Secretary of State's office and State Dry Headquarters based their early predictions of "dry" majorities of 50 000 to 75,000 on enormous gains said to have been made in many of the rural communities. The "drys" contended that in many counties they had made a gain of from 8 to 25 votes to a precinct declaring that these would more than double the 25,000 majority they gave State wide prohibition last year.

NEBRASKA BEATS RADICALS.

Non-Partisan League Gets Only Four Places in Constitutional Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Nov. 5.—The Non-Partisan League and the radical element received a decided setback in Nebraska yesterday at the election of delegates for a State Constitutional Convention. The convention will be ruled by conservatives by four to one.

The defeat of the radicals indicates the trend of the public thought in the Trans-Missouri country. The Non-Partisan League made a strenuous campaign. Twenty avowed league candidates and thirty-five radical candidates were in the campaign. Four leaguers and seventeen radicals were elected. To offset these twenty-one radicals there will be about eighty conservatives in the convention.

PALMER UPHOLDS STAND

"No Compromise With Those Who Violate the Law" in Strike.

AMES TO PUSH INJUNCTION

Labor Chiefs Are Expected to Make New Appeal to the Attorney General.

CHARGE GOMPERS FALSIFIES

Operators Assert There Was Not One Accurate Statement in His Declaration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Federal Government is firmly set against yielding to the demands of Samuel Gompers and officials of the United Mine Workers that the injunction obtained against the coal strike leaders at Indianapolis be vacated as a step toward negotiating for a settlement between the miners and operators.

The position of the Government was stated today by Assistant Attorney General C. B. Ames, who on Saturday will urge Judge Anderson to make the injunction permanent, as follows:

"The strike is a violation of law and as long as it continues we are going to proceed in the courts. The dispute between the mine operators and the mine workers is an entirely different question that they can settle in their own way. The Government cannot tolerate continued violation of the law such as this strike constitutes."

Attorney General Palmer, who will return to Washington from Pennsylvania Friday, was again called upon today to reply to protests by labor unions against the injunction. This time the protest was from steel workers, who wanted to know why the Government did not also intervene in the steel strike. The protest was addressed to President Wilson by steel strikers of the Joliet district.

The telegram to the President read:

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 1.

President Woodrow Wilson,
Washington, D. C.

We, the Allied Steel Workers of Joliet, Ill., would like to know why the Government is trying to force the miners to arbitrate with the operators but will not try to force Judge Gary to arbitrate with the steel workers. We are asking arbitration with steel corporations. Why will the Government not try to force them to meet us?

ALLIED STEEL WORKERS COUNCIL.

"No Compromise," Palmer Declares.

On behalf of the President Attorney General Palmer sent this reply:

Office of the Attorney General,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 5, 1919.

Allied Steel Workers Council,
Joliet, Ill.

Gentlemen—Receipt is acknowledged of your telegram to the President of Nov. 1, in which you inquire "why the Government is trying to force the miners to arbitrate with the operators, but will not try to force Judge Gary to arbitrate with the steel workers."

I am very glad to answer your telegram and point out to you the difference between the strike of the coal miners and the strike of the steel workers, which is very simple, but very important. The law does not prohibit the strike of the steel workers, while it does expressly prohibit any concert of action to reduce the output of coal.

The Government has acted in the coal strike to enforce the law. The Department of Justice intends to enforce the law. There can be no compromise with those who violate the law.

The laws and institutions of our country are more important than the interests of any portion of our people, and it is my purpose, without deviation, to enforce the law in the coal strike as in every other respect.

If there was any law being violated in the steel strike I should not hesitate to act against either the Steel Corporation or the strikers. You may have overlooked the fact that during the month of October a case was argued in the Supreme Court in which the Government contends that the Steel Corporation itself is a violation of law.

I have frequently pointed out that the action of the department in the coal case is based on the Food and Fuel Control act, and the Food and Fuel Control act does not apply to steel. The coal strike, therefore, involves questions entirely different from those involved in the steel strike. Yours very truly,

A. MITCHELL PALMER,
Attorney General.

Expect Gompers's Plea to Palmer.

It was said today that Samuel Gompers and other high officials of the American Federation of Labor would seek at the earliest opportunity a conference with the Attorney General, at which they would urge him to agree to a proposal which, among other things, would involve the vacating of the restraining order. The conference, it was said, would probably take place Friday on the return of Mr. Palmer to his desk. No comment regarding this report was obtainable at the American Federation Building.

A Federal official, to whose attention the report was called, said emphatically that the only way to get the order vacated was for the miners' officials to recall the strike and instruct the men to return to the mines.

This latter proposition, according to Edgar Wallace, official representative of the miners' union in Washington, cannot be accepted. Wallace said that the strike was still 100 per cent effective and that his reports showed that about 30,000 non-union miners had joined it. He said that these non-union men were in the West Virginia, Colorado, and Western Pennsylvania fields, but he declined to specify the mines in which they had worked.

"With the injunction vacated," said Wallace, "it would be possible for the representatives of the miners and operators to meet for the purpose of opening negotiations within forty-eight hours. If both parties would then come together in a conciliatory frame of mind and a proposition that the miners could accept was submitted, it would result in the immediate resumption of work, the Scale Committee of the United Mine Workers of America assuming the responsibility of returning the men to the mines. Vacate the injunction and it would be possible to get the mines going within a week."

If the injunction is made permanent, Wallace said, he could not "see the end."

"Our demands," added Wallace, "are not arbitrary, and the operators know it. We are willing to rest our case on the ability of the operators to pay. The same applies to the hours and we are willing to work as many hours as may be necessary to produce the necessary supply of coal."

James Lord, head of the Miners Department of the American Federation of Labor, was present during the interview with Wallace and endorsed all that Wallace said. Lord was told that many officials in Washington considered the overwhelming victory of Governor Coolidge in Massachusetts as an indication of how the general public viewed strikes called in defiance of public opinion.

"If they can get any satisfaction out of that let them have it," replied Lord.

Operators Say Gompers Falsified.

The National Coal Operators' Association issued a statement tonight in which it brands as false public statements made by Samuel Gompers regarding the issue between the operators and their employes, as well as statements emanating from officials of the United Mine Workers of America. The statement reads:

"A careful examination of Samuel Gompers's announcement regarding the coal strike discloses the absence of a single accurate statement of fact. In that respect, his pronouncement is identical with the statement he put out last week in which he charged coal operators with curtailing production to boost prices—a statement which even Acting President Lewis of the miners' organization emphatically repudiated.

"In his latest statement Mr. Gompers goes lightly from one inaccuracy to another. He misstates working conditions, miners' advances and operators' selling prices.

"It is not true that the operators' representatives walked out of Secretary Wilson's conference, leaving Mr. Lewis with no alternative but to call a strike. The operators' representatives accepted President Wilson's proposal in its entirety and withdrew from the conference in order that their presence might not embarrass Secretary Wilson in his effort to persuade the miners to take the honorable course thus opened to them. At the time of their withdrawal the operators advised Secretary Wilson that they would remain in Washington, awaiting his call to further conference.

"It is not true, as Mr. Gompers implies, that the miners are not permitted by the operators to work full time. The operators have no control over the demand for coal. They can merely stand ready to produce and furnish it when the public requires and is willing to accept it.

"It is not true that the miners received an advance of 20 cents per ton in 1914.

"It is not true that the operators raised the price of coal $5 per ton in 1914. On the contrary, the price was reduced.

"It is not true, as Mr. Gompers states, that for the last several years the miners have averaged only 180 to 190 working days a year.

"It is a fact, however—and Mr. Gompers could easily have ascertained it—that virtually every bituminous mine in the country has on its payroll a substantial number of men who deliberately lay off from one to three days a week when they have an opportunity to work.

"Mr. Gompers states that the miners are demanding shorter working hours so that their work may be regular instead of intermittent. How is it possible to effect such regulation? How can mines be worked when no cars are available? How can mines be worked on days when mine sidings and railroad yards are blocked with loaded cars which the public does not need and will not buy?

"Mr. Gompers well knows that the public buys its coal only as it wants it and it always will.

"Does Mr. Gompers think that a change from an eight-hour day to a six-hour day will compel the public to buy its coal far in advance of its requirements at tremendous advanced prices, made necessary by increased pay for less work on the part of the miners?

"The statements issued by Mr. Gompers, the American Federation of Labor and officials of the United Mine Workers of America with respect to hours of work and earnings of miners, have in their entirety been grossly inaccurate, misrepresenting, and misleading to the public.

"Statistical information of this sort, because of its complexity, cannot be accurately presented or analyzed in the public press. It can, however, be presented to and accurately analyzed by a proper tribunal which can call before it proper representatives of all interested parties in order to secure detailed explanation of all the points at issue. The operators stand ready to present such information on these subjects at any place and at any time before such proper tribunal, as suggested by President Wilson."

Mr. Gompers did not issue a reply to the statement tonight. It is understood that he may do so tomorrow.

With the situation as it now stands the general opinion among Federal officials as well as operators seems to be that the strike may be a long drawn out affair.

GAIN IN COLORADO MINES AND IN WEST VIRGINIA

Congressman Currie Appeals to Michigan Coal Workers to Spurn Their Leaders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Government and the National Coal Operators' Association both announced this afternoon that further breaks in the ranks of the unionized miners had taken place within the last forty-eight hours.

The Department of Justice received information indicating that fifty per cent. more miners reported for work yesterday in Colorado than on Monday, in the Las Animas and Huerfano Fields. The report added that a considerable improvement was also shown in the La Fayette District of Colorado, and that the mines in Gunnison County, as well as the Victor American Mines, were running at full strength. The United Mine Workers have what is known as a working agreement with the Colorado miners and the officials of the union have maintained that the tie-up in Colorado was complete.

The breaks reported by the National Coal Association are in the West Virginia fields. A dispatch to the association from its representatives in Huntington, W. Va., stated that thirty-one union mines were in operation in that district today. Among them were ten of the New River mines, four of which resumed operation as non-union mines, one as an open shop mine, and the rest as union mines working under the old wartime agreement as to wages and hours.

Reports from Northwest West Virginia fields were that eighteen union mines were in operation, a gain of three since yesterday's report. Three union mines also resumed operation in the Kanawha, W. Va., fields, two of them as union and one as a non-union mine.

"West Virginia will today, (Wednesday,)" the report added, "produce about 200,000 tons of bituminous coal more than one half the normal output. All non-union mines are running at full capacity, with plenty of cars."

The Department of Justice made public tonight the text of a telegraphic appeal sent by Congressman Gilbert A. Currie, of Michigan, to the miners of Bay county, that State, in which he urges the miners to reject the mandate of their national leaders and take the word of the President as to the illegality of their action. Congressman Currie is a Republican and his letter is understood to have the unqualified indorsement of the Department of Justice. The letter reads:

"To the Coal Miners of Bay County, Michigan:

"As your representative in Congress, prompted by a sense of duty, and after conference with the Department of Justice, I appeal to your patriotism to heed the call of your Government, and return to work.

"Your controversy is no longer with the mine operators. The President of the United States has declared the coal strike 'unjustifiable and unlawful.' Congress, by a unanimous vote, has pledged every resource of the Government to meet the present industrial emergency and to vindicate the majesty and power of the Government. The conspiracy of your leaders will be reviewed and passed upon by the courts. Your conduct will be judged by public opinion everywhere.

"Apparently you have entered upon this strike by reason of your affiliation with the United Mine Workers of America and not because of any serious grievance against your operators. You have had little, if anything, to do with bringing about this strike.

"The responsibility, nevertheless, now devolves upon you to decide whether you will support the Government, which protects you and your families from aggression—or will you follow arrogant, un-American leaders, who, in order to enforce their demands, are willing to paralyze transportation and industry and impose cold, hunger, and even death upon countless thousands of innocent people.

"Your Government expects, and the public interest demands, that your allegiance and loyalty to the Government be acknowledged as greater than your obligation to the United Mine Workers of America, or any other organization. Are you with the Government or against it?

"The opportunity is yours to win the confidence and respect of your fellowmen by returning to duty and disavowing the dangerous leadership of those who have already brought your organization into public contempt. Your duty is clear. Show others the right course.

"You constitute the vast majority of Michigan coal miners, and I am honored to be your representative in Congress. I cherish the hope that by your prompt action the Government may be advised of your return to duty and that you will not await the collapse of the strike, which must inevitably come if free government is to survive.

"GILBERT A. CURRIE,
"Member of Congress, Tenth District, Michigan."

Asserting that Representative Currie was "one of the men in Congress who voted to bring Chinese labor into this country during the war," Stevenson added:

"Mr. Currie could better fulfill his duty to his constituency and help the country by making an appeal to the coal operators rather than imputing that law-abiding miners are outlaws."

ARMY PROTECTION PROMISED.

Threats Against Kentucky Workers—Full Powers to Garfield.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (Associated Press.)—Assurances were again given by the Government today in reply to inquiries that every protection would be afforded union or non-union miners willing to remain at work.

Kentucky operators, at a conference with Fuel Administrator Garfield, asked that troops be sent to that State because of threats made against working forces. They were told that while this was a matter for Cabinet action, if troops were needed they would be sent.

President Wilson, sick in bed, yet mindful of the serious conditions confronting the country as a result of the strike, issued orders giving Dr. Garfield authority to regulate the price, distribution and shipment of all fuel, including anthracite. This action restored all powers vested in Dr. Garfield during the war. The Fuel Administrator was in conference continually today, checking up on the coal supply and arranging with Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration for its distribution where it is most needed.

There will be no change at present in maximum coal prices fixed by the Government, Dr. Garfield told a delegation of operators. If the strike lasted, readjustments of price might be necessary, he said, "but there is nothing to talk about now." The operators had complained that the maximum limits were pinching them.

Mr. Garfield made it clear that the Government was acting in the interest of the people as a whole, and that the nation must be protected against some few operators and dealers who might be willing to take advantage of the emergency.

President Wilson would be directed to take over coal mines for one year, under a resolution introduced today by Representative Burke, Republican, of Pennsylvania. Negotiations with the miners' committee and arrangements for satisfactory wages and working conditions would also be conducted by the President under the resolution. The price of coal produced during the period when the mines would be under executive direction would be held to actual cost plus a reasonable return to the mine owners.

ASSAILS GOMPERS CHARGES.

Attorney Rowe Tells of Cut in Output Through Miners' Holidays.

Louis H. Rowe, an attorney at 165 Broadway, for years identified with the coal industry, replied yesterday to the statement issued by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, in which the labor leader took the coal operators to task for alleged indifference to their employes' welfare. Mr. Rowe said that the statement was "deceiving."

"Mr. Gompers," he said, "referred in his statement to the fact that miners obtain only intermittent employment and inferred that this was due to the operators. The fact is that the operators have nothing whatever to do with determining how long the miner shall remain at work. The reason for the breaks in employment lies with the railroads, which at times are unable to furnish coal cars enough to the mines.

"During the last two years some of the roads have been able to supply only 21 per cent. of the operators' needs, and none of them, even when they were operating at their peak, have been able to supply more than 80 per cent. of the cars needed by the operators.

"Then again, there is another reason, and one for which the employers cannot be held to blame. The foreigners among the miners take every possible excuse to declare a holiday. Some of them, I know this from personal experience, declare as high as fifty 'holidays,' exclusive of Sundays, a year.

"As to Mr. Gompers's statement that miners get on an average only a half-year's work, let me point out that before prohibition 50 per cent. of the miners would draw their pay on Saturday and not show up for work until Wednesday. Certainly, the operators would not do anything that would cripple the operation of their properties for a half week. The only time when the operators have been unwilling to give the miners work has been when the market price of coal has been so low that further operations could be undertaken only at a loss.

"Now as to the statement that in 1914 the operators granted [illegible] to the miners and then advanced the price of coal to $3 a ton. Less than 10 per cent. of the output for that period was sold at this high price. The majority of the operators were bound under their regular yearly contracts to sell for a price of about $1.40 a ton, a profit of about 10 cents a ton. They could not have advanced their prices in the manner that Mr. Gompers's deceptive statement asserts they did, even if they had desired to do so."

PALMER SAYS KEENEY IS ALSO RESTRAINED

Asserts Indianapolis Injunction Enjoins West Virginia Strike Chief from "Restricting Output."

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Declaring that the coal strike "is in violation of the Fuel Control act," Attorney General Palmer, in a telegram to the United States District Attorney here late today, said the Federal injunction issued in Indianapolis restrains C. F. Keeney, President of District 17, United Mine Workers, from entering into "any agreement or arrangement to restrict the output of coal."

The telegram was in reply to Mr. Keeney's inquiry as to whether he "was restrained by the injunction?" and if it would be a violation of the court order to send copies of his letter to President Wilson regarding the wage controversy to local unions.

Attorney General Palmer's telegram follows:

"Tell Mr. Keeney that the Administration's action is misunderstood by him, that the law forbids any agreement or arrangement to restrict the output of coal, that the strike is in violation of the Fuel Control act and cannot be continued, but that the Administration has taken no side in the wage controversy, and stands ready to assist in bringing about a settlement fair alike to the miner and the mine owner as soon as this illegal strike order is canceled and either side requests the Administration to act."

Mr. Keeney, in a statement tonight, said he interpreted the Attorney General's telegram as giving him permission to issue statements regarding the wage controversy, but that he was restrained from "encouraging the strike." Copies of the letter to the President will be sent to all local unions in the State, he said. This letter presents facts and figures of the working and living conditions of the miners in his district.

D. C. Kennedy, Secretary of the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association, said today that the operators "were going to sit tight and let the Government handle the controversy."

Mr. Kennedy reported that the Westerly and the Kingston mines in the Kanawha field, with a total output of 70,000 tons, were operating under a union agreement. These are the only two union mines operating in the southwestern section of the State, he said.

MARYLAND MINES START UP.

Ten Opened Since Monday—Six Scheduled for Next Week.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 5.—It is expected that all of the six mines on the Preston County Railroad, operating in Garrett County, and the Preston Company, West Virginia, will be in full operation by the first of the week. Two more mines on the road are to start tomorrow, cars having been ordered placed. A report received here from the Fairmont Field stated that eighty-five cars were loaded today as against seventy-five yesterday.

The Baltimore & Ohio has placed 200 cars along the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad for loading, ten mines having started up since Monday. The combined output is about fourteen cars. The road mine on the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad, near Mount Savage, this county, is in operation. Its daily output is three cars. No large mines in this territory have resumed. The Baltimore & Ohio moved 2,300 loads of coal through here last night.

STRIKE RIOT IN YOUNGSTOWN

Women Pickets Throw Pepper at Sheriffs in Clash at Steel Mills.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Rioting broke out at the plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company again today when fifty women attacked the Sheriff and his deputies when they tried to keep the women from preventing workmen from entering the plant. Red pepper was thrown into the eyes of the deputies and the women tried to seize their revolvers.

Twenty-four women and four men were arrested after a sharp fight in which several women were slightly injured.

Fifty women gathered at another gate of the plant, but remained quiet.

The Sheet and Tube Company announced today that its last idle department had started, ten puddling furnaces being operated. The Carnegie Steel Company reported the resumption of another bar mill.

COAL MINERS QUIT COUNTRY

"No Wine, No Work," 60 Italians Give as Reason for Returning Home.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Sixty striking soft-coal miners from the Toluca (Ill.) bituminous field settled the strike to their own satisfaction today by marching into the Federal Building and obtaining sailing permits to leave the country at once. All were Italians who had previously obtained their passports and who applied for the final clearance papers, issued on proof that they had complied with internal revenue laws respecting income tax. They got their papers after herding into the office of Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Popper, who quizzed them as to their reasons for leaving.

"No wine, no beer, and no work in the mines," explained the spokesman for the band.

They then left for New York, refusing to be worried over the outcome of the miners' strike. All were union men and strikers, and they reported hundreds of others as ready to leave the Toluca fields and the United States for various parts of Europe in the near future.

CALLS FOR FORCING COAL AGREEMENT

William Green, Strikers' Secretary-Treasurer, Urges "Command" by the Government.

PREPARE INJUNCTION FIGHT

Miners' Leaders Complain That Court Order Damages Them in Public Opinion.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Leaders of the United Mine Workers continue to insist on a meeting with the operators as a means of settling the strike, although they do not say that no other method of settlement would be acceptable.

They assert that at none of the conferences with the operators before the strike took effect were the merits of the miners' demands considered. It is contended by some of them that not until such a conference has considered the merits of the demands and failed to come to an agreement should there be a resort to another method, such as arbitration by the tribunal which President Wilson said he stood ready to appoint.

When the statement of Assistant Attorney General Ames that the Government would not consent to vacating the injunction was read to Acting President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, he refused to make any comment. He was also silent as to a report that he was to go to Washington in the next day or two for a conference. As the Federal Court hearing comes up on Saturday it is not believed that he will go prior to that.

Lewis was asked, in connection with the statement of Samuel Gompers, if the miners would go back to work before beginning negotiations. He answered that the offer meant only "negotiations without reservation."

William Green, Secretary Treasurer of the United Mine Workers, returned today from Ohio. He said:

"The real way in which to settle the strike is for the Government to concentrate all its moral and legal influence toward bringing the operators and miners together and command them to reach an agreement. This is the practical way to get the mines started."

Mine workers say that the merits of the case were never reached at the conferences held some time ago because the operators first insisted that the Washington wage agreement would not expire until the President declared the return of peace, or until April 1, 1920, and that after the strike order was issued they insisted that it be rescinded before they would discuss the merits of the demands.

As to the question of the expiration of the Washington wage agreement, mine workers say that many of the operators held that the contract expired when the war ended and demobilization was ordered, and in support of this they say that Indiana operators asked months ago for the negotiation of a new wage agreement. At that time work was slack at the mines, and the miners say the operators probably assumed that it was a favorable time for negotiating a new contract. The miners at that time, it was said, favored a policy of waiting.

Meetings of Indiana and Ohio operators called for this week are construed by the miners' leaders as an indication of discontent among operators with the work of their committee that conferred with the Scale Committee of the miners.

Because of the restraining order issued by the Federal Court prohibiting any steps in promotion of the strike, the mine workers' organization feels that it is at a disadvantage in appealing to public opinion. Some of the leaders argue that under the Court order the scale committee could not be called to meet the operators because the restraining order ties up the funds of the organization and hence they say the order should be vacated in order to permit negotiations.

Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, said today:

"Letters and telegrams from newspapers and periodicals throughout the country have been received at the headquarters of the United Mine Workers requesting information in regard to the issues involved in the controversy between the miners and the operators. However, it might be claimed that the Federal Court injunction, issued at the request of the Government, prevents the miners from presenting their side of the case to the public at this time. The miners are obeying this injunction to the letter, and under these circumstances the public can only form its own conclusion and base its judgment upon the evidence presented by one side through the public press."

Attorneys for the mine workers are preparing a defense in court on Saturday, and it is understood that they will file a motion to dismiss the whole proceedings.

OPERATORS CLAIM VICTORY.

Say Coal Strike Is Broken in Colorado—Denial from Miners.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 5.—Coal operators in the Trinidad and Walsenburg coal fields today say the strike of miners is broken. Union leaders in the same districts say it has only started.

Owners of mines base their assertions on reports from superintendents that more men appeared for work when the 7 o'clock whistles blew this morning than at any other time since the walkout started last Saturday. Union men say the number of men out has made daily gains, and that they have signed up new union contracts with several small independent mines, where owners have agreed to produce coal only for local consumption until the strike ends.

pany. I. Elkin Nathans, Secretary of the New York Milk Conference Board, Inc., gave out a statement "showing the weekly payroll of one of the largest companies, both on the basis of the old wages and the new, with the increased number of employes necessary for a six-day operation."

The figures show these comparative totals:

	Old Contract. Amount.	New Contract. Amount.

"Dividing the increased cost of $21,064 per week by 2,287,850 quarts of milk sold on these routes, it will be seen the increased cost per quart, account of adjustments to organized labor, alone is 9.207 mills per quart. Add to this 4.93 mills, which is the increase paid to the farmer per quart in November over October, and the result is $.013937 increased cost per quart to organized labor and the producers only.

"With the increases which will necessarily have to be granted unorganized labor, including the clerical forces, who have been promised consideration as soon as the organized labor contract is disposed of, it will be seen that the increase of 1½ cents will be entirely consumed in the increased cost, and the fictitious figures named in the Hearst papers of profit resulting to the distributers in this advance are entirely without foundation. My personal feeling is the Sheffield Farms Company in announcing an increased price of only 1½ cents per quart has not fully covered its increased cost."

No increase in price of milk for November has yet been announced by Borden's Farm Products Company, Inc., and the October prices are still in effect. An official of the company said yesterday that announcement of an increase probably would be made today. He did not indicate how much the increase would be. Heretofore all the distributors have been charging the same price.

"There is no doubt there will be an increase," said Patrick D. Fox, Vice President of the company, "but just how much or when it will become effective, I cannot say."

The Clover Farms, Inc., announced its prices for November. These were the same as those of the Sheffield Farms Company. Grade B in quart bottles is 17½ cents; pints, 10 cents; Grade A, quarts, 20 cents; pints, 12 cents.

The Reid Union Dairy Company, in Brooklyn, has not decided what increase will be made, it was said at the offices.

COAL SHORTAGE FELT IN WESTERN STATES

Train Service Is Curtailed and Several Districts Ask Release of Confiscated Fuel.

IOWA PROTEST TO HINES

Warns Him It Must Have Coal—Factories and Schools Close Down in Kansas.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Beginning of curtailed railroad service and the pinch of inadequate supplies of soft coal in several States today marked the fifth day of the miners' strike. So far as the strike itself was concerned there was little change, although operators in West Virginia and Colorado reported gains in production.

The principal developments were the following:

Removal of six passenger trains from service of the Chicago and Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroads.

Several Nebraska towns appeal to State Railway Commission for coal.

Iowa Fuel Administrator sends complaint to Washington against railroads seizing coal while luxurious continental trains continue running.

California coal dealers request Governor Stephens to ask the Fuel Administrator to release confiscated coal to prevent a possible shortage in that State.

Coal seized in transit is released on orders of Fuel Administration for relief in some districts.

Topeka, Kan., schools close tomorrow for one week; brick factory closed; many coal dealers' bins empty and employes laid off.

Missouri coal dealers have asked for the revival of the State Fuel Administration.

Iowa Fears a Shortage.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 5.—Charles Webster, Fuel Administrator for Iowa, sent a telegram to Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, today, in which he said Iowa officials will endeavor to find means to obtain coal unless some of that confiscated by railroads is released quickly. The message read:

"I have great respect for your judgment and fairness, but I believe that you do not understand the true situation in Iowa. This emergency compels me to speak plainly. I am authorized by the Governor to say that unless quick action can be taken in releasing coal which in our judgment is necessary we shall endeavor to find some means to obtain the property belonging to the citizens of this State. We do not believe there is any law in peace times that will deprive the citizens of the State of Iowa of heat, water, health, and happiness in order that the Railroad Administration may be allowed to run luxurious California trains over the State and continent."

Appeals for assistance to obtain coal from many cities and communities in the State continued to pour into Mr. Webster's office today. In many places the situation is approaching conditions which will result in much suffering.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Nov. 5.—Division officers of the Northwestern Railroad here announced that two passenger trains had been canceled and that way freight service had been curtailed because of the coal strike.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 5.—Word that orders to release all coal from Utah mines now held in this State by the Railroad Administration have been issued was received here at noon today by A. D. Pierson, sales manager of the Utah Coal Company, from F. E. Clarity, Assistant Regional Director, with offices at Chicago.

This order means, Pierson stated, that Utah coal dealers will be able to get coal as before the embargo, and that all shipments will be sent through as billed.

Troops from Camp Kearny, Cal., have arrived at Helper. The whole coal area was reported quiet today, with work continuing at all mines.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—Insistent calls for coal from several Nebraska towns were received by the State Railway Commission here today.

In connection with the coal situation acting Governor Barrows issued a statement to the people asking them to conserve as much fuel as possible.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 5.—As a means of conserving the city's fuel supply the Detroit Coal Exchange, consisting of local distributors, is considering regulation of distribution of coal for domestic consumption. The plan was suggested by Mayor Couzens.

FARRINGTON FOR RESISTANCE.

Says Miners Stand Against "Wrongful Compulsion" by Government.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 5.—Protraction of the strike of soft coal miners is bound to result from the position of the Government in refusing to vacate the strike injunction, Frank Farrington, Chairman of the Miners' National Scale Committee and President of the Illinois Mine Workers, said today.

"If Assistant Attorney General Ames bespeaks the continued position of the Government, the strike will be of long duration," Farrington said. "Such means may discourage and defeat the mine workers in certain isolated spots, but so far as the effect on the general situation is concerned, the means is bound to fail of results, and will only make the mine workers in strongly organized fields more determined to carry on the strike.

"The mine workers have no desire to assume a defiant attitude toward the Government. They are loyal Americans. The very fact that they are loyal Americans is the thing that will make them resist to the last any attempt at wrongful compulsion, whether that compulsion may be employed by the Government or by whomever it may be employed.

"The miners have a just cause, and they know it, and they will not be swerved from their determination to have their complaints adjusted in a just manner."

Farrington said that reports from all the sub-districts showed that the strike was everywhere progressing favorably for the miners.

"Everything is 100 per cent fine," he said, "and will remain so until our demands are granted."

PITTSBURGH HEARS OF BREAK.

Reports Chartiers Valley and Johnstown Miners Returning to Work.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—In the Pittsburg district all the union coal mines are closed, only a few men working to keep the machinery in working condition, and to care for the horses and mules. A large number of small mines are running to capacity, wagons and trucks supplying public service stations with coal.

In the Allegheny and Kiskiminetas Valleys the miners show no disposition to return to work, but the wagon mines and the non-union mines are using all the men they can handle, working double turn. In the Uniontown, Brownsville District, and Fayette County all the mines are working, the men being protected by the presence of United States troops encamped in South Brownsville. Reports from the Greensburg section indicate that 100 per cent. of the mines are working and that production is increasing.

From Canonsburg comes the report that the Chartiers Valley men are in favor of returning to work, and that union officials are becoming alarmed at the sentiment against the strike. The same is reported true of the Johnstown district, running up into Somerset County, where the mines of the Berwind-White Company are located. Company officials say that all their men are at work and that there are no signs of dissatisfaction.

In the Mercer district the officials of the union promised that there would be defections from their ranks, but all the men showed up for work this morning.

Philip Murray, President of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, said tonight that the union was holding its own, and would continue to do so. He contended that the union was intact and that they were making no effort to get non-union men out of the mines.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5. (Associated Press.)—The distribution of coal confiscated by the Government to essential industries in the Pittsburgh district began today. The movement was expedited by the preparations of the railroads for the last two days in anticipation of the Government's approval of applications for fuel. The domestic coal supply was reported somewhat improved. Retail coal dealers attributed this to higher river stages which permitted the shipping of coal held at the mines.

CITIZENSHIP IS DENIED TO FIVE COAL STRIKERS

Pittsburgh Court Says They Cannot Take Oath and Remain Out in Defiance of the Government.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—Five striking coal miners, four of them overseas veterans of the late war, were denied citizenship this morning in the United States courts by Federal Judge Orr.

After several score of other applicants for citizenship had been called and successfully passed, William McKinstry of Slovan, Penn., a widower with two children, was examined.

He said he had worked for the Erie Coal Company for the last thirteen years.

"Well, are you working now?" asked Judge Orr.

"No, Sir," replied McKinstry.

"Why?" asked the court.

"We are on strike," McKinstry replied.

"The President of the United States and the United States Government have declared the strike of coal miners illegal and against the Constitution of the United States. I cannot let you take the oath of allegiance to this country while you are on strike," said Judge Orr.

"You could not faithfully take it and remain on strike in direct defiance or opposition to the Government," the court added.

The next applicants, four in number, were called, and it developed that they were all overseas soldiers, two of them having been wounded in action. The men gave their names as Domenico Fornello, an employe of the National Coal Company of Morgan; Angello Servate of Avonmore, an employe of the Hicks Coal Company; Battesby Donaili and Amilio Marchesini, both of Fredericktown and employes of the Clyde Coal Company.

"Are you men working at the present time?" asked Judge Orr.

They all replied that they were not, and, when asked why, said they were on strike.

Fornello, who acted as spokesman for the men, said he was willing to go to work but that he was afraid.

"Well, what are you afraid of? The Government has declared the strike illegal," said Judge Orr.

"If I return to work they will shoot me," said Fornello. He then told of having been warned by striking miners that if he remained at work he would be shot.

"I do not want to get shot," he said, "and so I have stayed away from the coal mine. These strikers mean what they say and I am afraid they would shoot me if I went back to work."

Judge Orr repeated his statements made in the McKinstry case.

"However, I will not dismiss these cases absolutely," he said. "I will hold them over until after the coal strike is settled."

An Italian interpreter, who accompanied the men into court, afterward explained to the men the full import of the court's remarks and their exact status in the Federal courts.

ward the close of a day that witnessed more activity on the water fronts of this port than has been in evidence since the walkout started four weeks ago. T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, who predicted that the men would return to work after Election Day, asserted yesterday morning, after checking up reports received from his lieutenants, that at least 25,000 longshoremen were back at work.

Normal Sailing Conditions.

Normal sailing conditions will soon be restored, it was said by steamship officials last night. The White Star Line yesterday reported that the steamship Lapland would sail for Cherbourg Saturday and the Baltic is expected to leave on Nov. 15 for Liverpool. The Carmania was reported to have left Halifax yesterday for this port, after a delay of four days in Halifax, which port is reported as greatly congested on account of the suspension of activities in this port.

Mayor Hylan last night sent to Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, Washington the following telegram:

This afternoon I appeared at a meeting of the longshoremen held at Tammany Hall. After addressing the meeting and urging the men to return to work, immediately they agreed to do so at the old rates of 65 cents and $1 pending the decision of the National Adjustment Commission upon the application for a rehearing on the award to be made by representatives of the various locals and the Board of Conciliation composed of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Vaccarelli and myself. The action of the longshoremen was in line with the recommendations made to them by the Board of Conciliation appointed by you. A motion was made and unanimously carried that the longshoremen of New York and vicinity pass a vote of thanks and confidence in Secretary of Labor Wilson and the Board of Conciliation for their efforts to settle their difficulties in an amicable manner.

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Mr. Vaccarelli last night issued a statement urging the longshoremen to return to their work "not in a surly or vindictive spirit," but with the determination to give the employers a full dollar's worth of work for every dollar they pay.

GOMPERS FOR LESS THAN 8-HOUR DAY

Tells Labor Conference That Is a Maximum and He Hopes to Shorten It.

MOTION BY HIM IS BEATEN

Report by Majoribanks, British Delegate, Opposes Too Much Work Restriction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Making his first address before the International Labor Conference, in which he sits as an unofficial representative of labor, Samuel Gompers declared today for the straight eight-hour day as a maximum as compared with the forty-eight-hour week and incidentally served notice that in the United States even the eight-hour day would be shortened if labor could accomplish its purpose.

Mr. Gompers spoke in reply to a majority report on the part of employer delegates favoring the principle of reducing hours, but stating that it could not be put in force generally at this time, owing to the need for increased production as a result of the war.

The report, submitted by D. S. Majoribanks of Great Britain, pointed out the need for special effort "to make good the shortage of food supplies, the reconstruction of devastated areas, and the replacement of machinery," and declared that the progressive increase in the cost of living "would lead to disaster unless the seeds of the present situation were considered in conjunction with the aims of the labor representatives."

Stoutly denying that output could be increased over a considerable period of time by lengthening hours, Mr. Gompers characterized the American workman as the most productive in the world, and said industrial history proved the eight-hour day to be more productive than a ten or twelve hour day.

Late in the conference session Mr. Gompers again took the floor to move that the entire subject of hours of work be referred to a commission. A motion offered yesterday by George N. Barnes, member of the British War Ministry and Government delegate, and numerous amendments proposed today, had been the subject of discussion throughout the session.

The American labor leader's motion was lost by a vote of 30 to 41, with a majority of the labor delegates voting "no." Mr. Gompers raised his hand in the affirmative, but his vote was not counted by the Secretary because of his unofficial status.

Mr. Barnes's motion provided that the Draft Convention on the forty-eight-hour week prepared by the Organizing Committee be made the basis for discussion, but this was opposed by labor delegates on the ground that it excluded the eight-hour day from consideration.

A substitute resolution providing that the convention "relating to the eight-hour day and the forty-eight-hour week, as a maximum," be accepted as a basis for discussion, offered by Léon Jouhaux, French labor representative, was also defeated.

Then the original motion, with an amendment by Arthur Fontaine of France, striking out the objectionable words "forty-eight-hour week," followed the fate of the other proposals.

The conference, with its slate clean, then adjourned until 3 P. M. tomorrow.

In opening the debate today, Mr. Majoribanks said that realization of shorter working hours was subject to the following conditions:

A guarantee that all industries should work to their normal full capacity.

Unanimous agreement to maintain and increase output.

The adoption of provisional measures which would enable speedy production and normal distribution in those industries the upkeep of which was indispensable to the economic life of the nations of the world.

Postponement of the enforcement of the principle for five years in cases where it would hinder the restoration of the devastated areas of Europe.

J. A. E. Verkade of Holland and E. Baroni of Italy, both employer delegates, announced that they dissented from the majority report, while Dietrich Schindler, Swiss employer, gave notice of his adherence to it.

The German and Austrian delegates to the conference having failed to obtain passage to America, the Supreme Council at Paris has agreed to endeavor to arrange bookings, according to a cablegram received today by the conference.

TO HELP WORKING MOTHERS.

International Women's Congress Recommends Fitting Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Preparatory to adjournment tomorrow, the first International Working Women's Congress today considered a plan of permanent organization.

A suggestion by the British delegation that provision be made for affiliation to a certain extent with specified political organizations was countered by a plan submitted by a group representing practically all the other delegations, which would limit membership to trade union organizations. Under the latter plan another international meeting would be called within the year, at the same time and place as the meeting of the International Labor Conference of the League of Nations. It was suggested the headquarters of the congress be in the United States.

Recommendations for legislation, safeguarding mothers and babies obtained a majority approval, as did a resolution favoring the prohibition of night work, both for men and women, except in continuous industries regarded as a public necessity.

TAMMANY LOSES TEN ALDERMEN

Control of the Board Cut Down to a Majority of Only Three.

SOCIALISTS DOWN TO FOUR

Present Representation Is 35 Democrats, 25 Republicans, 4 Socialists, 3 Fusionists.

The Democrats retain control of the Board of Aldermen, as a result of Tuesday's election, by the slim margin of three votes. The makeup of the 1920-1921 board will be 35 Democrats, 25 Republicans, 3 Socialists, and 3 Fusionists.

Should the Republicans unite with the Socialists and Fusionists Tammany will have a majority of just three. In the last year, however, the Republicans have shown little disposition to combine with the Socialists. So unless the Tammany leadership goes to pieces there is little chance of their losing control of the board.

The make-up of the new board represents a gain of ten votes for the Republicans and a similar loss by the Democrats. The Socialist loss of three seats is balanced by the addition of three Fusion members. The Democrats will retain control of the important committees, but a Republican, F. H. La Guardia, as President of the board, will be able to see to it that his party has full representation on them.

As the President of the Borough of Manhattan has a vote in the board on certain matters the Tammany majority can be reduced to two should there be a combination of all anti-Tammany forces.

The following table shows the vote in detail:

Manhattan.

1—Donnelly, (D.,) 4,012; Fanill, (R.,) 2,636; Sloan, (Soc.,) 607. Donnelly's plurality, 1,376.
2—Stapleton, (D.,) 4,888; Sassi, (R.,) 2,375. Stapleton's plurality, 2,513.

SOCIALISTS' VOTE SHOWS FALLING OFF

Oneal Polls 126,365, Compared with Hillquit's Support of 145,322 in 1917.

Socialist leaders yesterday professed to view with satisfaction the result of Tuesday's election, although the returns showed that the party cast fewer votes in the city than in 1917. In that year Morris Hillquit, running for Mayor on the Socialist ticket, polled 145,322 votes. In 1918, Ervin, the Socialist candidate for Governor, obtained 85,552 votes. On Tuesday, in the entire city, James Oneal, Socialist candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, polled 126,365 votes. The leaders considered this an excellent showing in view of the fact that 1919 was an "off year" in politics; that the party lacked a leader and that there was a split in the organization. On the other hand, women did not vote in 1917, so that the vote this year, for purposes of comparison, should be reduced by about half.

Not a single Socialist Assemblyman was elected outside of New York City, the increase coming entirely from Manhattan and the Bronx.

The Socialist representation in the Board of Aldermen from Manhattan was was reduced to one, three Socialist candiates who were defeated coming from this borough. The party's greatest loss was the defeat of Algernon Lee, leader of the Aldermanic Socialists who was defeated by Moritz Graubard, who ran on a fusion ticket of the Democratic and Republican parties.

In the new Aldermanic Board Manhattan and Brooklyn will each have only one Socialist member, while the Bronx will have two. In the present board Manhattan has four Socialist members, Brooklyn two, and the Bronx one. Brooklyn lost one Socialist on Tuesday and the Bronx gained one.

Lee Defeated in Close Race.

Lee ran his opponent a close race in the Eighth Aldermanic District, losing by only 256 votes. The vote was: Lee, 4,820, and Graubard, 5,076. The sole surviving Manhattan Socialist is A. Beckerman of the Sixth District. He defeated E. L. Silverstein, who received both the Republican and Democratic indorsement, by 568 votes.

The total vote was: Silverstein, 5,031, and Beckerman, 5,599.

The other two Socialists to be defeated in Manhattan were A. Held, in the Fourth District, and Edward F. Cassidy, in the Twentieth District. Held was defeated by Louis Zeltner, running on a Democratic-Republican fusion ticket. He received 3,690 votes and Zeltner 4,955. In the Twentieth District Sullivan also had the benefit of fusion, but barely managed to pull through. His plurality was only 37 votes. The vote was: Sullivan, 3,932; Cassidy, 3,895.

The defeated Brooklyn Socialist was B. C. Viadeck, who ran in the Fifty-sixth Aldermanic District against Harry Heyman, the Democratic candidate, and T. E. Muller, Republican. Heyman won by 1,301 votes. Abraham I. Shiplacoff, former Assemblyman, will be Brooklyn's sole Socialist representative in the board, as he replaces B. Wolff for the Fifty-ninth District. Shiplacoff's plurality was 6,540 votes.

Abraham W. Josephson, running on the Socialist ticket in the Twenty-eighth (Bronx) District, defeated Edward W. Curley, the Democratic incumbent, by 2,923 votes. A. Braunstein, in the Thirty-second District, the Bronx, was re-elected by a plurality of 2,189 votes.

An analysis of Tuesday's vote shows that the Socialist strength is tending toward the Bronx. That borough polled the highest Socialist vote it has ever recorded, a total of 41,703. While the party lost strength in all the other boroughs, the Bronx showed an increase over both the 1917 and 1918 figures, and this, the leaders said, accounts for the gain of one Alderman, while the party in Manhattan and Brooklyn was falling behind.

Socialist Vote in 1917 and 1919.

	Oneal. 1919.	Hillquit. 1917.
Manhattan	45,244	51,176
Bronx	30,655	30,374
Brooklyn	41,703	48,880
Queens	7,854	13,477
Richmond	909	1,425
Total	126,365	145,322

Two Socialist members of the Assembly were elected from the Bronx, both taking places now occupied by Democrats. Samuel A. De Witt defeated Robert S. Mullen, who served in the Assembly in 1918-19 in the Third District. In the Fourth District Samuel Orr, who was a member of the Assembly in 1918, won over M. Maldwin Fertig. In these two districts the Socialists won in three-party contests.

In Manhattan the Socialists re-elected August Claessens, in the Seventeenth Assembly District, by a plurality of forty-nine votes. Joseph N. Schulz was the Democratic-Republican fusion candidate. In the Eighth Manhattan District Louis Waldman, a civil engineer and member of the 1918 Assembly, won over Herman Weiss, the Democratic-Republican fusion candidate. In the Twenty-third Assembly District in Kings Charles Solomon, Socialist, was re-elected.

ECLIPSES AND GRAVITATION.

Prof. See Thinks the Former Have a "Screening" Effect on the Latter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—Professor T. J. See of Mare Island, Cal., in an address before the California Academy of Sciences tonight, announced that his researches on gravitation in 1917 and his latest researches on molecular forces confirmed the claims recently put forth by Professor Maiorana of Rome that a screening of gravitation has been shown to exist.

"In 1917," said Professor See, "I explained the fluctuations of the moon's mean motion by the circular refraction of the sun's gravitation waves, as they are propagated through the solid body of our earth at the time of lunar eclipses. Some months back, before Professor Maiorana announced his results a Rome, I found, in dealing with capillary forces, that quicksilver is very resistant to the waves which produce molecular action, and this developed a new theory of the depression of the mercury in capillary tubes.

"It seems absolutely certain that a screening effect in gravitation is shown by eclipse phenomena connected with the motion of the moon and by the depressions of columns of mercury in capillary phenomena. This confirms Maiorana's claim that a basin of mercury beneath a suspended mass of lead may decrease the gravitation of the lead by a small amount.

"My researches on either show conclusively that gravitation is due to waves in the ether, and certain very resistant bodies in the line of action may thus introduce a slight screening effect."

APPEALS WARTIME DRY LAW.

Government Will Ask an Early Hearing Before Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Government today appealed to the Supreme Court from the decision of Federal Judge Evans of Kentucky, declaring unconstitutional the wartime prohibition act and ordering release of distilled spirits held in bond at Louisville.

A request to advance the case for early hearing is said to be planned.

Five vacancies in the Municipal Court in Brooklyn were filled in the election. Of these, the Republicans won two, and the Democrats, three.

In the Bronx two County Judges were elected, but the Democrats and Republicans had fused on the candidates; both of whom were Democrats, and there was no contest.

In Richmond, Joseph Moloy, the Democratic candidate for District Attorney, the only county office for which there was an election, won by a normal plurality of 3,999. In Queens there was no election of county officers.

Legislative Overturns.

The legislative elections went as badly against Tammany in Manhattan and the McCooey machine in Kings as did the elections for major offices. In Manhattan, the Republicans increased their delegation to the Assembly from five to eleven members. In Brooklyn, the Republicans made a net gain of eleven Assemblymen.

Perhaps the most sensational turnover in the legislative election was in Queens, where four Assembly districts were won by the Republicans and only two left to the Democrats. In other years the Fourth Assembly District in Queens is the only one which occasionally has shown an inclination to send a Republican to the lower house at Albany. And the Republicans elected a Senator from Queens, for the first time in the history of that borough. In addition to their losses to the Republicans, the Democrats lost three Assembly districts, two in Bronx and one in Manhattan, to the Socialists.

Threat of a Contest.

Charles D. Donohue, leader of the Democratic minority in the present Assembly, and during the campaign manager for Justice Robert L. Luce of the Supreme Court, who was a candidate for re-election on the Tammany ticket, announced that as Chairman of the Tammany Law Committee, he would make petition to the courts for an inspection of the ballots in a number of districts not named with a view to beginning proceedings for a recount of the vote cast for President of the Board of Aldermen and the Borough of Manhattan. Up to the time when the courts adjourned yesterday no proceedings had been begun.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, when told of Mr. Donohue's anouncement last night, said that he hoped Tammany would make good its threat.

"I sincerely trust they do not back out," said Mr. Koenig. "If they demand a reinspection of the ballots and a recount, we not only will show them up, but will gain thousands of votes, both for La Guardia and Curran. I had my men out last night while the count was in progress, and know what was going on in some districts, and they know that I know."

Chairman Koenig Jubilant.

Mr. Koenig was jubilant over the extent of the anti-Tammany victory, which will give the Republicans five votes in the Board of Estimate. From a political view this will be highly beneficial to the Republicans, who are seeking to lay the foundation for their Mayoralty campaign in 1921, when it is their intention to run a candidate for Mayor on a straight Republican ticket. In Republican circles it was more than intimated yesterday that City Magistrate Henry H. Curran, who has had considerable experience in municipal affairs as a member of the Aldermanic Board, might be groomed for standard bearer in that fight.

From a purely civic point of view, the Republican newcomers will be in a position to act as a check on the Democratic members of the board, which at present is, and but for the election of La Guardia and Curran would have continued to be, a Tammany entente. The Republican newcomers will hold the balance of power in the event that the looming differences between Mayor Hylan and Controller Craig are continued, and in any event will be in a position to block immediate consideration of measures before the board before sufficient light is let in on them.

Murphy Affable in Defeat.

Tammany leader Murphy appeared at the Wigwam yesterday as usual. He seemed affable even in defeat.

"Anything to say about the result of the election, Mr. Murphy?" he was asked.

"Nothing to say," said the Tammany chieftain.

"Any explanation of the defeat sustained by Tammany, to offer?" was asked next.

"That's past," said Mr. Murphy.

Then Mr. Murphy was asked if he intended to resign as leader.

"I am not," said Mr. Murphy with much emphasis.

Major Michael A. Kelly, candidate for Aldermanic President on the Liberty Party ticket, whose name was thrown off the ballot and who sent the "Now to the Tammany chieftain on Tuesday night after the returns had clearly indicated the coming disaster, said last night:

"The Liberty Party not only furnished the lid for Tammany's coffin, but we nailed it down. Thousands of our supporters made a frontal attack on Tammany by writing my name on their ballots. Many more thousands took the wigwam on the flank by voting for the Republican candidates. Practically every one of these ordinarily cast a straight Democratic ballot. Now they have left Tammany for good. I know what I am talking about."

Hylan's Lot Will Be Harder.

That Mayor Hylan will find his position a great deal more difficult, as a result of Tuesday's Tammany débâcle, was the general opinion in political circles. On the strength of Tammany's defeat it was predicted that William R. Hearst before long would seek to bring the Mayor more completely under his own influence than he is now, possibly even forcing a showdown. Mr. Hearst, it has been rumored, when he made his fight this year began it with a view to breaking down Tammany's strength and building a machine of his own in time for the next Mayoralty election.

So far, Mr. Hearst's sole interest in the Hylan administration has been to dictate its policies and, if possible, to commit the City Government to his own municipal ownership theories. He has been quite content to let the patronage in the Mayor's gift go to Tammany, and Tammany has received an ample share of the jobs. In many quarters, however, the day is regarded as not far off when a demand will be made on the Mayor by Hearst's spokesmen to withdraw his patronage from Tammany and apply it to the building of a Hearst-Hylan machine.

Smith Has "Nothing to Say."

Governor Alfred E. Smith had nothing to say about the result of the election when interviewed at the Biltmore yesterday. The Governor was at Tammany Hall until late on Tuesday night, not leaving until he was assured that the most of the Democratic candidates had been defeated. He will probably not return to Albany until Saturday.

DEMOCRATS LOSE 18 ASSEMBLYMEN

All in the City, Whose Tammany Representation Is Now at Low-Water Mark.

SOCIALISTS GAIN THREE

Majority Still Unable to Override a Gubernatorial Veto on Party Lines—Two Women Lose, 2 Gain Seats.

There will be fewer Democratic Assemblymen from this city at Albany next year than at any session within the memory of a member of the present Legislature. Complete returns from Tuesday's election to the Legislature show that the next Assembly will be composed of 109 Republicans, 36 Democrats, and 5 Socialists. The New York City delegation will be composed of 29 Republicans, 28 Democrats, and 5 Socialists. The two Socialists in Manhattan won by slender majorities over Republican-Democratic fusion candidates.

This represents a net gain for the Republicans in the State of 15 seats, a gain of 3 seats for the Socialists and a loss of 18 seats to the Democrats. The Democratic losses were all sustained in this city. In the present Legislature there are only 8 Republican Assemblymen representing New York City districts, 5 from Manhattan, and 3 from Brooklyn. The Republican gain of 21 seats in this city was offset by a loss of 6 Republican districts up-State to the Democrats, who more than held their own north of the Bronx River, and gained one district, the Second Suffolk, on Long Island. The up-State gains were in Erie, Lewis, Schenectady, Schoharie, and Sullivan. The Democrats lost only one district up-State now represented by a Democratic member—the First Rensselaer.

Two State Senators were elected on Tuesday, both from districts in this city. One election was in the Second District, which is in Queens, and the other in the Sixteenth, which is in Manhattan in the middle East Side. Both districts are normally heavily Democratic, but the Second was captured by the Republicans. As a result, there will be 30 Republicans to 21 Democrats in the next Senate. Thus, while the Assembly will have more than the two-thirds Republican majority necessary to override the Democratic Governor, the Senate will not, as the lawmaking body will be impotent to enact measures over Governor Smith's veto.

The following table shows the party representation in the New York City delegation in the Assembly by district and borough:

*Re-elected.

The successful fight of Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet against heavy odds in Oswego County will make his re-election as Speaker certain. The present leaders of the Republican majority and the Democratic minority in the Assembly, Simon L. Adler of Monroe and Charles D. Donohue of this city, will probably continue to fill these important posts in the next Assembly.

Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, who represents the Seventh Manhattan District in the present Assembly and is a Democrat, and Mrs. Ida B. Sammis, a Republican who represents the Second Suffolk District, were both defeated. Two women will sit in the next Assembly, however, Miss Margaret L. Smith of this city, who, on final returns was shown to have won in the Nineteenth (Manhattan) District, where she defeated a Democrat for re-election, and Mrs. Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Gillette defeated a Republican in the normally Republican Second Assembly District in Schenectady. Miss Smith is a teacher of athletics and Mrs. Gillette, physician.

SURE, LOUIE ZELTNER WON.

He's to be Alderman Now and the Fourth District Is Happy.

Sure, Louis Zeltner was elected to the Board of Aldermen. This did not surprise the voters of the Fourth Aldermanic District, for hundreds who live in the part of the city where 291 Henry Street, Louis's home is, remained up late election night to make sure their favorite had been voted into office.

Satisfied that this was so they got a band of musicians together, and early yesterday morning they marched to Alderman Zeltner's home and played "Hail, the Conquering Hero," while the new Alderman appeared on the steps, smiled his well known smile, and told how happy he was.

Probably no one is better known on the east side than is Louis Zeltner. He might be called an unattached journalist. No one is better acquainted in his section. Indeed, his sources of news are so many and varied that he became known to newspapermen as "Wireless Louie." He was assistant to the foreign language Publicity Director for the State Food Commission during the war, and he served in a similar capacity in the Armenian relief campaign.

It was as President of the Louis Zeltner War Savings Club that he particularly shone, and he is proud of that organization. His wife is Secretary-Treasurer, and the members are the ten little Zeltners. To those outside his district, Zeltner is best known as the President, general manager, Division Superintendent, managing editor, and reporter for the Zeltner Wireless News Association. If there is a wedding or a death, a row, or any kind of a story in the section, Louis usually got it, and let the newspapers know about it.

Both parties in the Fourth Aldermanic District picked Zeltner to defeat Adolph Held, a Socialist, seeking re-election. Zeltner said he could win and he did.

"What are my plans?" said "Wireless Louie." "My first plan is to represent the people of this district and to do it well. I will ask myself, 'What would you want if you were not an Alderman?' You see there is better qualified to ask that question, because I was born here—they are all my friends." He waved his hands to all points of the compass.

Zeltner's program includes a full measure of protection for those who sell from push carts in the crowded streets. "Nobody is going to put anything over on my friends," said Louie, "I am going on guard for the people. The people down here are intensely loyal, and intensely human. They gave to the Red Cross and welfare drives, and they bought Liberty bonds and War Savings Stamps to their limit. Lord, but it is good to live down here."

From the next room there came a voice. "Excuse me," said Louie. "The Louis Zeltner War Savings Association is about to meet, and it is to be an executive meeting."

Lots of Little Things

count more than the casual observer ever would dream. For instance, perfect gowning isn't merely a sweep of French lines, the rich dusk of furs, the soft flutter and tilt of a feather slenderly poised against a velvet hat,—it's more than all of these, it's the momentous genius of very little things. A deftly modeled glove, sheer artistry of pattern and mesh in veils, a bit of a handkerchief with the trick of Paris—upon such trifles hangs the full tale of woman's costuming.

o the 'ins of your fingers

you should be carefully clad. Your gloved hand is continually in view—you dip quickly into a velvet handbag, your fingers fly to adjust your hat; numberless times, too, you remove your gloves or put them on in public. For the short sleeved frocks so in vogue we have 16 button gloves of real French kid, priced at $6.24.

Hand in hand with fashion is a pair of short gloves of white pique kid, stitched in black or white. $2.79. And we have those smart cape models with straps at the wrist, in brown, beaver, tan, or gray. $4.69. But gloves—our department is supplied with all the latest kinds in colorings equally new.

Square fashions

Handkerchiefs, tiny, charming, have a thousand personalities. There are Irish linen ones hand embroidered with a spray of butterflies or flowers. $1.39 to $2.29. There are linen handkerchiefs with inlaid corners—$1.49 and $1.98. Or glove-size fancies bordered with real Armenian lace and hand embroidered .94.

French tricks

Imported colored handkerchiefs, with all sorts of novelties in designs, and hand-rolled hems, range in price from .98 to $2.69. One in rose has black silhouettes of poilus and peasnat maidens merrily dancing across the border — a whimsical thing—.98.

Cobwebs of lace, most exquisite of all, are handspun triple edged with real Val. lace and priced as high as $15.89.

EDWARDS'S LEAD IN JERSEY 14,078

Republicans Control Legislature with Majority of 4 in Assembly and 9 in Senate.

GOVERNOR-ELECT TO REST

He Will Continue Fight on Prohibition, but Dry Leader Says It Will Be Futile.

The final results of the New Jersey election disclosed yesterday that State Senator Edward I. Edwards, Democratic candidate, had piled up a plurality of 14,078 votes in the normally Republican State, but that he would enter office with a Republican Legislature to cope with.

With only one minor election district unreported the vote was 216,244 for Edwards, while State Controller Newton A. K. Bugbee polled 202,166 ballots. Shortly after his lead had passed the point where overtaking was unlikely, the Governor-elect received this telegram from President Wilson:

"Please accept my hearty congratulations upon your election."

The lineup of the Legislature, based upon figures available last night, showed that the Assembly would have thirty-two Republicans to twenty-eight Democrats, while the Senate will seat fifteen Republicans and six Democrats. This personnel gives the Republicans a majority of thirteen on join ballot of both houses, insures the re-election next April of Controller Bugbee, and will make difficult the fulfillment of Governor Edwards's pre-election promises to nullify Federal prohibition through State Legislation.

Warrants for 120 Election Officers.

County Judge Martin in Newark last night issued orders that warrants be sworn out today for 120 election officers in virtually every election district in Essex County, which includes Newark, to explain why they failed to place the names of registered voters on the polling books. In each district, it was explained, from one to twenty-five names of persons who had voted at the primaries were not carried on the polling books, which is contrary to law. Both Judge Martin and his colleague, Judge Osborne, declared that never before in the history of Essex County had so many errors been discovered at an election.

In conceding his opponent's victory, Controller Bugbee said:

"I feel this election indicates that New Jersey is very 'wet.' The ballots were not cast along the lines of political partisanship. It was a matter of 'wet' and 'dry.' Votes were split both ways. I don't think it was a contest between the Democratic and Republican Parties. I am sorry that the improvements and the board program started by the Republicans will be interrupted. I hope the incoming Governor will proceed along the same broad lines as did Mr. Edge when he was Governor.

"It means they will not put through any legislation unless approved by us," he said in response to a question in regard to the Republican complexion of the Legislature.

The attitude of the Anti-Saloon League, as ennunciated by James K. Shields, the William H. Anderson of New Jersey, was this:

"The League was not in this fight, aside from its passive support of Bugbee, the Republican candidate. It was not a factor because the Republican leaders were mainly 'wet,' and they wanted to conduct the campaign and we let them do it.

"There is no backward step anywhere. New Jersey could not step backward. It is already at the bottom and was grasping for the bottom rung of the social ladder and it grasped in vain. Now the dry residents are going to drink real water and nothing else in spite of Mr. Edwards's promise to make the State as 'wet' as the Atlantic Ocean.

Governor Will Fight Prohibition.

Tired out by his vigorous campaigning, Governor-elect Edwards last night asked to be excused from any detailed statement of his plans. He said the thing most in his mind was "whether I'll be able to arrange my affairs in time to get away Friday for a month's rest."

"I intend to keep the promises I made to the people in the campaign," he added, however, when pressed, "but I did not say I would use every legal means to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic Ocean. I was misquoted. What I said was that I would use my legal power to prevent the enforcement of the prohibition amendment. That I have always said. I do not believe in prohibition, and in fighting it I shall have good legal advice."

Complete returns from the election showed that Edwards carried seven of the State's twenty-one counties, winning Essex by 5,517; Hudson by 35,518; Hunterdon by 45; Somerset by 178; Sussex by 109; Union by 116 and Warren by 681. The counties that went to Mr. Bugbee and his pluralities were Atlantic, 4,322; Bergen, 2,480; Burlington, 1,118; Camden, 3,458; Cape May 1,273; Cumberland 2,016; Gloucester, 2,123; Mercer, 1,346; Middlesex 381; Monmouth 1,890; Morris, 2,776; Ocean, 1,313; Passaic, 1,483, and Salem, 1,028.

In Jersey City, the Democratic nominee obtained a plurality of 15,823 votes, and it was largely this strength here and elsewhere in Hudson County that clinched his election. He carried Hudson County by 35,000 votes. Newark was another source of Edwards' support, the city giving him a plurality of 11,491. Elsewhere however, in Essex County Bugbee forged ahead and the result for the entire county found Edwards leading by 5,517.

Bugbee when he came up to the northern counties was about 40,000 ahead. So soon however as the Democratic strongholds of Hudson and Essex began to register the erosion of the Republican lead began. Steadily reporting gains for Edwards, Essex brought him even with his opponent; then Hudson County put him ahead and kept him there.

Mixed Ticket in Essex.

As evidence of the independence of the voters, in Essex twelve Democrats were elected to the Assembly, while a Republican was chosen for Surrogate, and three Republicans were elected Freeholders. All of the Democratic selections for the Assembly were "Wet." Hugh C. Bartlett got the highest vote, 71,271, while the greatest Republican total was 33,893, which was some 2,200 below the lowest number of ballots cast for a Democrat. Howard Isherwood Republican appointed Surrogate by Governor Runyon about six months ago to fill a vacancy, was elected by a vote of 37,200 against 33,188 for Frederick Higelow, Democrat. The referendum for a pay increase for policemen and firemen won, the vote being 28,975 to 11,532.

WANT COTTON STOCKS HELD FROM MARKET

Wanamaker Asks 2,000,000 Bales Be Retired Until Prices Suit Association.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 5.—The American Cotton Association has recommended to its members the voluntary retirement from the markets of 2,000,000 bales of good grade cotton, said a statement issued here tonight by J. S. Wannamaker, President of the Association.

The intention of the Cotton Association, as announced by the President, is in accordance with a plan adopted by the organization at a meeting some weeks ago. This plan contemplates transfer to designated banks of warehouse receipts for specified amounts of cotton. This cotton under the plan would be held in trust until such a time as the association decides that prices justify the cotton being placed on the market.

ROLPH DEFEATS SCHMITZ.

San Francisco Returns Show a Close Race for District Attorney.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—James Rolph, Jr., was re-elected Mayor yesterday, defeating Eugene Schmitz, a former Mayor, by approximately 20,000 plurality, figures compiled from one-half of the vote of the city indicated.

Complete returns from 294 precincts out of 580 in the city gave Rolph 26,410 and Schmitz 14,407.

In the contest for District Attorney, Matthew Brady, Police Judge, was leading Charles M. Fickert, incumbent, by 40 votes, returns from practically one-half of the vote giving Brady 19,102 and Fickert 18,353.

The campaign for the District Attorneyship was given unusual prominence because of the fact that Fickert lead the prosecution of Mooney and others charged with murder in connection with the Preparedness Day bomb explosions in 1916.

All candidates ran on non-partisan tickets, there being no party designations.

Moore's Plurality Is 197,241.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—The plurality given Congressman J. Hampton Moore, Republican candidate for Mayor, at yesterday's election, was the largest ever given a Mayoralty nominee in this city. Complete revised totals show that he carried the city over Harry D. Wescott, his Democratic opponent, by a plurality of 197,241. The total vote for Mayor was: Moore, 227,739; Wescott, 30,498; Charles J. Bauer, Socialist, 6,820.

Toledo to Oust Street Railway.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Voters yesterday voted to oust the street cars from the streets, a check-up of the figures today showed. The Toledo Railways & Light Company, a subsidiary of the H. L. Doherty Company of New York, has been operating the system for several years without a franchise. Fares here were recently raised from 5 to 8 cents.

500 SEE CHINATOWN RAID.

Eighteen Welsh Pollen Accused as Alleged Gambling Haven.

More than 500 sightseers in Chinatown last night saw a raid on an alleged gambling room, and the round up and arrest of twenty-seven Chinese. They saw the arrival of the patrol wagon, heard the clanging of the bell, and saw the prisoners led down the stairs and carted away. What they did not know was that the whole raid was planned and carried out by a lone policeman, Benjamin Bailey, of Inspector Fennelly's staff.

Bailey, wearing a long, black overcoat, fell in behind a group of Chinese going upstairs in 16 Bowery. The first lookout was stationed behind a screen on the third floor. In the dimly lighted hall, Bailey, with his hat over his eyes, followed so closely that he heard the Chinese countersign. He had just got past the man at the door when he was recognised. The sentry reasned for the electric alarm, but the policeman passed him down the stairs.

The door on the fourth floor was guarded by a barbed wire entanglement. The lone raider leaped this barrier, jumped on three surprised Chinese who were in front of the door, pushed it open and entered.

Tables and chairs were overturned and men scrambled to pick up money, while others made for the windows. Bailey finally lined them up against the wall, and then blew a signal for the patrol wagon. The prisoners were charged with disorderly conduct.

OVERTURN IN GLEN COVE.

Republicans Gain Control of Council in Normally Democratic Town.

GLEN COVE, L. I., Nov. 5.—The control in the City Council has passed to the Republicans as the result of yesterday's election. That body will have three Republicans and two Democrats. Glen Cove is normally Democratic. James E. Burns, Democrat, was re-elected Mayor and Supervisor by a majority of 47, and Bryan Murray, Democrat, was re-elected Commissioner of Public Service.

The other three members of the council are Charles F. Valentine, re-elected Finance Commissioner by 488; Leonard T. Simonson, re-elected Commissioner of Public Works by 156, and Harry F. Webber, elected Commissioner of Accounts by 313, all Republicans in addition, two Democratic Assessors were elected—George M. Rehill and Martin Murray. Burns's opponent for Mayor was William H. Seaman, present Republican Supervisor for Oyster Bay.

Roosevelt Not After Legion Office.

In a statement issued yesterday, in anticipation of the convention of the American Legion in Minneapolis, to which he has been named a delegate, Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who was elected to the State Assembly from the Oyster Bay district Tuesday, announced he would not be a nominee for an office in the organization.

Although the ratification of the League of Nations covenant without change is one of the things nearest the heart of President Wilson, the titular head of Mr. Long's party, Mr. Long and the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee were strong in opposition to the covenant. Long and his campaign managers evidently hoped to capture the bulk of the Irish vote by proposing that the covenant be amended so as to permit the United States to take up the cause of Irish freedom. The outcome of the Massachusetts Gubernatorial contest, seems to indicate that Mr. Long's bait did not bring the support he expected from Massachusetts citizens of Irish birth and descent.

Prohibition, the League of Nations, and other national questions were practically ignored as factors in yesterday's elections, in the comment of Senators and Representatives. Rather generally they attributed the results in every State to other than national causes. Such an astute and partisan Republican politician as Senator James E. Watson of Indiana stated for publication that national issues did not play any material part in the elections. He conceded that in Kentucky, where the Republicans achieved a notable victory, the reason for Republican success was found in local problems. And of the result in Massachusetts he said that it was simply a victory for law and order.

Prohibition in the Election.

That the liquor question played a part in the election of the Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey was not doubted by the politicians, but they were inclined to believe that this outcome was merely a phase of local sentiment and pointed to the contrary result in Ohio in showing that different communities had different views on the prohibition question.

Congressmen generally regard prohibition as a dead issue. Some of them were disposed to criticise the management of the Republican campaign in New Jersey on the ground that it had permitted the Democrats to make prohibition a live question. President Wilson's veto of the prohibition enforcement act was suggested as one reason for the success of the Gubernatorial ticket.

The only reference to yesterday's elections heard on the floor of the Senate came from Senator Reed of Missouri, one of the Democratic Senators who have been in favor of changes in the League of Nations covenant.

We heard a rumble yesterday in the elections," said Mr. Reed. "We on this side of the chamber may go off in a corner and hold a meeting with ourselves and resolve that the League of Nations had nothing to do with it; but it is my opinion that it had much to do with it, and the only place where we saved our skins was where we rallied the cohorts of John Barleycorn and raised the glorious issue of free booze to a point where all other issues were obscured."

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who is in charge of the Versailles treaty for the administration, expressed this view of yesterday's elections:

"I believe the results in most States were based on purely local issues. There was no special national significance except in Massachusetts where the result was highly gratifying."

Man Wanted

A growing organization needs a man—a man who is a capable executive—a finished salesman—and a regular man

He must be young enough to have speed and imagination, and old enough to have balance. He must be able to sell the stock of this company to real investors. It would be well if he knew them, but that does not matter. We can furnish ample introduction.

The man we want is probably not a stock salesman—if he is, he is entirely different from the general run—for he must be a man who would absolutely decline anything but the soundest and most honorable business.

To this man this stable organization offers an excellent financial return. He must be worth at least $8,000, how much more he earns depends on his own ability and on how well he can fit in with the rest of us.

Strictest confidence will be preserved.

NATION'S APPLAUSE FOR GOV. COOLIDGE

Flood of Messages from All Over the Country Congratulate Governor on Victory.

TALKED OF FOR PRESIDENT

But He Refuses to Comment—The Final Count Put Plurality at 124,273.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Governor Coolidge was today perhaps the happiest and the busiest man in the Commonwealth. While it was freely predicted that he would win by a substantial majority, there was not a single leader in either political party who dreamed that he would win with such a tremendous plurality. The phrase on almost every lip is Daniel Webster's famous line: "Massachusetts, there she stands! She needs no eulogy from me."

Perhaps the most remarkable happening that has come to a Governor of this or any other State came to Governor Coolidge when he, a Republican, received a congratulatory telegram from President Wilson.

Governor Coolidge was also flooded with telegrams of congratulation from all over the country.

The Governor would not comment on the possibility of his sweeping victory for law and order as against radicalism thrusting him into the limelight for the Republican nomination for President in 1920.

Among the many telegrams of congratulation were the following:

From Governor Goodrich of Indiana: "Congratulations on your splendid victory. It is a fine tribute to you and is a victory for Americanism which will be felt all over the country."

From Governor Holcomb of Connecticut: "I congratulate you upon the collclusive indorsement by the electors of Massachusetts of your fearless stand for genuine American ideals."

From Governor Shoup of Colorado: "Accept my congratulations on the splendid indorsement given you by the people of Massachusetts yesterday."

From Governor Milliken of Maine: "You have upheld American ideals in a manner worthy of the best traditions of Massachusetts. The profound significance of your smashing victory cannot be overestimated. Best wishes for yourself. Congratulations to Massachusetts and the nation."

From Charles E. Hughes: "You have won a victory not only for Massachusetts but for the people of the entire country."

The great vote that Governor Coolidge received in this city, a great Democratic stronghold, has set the Democratic leaders to thinking. On every side is heard the prediction that the name of Calvin Coolidge will be heard from in the next Republican Presidential convention.

The Final Figures.

Final returns of the election show that Governor Coolidge received 317,608 votes as against 193,335 for Richard H. Long. His plurality of 124,273 is second only to that of Governor Wolcott in 1896, who defeated George Fred Williams, Democratic nominee, by 126,000. Another impressive feature of the victory was the fact that the total vote, 550,000, fell only about 4,000 short of the 1916 record vote.

Governor Coolidge's big vote not only carried in the entire Republican State ticket but also enabled the Republicans to win in all but five of the thirty-seven cities, including nine that went for Long last year, and 311 of the 336 towns, and added three seats in the Senate. The Republicans lost four seats in the House, which does not affect their control of that body.

Much credit for the outcome of the election must be given to the soldiers and sailors who returned to their homes since the State election of 1916. They voted for the Governor yesterday without thought of party affiliation.

SPROUL ON COOLIDGE VICTORY.

Pennsylvania Governor Calls It Body Blow to Radicalism.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania today commented on the result of the Massachusetts election as follows:

"The election of Governor Coolidge is a blow to radicalism and the sinister influences that are trying to bore into the institutions of this country. His election is splendid proof that when the issue of law and order and Americanism is raised the people will stand by law and order and Americanism. It upholds the forces that are working for industrial peace. I want to that State to do what I could to help Governor Coolidge, because I though the issue was vital to all of us. The support given to him will put courage into the hearts of public officials."

Governor Sproul has sent this telegram to Governor Coolidge:

"Your victory has helped the whole country. It is a body blow to radicalism and irresponsible democracy."

CANADIANS' SUGAR NOW OFFERED HERE

Tender of 1,000 Tons Follows Threat by Food Head to Seize 6,000-Ton Cargo.

BOARD TO FIX THE PRICE

Williams Refers Proposal to the Federal District Attorney for Consideration.

C. H. McLean, Secretary and Treasurer of the St. Lawrence Refining Company, a Canadian firm owning about 6,000 tons of raw sugar at present on board ship in New York Harbor, and whose agents recently offered 1,000 tons of this cargo on the New York market at a price for United States food authorities considered excessive, visited Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams yesterday and offered to sell the 1,000 tons in the market here at a price to be fixed by the United States Sugar Equalization Board. Mr. Williams referred the proposal to Assistant United States District Attorney Ben A. Matthews for consideration.

The offer which the Canadians made followed a threat by the Food Administrator to seize the entire 6,000 tons held here by the company, because of the attempted transaction wherein the price was held to be excessive.

Mr. McLean called on the Food Administrator in person, having hurried down from Ottawa, where he had been in conference with the Canadian Trade Commission. He admitted the sugar had been offered here, but maintained that the offer was made in entire ignorance of the United States regulations. He declared that the 6,000 tons was badly needed in Canada at present and that it would be impossible therefore to let it go for distribution here. He proposed, however, in view of the offer of the company's agents, to sell 1,000 tons at a price to be fixed by the Sugar Board.

The following telegram was received from the Canadian Trade Commission by the Food Administrator:

"Press dispatches appearing in papers of this date state that you are investigating alleged attempt by Canadian refinery to sell raw sugar in New York market. Refinery in question states that proposed transaction was first submitted to United States Sugar Equalization Board. We would welcome full investigation in the matter, and to this end have advised representative of the refinery to go to New York. From dispatches implied threat is made to seize raw sugar in New York Harbor intended for Canadian consumption. We would protest most strongly against any such action as sugar situation in Canada is serious and will require all raw sugar to meet present needs."

In reply, Mr. Williams wired: "Your telegram of Nov. 5 received. Representative of St. Lawrence Refinery here this afternoon. Admits offering 1,000 tons of raw sugar now in New York Harbor at 11½ cents a pound, not including duty, which added, would bring price at refinery to nearly 13 cents. Canadian representative now proposes leaving this 1,000 tons here, as offered, at a fair price to be approved of by the United States Sugar Equalization Board. Proposal now being considered by United States Attorney. No intention of deferring movement in any way of other Canadian sugar in this port. As you state, permission to sell the sugar was given by the United States Sugar Equalization Board. No price was named, but it was expected that the price would be fair and in compliance with United States regulations."

Mr. Williams said that if the sugar were offered in the local market, the price for the refined product would probably be in the neighborhood of 10 or 11 cents, a saving of nearly $100,000 on the 1,000 tons as compared with the transaction as first planned.

Any attempt on the part of the United States Government to confiscate the two million pounds of bacon owned by Louis Leavitt, arrested and indicted some days ago in Brooklyn charged with hoarding, will be bitterly fought in the courts, according to Max Steuer, counsel for Leavitt. Steuer, who has demurred to the indictment, on the ground of insufficient evidence, will argue the case before Federal Judge Chatfield on Friday afternoon in Brooklyn. He sets up the claim that Leavitt purchased the bacon from the United States Government for $713,069, and that he has since incurred over $20,000 additional expenses in storing and trucking the bacon, and will insist that the Government reimburse his client.

CITY BUS RUNS MAN DOWN.

First Accident May Render Municipality Liable to Suit.

One of Mayor Hylan's buses struck Edward A. Powers of 102 Garfield Place, Brooklyn, yesterday at Prospect Park Southwest and Vanderbilt Avenue, and injured him so that he had to be removed to the Kings County Hospital.

This was the first bus accident, and it was said that it would bring to a point the question as to the right of the city to operate public conveyances without first obtaining from the Public Service Commission a certificate of convenience and necessity. The driver of the bus, Max Klein, is alone responsible, according to the city officials, for the accident, but Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon said last night that the city, as well as the driver, could be sued for damages.

It was said at the hospital at night that Powers had suffered internal injuries and might recover.

J. S. ULMAN CHOSEN POLICE WELFARE AID

Stock Exchange Member Is Named as Special Deputy to Direct Home Service.

TO START PROJECT AT ONCE

Proposal Calls for a Chain of Co-operative Stores and a $5,000,000 Hospital.

J. Stevens Ulman, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, was appointed by Police Commissioner Enright yesterday as a Special Deputy Commissioner, to have charge of the Home Service Division of the department, which will include the management of the proposed chain of co-operative stores and the establishment of a $5,000,000 hospital for the benefit of the policemen and their families. In announcing acceptance of the appointment Mr. Ulman said:

"The increased cost of living conditions has occasioned distress to policemen with large families to probably a greater extent than in some cases of persons in other occupations under similar family conditions. The aim of the Home Service Division will be to remedy this situation by providing facilities for the purchase of food and other necessaries at the nominal cost of approximately 3 per cent. above the wholesale purchase cost of these supplies. The city and the taxpayers will not have to expend a penny for this work.

"To reduce the cost of operation of the stores to a minimum it has been decided to have a storeroom for the supplies in each precinct station house, managed under a systematic and business accounting method. We expect to start five of these stores within a few days in five Brooklyn precincts. Others will be added as rapidly as possible. The 3 per cent. margin is expected to meet all overhead charges.

"The National City Bank and other institutions tried a similar plan for the benefit of their employes, which did not prove entirely successful, because it was found that men had not the time to get supplies in that way and it was inconvenient for them to get the bundles to their homes during working hours. As a policeman cannot be attached to a station house in the precinct in which his family lives, the men would be unable to fully take advantage of the co-operative store, so we have decided to have cards issued, enabling the family of the policeman to do the purchasing.

The hospital project, Mr. Ulman said, is to be started at once. The wealthy Special Deputy Police Commissioners have announced their intention to subscribe to the fund, which will require $2,000,000 for the building and $3,000,000 for maintenance. Mr. Ulman said that ex-President Taft had consented to act as Honorary Chairman of the Police Hospital Board.

Mr. Ulman, who lives at 24 East Eighty-first Street, is a trustee and one of the organizers of the Broad Street Hospital.

ARMY BOARD FAVORS UNITY IN AVIATION

Urges a Separate Department to Handle Aeronautics for the Government.

WARNS OF WORLD RIVALRY

Baker Opposes Plan for Separate Department or Commission Controlled by President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Approval of the theory of a consolidation of the air services of the Government under a separate department or commission is contained in the report of a special army board appointed by the War Department to consider pending bills to that end. The report was transmitted today to Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Committee by Secretary Baker, who disagreed with the board's principal recommendations.

The board was composed of Major General Menoher, Director of Army Air Service; Major General Coe, Chief of Coast Artillery; Major General Haan, Chief of the Training Section, General Staff, and Major General Snow, Chief of Field Artillery.

It recommended that Congress enact an aviation policy based either on a ten-year program with large annual appropriations guaranteed to stimulate commercial aeronautics, or make appropriations for aircraft development by the Post Office, War, and Navy Departments.

If the former policy is adopted the board recommended that a separate department of aeronautics be created; if the latter, that a commission under the Director of Aeronautics reporting directly to the President, be formed to coordinate the work.

The board held that the army and navy should retain the essential elements of their organizations and should have control over operation of all military and naval air forces that might be provided. It urged also, that the army aviation service "should be kept on an equal footing with the infantry, cavalry, and other arms, with a permanent personnel."

The board disapproved Government monopoly of aircraft construction.

Secretary Baker said he disagreed with the proposals, both for a separate department and a commission, as the President was so burdened with important policies that he could not supervise aeronautical development. Should a single agency be created, he said, it should be appointed and controlled by a board consisting of Cabinet members whose departments would be affected.

Mr. Baker also disapproved the proposal for a permanent commissioned aviation personnel.

"The present reported feverish activity for development of commercial aeronautics of certain nations already saddled with enormous debts," the board's report declared, "under the guise of developing a new and highly lauded system of transportation, is, as a matter of fact, nothing more than a new race for supremacy in armaments. The hope is expressed in the proposed treaties * * * that excessive armaments might be limited. It is not the intention of this board to deny the wisdom of a policy which will place this nation in the front rank with regard to commercial aeronautics or a proper state of defense. It is thought, however, that this question should be stripped out of its camouflage and that the nation at large should be apprised of the real situation and the terms upon which it is to enter this contest."

The report said wartime air fleets of all countries must be produced after war begins, requiring stimulation of commercial aeronautics.

"Under present conditions," it said, "the only effective stimulant is Government assistance in large annual appropriations guaranteed for a period of a considerable number of years, * * * until commercial aeronautics can stand as a dividend paying business.

An annual budget of $300,000 000 for ten years was suggested and the report added that a single Government agency should be responsible for the procurement of all aircraft and of all development work. It is emphatic in declaring against creation of any military air force independent of army or navy control.

Official thanks of the British Government to several American officers for assistance rendered in aeronautical work during the war, is contained in a letter received today by Secretary Baker. Those mentioned specifically were William C. Porter, Assistant Director of Aircraft Production; Brig. Gen. Brice C. Disque, former head of the Spruce Production Division; Colonels Edward A. Deeds and J. G. Vincent, assistants in the designing of the Liberty motor, and Captain Raymond B. Carlson and Lieutenant Harold H. Emmons, Navy Air Service.

KILL MEXICAN OFFICERS UNDER THE "LEY FUGA"

Soldiers Execute Gen. Ceballos and Three Companions Accused of a Plot.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The execution under "ley fuga" of General Leopoldo Diaz Ceballos, formerly of the Mexican army; Captain Pedro S. Martines, Antonio Orisaba and Patricio Fonseca has created great indignation throughout Mexico, according to advices received today in Washington from the Mexican capital. The newspapers are reported to be unanimous in demanding that steps be taken at once to curb the military and make it subservient to the judiciary.

General Ceballos was well known in all parts of Mexico. He, with the three officers killed, was accused of a plot in Tacuba, a suburb of Mexico City, and was arrested by a squad of Federal soldiers.

The wife of General Ceballos, on appealing to President Carranza, was assured that her husband would receive all the protection of the law. The courts granted a writ of "amparo," which should have given the prisoners every guarantee of the Constitution. The military authorities were ordered by the court to turn over their prisoners to the civil authorities, but in the face of this the report was made that the men were killed in an attempt to escape. This is the same law under which Madero and Suarez were murdered, and General Francisco Alvarez was executed in Vera Cruz. Alvarez, however, had been captured in open rebellion against the Government.

The newspapers of Mexico City, the advices say, are unanimous in demanding that the Government put an end to the use of the "ley fuga," which at various times has been used as a means of getting rid of political opponents in Mexico.

LAST WORD IN DESTROYERS

The Reid Built Complete in Forty-five and a Half Working Days.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Navy's newest destroyer, the Reid, which will be delivered to the Government at the Boston Navy Yard tomorrow, is regarded by naval experts here as representing the last word in Inter-Allied knowledge of this type of fighting craft, and in her construction a new world's record was established.

In forty-five and a half working days the Reid was built and finished ready for service and delivery to the Government by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company at its Squantum works.

This new 12,000-ton destroyer, with its 30,000 horsepower, almost equal to that of a battleship, has a speed of thirty-five nautical miles, approximately forty land miles, an hour. The Reid is equipped with watertube boilers, and has twin screws, making 450 revolutions a minute. The complement of the destroyer will be 116 men.

VISION OF KIDD GOLD FIGURES IN LAWSUIT

"Spiritual Congregation" Leaders Dug Up a 63-Acre Farm in Search for $2,000,000.

BOUGHT IT ON FALSE CLUE

Man Suing Them for Price Denies Tempting Them by Story of Buried Treasure.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 5.—The story of the search, with picks and shovels on the part of a director of a "spiritual congregation" and two of his feminine leaders, for a $2,000,000 chest of gold supposed to have been buried on an Oakland, N. J., farm by Captain Kidd, the pirate, was told in Passaic County Circuit Court before Judge George S. Selyer in this city today.

Trial was resumed today in a suit in which Daniel Balsinger, a 75-year-old farmer of Oakland, is seeking to recover $5,000 alleged to be due from the spiritualist leaders on a promissory note, made in May, 1913. The defendants in the case are Fred Loehrs of Elizabeth, director of "The Congregation for the Enlightenment and Teaching of the Soul and Spirit," and Mrs. Sophie Sautter and Mrs. Marie Blumer, Secretary and Treasurer, respectively, of the congregation.

According to the testimonf of Loehrs, Balsinger told him of a "vision" which came to him in which a negro girl told him that Captain Kidd had buried $2,000,000 worth of treasure on the farm. Balsinger, Loehrs testified, said that the spirit described Loehrs as the man who was to find the treasure, which was to be devoted to spiritual and philanthropic work. It would be necessary, however, for Loehrs to buy the farm. The congregation of the church was consulted, Loehrs said, and it was agreed that the farm would be bought from Balsinger. A mortgage of $1,500 was assumed by the congregation and $200 in cash was paid to Balsinger. A note for $5,000, the principal point of contention in the suit, was made payable to Balsinger and signed by Loehrs, Mrs. Sautter, and Mrs. Blumer. This note was only to be paid upon condition that the treasure was found, the witness said.

Loehrs testified that he and his two feminine helpers dug up a greater part of the sixty-three-acre farm in the vain search for treasure. Balsinger, he said, would point out likely places in which to dig.

In cross-examination Loehrs said that he stopped digging one day while at the bottom of a fourteen-foot deep hole, when he realized that the earth might cave in and bury him.

Balsinger went on the stand in rebuttal this afternoon and denied most of the statements of Loehrs, but declared that the spirit of the negro girl had appeared to him, but said that she had told him something about a burglar being in the house one night. He said, however, that his wife, who has since died, might have told the spiritualists about the vision. The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

When your tailor "falls down"

That coat-collar that shies off a couple of inches from your neck; that bunchy feeling under your arm as you reach for the street-car strap; that waffle-iron sensation when you sit on anything less than a feather-tick—no doubt you libeled the tailor who labeled your suit, when all the time it was the underwear at fault!

After an experience with underwear that is more spasm than fit, it is good to know there is such snug-fitting, "personal liberty" underwear as Reis Lavender Label Union Suits on the market.

Here, Sir, is underwear that fits and allows your clothes to fit, yet which costs no more than the kind that furls and bunches. Ask your dealer for the Reis 8-exclusive-feature pamphlet, or write us for it—NOW!

"F.B&C." Kid

A very big reason why millions of women wear shoes that blend with their costumes:

They have at last discovered the gentle art of making their feet inconspicuous.

Even the most beautiful foot is made the more surprisingly lovely when shod in Colored Kid to harmonize with the gown.

Just as a strong contrasting color makes the object considerably larger to the eye—so a blending color proportionately reduces it.

In these days of shorter skirts, Colored Kids play a dual role, by adding the final touch of style and beauty to the costume.

"F.B&C." Kid is noted the world 'round for these three things:—Excellence of Quality—Durability—and Color Range.

Practically every shoe store that caters to women of taste can show you footwear of "F.B&C."—and in your favorite color. Inquire today.

BAN JOHNSON DECLINES TO ENTER COUNCIL ON WHICH COLONEL RUPPERT SITS

RUPPERT-JOHNSON BREACH IS WIDENED

Refusal of President of League to Meet Joint Committee Is Great Surprise.

THIRD PLACE FOR YANKEES

Protest of Detroit Club Is Denied at Special Meeting of Board of Directors.

The serious breach between the Yankees and President Ban Johnson of the American League was widened yesterday when Johnson refused point blank to meet the joint National Commission committee of which Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York club is a member. Johnson's action was a great surprise to the joint committee and his action may hold up indefinitely the appointment of a new chairman of the National Commission to succeed August Herrmann of Cincinnati.

Colonel Ruppert was appointed by Johnson last winter with Frank Navin of Detroit as a committee to meet with William Veeck of Chicago and William F. Baker of Philadelphia, representing the National League, to suggest the names of possible candidates for chairman of the Commission. Some time ago, Navin resigned after making the statement that he believed with President Johnson that Herrmann should be retained. This left Colonel Ruppert as the sole representative of the American League on the committee.

The committee, including Colonel Ruppert and Messrs. Veeck and Baker, met in this city on Tuesday evening and talked over a number of candidates for the position. It is not known what names were mentioned by the committee at their conference, but the names of Judge Landis of Chicago, Big Bill Edwards, John Conway Toole of this city and John E. Bruce of Cincinnati have been mentioned for the place at various times.

It is understood that the committee made no choice, but decided to meet with President Heydler of the National League and President Johnson so that a candidate agreeable to all parties could be named. The committee is anxious to avoid the embarrassing situation of naming a Chairman and having the candidate rejected by the two major league Presidents.

A Big Surprise.

The committee suggested that Presidents Heydler and Johnson be invited to a conference, and it is understood that President Heydler got into communication with Johnson in Chicago yesterday. Just what conversation took place between the two league Presidents is not known, but it is generally understood that Johnson refused to meet with any committee of which Colonel Ruppert is a member. The refusal to meet one of the members of his league, whom he himself had appointed to the committee, came as a stunning surprise to not only Colonel Ruppert but also to Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, and Harry H. Frazee of the Boston Red Sox, who, with Colonel Ruppert, were holding a meeting of the Board of Directors in this city.

This radical action by President Johnson had added fuel to the fires of discontent in the American League ranks and it was predicted by baseball men last night that the present serious complications in the organization may result in a disruption of the league before next season. It is not secret that Ruppert, together with Comiskey of Chicago and Frazee of Boston, are now determined to fight Johnson to a finish. It is believed that these three prosperous clubs will not hesitate to wreck the American League circuit rather than submit any longer to the leadership of Johnson.

The Carl Mays rumpus has now reached the stage where New York, Chicago and Boston mean to fight Johnson to the end. Baseball men believe that it is now outside the realm of possibility that these three cities, constituting the strength of the American League circuit, would break away from the other five clubs which are supporting Johnson in his fight against the New York club.

The Board of Directors yesterday disallowed the protest of the Detroit club and awarded the Yankees third place in the American League race. The board also requested the National Commission to pay over to the Yankees their share of the world's series receipts set aside for the club finishing in third place.

As the National Commission is holding up the money until such time as the American League decides which club finished in third place, the Directors believe that the commission will hand over the money on their order. The decision of the commission deciding to hold up the money was signed by President Heydler and Chairman Herrmann both National Leaguers.

May Bring Suit.

If these two members of the commission should decide that the American League Board of Directors has no right to make its decision over the head of President Johnson, it is likely that the New York club will bring suit against the commission to pay over the money.

The meeting of the Directors was attended by Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago, who acted as Chairman; Colonel Ruppert of the Yankees, and Harry H. Frazee of the Boston Red Sox. James C. Dunn of Cleveland and President Johnson, the other members of the board, did not attend and sent no regrets.

The Board of Directors, after the meeting, gave out the following statement:

"After considering the action of the Detroit Club in protesting the game in which Carl Mays had pitched for the Yankees, and the National Commission's ruling to the effect that the matter was one for the American League to decide and that until the league did adjust the disputed third position matter, they, the commission, would hold the third place prize money in escrow; and also the demands of several New York players, the board passed resolutions in substance as follows:

"That as the alleged suspension of Mays had been declared by the board, at its meeting of Aug. 14, to be without authority and void, and that the player remained in good standing under the rules and regulations of the league; and that as President Johnson had failed to submit a tabulated statement of the games won and lost by each club during 1919; and that as the board itself had canvassed the games won and lost, and was empowered under Section 54 of the League Constitution to make the award in writing, it was resolved:

"That the protest of the Detroit club be disallowed; that all games played by the New York Club in which Carl W. Mays participated were valid and entitled to be included in the tabulation of games won and lost; and

"Be it further resolved, That the National Commission be authorized, fully empowered, and directed to pay, forthwith, to the players of the American League Baseball Club of New York, their share of the world's series receipts to which they are entitled by reason of the New York American League Club having finished in third place in the American League championship season of 1919."

returned to Chicago last night and will consult his attorneys before the American League Commission Committee decides what action it will take on Johnson's refusal to meet with Colonel Ruppert. Johnson has gone on record as being opposed to the removal of Herrmann as Chairman and the owners of the New York Club regard this latest action as another plan to block the appointment of a new official for the position. This would mean, of course, that Herrmann would continue to serve as Chairman while the deadlock is on.

Yale Crew Coach Directs Oarsmen from an Airplane

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Coaching a crew by airplane is not yet practical, although tried this week by George Van Santvoord, who has been assisting in coaching the Yale 'Varsity squad. The first crew was on the harbor for practice when Mr. Van Santvoord in a plane, with a professional pilot, flew over it. He attempted by megaphone and signals to direct the oarsmen. As to the experiment, Mr. Van Santvoord said today it was novel to him, but aerial coaching is hardly likely to rival the present system. The airplane allows more views from different and better angles, but it is too fast for a crew and there is difficulty in communicating with it.

AKRON IS ADMITTED TO INTERNATIONAL

Gets Binghamton Franchise, but Status of Players May Cause Big Dispute.

The International League at a special meeting at the Imperial Hotel yesterday awarded the Binghamton franchise to Akron, Ohio. The Akron promoters gave $30,000 for the club and got the club over the bids of Montreal, Providence, Scranton, and Syracuse. Two different promoters in Montreal were after the club.

The Akron promoters were represented by Frank W. Doyle and Charles S. Skelley, and announced that the club would be operated by a corporation with a capital stock of $400,000. The new owners plan to build a new baseball park in Akron which will cost $200,000. While the new city will lengthen the circuit, this is offset by the fact that Akron is an enthusiastic baseball centre and has a large territory from which to attract patrons.

The Binghamton club was operated last season by George F. Johnson and when the season ended, he turned the franchise back to the league. He gave all his players their unconditional release and, it is said, presented each with a $100 bonus. The International League has protested this action of Mr. Johnson to the National Association of Minor Leagues, which holds its annual meeting in Springfield, Mass., next week. The International claims that the Binghamton players cannot be declared free agents without first asking waivers on the players from the other clubs of the circuit.

Some Sign Elsewhere.

The International believes that the National Association will uphold its protest and that the Binghamton players will go to Akron with the franchise. Complications, however, are sure to arise because some of the released Binghamton players already have signed contracts to play with other clubs next season. As many of them have already taken advance money, a decision by the association against Mr. Johnson's action may start a lot of trouble in the minors.

The situation of the Binghamton players was discussed for a long time by the club owners yesterday, and the action in selling the franchise is taken as an indication that the owners are sure that the association will sustain their protest. In that event, all the Binghamton players will go to Akron with the franchise.

The club owners also discussed the question of resuming relations with the major leagues. President David L. Fultz stated that some of his clubs favored it, but others were opposed to resuming relations. President Charles Comiskey of the White Sox, before leaving this city last night, said that he believed that the minors and majors should get together again under the old agreement. He said that the break in relations last Winter was a mistake.

Disagree on Draft.

While the three Class AA leagues—the International, American Association and Pacific Coast leagues—seem to be in favor of operating without the major league draft, all the other minor leagues, including Classes B, C and D, are in favor of resuming relations with the majors. At the minor league meeting next week it is expected that the leagues of lower classification will make a strong drive to resume former relations with the National and American leagues.

President Fultz said yesterday that if the association voted to re-establish the draft, the International League would be compelled to act with the majority. While there has been some talk of the Class AA leagues operating independently, this scheme is regarded as impractical by baseball men.

President Fultz announced that the International League enjoyed a prosperous season and that five clubs showed a profit for the year. Among those present at the meeting besides President Fultz were J. J. McCaffery, Toronto; Joseph J. Lanin, Buffalo; Charles T. Chapin, Rochester; Joseph F. Moran, Jersey City; E. C. Landgraf, Newark; John J. Dunn, Baltimore, and E. J. Poole, Reading.

YANKS' OWNERS UNDECIDED.

Col. Ruppert Denies Report That Site for New Park Is Chosen.

President Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees denied yesterday that the club had decided to build a new baseball park at Amsterdam Avenue and 138th Street. He said that about a year and a half ago this property had been offered to the club as a possible baseball site, but it was refused because the price demanded as exorbitant.

The New York Club has other sites under consideration, but officials of the club said yesterday that it was not likely that any action would be taken toward selecting a new location until after next season. The Yankees have been unable to obtain a long-term sub-lease from the Giants, and are compelled to make arrangements to play at the Polo Grounds each season.

LEWIS GOING TO ENGLAND.

Former Champion to Appear on the Stage as Well as the King.

Ted Kid Lewis of England, former welterweight champion, will sail Saturday for London, it was announced yesterday by his manager, Charlie Harvey. Lewis is scheduled to engage in two bouts soon after his arrival on the other side. Manager Harvey has closed negotiations for a match against either Johnny Basham, English welterweight champion, or Young Charles, holder of the French title. This bout will be held in January at the Royal Albert Hall, and will mark Lewis's first appearance in a British ring.

Th former welterweight champion has booked passage on the steamship Lapland. Upon his arrival in Enbland Lewis will fulfill theatrical engagements which have been arranged for a period of one month. Subsequently Lewis will establish training quarters and train for three weeks in preparation for his first bout. Manager Harvey declared yesterday he has received many offers for bouts in this country, but Lewis has been compelled to decline them because of his prospective return to England.

Britton Outpoints Tillman.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Jack Britton, welterweight champion of the world, easily outpointed Johnny Tillman of Minneapolis in a ten-round bout here tonight. Britton extended himself only in the last round.

DAYS OF CLIQUES IN BASEBALL GONE

World's Series Hopes Make All Players Pull Together—Riding Opponents Still Goes On.

By CHRISTY MATHEWSON.

The days of cliques on ball clubs are gone. When I first came into baseball a man usually had to fight his own club to make good. One day this last Summer a friend of Jean Dubuc's came into the Giants' club house, and Dubuc said:

"Matty, I want you to meet Mr. Breckenridge."

As I shook hands with him I thought I recognized him.

"Haven't I met you before?" I asked him. "When I was playing with the Brockton team you were with another club in the same league. They told me you didn't like a high ball, and I dished you up a high one. You hit it over the left field fence for a home run."

"That's right," he answered. "A high one was just what I liked to hit. The clique up there didn't want to see you make good, and because they thought you would run an old fellow out of his job if you did so, they crossed you."

I was eighteen years old then and a college youngster, and college youngsters were not popular in baseball in those days. When I first went with the New York club, about half the team was in favor of the manager just deposed by Andrew Freedman and wanted to see George Davis fail, so they wouldn't work for him. The world's series has eliminated all this, because the interest and success of the club owner now is also the interest of the players. If they all pull to win, they get into the big world's series money. Then, there is a different spirit.

Not So Much Riding.

When I first came into the Big League, back in 1900, they used to ride players harder, and especially youngsters. Once in a while a newcomer gets a good ride now. The Giants gave Duncan, the young left fielder of the Reds, who joined the team late in the season, a ride during the last series we played.

Duncan jumped into popularity in Cincinnati at once. The Reds needed a left fielder badly, and the fans knew enough about the game to realize it would be bad for their chances to go into the big event with old Sherwood Magee out there in left field. Moran had bought See, but he didn't make good at the 'ump, and he was a left-hand hitter, besides. The Reds' batting order was topheavy with left handed swingers as it was. See was a disappointment.

When Duncan first showed up, he got away pretty well, and poled a couple of stinging hits. The fans started to applaud him every time he came to the bat, just because he was a youngster and looked like the man the team needed so badly. If old Sherry Magee had done the same thing, the rooters would not have paid any attention to it, but they gave this youngster a fine welcome.

The Giants were on him the last two games we played in Cincinnati. Duncan had his picture taken just before a contest one day. This gave the boys something to talk to him about, and the applause of the fans helped things along. Finally, Duncan got worked up to the point where he came over to our bench and said:

Calls 'Em Bench Warmers.

"I just wanted to see what you bench warmers look like."

He was on the point of challenging any one of the gang on the settee to come outside and fight. I walked to the coaching lines after the incident and passed Pat Moran on the way.

"That's a good workout for him, if he is going into the series," I remarked to Pat. "It won't get his goat if the American Leaguers take after him now."

"Yes," agreed the veteran manager.

As a result, even though the Sox did take after Duncan, he played good ball in the series, and was steady and reliable. He did well in spite of the fact he is not yet a finished outfielder.

Any sudden rise to popularity will usually result in a player being ridden by his opponents. As I say, if Magee had been in Duncan's place and going well, the fans would just have said:

"Well, Magee can still step."

Then they would have forgotten it, but, when a young fellow comes along and takes the place of an old timer like Magee, they think it is wonderful. He was saving the team and Cincinnati's civic honor. The Red rooters hated to think of their team starting the series with the old man or a pitcher in there.

Next season Duncan won't get this applause because the fans will expect those things of him. But he probably won't go as good, because the pitchers will have a better line on him and will work him. I doubt if he makes as good a showing right through the regular season as he made after joining the Reds last fall.

Daubert Couldn't Do It.

The Board of Strategy that Moran assembled before the late series believes in conversation. The Reds were told which men on the White Sox to go after, and Moran's orators followed instructions. The result seemed to vindicate the method, although there is beginning to be a feeling in baseball against too rough talk. McGraw gave a player on the Giants a call this Summer for airing too loose a vocabulary.

Moran's field staff tried to get Jake Daubert to hone up his conversation before the first game.

"If any of them says anything to you," advised Evers, "you say, 'you blank, blank, blank, what do you mean?'"

"I know, but I can't talk to them that way," mild mannered Jake protested, and he couldn't.

Nevertheless Jake made a grand showing in the series, and it was because of that first hit he made.

"If Daubert gets one the first time he goes to bat," declared Evers before the series, "there will be no stopping him."

He did, and there wasn't. That is baseball psychology.

HARVARD TO PLAY WIDE-OPEN GAME

Expects Light Backfield to Shine at End Running and Forward Passing Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The heavy storm today made it impossible for the Harvard football players to work outside and the 'Varsity, subs, and scrubs all crowded into the baseball cage to go through the motions, at least. The coaches had no heart for such work, as they had been planning a fine day's work outside for the wind-up of the preparation for the Crimson's Saturday game at Princeton. Players and coaches alike, however, made the most of things. The 'Varsity and the substitutes continue to work out their offensive assignments on the plays that have been picked as the ones to rely on at Nassau.

Against the scrubs the 'Varsity tuned up its defenses and that was about all there was to the day's work. Billy Murray now has things swinging along in good style. Desmond and Sedgwick, who have returned to duty on the left side of the rushline, both have picked up, and the team is now running as smoothly as could be expected. What the power will be remains to be seen, but Fisher has his line charging well and the coaches will be greatly surprised if the backfield, which has been held intact for about a week now, does not work with the rushers in very satisfactory combination.

Harvard could get a heavier backfield but is looking for an end running game and one involving a lot of overhead play and has the making to respond in kind. This is one of the reasons why the coaches deplore their inability to speed up their eleven on a dry field, and why they are concerned lest the footing at Princeton be unsuitable for their end and off tackle play, on which so much time has been spent this season.

Ralph Horween was able to work in one of the backfields today and surely can play if needed, although it will be considered hard luck if Harvard has to put him in the game after his long absence. On a heavy field Nelson is very sure to get his chance, as A. Horween is not keeping up with his backfield work while he goes along with the centres.

Harvard is banking on Humphrey for some fine punting against the Jerseymen and he will be well protected, as his kicks have great height to go with unusual distance, and the ball holds up for the rushers to get down the field even although they hold long enough for safety. The Crimson figures that it has an even better loose ball record this year than has Princeton.

Harvard's work is now practically over for the week. The eleven will start for Princeton Friday, spending the night before the game in New York. Tonight's mass meeting at the Union was a rousing affair and was led by Tacks Hardwick, the Crimson's former backfield star. Several hundred undergraduates will make the trip to Princeton.

COLGATE WILL USE SUBS.

'Varsity Stars Not Expected to Play Against Rochester.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 5.—A wind that approached a hurricane velocity and cold enough to keep the side line spectators shivering, was not sufficient to prevent the Colgate football squad from having one of the hardest workouts of the season today. For the first time this week all the 'Varsity men who played through the gruelling Dartmouth game were on the field, but some of these men were not able to do much work and others were not permitted.

During the night the weather changed, and when snow began to fall this morning it was thought that practice would have to be held on a snow-covered field. The sun of midday and the fierce wind that followed, however, had an ideal field ready for the squad when it came trotting out.

Captain West, whose work at his position of left tackle was one of the features of the Dartmouth game, was only allowed to practice kicking, and from the proportion of his successful efforts in the face of the wind there is great optimism that he will be a surprise to Syracuse. Gillo was also worked lightly and was allowed to do little running. Although the wind tossed the ball about like a feather, notwithstanding the fact that Anderson throws the ball like a bullet, the forward passing of the quarterback was scrutinized closely by the coaches. Anderson's fault has been a tendency to give away the play by his attitude when throwing. He is inclined to play his pass in a definite position on a definite down and to a definite spot. All quarterbacks met this evening with the coaches for a conference. The Maroon has plays which it has never used, because the quarterbacks did not know when to use them.

The work of the rush line is still spasmodic. In general its failure as shown in the Dartmouth game and on the field today was its inability to get into the end-run plays and to build up a wall of defense to protect the kicker. This latter part of the game was given especial attention, as it is recognized that the weakness of the line has to account for the blocked kick that resulted in the tying score for Dartmouth Saturday.

The Colgate team is badly in need of rest, and while the University of Rochester team, which comes Saturday, is not lightly held by the coaches, they feel that their first string men deserve a vacation. They will keep the majority of the 'Varsity out of the game and prepare them for the game with the Orange at Syracuse a week from Saturday.

MORROW REPORTS AT PITT.

Big Backfield Man Joins Squad and Works Out for W. and J. Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Nov. 5.—Every man on the Blue and Gold squad, including Morrow, was on the field today for practice, and it made Glenn Warner brighten up a bit when he saw his big backfield man come out with his foot-ball togs on. While he still limps from the serious injury received to his knee before the season opened, Morrow said today that he was recovering rapidly, and would be in the game against W. and J. next Saturday.

Tom Davies and Andy Hastings were in great shape today, notwithstanding the hard bumps given them by the Lehigh players, and with Captain De Hart, who is rapidly recovering from a lame ankle, the backfield will look like the old Pitt machine when it lines up against the Presidents on Saturday.

Scrimmaging was tabooed today, and it will not be resorted to at all this week, as Warner doesn't want to take chances on hurting his players just when they are recovering from previous injuries. Instruction in the fundamentals of the game, signal drills, and individual drilling on certain trick plays by Warner constituted the afternoon's work for the Panthers.

The team looked good today, and the spirits of the Faculty and student body at Pitt have risen considerably in the last few days.

Wesleyan Gets Ready for Amherst.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Coach Liston is whipping the Wesleyan 'Varsity into shape this week for its annual contest with Amherst Saturday. The ground-gaining qualities of the team are being improved under the belief that with a drop-kicker like Boote, who had three field goals to his credit in the Williams contest, Wesleyan's surest means of scoring is to advance the ball to within striking distance and then give it to Boote to lift it between the goal posts.

Columbia Grammar a Winner.

Columbia Grammar School's basketball team opened its season yesterday with a victory over the Friends Seminary quintet by a score of 32 to 17. The contest was played on the victorious team's court. Ray Ayau and Captain Rosenwager showed the way in the Columbia Grammar victory.

DAWSON HIDES COLUMBIA.

Bars Gates While He Tests Out Some Tricks for Stevens Game.

The usual veil of mystery shrouded the workout of the Columbia 'Varsity football squad yesterday afternoon on South Field. Only a select group of coaches and advisers was allowed within the enclosure, where the first eleven spent a large part of the afternoon in a brisk scrimmage with Coach Merner's freshmen. Captain Canapary, Shaw, Thornton and Applebaum made up the 'Varsity backfield, the first-named directing activities from the quarter back position. When he was shaken up in one play and had to retire Eccles took his place.

One of these two players next Saturday will fill the shoes of Quigley, who is still among the missing, despite advance notices that he would be in uniform yesterday. Eleventh-hour twinges in a stiff knee and a bruised shoulder necessitated his absence and will likely prevent his appearance against Stevens on Saturday.

Charlie Shaw and Thornton, the rival candidates for the role of punter, furnished the high spots in yesterday's drill. Shaw, who apparently has reached the proverbial pink of condition, did spectacular work in the back field and eluded the freshman defense for several long runs, using a mysterious formation on which Coach Dawson cannily refused to throw any light.

Other new and deceptive plays for the particular benefit of Stevens were rehearsed in the secret session and were used with encouraging effectiveness against the first-year eleven. The 'Varsity was without its regular ends, Kennedy and Weinstein, both of whom enjoyed a rest. Larner, who was a leading American ace in the war, and De Kaye took care of the wing positions.

Secret workouts probably will be the rule for the remainder of the week, as Coach Dawson is determined that the Blue and White shall not repeat its disappointing exhibition in the Union game last Saturday. With a dry field and better conditions for his fast back field, the Columbia coach hopes for a repetition of the showing against Amherst, which had a spotless record before it invaded South Field.

N. Y. U. IN LONG DRILL.

Coach Gargan May Put Jackson at End for Game with Union.

With only three days in which to prepare for the game Saturday with the Union College team, the New York University football eleven got a long workout yesterday on Ohio Field. Despite the fact that the Violet scored an overwhelming victory over Trinity, Coach Gargan is not satisfied with the team and gave it a stiff session.

The team was in perfect condition after its contest and did not require the usual rest. The biggest fault found by Gargan in the Election Day battle, was a weakness on the ends. He is looking around for some one to bolster up the wings. It is probable that he will change Jackson from the backfield to one of these places. Levin will probably be the unlucky man to lose his job, as Adams at the other flank put up a stellar game against Trinity.

Yesterday's practice consisted of a long drill in the signals and new formations. The new lineup with Captain Cann at tackle worked well, but needs a few rough edges taken off. Gargan spent a long time co-ordinating the work of the line and backfield, as the two parts seemed to work disjointedly. Yesterday's session corrected many of these faults, and by Saturday Gargan expects to have the team in good shape.

The Violet will be greatly handicapped on Saturday by the absence of Archie Brin at centre. The little pivot man is one of the greatest defensive linemen in the vicinity, and the vacancy left by him will be hard to fill. Fortunately he will be lost to the team for only this one game and will be in the lineup against Stevens a week from Saturday.

BROWN IN STIFF PRACTICE.

Brooks, Armstrong, and Jemail Ready for Game with Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 5.—On a slippery field and in a driving rain the Brown 'Varsity today worked through a still practice. The second team, using Yale formations and plays, were pitted against the 'Varsity. The 'Varsity was made up of Williams and McSweeney, ends; Gullan and Johnstone, tackles; Brace and Captain Nichols, guards; Hoving, centre; Fox, quarter back; Brooks and Adams, halves, and Armstrong, full back.

Considering the condition of the grounds both teams did creditable work, but at no time could the backs get away, because of the treacherous footing. Most of the offensive was along straight football tactics, though several forward passes were tried with fairly good effect.

The second team's defense against the aerial game prevented any material gains. Williams was given the ball several times on end-around plays. He gained some ground, but his speed in rounding the wings was hampered. The 'Varsity showed good strength and outclassed the seconds from the start, and Coach Robinson is working hard to develop a backfield that will have a punch when it goes against the Bulldog line on Saturday. Hoving, Johnstone and Albright will be back in the line, and Brooks, Armstrong and Jemail will be available in the backfield for the first time in three weeks, materially strengthening both the offensive and defensive power of the ends.

SCRUBS SCORE ON ARMY.

Bassett Wriggles Through Line and Races 40 Yards for Touchdown.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The Army's regular gridiron was too wet for use today, so the coaches sent the big squad out on the plains, proper, where a new field was laid out, and for two hours the men were driven through a hard workout, which included a rough scrimmage.

The 'Varsity took on the third and fourth elevens today as their opponents and during the long session on the defense Bassett, a scrub back, wriggled through a wide gap in the big team's forward wall and, clearing the secondary defense, ran forty yards for a touchdown. It proved to be the only score of the afternoon.

Two new faces were on the big eleven today. Brokenshire and Haskell were moved over from the Cullum Hall outfit. The former was in the backfield in Lystad's place at left half for a while today. Haskell is a speedy youngster who did well at end on Cullum's team.

The eleven from Peddie Institute was beaten in a well played game on a field adjoining the regular gridiron this afternoon by the Cadets' Cullum Hall team, by a score of 6 to 3.

TIGERS ABOUT READY TO BATTLE HARVARD

Roper Ends Secret Practice and Cheering Students Find Smooth-Working Team.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—Bill Roper lifted the veil of secrecy this afternoon which has hung over the Palmer Memorial Stadium during the practices of the 'Varsity football team for the past two weeks. As the gates were flung open the entire undergraduate body, led by the university band, trooped into the big arena to look the players over and to cheer them on in the daily struggle with the second team and the freshmen.

Enthusiasm is running high here. Disappointed at the jolt the West Virginians handed to their football aspirations, but not in the least discouraged or downhearted, the students have been marking time this week awaiting the word from Roper that all was clear at the Stadium. The word came today and all hands assembled around the historic cannon at 3:30 whence, after a series of cheers and songs, they paraded around the campus and down to the playing field.

From the noise in the Stadium a game might have been on. The first eleven, with all seven men in the rush line who have the best chances at the present time of starting against Harvard Saturday, was working smoothly against all the opposition furnished by the scrubs and by Red Gennert's freshman outfit. Conditions were ideal for fast work, and with Jack Strubing driving the men at top speed all the time the cheering section saw some real playing.

Maury Trimble, after ten days of idleness, was back in harness in the 'Varsity backfield. Hank Garrity, who has come off the hospital list, was in the first string quartet, as was Al Wittmer, whose steady play in both the Colgate and West Virginia games has entitled him to serious consideration as a possible starter Saturday. A new backfield went in on the 'Varsity later in the day. John Hopkins called the signals, Frank Murrey and Waddy McPhee were at the halves, and Joe Scheerer, whose long booming spirals startled and confounded the West Virginia backs, was at full back. If Harvard is consistently outpunting the Tigers on Saturday, Joe will be the man called upon to stem the attack.

The 'Varsity bowled over the opposition today for two touchdowns without losing the ball on downs a single time. The attack was working more smoothly than in any previous workout, and if the form shown today can be displayed Saturday the struggle will be a fierce one. When the 'Varsity went on the defensive the scrubs were totally unable to make any progress at all. Not one first down was recorded by the second string players. The 'Varsity line, which had started off the day's work with a hard charging, breaking through, and tackling drill under the tutelage of Hal Ballin and Trevor Hogg, uncovered a fight against which the best efforts of the scrubs were unavailable. For the most part the second team was using Harvard formations but the 'Varsity forwards smeared the plays with regularity.

What the final backfield choice will be for the game is still problematical. Very likely the four men who started today's workout will be called upon to face the Crimson, but Don Lourie, who played for a while this afternoon when the 'Varsity was on the defensive, or Frank Murrey, who showed fine form against the Mountaineers, may be selected.

The line is regarded as virtually chosen. Bigler and Williams will be the ends. With the return of Keck to the fold Captain McGraw was shifted back to right guard, and has Dickinson as his running mate. Parisette will play the other tackle, and Mike Callahan, who shared today's play at centre with Whitey Thomas, will be the pivot selection.

STEVENS GETS IN SHAPE.

Drills Against "Prep" Eleven in Preparation for Game at Columbia.

A new feature of the football practice at Stevens Tech yesterday was the scrimmage of the 'Varsity against the first team of the Stevens Preparatory School instead of the regular scrub team. This was done in order to work out several new plays to better advantage, as the scrub men are acquainted with the signals.

The Prep team was, of course, too light to give the college 'Varsity any real fight, but the object of practicing the new formations was accomplished. The practice was carried on behind closed gates, as the plays are those which the Engineers will pull off in the game with Columbia on Saturday.

A mass meeting of the students was held after classes this morning, at which time the cheers and songs were rehearsed. Several members of the team spoke and Professor Salvatore, head of the "Prep" team, urged every man to be on hand at the game.

YALE ATTACK IS STRONG.

Gets 3 Touchdowns in 20 Minutes—Robinson Replaces Allen.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—The Yale eleven this afternoon displayed the strongest attack it has exhibited this season. First it crashed through the second eleven for three touchdowns in 20 minutes and then it bowled aside the freshmen for another in 30 minutes. On all four occasions the defense of the rival team seemed unequal to coping with the 'Varsity attack.

Three lineup changes were ordered. Barclay Robinson of the third eleven was jumped over the heads of the second team into a 'Varsity berth at right end, displacing Parrker Allen. Robinson's playing the past week has attracted the attention of Jack Cates, the end coach, who will try out the novice the remainder of the week. During fully half the practice Raymond Munger was used at right tackle, replacing Leon Walker. These two players were tackles on the freshman eleven two seasons ago.

Jim Braden, who has been held back as emergency drop-kicker and line wrecker, was plunged back into the 'Varsity lineup, but at right half back instead of full back, where he has been at home for two or three seasons. He celebrated his return to the first team by splitting up the second eleven line for three of the four touchdowns which were scored during the matinee. Fred [illegible]ebb made the other.

Neither the second 'Varsity nor the freshman eleven was able to threaten the 'Varsity goal, although the 1923 team towards the close of the practice gained a total of 30 yards. Dan Kelly, the freshman quarter back, startled the 'Varsity by dodging through the broken field for 40 yards in running back Chester Laroche's kickoff in opening the [illegible]ing half between these two teams.

The practice this afternoon was conducted like a regular game. The 'Varsity started in midfield, putting the ball in play, however, without a kickoff.

Recent rains again made the surface of the bowl heavy and the [illegible] place on the freshman playing field. Eight visiting co[illegible] including Ray Bigelow, G[illegible] Moseley, Ted Lilley, Billy Heffelfinger, Douglas Bomeisler, Frank Butterworth, John Field, Ralph Blumer, and Guy Hutchinson.

The older we grow the more apt we are to forget that "the old story" is a new story to those who've never heard it.

Our public, some of whom are grandchildren of our earliest customers, knows in a general way that we've developed a business of considerable renown, that our wares are trustworthy, that the standard of trade morals is maintained at top-notch—

But on our 45th Birthday we are inclined to be a bit reminiscent and tell again how 'way back in the stage-coach days we opened our first retail store at Broadway, corner of Broome, resolving to do all in our power to help raise the clothing business to a standard of dignity and repute—

How, with the uptown trend, we moved to Broadway, corner of Prince, the former site of the quaint little offices of the Astor Estate—

How, later, we moved up to Broadway and 13th Street to a building built for our special use on the former site of Wallack's, later called the Star Theatre—

How the old Broadway Tabernacle was razed to make way for our 34th Street Store, now in the heart of the present shopping district—

How, again keeping pace with the uptown movement, we built our Fifth Avenue Store, so that we might touch elbows with "the busiest corner in the world"—

How, during so much of this time our Warren Street Store has conveniently served our many friends in the great financial district and though swept away by a conflagration in 1898, rose Phoenix-like almost before the ashes had cooled.

Our four stores are really one: stocks are always interchangeable. Same Quality, same Variety, as well as identically the same prices, wherever you drop in.

SIR BARTON IS BEATEN OFF IN PIMLICO AUTUMN HANDICAP WHICH IS WON BY MAD HATTER

MAD HATTER ROUTS ROSS'S SIR BARTON

STAR COURT SHOWS SPEED

Catches Right Over Might in the Stretch, to Win Kernan Hotel Purse by Two Lengths.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 5.—That Sam C. Hildreth has one of the greatest three-year-olds of the year in Mad Hatter was proved quite conclusively here today when this fine son of Fair Play romped off with the Pimlico Autumn Handicap at a mile and a quarter and made his victory all the more impressive by defeating the great Sir Barton, pride of the stable of Commander J. K. L. Ross. Mad Hatter won in a common gallop and was four lengths in front of W. L. S. Martin's Bridesman. Sir Barton came in third, eight lengths back of the second horse, and took the worst defeat that has been administered to him this year.

The victory was a vindication for the Fair Play colt which had met defeat the last time he ran against Sir Barton. That was also in a mile and a quarter test and at that time Mad Hatter had not been properly prepared for the race. His owner explained afterward that he had no opportunity to train the colt for the distance owing to the condition of the track, and Mad Hatter went into the race with the odds against him despite the pull in the weights. After that he was trained properly and went to Latonia, where he captured the Latonia championship easily.

Despite all this his victory today was a great surprise to most Maryland racegoers, for they remembered how Sir Barton had defeated the Hildreth racer. They made the Ross entry, which included also Milkmaid, an odds-on favorite.

Sir Barton Played Heavily.

At no time during the Autumn season in Maryland has so much support gone to a horse as to Sir Barton today. He was considered a sure thing, for he has been in better condition in the past few weeks than at any other time this year, not excepting the early Spring when he won the Kentucky derby and the Preakness with such ease. Mad Hatter was so badly underestimated that it was thought Milkmaid would take his measure for the place. That accounted for the price that was paid for the winner. The Ross entry was 1 to 2, while Mad Hatter paid nearly 3 to 1. Yet Mad Hatter did no more than his workouts indicated he would. He ran the race slower than one of his workouts for it, the time for the race being 2:08 1-5.

Mad Hatter had a large pull in the weights today, carrying 111 against 132 for Sir Barton, and the latter clearly staggered under his impost. What these two might do at even weights is another question, but Mad Hatter is too good a three-year-old to get such a concession from any horse of his age. When it came to the test in the final furlong Sir Barton was so tired that he could not catch Bridesman, which had a feather on his back and ran a good race all the way.

After the race the excuse was offered that Sir Barton was sore and unable to do his best, but his workouts for the race and his running today did not bear out this report. He simply was not good enough at the weights.

Mad Hatter Starts with a Rush.

Mad Hatter and Bridesman broke in front and came past the stands for the first time leading the rest of the field of five. Loftus on Sir Barton had evidently set out to save his mount for the final rush and made no attempt to go to the front. Mad Hatter was under a very strong pull by Fator, and it was with difficulty that the jockey kept the horse from dashing away.

Once around the first turn Fator took up with Mad Hatter and, remembering his other experience when he let the colt run his head off only to tire in the final furlong, kept him off the pace and let Bridesman and Milkmaid do the running in front. Mad Hatter was never far away. Meantime Sir Barton was already showing the effects of the weight, and though Loftus attempted to move up with him in the back stretch the Star Shoot colt could not improve his position.

Bridesman and Milkmaid led going around the turn, but just before the turn into the stretch Mad Hatter came up on the outside and quickly disposed of both of the leaders. At the same time Loftus made a rush with Sir Barton, but Mad Hatter began to draw away with ridiculous ease when he straightened out for the drive to the wire.

Sir Barton Finishes a Poor Third.

From there to the finish it was a canter for Mad Hatter, although Fator took no chances and rode him right to the finish. Sir Barton was game and did his very best in the stretch, but not only could he fail to improve his position but he could not keep up with the front runners and kept dropping back with every stride. He came over the line a badly beaten horse, much to the disgust of a majority of those present. Fator was back of him several lengths and Milkmaid had tired so badly from the early pace that she trailed in a bad last.

W. H. Cole's Star Court proved to be much the best of the juveniles which went to the post for the Kernan Hotel purse at five and a half furlongs. Among the other starters was Right Over Might, a sensational youngster which had given promise of being a real top notcher. He was so highly regarded that he was made favorite at 4 to 5. Right Over Might had finished second to Dominique on Saturday but today he showed a tendency to go badly when in a real fight and Star Court outgamed him.

Star Court Beats Right Over Might.

Right Over Might had all the best of the start and the early running. He was away to a flying start and was soon leading the others a merry chase. He kept up the pace right to the head of the stretch when Star Court came on and caught him and won by nearly two lengths. My Boots was third.

To all appearances J. W. May has one of the really high class juveniles of the season in Vice Chairman, which has had only a few trials and has made an excellent showing. This youngster scored an easy victory in the first race, defeating Franc Tireur by six lengths while Devil Dog was third. Vice Chairman rushed into the lead at the break and drew away as though he outclassed his company. At the head of the stretch he was four lengths in front and he increased this to six before he crossed the line.

GREENLEAF MAKES RECORD POOL RUN

Ralph Greenleaf made a world's record high run for pocket billiards in Danbury, Conn., last night, when he knocked off 155 balls before he missed on a difficult three-ball combination shot. While the run was made on a championship table and under champion ship conditions, it is unlikely that it will be accepted as a record by the powers that be. It was made in an exhibition game. Greenleaf was playing against Bob Stone, the Connecticut State champion, whom he defeated by a score of 140 to 9. Greenleaf had ten points when he started on his great exhibition. He made 130 and finished the game. The spectators yelled for him to contidue and he did so. His made twenty-five more balls before he missed.

It was in the second inning that Greenleaf made his run. The score was 10 to 9 at the time he started his rampage. He found the balls fairly well scattered when he went to bat for the second time and immediately cleaned the table—that is, all but the fifteenth ball, which he left in perfect position to pocket and make the break at the same time. It was this that featured his playing throughout the record run. Greenleaf invariably left the fifteenth ball so that he could not only drive it into the pocket, but could break the bunch at the same time. For long Greenleaf has been recognized as one of the best shot makers in the game. His safety play is usually poor because he pays so little attention to it.

As a result of this run Greenleaf undoubtedly will be one of the favorites in the national pocket billiard championship tournament to be held in Philadelphia beginning on Dec. 1. He has been showing excellent form recently, and, unless he suffers an attack of nerves, he should be one of the strongest players in the title tourney.

LARUE AND CRANE VICTORS.

Turn in Winning Tallies in Cue Tourneys at Doyle's.

George Larue and Ray Crane were the respective winners in the amateur three cushion and pocket billiard tournaments at John Doyle's Academy last night. Larue defeated Fay Scudder by a score of 25 to 21 in 49 innings. It was a nip and tuck game throughout until the forty-first inning, when Larue made a run of five. Incidentally, it was his high run of the game. Scudder's best effort netted him four.

Somewhat of a surprise was occasioned by Crane's victory in the pocket billiard match when he defeated Ed Kirby by a score of 50 to 49 in what was an unusually interesting match between amateur players.

CUE MEN AT CLEVELAND.

National Three-Cushion Championship Begins Today.

For the next two weeks interest in billiards will be centred in Cleveland where the national three-cushion championship tournament will be held. It will begin tonight and continue through Nov. 19. Ten of the best players in the country are entered. They are Robert L. Cannefax of St. Louis, the most recent champion; Charles McCourt of Cleveland, Pierre Maupome of Milwaukee, Clarence Jackson of Detroit, Hugh Heal of Toledo, Jesse Leon of Cincinnati, Charles Otis of Brooklyn, Otto Reiselt of Chicago, Byron Gillette of Buffalo, and Teff Denton of Kansas City. It will be a round robin tourney of forty-five games.

This will be the second of the national tournaments arranged to establish undisputed champions in balkline, three-cushions, and pocket billiards. Cannefax relinquished his claim to the championship so that the tournament could be held. Hugh Heal and Charles McCourt both formerly held the title. Because of the excellent form he has displayed in practice, and coupled with the fact that he defeated Cannefax decisively in an exhibition match recently, Charles Otis is one of the favorites.

LEVINGRUB WINS RACE.

Scratch Runner Is First Home in Wingate A. C. Contest.

H. Levingrub led home a field of twenty-four rival clubmates last night in the handicap road race conducted by the Wingate A. C. of the Boys' Club, over a course of one and one-quarter miles. Levingrub, competing from scratch with Jack Gorsett, gained the lead after about half the distance had been covered and remained in front to the finish. He won by a margin of about ten yards over Gorsett. The winner's time was 7 minutes 13 seconds, and Gorsett finished five seconds later. H. Selisnick and B. Lang, both of whom had been allowed ten seconds, engaged in a stiff battle for third laurels, which ended with Selisnick getting the place at the tape by a margin of one second. Selisnick's time was 7:39. I. Levingrub, who was allowed a start of fifteen seconds, finished fifth in 8:00.

Tuggle Runs Out Match Easily.

C. J. Wacherow was ill last night, and could not play in the opening match of the A. B. A. metropolitan Class C balkline billiard championship at Fuller's Academy. J. A. Lange substituted for him. The substitute was defeated by Dr. Thomas Tuggle, by a score of 150 to 106. The winner had high runs of 19, 15, 15, while Lange made high runs of 15, 12, and 11. Dr. Tuggle averaged 3 36-38. Lange's average was 2 24-38. Tonight Cyril Sloan and Nelson Mayo will meet.

White Victor in Cue Match.

Playing in the Brooklyn 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament last night at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy Charles White, playing for 250, defeated Charles Rennie, playing for 135, by a score of 250 to 97. The winner had a high run of 38 and averaged 6 10-40. Rennie's best effort gave him 14 points and he averaged 2 17-40.

Lewis Wins at Billiards.

Nat Lewis gained the undisputed lead in the American Amateur Billiard Association's Class D straight rail billiard championship tournament at Cranfield's Academy last night when he defeated A. V. Hall by a score of 150 to 90. Until Lewis scored this victory he and V. Nadherny were tied for first place. The winner made an average of 2 2-49 and had high runs of 24, 18 and 13. The loser averaged 2 and his best runs were 9, 7 and 7.

MILLROSE RUNNERS HOPE TO WIN TITLE

Strong Team Working for the Cross-Country Championships to be Held on Nov. 29.

Millrose A. A. officials expect their team to make a strong bid for the National A. A. U. senior cross-country championship title in the annual struggle which will be held Nov. 29 at Van Cortlandt Park. The Millrose team is training hard for the coming tussle, taking practice runs over the championship course every Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday afternoon, and is reported to be in excellent condition.

Every detail which would enhance the chances of success for the team is being arranged. The runners who have been selected as members of the squad have established headquarters at Beck's Hotel, near the scene of the race, and a training table has been installed by those in charge of the hill and dalera. Mike Devaney, Charlie Pores, Nick Giannakopulos, Frank Zuna, Victor Votoretsea, Joseph Nulty, and Charles De Staffano have been selected to carry the club's colors. The frequent jaunts over the course have whipped the squad into excellent shape.

Villar Kyronen, the young Finnish runner, will be compelled to confine his interest in the race to that of spectator. Kyronen has resumed his duties as a baker after recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, but will not be in condition to run again until next year's outdoor season.

TEN TEAMS IN CHASE.

Glencoe A. C. and Brooklyn A. A. Enter for Cross-Country Run.

The list of clubs which will start teams in quest of the National A. A. U. junior cross-country championship title at Van Cortlandt Park Saturday afternoon was increased yesterday by the addition of the Glenco A. C. and Brooklyn A. A. Entries from both these organizations were received at Metropolitan A. A. U. headquarters. Their addition to the ranks increases the number of prospective teams in the chase for the title to ten.

Three individual entries were also received in the mail, making the total number of individual starters ten. Cecil Leith of the New Hampshire State College, and a competitor for the Boston A. A. in open A. A. U. events, submitted his entry, together with Frank Tifterton, former Pastime A. C. runner, who is competing unattached, and James Martin of Rye, N. Y.

The one great crime of an adding machine is to add one number and print another.

You can't do this with an International Adding Machine because its construction makes it impossible. The adding and printing mechanism work together and at the same time. There's no chance of a slip-up between the two operations.

Besides this absolute, unfailing accuracy, there are many other exceptional features about the International—visibility, flexible keyboard, one-hand operation, unit construction, quick total, and others.

PERFECT FITTING MUNSING WEAR UNION SUITS

Acquaint yourself with the merit of Munsingwear. You'll make it your lifelong companion—because of the perfect way in which it fits and covers the form and its unusual durability and washability.

Tall, short, stout or thin—man, woman or child—there's a right size for everyone.

The satisfaction lasts.

The three tests of good gasoline

MAKING that steep hill on high at last. No need to drop into second. Your engine is pulling strong as you top the hill.

Picking up on level stretch. Feel the car fairly jump into full speed. You're touching a new figure on the speedometer.

At the end of a long run. Two extra gallons in the tank. You're certainly using a real economy gasoline. That means a smaller fuel bill on the first of the month.

All motorists get these new motor joys the first time they use Tydol—the Economy Gasoline that vaporizes fast—the fuel that works best at 15 to 1.

What the 15 to 1 mixture means

15 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline. That's the most efficient mixture for every automobile. The February 1917 Bulletin of the Society of Automotive Engineers shows that 15 parts of air to 1 of fuel is scientifically correct for all speeds and all loads.

But ordinary low grade gasoline won't work at 15 to 1. That's because it vaporizes slowly. A large part of it never vaporizes and cannot help drive your engine. It is waste fuel. Ordinary gasoline needs a rich, wasteful mixture to work at all. Unvaporized, waste gasoline causes carbon, gummed-up rings and valves, dirty spark plugs, and diluted lubricating oil. It is the commonest cause of lack of power in an engine.

The Economy Gasoline — uses 15 to 1 mixture

Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, vaporizes fast. It is specially made to give best results in a 15 to 1 mixture of air and fuel. It gives rapid flame spread, a hot explosion and high pressure. That means maximum power and mileage and easy starting.

Tydol burns up clean and reduces carbon. Thus it eliminates many engine troubles.

The diagram shows how Tydol saves fuel. Directions for making the 15 to 1 adjustment are given in the chart below.

With Tydol you use less fuel and more air than with low grade gasoline. That's why Tydol saves the average motorist real money on gasoline bills.

Where you can buy Tydol

Tydol is sold by progressive, high grade garages and filling stations. Look for the orange and black sign.

Try Tydol in your car today. You will save money and get more power.

With Sluggish Gas: 8 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline

With TYDOL Gas: 15 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline

How to make 15 to 1 adjustment

After filling the gasoline tank with Tydol, run the engine until warm. Then lift the hood.

Turn the gas adjustment on the carburetor, decreasing gradually the flow of gasoline.

When the engine begins to slow down, turn the gas adjustment back, increasing the flow slightly until you get a maximum engine speed.

This will give you the 15 to 1 adjustment. If you have a "rich" and "lean" adjustment on the dashboard you can use an even leaner adjustment than the above.

On hills and in traffic use the rich dash adjustment; on the level or in the country use the lean.

This assures maximum mileage and minimum carbon with Tydol.

Tydol will operate on the rich mixture needed by inferior gasoline. But Tydol is made so you can use the 15 to 1 mixture—less fuel and more air.

Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat, prevents the rapid formation of sediment in your oil and minimizes friction and wear. 90% of engine troubles are due to inferior oils. Veedol prevents these troubles. Have the old oil cleaned out of your crankcase and fill it with Veedol. Sold by reliable dealers everywhere.

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

The Way to

Consider it as 16,000 Users Rate it—by Performance and Endurance—Not by its Size and Weight

Judge the Essex

The Essex has filled a new position among motor cars, and nearly everyone knows it.

At first, before they had seen it outperform most every car, they merely regarded it as a fine, unusually well-built and finished, light weight automobile.

They appreciated its quality construction.

They conceded it a better built car. Still, because it has many details in common with other similar weight cars, they could not, at the time, bring themselves to look at it in the light it is now held by some 16,000 users.

Put Aside Its Size and Type Consider Only Performance

That is what all Essex owners will tell you to do. Go see it with the same expectation of its value that you would examine any fine quality car.

If speed is your requirement see if the Essex does not meet it.

Where luxury and finish are demanded compare the Essex with any car.

Expect of the Essex the same riding qualities—the same performance ability—with a range of speeds equal to any of such cars as you consider worth $300 to $500 more.

And then when you have tested the Essex in that manner, consider the advantages it possesses over those other larger cars with which you have classed it.

Costs Less to Operate Easier to Handle

You sacrifice none of the pleasures of motoring because the Essex is no larger than cars known as of the light weight type.

But you gain all their advantages. When riding in the Essex you have no conscious feeling that it weighs any less or that it is performing any less satisfactorily than the big costly cars.

You sit in as comfortable and upon as richly upholstered cushions.

You hold no concern as to the endurance of your car.

If you drive you feel the ease of its operation. You learn that the Essex requires little attention and that it grows in your esteem because it so completely meets your motoring needs.

You will place a large car price on the Essex if you judge it by performance and durability.

That is why everyone is so enthusiastic for it.

INJUNCTION NEGOTIATIONS.

Mr. GOMPERS expresses the opinion that if the United States should abandon the enforcement of the law forbidding conspiracies against production of food and fuel in wartime the coal strike could be settled by arrangement between the parties to the labor dispute. He sees no reason why the United Mine Workers might not negotiate with the courts and the Government about the law, although he considers it quite impossible that the coal operators and the miners should negotiate while the operators are in contempt of the strike order of the United Mine Workers.

It is not surprising that the Attorney General takes a different view of the subject. As an officer of both the court and the Government it seems to him that a proceeding under a law in court stands on different ground from the negotiation of a wage scale. So far as their own interests are concerned, the miners and operators might negotiate in their own way to any result, whether by surrender after threat of injury or by free bargain leading to agreement or disagreement. But legal procedure is concerned with public interests only, and the law cannot be ousted or avoided by negotiations. The United Mine Workers know that themselves. They would not negotiate with the operators because they could not be sure that the bargain would be concluded on their own terms. There is the same difficulty about Mr. GOMPERS's overture: there is no assurance that his expectation would be fulfilled if the injunction were withdrawn. And it seems more reasonable that the strike order should be canceled than that the injunction should be abandoned upon an "if." The strike order is disarranging great interests, contrary to law. The injunction as yet has injured nobody, and cannot harm even the United Mine Workers unless they are violating the law for the protection of the public. The merits of the strike or the negotiations about the strike have nothing to do with the injunction proceedings. As it will seem to the public, Mr. GOMPERS has put the Mine Workers' Union into a position toward the law even more untenable than toward the operators.

Nor is Mr. GOMPERS more fortunate in his defense of the merits of the strike. He represents that the miners are really striking for more work and wages, contrary to the understanding that their demand for a thirty-hour week was a demand for less work. The thirty-hour week is to be a minimum, not a maximum, and more such weeks are to be worked in a year. Mr. GOMPERS is too well informed not to know that his argument is specious and impracticable, however desirable the result aimed at. A better distribution of work in the mines, and more of it, would improve the conditions of the industry, and should be striven for. But the difficulties of the proposal must be considered. No producer of anything can long pay wages for the production of goods which the market does not absorb and release the capital put into them. The bulk and value of the coal prevent its being stored by the millions of unsold tons. Habitually the mines produce more than the railways can transport, and car shortage rivals slackness in labor as a cause of the short working year.

Coal mining is a seasonal industry on both its producing and its consuming side, and the habits of the public divide with the weather the responsibility for this obstacle to Mr. GOMPERS's proposal. When the public insists on buying its coal in embarrassing quantities as Winter approaches, and on keeping its coal money in its pocket during the idle months, and refusing the storage which is easy for many consumers but impossible for the operators, then the public rather than the operators rightly falls under Mr. GOMPERS's criticism. Mr. LEWIS may spare himself his anxiety lest he should be guilty of contempt of court if he should cancel the strike order. He will find that the easiest way out of his dilemma in causing a situation which makes it necessary for either the Government or the strikers to yield. The proposal of neither Mr. GOMPERS nor Mr. LEWIS is attractive without an order to resume work pending arbitration, and a specific proposal of some reduction in the ultimatum as a basis of a free bargain. Then the strikers might or even should get something. By their present procedure they cannot profit, and may suffer without sympathy.

NOTICE TO QUIT.

Some cynical ancients among us have seen Tammany beaten so many times, and blithely resurgent after the beating, that they feel like grinning when, after some particular election, they hear the old stereotyped phrase, "This is the end of Tammany Hall." Tammany Hall is like the Principle of Evil. There is no end to it; but there are times when it seems to be on its last legs. For the moment the eminent Mr. MURPHY is Marius among the ruins. He has had his own way. He has refused to listen to the advice of wiser Tammanyites who believe in acting upon Mr. FERNANDO WOOD's maxim of "pandering to the moral sense of the community."

Mr. MURPHY must contemplate with deep pleasure the returns from the last election, especially those from the First Judicial District. Justice NEWBURGER, honored by his special ban, has 228,043 votes. Mr. MCCOOK, Republican, has 191,827. It is a very inspiring list of figures for Mr. MURPHY. In 1917, in the First Judicial District, Mr. MCAVOY, Democrat, got 149,563 votes; Mr. SAMUEL H. ORDWAY, Republican, got 104,044. In the Second Judicial District the Republican candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court got this year something over 184,852 votes. In 1917 the highest Republican candidate got 122,946. In Brooklyn, itself fatal to Tammany, the Republican candidate this year had 164,696 votes; the Democratic candidate, 142,712.

In this general disaster and débâcle the loss to Mr. MURPHY of the Presidency of the Board of Aldermen might seem a little thing if it didn't mean three votes lost to Tammany in the Board of Estimate. There, at least, regions not under the immediate thumb of Mr. MURPHY may be made responsible for a result so sad to him and so inspiriting to the friends of good government. But when it comes to the Presidency of the Borough of Manhattan, to the immediate business and bosom of Mr. MURPHY in the district peculiar and sacred to Tammany, what word of cheer can be sent to the stolid philosopher of Good Ground? He is beaten in his own bailiwick, and beaten by the man fittest for the place and therefore most intolerable to Tammany, Mr. CURRAN.

Beaten generally and beaten particularly, Brooklyn getting worse, Manhattan and the Bronx unfaithful, what justification can Mr. MURPHY find for his sagacious conduct of Tammany? What excuse can mutinous Tammany find for sticking to this genius of blundering and disaster?

Doubtless we shall always have to have Tammany with us. For the moment, however, Tammany has shrunk to low dimensions. It remains to be seen if it will consent to be led into lower ruin by its present august chief.

VICTORY FOR LAW AND ORDER.

In a long series of unselfish services to the public done by Mr. WILSON, not the least, so far as the domestic politics and welfare of the United States are concerned, was his description of the Boston police strike as "a crime against civilization." There was every temptation for a politician bent on temporary advantage to play into the hands of the radicals. Mr. WILSON saw at once the issue vital to the continuance of American institutions. He saw that no quarter could be given to the men who are trying to make the labor organizations a super-government to which public servants must give their allegiance, careless of their oaths and their duties to the State. He spoke brave, inspiring, American words. The people of Massachusetts, upon whom was laid the duty of defending in behalf of the rest of the United States the sovereignty of the law, have nobly responded at the polls. There was no question of partisanship involved. It was the obligation of every good citizen, irrespective of party, to show his faithfulness to the State.

By an unprecedented majority, swelled notably by Democratic votes, the people of Massachusetts have evinced their resolve that the Constitution and the law shall prevail over the tumultuary actions of the mob. "I congratulate you," Mr. WILSON tells Governor COOLIDGE, "upon your election as a victor of law and order. When that is the issue all Americans stand together." On temporary matters of political tactics, the drill of partisanship, the supposed exigencies of politics, Mr. WILSON is sometimes wrong. On this great issue of the supremacy of law his penetrating intellect could not be wrong. He saw the Democratic Party of Massachusetts, led by inept chiefs, rushing madly to destruction. He stood not for a Democratic Party locally infected with Sovietism, but for the great, sober, thoughtful, conservative masses of the American people, sure to think right and to vote right when a profound and capital question of their institutions is put before them. It is not a Republican victory that has been won in Massachusetts. It is, as Mr. WILSON says, a victory "for law and order," and "when that is the issue all Americans stand together."

They stood together in Massachusetts. Massachusetts expressed the will of the people of every other State of the whole United States. It was a representative election. The American people are, perhaps, a little too tolerant, good-natured, easy. Perhaps they are a little too easy. They put up with a good deal. Once in a while, and always when their essential welfare is at stake, they show what they are, what they think, what they mean. The Massachusetts Democrats who voted for Mr. COOLIDGE, the Massachusetts Republicans who had indolently absented themselves from the polls on previous elections, did their duty on Tuesday. In all the great industrial cities where this radical foam and froth has been most evident, they made manifest again the stern determination of Americans that their polity shall not be changed by the preachers of crazy exotic theories. The Massachusetts election was not a Republican victory. It was an American victory. It is received with deep approval and satisfaction by the majority of Americans in every State. To all the race of cowardly, trimming politicians it should be reproof and admonition. It shows that courage and conviction are sure to be approved by the mass of American citizens. Mr. WILSON has often shown that he is the President of the American people, a much higher post than that of leader of the Democratic Party; and when the Democratic Party of Massachusetts blunders unpardonably he wins the respect of every American worthy of the name by reproving that party and congratulating not a Republican candidate but "a victor for law and order."

LABOR AND PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

A good deal of the strength of the movement for the public ownership of public utilities has always been attributed to the support of the labor unions. If this be true, it is likely that much of that support will be alienated because of what is happening in connection with the coal strike.

In seeking to enjoin the miners, Attorney General PALMER based his action on the ground that the strikers are trying to interfere with a function of government. He is quoted as saying:

> The Railway Administration has contracts for 360,000 tons of coal a day. The Government must run the railways, and so it must be that the Government can protect itself in its own courts, especially when it is necessary for the Government to protect itself from what I call paralysis.

If the Government actually owned and operated the railways instead of merely operating them temporarily, its case would be even stronger. It would have the inherent right to stop any interference with the running of the trains by strikes on the part of the railway men themselves or of any body or combination furnishing anything essential to the operation of the roads, that was calculated to produce the "paralysis" of which Mr. PALMER speaks.

It follows, therefore, that strikes under public ownership, and this would apply to other utilities no less than to railways, would be perilous to the strikers. There may be some relation between the conclusions necessarily drawn from the Attorney General's remarks and the abandonment of the Plumb plan by the Brotherhoods.

THE RUSSIAN BLOCKADE.

Senator WADSWORTH presumably did not need for himself the information which he asked of the State Department as to our reasons for commercial non-intercourse with Bolshevist Russia. But there are a great many well-meaning people in the country who did need it, who have been worked upon easily by the tears shed by our local Bolsheviki for the "dying women and children," and who ought to learn something of profit from the reply addressed to the Senator by Assistant Secretary of State PHILLIPS.

The good ladies who paraded in the rain last Saturday by way of expressing their disapproval of the Russian blockade announced a willingness to starve themselves for the suffering women and children of Russia. They could serve nobody by starving themselves, and by persuading the allied Governments to lift the blockade they would merely assist the Bolsheviki in starving all Russians who do not agree with them. Mr. PHILLIPS puts this very succinctly:

> The population is divided into categories along occupational and class lines, and receives food, so far as food may be available, in accordance with a scale which is adjusted with a view to the maintenance of the Bolsheviki in power and the fulfillment of their program for the extinction of the middle classes.

If you will not work for the Bolsheviki or fight for the Bolsheviki, you cannot eat. Soldiers in the Red Army get three times as much food as the average for the civil population. Men and women of stubborn conscience starve. Incidentally, Russia used to export food before the war; food shortages in certain parts of that country today are due principally to inadequate transportation, the responsibility for which falls chiefly, though not wholly, upon the Bolsheviki. Russia was neither starving nor importing food before they seized the Government.

Hence there is sound moral objection to our helping the Bolsheviki starve their enemies. Any food that we sent in would be seized by the Government and distributed for purely political purposes. But there is also a practical reason, which, of course, will not appeal to sympathizers with the Bolsheviki here, but ought to have some effect upon the more numerous persons of feeble intelligence who have been persuaded by their arguments. As Mr. PHILLIPS says:

> It is the declared purpose of the Bolsheviki in Russia to carry revolution throughout the world. They have availed themselves of every opportunity to initiate in the United States a propaganda aimed to bring about the forcible overthrow of our present form of government.

Already they have done what they could to subsidize our revolutionaries, and Mr. PHILLIPS makes it clear that the resumption of commercial relations would give them the chance to send to this country the stolen Rumanian gold, which could be used as munitions in the revolutionist campaign.

This is no argument, of course, for those who want "the forcible over-" throw of our present form of gov-" ernment," but such persons are not so very numerous. Their credulous friends will reply that LENIN and TROTZKY have repeatedly offered to abandon revolutionary propaganda in foreign countries in return for conclusion of peace. So they have. But Bolshevism is a missionary religion. Renunciation of the right of propaganda—and between propaganda and the revolution of violence Bolshevism draws no distinction—would be the flat denial of the creed by which LENIN lives, and in which there is no reason to doubt he sincerely believes. To some extent he is an opportunist; he has already temporarily abandoned certain features of the pure Bolshevist ideal for practical reasons. He would undoubtedly promise to suspend revolutionary agitation in other countries in return for the great practical advantage of a free hand in Russia; but there is no reason in the world to suppose that he would keep that promise longer than suited his convenience.

THOSE UBIQUITOUS FINANCIERS.

The versatile Colonel D'ANNUNZIO, a true Renaissance hero in his grasp of all subjects, has been instructing his Slav neighbors in the mysteries of international finance, which, as the Colonel sees it, is very mysterious indeed. It would seem that the Slavs are in error in supposing that they really want Fiume; this is only a delusion into which they have been hypnotized by "a group of international financiers," headed by American intriguers. All this is a commonplace to those who have studied the annexationist propaganda, as well as the further assertion that, of course, President WILSON is merely acting as the tool of Wall Street. It still remains a little obscure how American financiers could have influenced the terms of the Treaty of London in April, 1915, long before America thought of going into the war; but it has been said so often that perhaps some people believe it.

But D'ANNUNZIO is no mere psittacist; he adds some original contributions to his doctrine. The reason these base and intriguing Americans do not want Italy to have Fiume is that they have invested their money in Trieste, and fear that "an Italian "Fiume means less business for "Trieste, and therefore less money "for America." This is indeed a novelty; a few days ago these far-reaching financiers had put all their money into Fiume and were afraid that the Italians would make foreign investments there of less value. Or so the Italian propagandists told us. Just how this would happen our Italian friends did not say, but the Slavs have been asserting for the last eight months that the Italians want to get Fiume in order to kill its trade by severe restrictions—to prevent it from becoming a competitor of Trieste. This would indeed explain why international financiers should put their money in Trieste, but hardly accords with D'ANNUNZIO's glowing pictures of the prosperity of an Italian Fiume.

But we all know that financiers are devious and crafty creatures; the only explanation of all these assertions is that they have bought up everything both in Trieste and in Fiume and are trying to drive D'ANNUNZIO mad in the effort to understand their labyrinthine wiles. Meanwhile, reports from Rome have indicated that popular enthusiasm for the Adriatic crusade is falling off. D'ANNUNZIO was a hero, is still a potential hero; but it is hard to be a hero when nothing happens. He seized Fiume and defied the world to throw him out. If the world had tried it, there would have been the clash of arms; D'ANNUNZIO would have died gloriously or conquered still more gloriously. But the world has let him alone, and it is hard to be a hero twenty-four hours a day unless the red blood flows. Of course, D'ANNUNZIO could proceed to the conquest of Dalmatia, which would involve bloodshed and hardships enough for anybody; but that seems to be his only way out. If he does not take it, we may perhaps suppose that he, too, is cooling off, and is willing to let less heroic persons seek a way out through the unromantic methods of diplomacy. Financiers, cowering behind their desks at each new blast from the Fiuman trumpet, will no doubt hope that this is true.

PERPLEXING MEXICO.

The latest piece of news from Mexico City is of a sort too rare in our reports from the neighboring republic. There lately appeared in Mr. CARRANZA'S capital an opera company headed by our eminent townsman, Mr. CARUSO, which announced a performance of "Carmen." The opera house would not hold the Mexican lovers of art who wanted to attend, so the opera was given in the bull-ring before 15,000 persons, without interfering with any other diversion; bull-fighting is a thing of the past in Mexico City, and the Plaza de Toros is used for great concerts. Which proves, apparently, that the Mexicans have been gravely slandered; that they are a highly cultured and art-loving race which has abandoned the bloodthirsty sports of its ancestors, and that they turn out for good music in larger crowds than American cities can boast.

But this open-air performance of "Carmen" encountered some difficulties. It started under a clouded sky, and before long rain was falling in torrents. Possessors of million-dollar voices naturally do not like to sing in the rain, but when the management wanted to stop the performance the crowd protested furiously, and compelled the artists to carry on to the very end, the orchestra playing under a tarpaulin shelter, while a mackintoshed Don José killed a Carmen in an oiled-silk raincoat. This doubtless proves that even though the Mexicans have given up bull-fighting they have retained the old habit of mind; that they insist on working opera singers to a possible death from pneumonia as furiously as they forced toreros to face frantic bulls.

It seems that any item of Mexican news—even artistic news—can be made to prove anything.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Historian Goes Far Astray.

As Señor BLASCO IBAÑEZ is shown by his books to be a fairly diligent reader of history, especially that of his own country, there is difficulty in believing his first lecture here was correctly reported. For he is quoted as having made some most remarkable statements in explanation of Spain's present economic and political condition. He said, or at least is said to have said, that the state of Spain was not one of decadence, but one of "anaemia," and that this was to be expected of a nation that for ages had been giving her best blood and talent in the development of a new world.

It is true, of course, that a lot of Spanish blood was shed, and that much of such talent as her sons had was utilized on this side of the Atlantic, but neither the purpose nor the result of these expenditures was the development of a new world. Exploitation was the consistent and unvarying Spanish policy.

And far more of Spanish blood and talent was wasted in the Old World than in the New—wasted exactly where went most of the treasure brought home by the Conquistadores. Where that was, for what end, and with what consequences, Señor BLASCO IBAÑEZ can find in many books, not a few of them Spanish, and, best of all, at least as regards the terminating period of Spain's power and greatness, in the pages of our own MOTLEY—pages marked alike by magnificence of style and accuracy of substance.

Who Had Reason for Envy?

Other surprising statements ascribed to BLASCO IBAÑEZ were to the effect that the unfairness of modern historians to Spain was due to envy, and that Spain has occupied for centuries the position that has been Germany's for only fifty years. Again he was mistaken, for while there are some ancient historians who frankly expressed jealousy of Spanish wealth, power, and possessions, none has done so since the nations ceased to be all robbers together and brigandage was the favorite and avowed profession of statesmen and gentlemen everywhere.

It was not an enviable land or people that BLASCO IBAÑEZ portrayed when he wrote "In the Shadow of the Cathedral," but when he did it he justified the historians whom he criticised.

A Difficult Road to Travel.

It was quite as the son of his father that Lieut. Col. THEODORE ROOSEVELT expressed his satisfaction with what Election Day had brought him—a very new son, a young mother meeting the most hopeful of expectations as to her health and, last but not little, an opportunity to enter public life in a position full of opportunities for service. That was enough to fill anybody's heart and head alike with joy, and naturally the Colonel who is rejoiced exactly as would have been, for like reasons, the Colonel who—well, who so effectively was that he, too, still lives and serves.

What the second THEODORE will do in the Assembly remains, of course, to be seen. To his father he is probably more or less indebted for the close approach to unanimity with which he was chosen, but is far from helpful in all respects to be the son of a great man, and Assemblyman ROOSEVELT will not have been long in Albany before he realizes that he must meet a criticism far more severe than he would encounter had he taken to the capital a name unknown outside of a country district. Much will be demanded of him, and at once, and he must be prepared to overcome more than the inevitable difficulties of inexperience in a field where experience counts hardly less than ability and good intentions.

Summoning Adverse Witnesses.

Unlike other new members of the Legislature, he will be compared not with other men who are learning the ways of Albany, or even with those who learned those ways long ago, but with the later achievements of a father with whom comparison would be a cruel test for anybody. And this test is unfair as well as cruel, for, as exactly that father's amazing complex of diverse capacities was never in any American before, as it is not likely to be repeated now or ever, and it is certain that the son will be different. That difference is likely—is sure—to be charged against him as a fault by the unthinking—and the unthinking are numerous.

On the other hand, the son can thank the great father for the precious legacy of everybody's cordial good wishes. There will be none to envy his success, however great, and no man could be more than he under a helpful expectation in the minds of all around him that he will do fine things.

The Two Cornells.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In "Addresses on Government and Citizenship," one of the eight volumes of the very interesting Harvard Press edition of the public writings of Elihu Root, is a speech entitled "Invisible Government," delivered in August, 1915, in the New York Constitutional Convention. It is a very severe arraignment of "party bosses"—the phrase is there used by Mr. Root—and twice in this connection, along with the names Conkling, Platt, and Hill, appears that of "Cornell," whereupon the indexer of the volume jumps to a very wrong conclusion, and, though the reference is of course to Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, it is the father's name which appears in the index, and we read "Cornell, Ezra, founder of Cornell University." Of course this aspersion on an exceptionally fine, upright character—as early alumni who saw and knew the man especially feel the injustice—should be removed from future editions of this volume, particularly as the good name of the university is also dragged into disrepute. One may even ask if Alonzo B. Cornell should be classed in this connection with Conkling, Platt, and Hill. I doubt it.

THEODORE STANTON.

The Huts at the Library.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the heading "Library Defacements" you printed, on Oct. 27, a communication, signed "A Colonial Dame of America," referring to the huts at each end of the Library terrace, on the Forty-second Street and Fortieth Street corners. Your correspondent thought that they should be removed, and said that those who planted them there should take them away, or the Trustees of the Library should enforce their removal.

With most of what this lady says every one will be in sympathy, but she falls into a common error in thinking that the Trustees of the Library have control over the terrace. Their authority ends at the foot of the marble steps directly below the front door; it does not include the terrace, the steps near the Fifth Avenue sidewalk, the grass plots near the sidewalk, nor the plaza behind the Library. All of these places are controlled by the Park Commission.

HARVEST.

We celebrate no Harvest of the Dead!
The seed-corn, multiplied a millionfold,
Returns to use through death, decay, and mold:
This day we keep the Feast of Living Bread!

Still ring the echoes of his feet who trod
Our quiet fields to harrow deep the soil;
Stalwart he grew, and throve on lustful toil,
Plowed deeper still, and cursed each clinging clod.

The morning mist, the dews of night, retain
The imprint of his fearful-featured wrath;
The murdered trees memorialize his path;
His furies drenched the earth with crimson rain.

He plowed and harrowed with his hell-wrought steel—
Rejoiced to see his gaping furrows grow;
But at his back One moved, Who seemed to sow
In mood exalted, with a holy zeal!

His mighty gesture flung the gleaming seed;
He heeded not the shrieking plowman's hate;
The seed was safe—it needed but to wait;
No law can fail which God Himself decreed.

Man's faith in Truth, in Liberty and Right—
This seed redeems each age to Chaos buried;
This seed shall save an upward-cycling world;
From seeming death it draws its conquering might.

MARIE L. BOLINTON.

PERSHING FOR HIS GENERALS

Asks Higher Rank for Liggett, Bullard, Harbord, McAndrew, Dickman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—General John J. Pershing ended today his appearance before a joint session of the Senate and House Military Committees to present his views on army reorganization plans. Outside of a strong appeal for the advancement of Lieut. Gens. Liggett and Bullard and Major Gens. Harbord, McAndrew, and Dickman of his command, to the permanent rank of Lieutenant General, and a qualified indorsement of some form of aircraft procurement consolidation, he added little to the recommendations he has previously made.

He thought it would be advisable to pick future Brigadier Generals in the army from the officers of the lower permanent rank, who commanded brigades or divisions in France. Much of his testimony today had to do with aircraft. He agreed with Marshal Foch that superior air forces probably would determine victory in the next war, but insisted that the infantry was the chief fighting army to which all other army elements were a support. Concentration of aircraft procurement under a single agency probably would "get the best results," he said, but he did not approve the creation of a new department to handle all aircraft.

Explaining his order in October, 1917, discontinuing the construction of Spad pursuit planes in the United States, General Persing said they were outclassed by German models.

"Bombing is an uncertain enterprise at best, though it is developing," General Pershing said. "We advanced into Germany and failed to find the horrible destruction we anticipated from our bombers' reports."

Explaining reports that his troops had been ordered "over the top" on armistice day, General Pershing said orders had reached some of the advanced detachments too late "to stop fighting even at 11 A. M., the hour of cessation."

DISABLED ZEPPELIN'S STORY

One of Her Thirty Passengers Tells of Her Flight and Rescue.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The story of the adventurous voyage of the Zeppelin Bodensee, which narrowly escaped destruction when carrying thirty passengers on Monday night, is told by Mrs. Tower, wife of The London Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent, who was aboard the airship.

"Arriving from Friedrichshafen at Staaken, the landing ground, thirteen miles from Berlin," Mrs. Tower says, "the airship bumped violently, disabling the motors, and swerved into a crowd of watchers, killing one and injuring six. Then, after repeated bumping, she suddenly rose, narrowly clearing a building, collision with which would have wrecked the ship.

"We rose steadily to what seemed an immense height. The accident had put out the lights of the Zeppelin and we were in total darkness. Snow was falling and it was intensely cold. All the windows were smashed. Captain Fleming assured the passengers that if they kept quiet he could save the ship.

"In two hours, by the extraordinary courage of the war-trained mechanic, the motors were repaired, but so little gasoline was left only one motor could be used.

"After drifting for hours with a damaged compass, the captain again brought the ship over Staaken, intending to await dawn, but at midnight he realized this was impracticable, and, after navigating for three hours in the darkness, found a suitable landing between Magdeburg and Stendal.

"There we descended very slowly, finally alighting on the edge of dwarfed fir trees, which were thickly covered with snow. Here the ship rested. We were rescued at dawn. Huddled in hay carts, we were taken through deep snow to the village, where we were fed and made warm."

LAWYERS AID JEWISH FUND.

At a meeting of lawyers of the city last night at the Hotel Biltmore $250 838 was subscribed to the United Building Fund Campaign of the Federated Jewish Institutions. The lawyers' quota is $340,000, and it is expected that this amount will soon be raised. I. E. Goldwasser, Executive Secretary of the Federation, told the lawyers present that the money would be applied to the erection and repair of urgently needed hospitals, orphanages, Americanization centres, and day nurseries, which had been neglected during the war.

Among the larger contributions were the following: Louis Marshall, $50,000; Samuel Untermyer, $20,000; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cook, $15,000; Emanuel Arnstein, $5,000; Benjamin Feiner, $2,000; Julius Goldman, $10,000; Henry F. Hendricks, $4,000; Paul M. Herzog, $2,000; Alfred Jaretzky, $5,000; Max Kohn, $2,000; Isidore Korn, $2,500; Judge Irving Lehman, $10,000; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Levy, $5,000; Walter E Meyer, $2,000; Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Moses, $5,000; Henry E. Newburger, $2,500; Samuel D. Levy, $10,000; M. Warley Platzek, $2,000; Abraham Stern, $2,500; Max D. Steuer, $5,000; Charles Strauss $2,000; S. M. Stroock, $4,000; Irwin Untermyer, $4,000; Alvin Untermyer, $2,000.

ROCKEFELLER AIDS SCOUTS.

John D. Jr., Gives $2,500 for Girls' Drive for Funds.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., aided the Girl Scout drive yesterday by pledging a gift of $2,500 toward the Manhattan share of $100 000 in the city and national campaign for associate members and $2,500 was offered by Mr. Rockefeller conditional upon the entire quota of $106 000 being raised in Manhattan by Armistice Day, which will mark the close of the drive.

The grand total for Manhattan now stands at $42,000. Mrs. E. H. Harriman yesterday gave $2,000 and checks for $1,000 were received from Mortimer L. Schiff, Nicholas Brady and Arthur O. Choate.

WANTS TRUST LAW FOR ALL.

Edge Moves Repeal of Exemption of Labor and Farmers' Organizations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Repeal of provisions in Federal appropriation bills exempting labor and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust laws was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey.

"I am convinced," said Senator Edge, "that a very large majority of the people oppose all class legislation. To exempt any class from any regulatory law is a direct invitation to violate the law."

OBJECT TO SARGENT PANEL.

Rabbis Telegraph a Protest to Boston Library Directors.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Declaring that the panel by Sargent, entitled "The Synagogue," lately added to the Boston Public Library, "is contrary to fact and therefore unjust," the Executive Board of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, meeting here, today telegraphed a protest to the Board of Directors of the library against its exhibition.

ACTORS WILL HELP RED CROSS DRIVE

Equity Members to Give Open-Air Performance Today at Public Library.

APPLICATIONS COMING IN Revenue Collector Edwards to Preside at Noon Meeting on Sub-Treasury Steps.

The Actors' Equity Association is going after Red Cross memberships today, at a meeting on the steps of the Public Library. The meeting will be a continuous performance from 12 to 2 o'clock, with a vaudeville show and speeches during the intermission.

Ethel Barrymore, Doris Keane, Ruth Shepley, Marion Davies, Peggy Wood, Jean Shaby, Gene Patriquin and Roberta Arnold are among those who will appear. Any one who will give them a life membership will receive an autographed photo.

Richie Ling will direct the performance assisted by Ernest Glendenning. The program also will include John Steele, Everett Butterfield, Johnny Dooley, Captain Richard Gordon, Kempton Greene, William J. Kelley, Major Wallace McCutchcon, Otto Kruger, Frank Bacon, James Bradbury, George McManus, Herbert Waterous, Harrison Brockbank, Eddie Canter, Lieutenant B. C. Hilliam and Donald Brian.

The Metropolitan Opera House has loaned for the meeting the stage setting used by Caruso when he sings his aria in "Pagliacci." The Navy Recruiting Band will play, and young women legacy members will help get memberships.

William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue, will preside at a meeting on the steps of the Sub-Treasury, from 12 to 2 o'clock. Ted Lewis and his band will supply the jazz. There will be several speakers.

Offers of assistance are coming in from all parts of the city. The Real Estate Board of New York has sent out 4,000 letters urging co-operation. The firm of Bing & Bing opened yesterday for 1,000 membership blanks. Metropolitan Life Insurance agents are aiding the drive, on instructions from the home office.

Michael Friedsam, chairman of the mercantile division, announced that the following members of the Department Store Committee had pledged themselves for 100 per cent. membership: B. Altman & Co., Oliver Olson & Co., Benwit, Teller & Co., James A. Hearn & Son, James McCreery & Co., Franklin Simon & Co., Stewart & Co., John Wanamaker, James McCutcheon & Co., Asch & Co., Lord & Taylor, Oppenheim, Collins & Co., and Best & Co.

The leather goods industry is being canvassed by a committee under B. F. Isaacs & Hummel & Co., who is president of the Associated Leather Goods Manufacturers. The committee will canvass all pocketbook, handbag, belt, trunk, suitcase, and leather novelty factories, as well as smaller specialty shops.

Sailors from the Buffalo, which acts as a supply ship to destroyers, are out for a 100 per cent. membership. Chaplain W. F. Blackard is in charge of the drive on the ship. The crews of the destroyers now in the Hudson also are enlisting in the campaign and the Buffalo, it was said, will not be the only ship to fly a 100 per cent. membership flag.

Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer announced that among the peace time activities of the Red Cross would be service in foreign ports for the rapidly increasing personnel of the American merchant marine. A meeting was held on the steps of the Public Library yesterday at which a performance staged by the Green Room Club, under the direction of Silvers, the clown, was given.

FLEET TO SOUTH AMERICA.

Secretary Daniels Announces Visit for This Winter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Secretary Daniels announced this afternoon that the Atlantic fleet would visit various South American ports and the Panama Canal after engaging in its coming Winter manoeuvres off Guantanamo, Cuba.

During the war it was not possible to dock and make the necessary overhaul and repairs to the vessels of the fleet, and the dreadnoughts Pennsylvania, Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada, Utah, and Florida are under repairs. The overhauling of these vessels has been very extensive, but by the end of the present year practically all the necessary repairs will have been completed.

Admiral Wilson will sail on Jan. 8 for Southern waters. He will have under his command the Pennsylvania, Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada, Utah, Florida, Delaware, and North Dakota, and fifty-four destroyers. Submarines and auxiliaries and the pre-dreadnoughts of his fleet will follow as soon as sufficient personnel is obtained to man them.

The number of enlisted men in the navy is 116 000 and of this number 10,000 are under training in the various training stations.

NEW CITY COLLEGE RECORD.

Its Registration for the Evening Session is 6,300.

According to official figures given out yesterday, the largest number of students ever enrolled have registered this term in the evening session of the College of the City of New York. The figures, as compiled by Prof. Frederick B. Robinson, Dean of the School of Business and Civic Administration, show a total registration of 6,300. There are 3,000 students in the classes at the commerce building, 600 students at the municipal building, 800 students at the Brooklyn branch classes at Boys' High School, and 1,900 students at the main building.

So many students applied for various courses that, because of the limited facilities, the authorities had to deny many applications or else place the applicants on waiting lists. The foreign trade, accounting, and income tax courses are particularly well attended. The latter class was recently moved to Washington Irving High School, where more space is available.

SHIP BRINGS GERMAN DYES.

Nieuw Amsterdam Arrives with First Consignment Since April, 1917.

The Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, which arrived from Rotterdam on Tuesday, brought 165 barrels of aniline dyes from Germany, which are said to be the first to arrive here since the United States entered the war in April, 1917. The dyes are consigned to the New York Color and Chemical Company of 98 John Street and will be discharged from the ship some day this week if the longshoremen in Hoboken return to work.

All the vat dyes arriving from Germany at [illegible] Pacific Alliance, Inc., of 45 East Seventeenth Street, who are [illegible] the various dye firms throughout the country. So far none have reached the United States, but they are expected to arrive at any time.

Dr. Slattery Declines a Call.

Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, rector of Grace Church, at Broadway and Tenth Street, has declined a call to become dean of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge.

LADY ASTOR'S QUIPS AMUSE PLYMOUTH

"Astorisms" Repeated Everywhere as She Continues Stirring Canvass.

ADMITS SHE IS TOO RICH

Her Opponents Are Trying to Push Local Issues to the Front.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 5.—As the local election contest develops, Lady Astor's chief opponents, those of the Labor Party, think they have detected a weakness in her equipment. They have noticed that she avoids discussing political issues except generally, and bases her claim for election on her power as a woman for getting things done. So they are laying plans to have her heckled at public meetings and compelled to give immediate answers on specific points.

"That will be far more effective than sending her written interrogatories," a leading labor organiser explained. "Lord Astor can't help her when she is at a meeting."

The burning local question is the discharge of dockyard hands, 2,000 of whom are to be dropped from the payrolls before Christmas. The laboring men believe that no matter how able Lady Astor is, she cannot have as much influence in their behalf in the House of Commons as a man elected by trade union votes.

This sort of doubt as to her capabilities is also felt by the older type of Coalition supporters. They want more than an expression of belief that only Lloyd George won the war, which, they say, is all the Viscountess has yet vouchsafed.

On the other hand, leading Unionists are democratic banking on Lady Astor's personal feminine power in influential circles. She herself said today:

"Ordinary members feel that they must make long speeches. I shall enter Parliament not to speak but to get things done. Lord Astor has laid stress on her wide acquaintance, and her supporters believe she is just the person to drop a word in the right quarter for the good of Plymouth. This may be sound politics, but it would be an innovation in British Parliamentary life.

The candidate herself is quite aware of her responsibility as probably the first woman member. "On my behavior, she told a women's meeting today, depends greatly whether the way to Parliament will be open to all other women, and then she enlarged on the advantage of electing a representative who has no desire to carve out his own political career, and rebuked masculine captiousness in criticising the detail of the Coalition policy by declaring "women have sufficient gumption to understand that the Government can't make everything perfect at once."

It was frankly a woman's speech to an audience of women. Inasmuch as there are 17,000 women electors to 16,000 men, even if Lady Astor were not Nancy Astor" to Plymouth it would be an error to deprecate the feminine that appeals to so many voters.

The most definite demand which she has yet advanced is for a rigorous censorship of motion pictures. "They can be the greatest curse or the greatest blessing for England," she says. "It is not a small question; it affects thousands. I was a girl not so long ago and I know how these lurid love scenes would have affected me." Here one heckler said: "Cinemas come from your country." "But not from where I was born—Virginia," was her retort.

The Astor millions are a favorite target for Plymouth street orators, though the candidate is too much respected to have had them made much of as campaign material. She herself referred to them today.

"I have probably far more than I ought to have," she said, "but I'll say this: If some of my Socialist opponents had what I have they would not be here asking for your votes."

She also made a statement astonishing for the Lady Bountiful of the neighborhood. She said she considered private charities harmful to the donors as well as the recipients and that those who relied on distributing money regard ease of life origin might have a disagreeable surprise some day.

The Campaign Engrossing Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—Every one in Plymouth knows that a political campaign is in progress. Nearly every man, woman and child knows at least one of the candidates—Lady Astor. Before the campaign began she was reputed to know more townspeople than any other resident, every street and alley, and some one in every alley.

Posters on all the billboards and almost every other available space announce that "Lady Astor is the only Lloyd George candidate," or appeal to the voters to "make history and elect the first woman member of Parliament."

In the clubs, hotels and restaurants, tea rooms and public houses the election is the dominating topic of conversation.

The few who were uninformed had their curiosity aroused when the campaign was started by the spectacle of this strikingly handsome woman, dressed all in black, driving through the streets behind a dashing team of sorrels, with silk-hatted coachman, his whip and the bridles of the horses adorned with red, white and blue ribbons—the Coalition colors.

What is still more unusual in this quiet Devonshire city, taxicabs loaded with newspaper men and photographers trail the Astor carriage wherever it goes.

"Astorisms" Becoming Famous.

"Astorisms" is a familiar term in Plymouth since "Lady Nancy" took the stump for the epigrams with which she enlivens her speeches, coining them readily to meet every question propounded by the hecklers and to express her views on the issues of the campaign. This lends to her addresses a novel interest. Today she gave utterance to several new ones, among them:

"There is a difference between the working classes and the shirking classes."

"Every person is a potential profiteer. The only way of choking profiteering is to get the selfishness out of human nature."

Lady Astor, in the course of the morning's drive about the district, stopped at Unionist headquarters. Descending from her carriage, she came face to face with Isaac Foot, her Liberal opponent, who happened to be passing. She smiled and said: "Good morning, Mr. Foot."

The Liberal candidate replied with equal cordiality, and they talked together for a minute, Lady Astor saying to him good-naturedly: "You are far too progressive a man to be identified with the Ancient Mariner Asquith Party. You are a good man, but you are going in the wrong direction."

Lady Astor has set the pace so fast in this campaign that her opponents will be compelled to busy themselves to keep abreast of her.

She was early downstairs this morning at her home, fronting on Plymouth Harbor, which is serving her as an information bureau, receiving callers and volunteers and offering her help to dignitaries, one of these being a delegation of Plymouth policemen. She pledged herself to aid them in making retroactive the increases granted after they were pensioned.

But Lady Astor is not permitting her campaigning to interfere with the welfare work whereby she has become so popular during her ten years' residence in Plymouth, and for which she is beloved by the women and children. On the way from her home to visit "my children," as she terms the slum youngsters, Lady Astor stopped at a day nursery of which she is patroness and attended a 20-minute committee meeting, at which Mayor Brown, Liberal, was present. There was no mention of politics.

Then she drove into the heart of a pro-labor section of the city, where it was considered unwise for her husband to appear during the last campaign on account of the rabid anti-Unionist sentiment. Her reception today was cordial, her arrival being the signal for a foregathering of the neighborhood women and children. Several service men came into the street and readily gave their promise to vote for her, which she had kindly requested.

Asked whether she would attend the previously arranged open meeting, in spite of the fact that it was raining, Lady Astor said: "No, that is where women have got more sense than men. Men go to such meetings and shiver, catch colds and go home to be nursed by their wives. We won't hold the meeting, but I will be at the Women's Bazaar meeting this afternoon, rain or shine."

In the course of four addresses today Lady Astor flatly favored State purchase of the liquor business and local option on the question of prohibition. She told one questioner that she favored the closing of public houses on Sunday.

"Yes," she said, "I don't think the saloon is an edifying place in which to spend the Sabbath."

Her statement was loudly applauded.

At one meeting Lady Astor found a Socialist delegation present, an to it she quoted Scripture. She argued that Christianity was the only remedy for the world's ills.

"I don't mind telling you that I am a Socialist at heart," she said. "It is the most beautiful creed on earth. But there has been only one true Socialist, and He said: 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

Regarding [illegible] opinion relative to charity, Lady Astor said that she always had thought charity a bad thing for the receiver and the giver. The giver, she declared, got a sort of unctuous sense of piety. But it was fundamentally bad. She suggested that her questioner could find out all about charity in the fifteenth chapter of Corinthians.

In a lighter vein the candidate declared that she did not care a "tuppence" for a political career. But that she would do what was best for all classes. She said she had seen so much suffering in the last five years that she could have no idea of ever leading what was called an idle life. There was so much to be done. Another point made by the speaker in one of her addresses was:

"I can't imagine a worse thing than a House of Commons composed entirely of Mrs. Astors. But one of them will do it a lot of good."

Cecil's Letter of Approval.

Lord Robert Cecil, in a letter to Lady Astor, says:

"At the present time, with the party system more or less in abeyance, the personality of the candidates becomes of first importance. In the perennial controversy with greed and self any one who knows you will be confident that you will be found on the side with the angels.

Apart from personal considerations, Lord Robert says, he should vote for Lady Astor, adding: "If the House of Commons is to be truly representative of its constituents, it is essential that it should contain some exponent of woman's point of view."

He should also vote for her, he says, because of his certainty that she would stand for those causes which he regarded as of vital moment. Like every sane woman he had ever met she would be a supporter of the League of Nations, "without which European and world civilization could not be secured."

"Competition and rivalry in national affairs have ruled us too long, continues Lord Robert. "We must turn to a saner and more natural principle of co-operation. The same applies to our domestic affairs with at least equal force. We need a league of classes quite as much as a League of Nations.

"The Bolsheviki and their sympathisers here believe in class warfare. That way lies madness. In the dangerous and difficult times ahead we cannot afford to fritter away our strength in internecine warfare."

The Campaign Committee of the Labor Party is considering the advisability of instituting a suit for slander against Lord Astor in connection with his characterization of W. T. Gay, the Labor Candidate opposing Lady Astor, as a "not too successful manager of a cooperative boot manufactory." The appellation has aroused the indignation of the supporters of the Labor candidate.

Gerards Entertain Pages at Dinner.

Former Ambassador and Mrs. James W. Gerard entertained at dinner last night at the Ritz-Carlton, in honor of former Ambassador and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page.

Templeton-Mabardi Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Templeton of Denver, Colo., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eileen Mary Templeton to Astor Mabardi of this city and Alexandria, Egypt. Mr. Mabardi is a banker and merchant.

Orth-Schaefer.

The marriage of John C. B. Orth and Miss Marguerite R. Schaefer, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Schaefer of 8 East Eighty-second Street, took place yesterday afternoon in St. James's Lutheran Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street, the Rev. Junius B. [illegible] officiating. The bride walked with her father and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frederick K. Mohr of Ardmore, Penn., and Miss Louise Orth, a sister of the bridegroom. Carlie R. Wagner was the best man, and the ushers were William K. Schmidt, Louis C. Wagner, Jr., C. Blackburn Miller, Hugh F. McElroy, 3d, Harry Krieger and Frederick K. Mohr of Ardmore, Penn. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Wed to Lieut. Com. Alfred T. Clay.

The marriage is announced of Miss Gladys Young Staley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Staley of 624 West End Avenue, and Lieut. Commander Alfred Thomas Clay, U. S. N., which took place in this city on Nov. 1. Lieut. Commander Clay was graduated from the United States Naval Academy, class of '10, and is now aide on the staff of Commander Train of the Pacific fleet.

Corporal Leo L. Throop.

Corporal Leo L. Throop, who was a member of the 165th Regiment, A. E. F., and who had received several decorations for bravery while fighting on the Champagne front in France, is dead at his home, 1,042 East Twelfth Street, Flatbush, from the effects of being gassed by the Germans. Corporal Throop was in service in the machine-gun battalion and was twice wounded in action. In July, 1918, at a great sacrifice to himself, he carried a wounded French officer out of danger, for which he was decorated. He was also taken prisoner at Sergy, but in the advance of the Allies the guard placed over him fled and he rejoined his regiment. He was 22 years old and a son of Francis H. and Marie H. Throop.

David S. Greenebaum.

David S. Greenebaum, the last of the four brothers who in the early 60s founded in Chicago the well-known banking house of Greenebaum Brothers, died Tuesday morning in his 79th year. He made his home at the Hotel Lucerne. Recently the eldest of the brothers, Elias, died at the age of 97. David Greenebaum had lived in this city nearly fifty years, acting, until his retirement twenty-five years ago, as the New York representative of the firm. At one time he owned a seat on the Stock Exchange. Mrs. Jacob A. Cantor, who died last Spring, was a daughter.

The Upturned Sledge

Experienced travelers in snowy countries will recognize at once why this post trader has ordered his servant to stand the sledge against the wall instead of leaving it on the ground. In the North nothing is ever left in a position where it can freeze fast and thus necessitate hard labor to free it from the ice. Everything is hung up or tilted up so that it may be ready at once when needed.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The New Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Bodansky is one of the conductors who are liberally minded toward the American composer. The programs that he has given in the concerts of the New Symphony Orchestra have attested it. Last night's program, the third of the season, had two, counting Mr. Ernest Bloch as an American composer, by virtue of his residence here, and his intention to remain here. Mr. Bloch's "Two Poems for Orchestra," entitled "Winter" and "Spring," respectively, were played, and Professor David Stanley Smith's overture, "Prince Hal." This had been heard only once before in New York at a semi-public occasion, the meeting of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

The symphony was Schubert's in C, a familiar work that brought out some of the merits and defects of the new orchestra. Mr. Bodansky's reading was a free and vigorous one, buoyant and elastic in rhythm without exaggeration, with rightly felt tempos, plastically modeled phrasing, a performance that gave a true picture of the symphony, with all its beauties and with the "heavenly lengths" as far mitigated as those beauties will serve to mitigate them. The tone of the orchestra was still coarse, and the emergence of some of the instruments in solo passages was not always a joy, as, for instance, the oboe in the andante.

Mr. Bloch's two poems belong apparently to an earlier style of composition than that which he is now cultivating, a style more easily accessible, more penetrated by a spirit of beauty. The two pieces are strongly marked and strongly contrasted depictions of mood, and to the delineation of the moods the contrasted orchestral color contributes as much as the substance of the music itself. Both show not only a command of orchestral resources, but also a fine constructive ability in the use of themes of individual physiognomy. The brilliancy and fire of the "Spring" naturally made the more immediate impression; it is a piece of much charm, of roseate and glinting colors, music that is filled with a note of nature.

Mr. Smith's vigorous and well written overture, remembered from its performance in New York five years ago, came too late in the proceedings for detailed comment at this time.

Mme. Besson to Play Abroad.

Mme. Violet Besson, who has been a headliner in Keith's vaudeville for several years, appearing recently in "The Maid of France," has been selected by Robert McLaughlin to play Julia Arthur's former part of Magdalen in his play, "The Eternal Magdalen," when it is presented in London early next year. She will leave New York for London shortly after Christmas. She is well known both in Paris and London.

EARLY AMERICAN FURNITURE

Several Collections on View at American Art Galleries.

At the American Art Galleries is a group of collections that will bring ardent lovers of American furniture to their knees. The most engaging in quality as well as the largest in size are those of the late Mrs. F. H. Bosworth and Edwin Isham and George Devoll.

Settees by Duncan Phyfe are in Mrs. Bosworth's collection, and it will be amusing to note the length to which our patriotic passion for Colonial pieces will carry us. "Pounce upon them," say the connoisseurs, but the pouncing is a matter of four figures. There is an early American extension table made while the cabinet-makers were still experimenting with the extension feature, and providing a gate-hinge arrangement that looks clumsier than it is. The clustered legs and paws are most decorative when the table is closed.

There are several pieces in the lovely blond maple wood that has fallen upon evil days in these later centuries, and there are eighteenth century knife boxes of unusual laboration, together with others with the severity of the Adam period. Cellarets and wine coolers have their sad message for the present generation and glass and silver and Lowestoft and Derby speak of the lusty art of living as our well nourished ancestors knew it. As an opportunity to acquire fine Colonial examples the dispersal of this collection is of genuine importance.

Among the items from other collections are examples of Staffordshire remarkable for their condition, the quality of the blue, and the precision of registration in the printing. One would look far for better specimens of the Dr. Syntax series, in which we have not only rarity but the incomparable wit and draughtmanship of the accomplished artist responsible for the designs. The "Beauties of America" series also will awaken the enthusiasm of connoisseurs.

The pictures are a few pleasant examples of old and modern painters, among them two charming sea pictures by the Belgian Alfred Stevens. All the collections will be on free view until the dates of sale, which commence Nov. 10 and last until the 15th.

Education Notes.

Fannie Harley, the writer, lecturer, and originator of the "bifurcated harleys," will talk on "The Irony of Fashion" to the students of the New York Evening School of Industrial Art, 204 East Forty-second Street, this evening at 8:15. She will appear in a number of her costumes and will tell why she designed them. All interested in the question of dress are welcome. No tickets of admission are required.

A demonstration of methods employed for the restoration of the speech of shell-shocked soldiers and the teaching of lip reading to deaf soldiers will be given by Dr. Frederick Martin, Director of Speech Improvement in the city schools, at the Abraham Lincoln School, Forty-second Street and Third Avenue, on Friday at 8 P. M. Miss Enfield Joiner, Principal of the School for Defects of Hearing and Speech of the United States Army Base Hospital No. 11, will lecture on "How We Rehabilitated the Speech of Soldiers." Miss Joiner will be assisted by the following reconstruction aids: Louise Wimsatt, Katherine L. O'Connell, Esta V. Pastel, and Mary E. Thornton. They will be accompanied by soldiers from the United States Base Hospital on Staten Island.

Perez W. Elkes has been appointed as a mechanical draftsman, heating and ventilating, in the Bureau of Buildings at $1,570 a year, to fill a vacancy.

The Board of Superintendents has recommended that the Superintendent of School Buildings be requested to prepare plans for the strengthening of certain parts of the textile continuation school, P. S. 25, Manhattan.

The leave of absence with half pay granted to William G. De Lamater, Inspector of Repairs, for restoration of health, has been extended to Feb. 1.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Pressure is still very low on the New England coast and northerly gales occurred during Tuesday night and Wednesday. There is another disturbance over Southwest Kansas with an apparent northeastward movement, and pressure is again falling on the North Pacific Coast. In the Ohio Valley, the upper lake region, and the extreme Northwest pressure is moderately high.

There were rains in the Middle Atlantic States, New England, and the lake region, with some snow over the northern districts and also light local snow in the Northwest and rains in Florida and the Pacific States, except Southern California. Elsewhere the weather was fair.

It is somewhat colder in the Atlantic States and Far West, and considerably warmer in the Plains States, the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys.

There will be snow Thursday in Northern New England, snow Thursday and probably Friday in Upper Michigan, and rain Thursday night or Friday in Lower Michigan, the lower lake region, and the Ohio Valley, while in the Atlantic States, except Northern New England and in the East Gulf States, the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday, although local showers are probable in the Florida Peninsula.

It will be somewhat warmer Thursday in the upper lake and western lower lake regions, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee and warmer Friday in the interior of the Middle and South Atlantic States. It will be cloudy in the upper lake region and the Lower Ohio Valley.

FORECAST TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Thursday; Friday increasing cloudiness and warmer.
New Jersey—Fair Thursday; Friday partly cloudy, warmer in the interior.
Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Thursday; Friday partly cloudy and somewhat warmer.
Southern New England—Cloudy Thursday, with diminishing northwest winds; Friday, partly cloudy.
Western Pennsylvania—Fair, warmer Thursday; Friday rain, colder by night.
Western New York—Fair Thursday; Friday cloudy, probably rain.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Estates Appraised.

ASHMAN, ELLEN J., (May 25, 1918.) Gross estate, $280,006; real estate, $58,500; cash, $196; 2,000 shares of stock in the Sinclair Realty Co., $171,400. Her daughter, Margaret A. Fanning of 2,030 Broadway, receives a legacy of $5,000 and life estate in $207,224. Among the remainder are: The Roman Catholic Bishop of Ossory, Kilkenny, Ireland; Sisters of the Presentation, Castlecomer, Kilkenny; Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes.

BLACK, LOUISE J., (Sept. 1, 1917.) Gross estate, $2,496 and power of appointment in $165,443. The estate goes to her adopted daughter, Mary L. Le Goff, wife of Dr. Jean Marie Le Goff, Paris, France.

BURKE, LUKE A., (Feb. 2, 1918.) The gross estate was $44,758, but the deductions of $70,778 leave a deficit of $20,020. The chief item of the deductions are the debts which aggregate $64,496. The assets were: Real estate, $37,100; cash, $7,362; fifty-five shares of Luke A. Burke & Sons, Inc., $192. The report of the appraisers says they are now valueless on account of bankruptcy.

DADIRRIAN, DR. HAYGAZOON M., (Dec. 19, 1918.) Gross estate, $62,121; real estate, $13,763; cash, $741; stocks and bonds, $18,187, which is chiefly composed of 500 shares of the capital stock of Dr. Dadirrian and Sons Co., $18,040. His wife, Mary C., receives $21,058, and sons, Ardashes, $12,643; Leon, $12,643, and daughter, Matilda Dadirrian, $11,286.

SEE 'WET' VICTORIES IN STATE ELECTIONS

Anti-Prohibitionists Say "Drys" Were Beaten Everywhere Except in Ohio.

ARGUE TEST CASES TODAY

Police Directed to Aid Federal Agents in Enforcing the Wartime Law.

Despite the victory of the "drys" in Ohio, the "wets" profess to see in election results in six other States an indication of marked public sentiment against prohibition. In a detailed analysis of the returns, the Association Opposed to National Prohibition asserted yesterday that in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Virginia, Kentucky, and Maryland, where "constitutional prohibition was a real or near issue, it was condemned and defeated by the voters."

The association admits the "electorate of the Buckeye State gave the 'wets' a wallop that hurt," but it declares the "wet" victory in New Jersey "was quite as important and quite as decisive."

"Edwards," its statement says, "overcame a normal Republican plurality of about 60,000 and defeated Bugbee, the candidate of the Anti-Saloon League and Republican Party by between 12,000 and 14,000. The next New Jersey Legislature will be 'wet,' which will prevent the carrying through of any attempts to ratify the Eighteenth Amendment, which the last New Jersey Legislature refused to do, and it will make impossible the passage of a bill providing for the enforcement of the Federal Prohibition Amendment until its legality and validity have been passed upon by the United States Supreme Court."

The association asserted that the Anti-Constitutional Prohibitionists will have a majority of seven in the Massachusetts Senate and eighteen in the General Court, or lower house. "The voters of Massachusetts," it maintained, "recorded themselves in favor of 4 per cent. beer by a majority of three to one.

Jubilant Over Elections.

"In Virginia the Anti-Saloon League and its prohibition enforcement officers were the chief issue, and they were routed. The people of Virginia voted into office a new Legislature, and a huge majority of the Senate and the House of Delegates is pledged to repeal the Virginia State prohibition law. Whichever candidate wins in Maryland, an ardent anti-constitutional prohibitionist will be the next Governor. The Maryland Legislature will be 'wet' by a considerable majority.

"In Kentucky the voters had a straight prohibition issue before them, as they were called upon to approve or disapprove an amendment to the Constitution forever prohibiting the manufacture, sale, and use of alcohol for beverage purposes. A telegram from Louisville says the prohibition amendment had bene defeated by nearly 16,000.

"In New York City the opponents of Constitutional prohibition won a notable victory. Of the twenty-three candidates for the Assembly indorsed by the association in New York County, twenty were elected. In Kings County the association indorsed candidates in twenty-two districts, and of these sixteen were elected. In Queens County candidates for the Assembly in five of the six districts were indorsed by the association and all were elected. In Bronx County the association had candidates in each of the eight districts and six were elected. In Richmond County the association had one candidate in the two districts and that candidate was elected.

"Of the up-State candidates indorsed by the association six were elected, one each in Erie, Rensselaer, Suffolk, Lewis, Oswego, and Warren Counties.

Arguments on Test Cases Today.

In the Federal Court today, test cases will come up for argument on behalf of the distillers, brewers and saloon and cafe owners. Argument will be made by the law firm of Root, Clark, Buckner and Howland on the Government's motion to dismiss the application of Jacob Ruppert for an injunction to restrain the authorities from interfering with the manufacture of beer under the Wartime Prohibition Enforcement Act.

The right of the distillers to manufacture whiskey will be argued in the case of a distilling firm, and the case of the hotel and cafe owners will be considered when argument is heard on a motion to dismiss the preliminary injunction obtained by the Government against the Eastern Hotel Corporation.

Police Commissioner Enright yesterday ordered the Police Department to co-operate with the Government agents in enforcing the wartime prohibition act. According to Henry W. Mager, Chief of Internal Revenue Agents, in charge of the New York district, the order was received by each patrolman personally.

Pleading guilty to a charge of selling a crude gin made of grain alcohol Clara, Handelsman and Bertam Ritchié, who said they were connected with the Humphrey Taylor Company, 119 Wooster Street, were fined $500 each by Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday.

Mike Wascleski, a shoemaker at 215 Kleiand Avenue, Brooklyn, and Stanley Wissing of 315 East Fifth Street, were fined $3 each by Magistrate Alexander Brough, in Essex Market Court, for alleged intoxication. Patrolman Florence Haerte of the Fifth Street Station, who arrested the men, told the court that they appeared before the desk of Lieutenant William Burns in the police station Tuesday and that Wascleski had offered the Lieutenant a bottle of whisky.

Assistant United States District Attorney Earl B. Barnes, for the Government, brought suits in the Federal District Court to have two places where arrests recently were made for violating the wartime prohibition law adjudged public nuisances. In accordance with the act, the owners of the properties were included as defendants. The Home Rule Cafe, at 194 William Street, was one of the places. Daniel Haggerty was the proprietor. Daniel Lane the bartender, and Ingraham Corporation Company the owner. The cafe at 851 Sixth Avenue was the second place proceeded against. It was maintained, the complaint alleged, by John and Patrick Daly, Patrick Sherin being the bartender. It was said the premises were owned by Patrick Flannery.

Sham Naval Officer in the Tombs.

Harold E. Joy, who was found by Inspector James Cumming of the Naval Intelligence, illegally wearing the uniform of a Lieutenant-Commander, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday. The prisoner, who had represented that he was in charge of "Joy's Fleet," was charged with having donned the uniform so as to defraud, on Oct. 20 last, the Independent Supply Company of 36 South Street, out of merchandise worth $389.

He was committed to the Tombs in default of bail.

WINFRED T. DENISON COMMITS SUICIDE

Former United States Assistant Attorney General Jumps in Front of Subway Train.

ILL FOR THREE MONTHS

Despondency Regarding Health Believed to Have Prompted Deed—To Holds Funeral Saturday.

Despondent because of ill health, Winfred Thaxter Denison, formerly Assistant Attorney General of the United States, threw himself in front of a downtown local subway train at the Pennsylvania Station early yesterday afternoon and was killed instantly.

Although the station platform was crowded, none of the people standing there saw Mr. Denison jump in front of the approaching train, as he was standing at the northern end of the station, apart from the others. Before jumping, he threw his overcoat over his head, according to the motorman of the train, Thomas Marion of 250 West Twenty-first Street. Marion quickly stopped his train, but not until one of Mr. Denison's legs had been severed from his body, which was badly crushed. A surgeon of the New York Hospital staff, who arrived shortly after the accident, stated that Mr. Denison had been killed instantly.

Mr. Denison had been a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell, with offices at 15 Broad Street, until August, 1918, when he became a member of the firm of Denison and Cobb, whose offices were at 32S Broadway. His home was at Roslyn, L. I.

Mr. Denison was born in Portland, Maine, in 1878, and was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy nineteen years later. He graduated from Harvard University in 1900, and four years later was admitted to the New York Bar.

After practising law in New York for six years, Mr. Denison was appointed an Assistant United States District Attorney for the Southern District, serving in this capacity for three years. It was after he had aided in the prosecution of the sugar and other customs frauds in 1909 that he was made an Assistant United States Attorney General under George W. Wickersham in January, 1910. This office he held for four years.

In Mr. Denison's pocket was found a gold watch which was inscribed, "With best regards and best wishes from the Directors and assistants of Bureaus, Department of the Interior, Philippine Islands, Manila, Sept. 25, 1916." He received this watch while a member of he Philippine Commission, and Secretary of Interior of the Philippine Islands, from 1914 to 1916.

It is the belief of Chauncey Belknap, a member of Mr. Denison's law firm, that his despondency was caused by a disease contracted in the Philippines and from which the effects of which he had not recovered. For the past three months Mr. Denison had been ill and unable to attend actively to business affairs.

Mr. Denison was a member of the New York Bar Association, the Civil Service Reform Association, the National Municipal League, and the Phi Delta Phi fraternity. He belonged to the Metropolitan, Chevy Chase, Harvard, City, Century, Coffee House, and the Richmond County Country clubs.

The body was taken from the Thirty-seventh Street Precinct Station to the Campbell Funeral Church, where the funeral will be held on Saturday. A brother and a sister in Portland were notified of his death. Mr. Denison was unmarried.

PREDICT REJECTION OF PEACE TREATY

Republican Radicals Say Support of Five Democrats Assures Its Defeat.

PLAN INDEPENDENT TREATY

This, They Say, Would Follow Declaration of State of Peace with Germany.

DEBATE MAY END TODAY

La Follette Amendment to Eliminate the Labor Sections Voted Down, 47 to 34.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Insistent talk was in the air at the Capitol today that the "Battalion of Death" among the Republican Senators, reinforced by irreconcilables among the Democrats, had obtained the assurance of enough support within the last few days to defeat the resolution of ratification of the Peace Treaty, regardless of whether the reservation program of the Foreign Relations Committee majority prevails.

In the Senate cloakrooms and in the lobbies word was passed around that thirty-six Senators had tacitly agreed to stand together to vote against the ratifying resolution, after the vote on the committee reservations, which seem certain of adoption. This alignment was asserted, it was stated, after a careful poll of the Senate by the Republican leaders. It will take thirty-three votes to reject the treaty.

In the alignment of these Senators as the poll gives it there are thirty-one Republicans and five Democrats. The poll is guarded sedulously by the Republican leaders in order, as they say, not to disclose their hand to the Administration forces.

The five Democrats put down as assured to vote with the Republican "battalion of death" are Senators Reed, Gore, Shields, Thomas, and Walsh of Massachusetts. Senator Thomas's attitude was in doubt up to today, and he is understood to have conveyed word privately to the Republican leaders that he had finally made up his mind to vote with the rejectionists.

"Battalion of Death" Grows.

"The Battalion of Death," headed by Senators Johnson of California, Knox of Pennsylvania, and Borah of Idaho, originally comprised some fifteen Senators, but the ranks have grown since the treaty has been before the Senate, until it has assumed proportions which some opponents of the treaty affirm makes it appear almost a certainty that the treaty will be rejected.

The attitude of the "Battalion of Death" is entirely apart from the threatened plan of the minority leaders, headed by Senator Hitchcock, to vote down the resolution of ratification if the majority reservations are embraced in it. Senator Hitchcock knows of the contemplated move of the rejectionists, but said today that the Administration fo[illegible] influenced b[illegible]

With the Administration forces and the "Battalion of Death," both threatening to vote down the ratifying resolution if the committee reservations are adopted, the prospect of the treaty being ratified, in the view of leaders today, seemed extremely remote. At least that was the trend of talk heard everywhere at the Capitol.

"Defeat of the treaty is in the air," said Senator McCormick of Illinois, one of the Republican irreconcilables. "The Republicans who will vote against it will do so because the reservations do not go far enough. The Democratic minority threatens to defeat it because of the reservations. It is admittedly a strange situation, but there is no use denying that it exists. I expect to see the treaty voted down."

Other Senators among the "Battalion of Death" expressed themselves similarly.

If the "Battalion of Death" succeeds in its plan to reject the treaty the Republicans leaders, it was said today, would endeavor to have the Senate pass a resolution declaring a state of peace to exist between the United States and Germany. After that they contemplate an independent treaty to be negotiated with the German Republic.

One development of the last few days came to light today when it became known that Senator Lodge had succeeded in obtaining the support of forty-eight of the forty-nine Republicans, together with at lease five Democrats, to vote for the preamble to the committee reservations which stipulates that the committee reservations, if adopted, must be acquiesced in by three of the four principal signatories before the treaty becomes effective as to the United States. A change was made in the preamble to provide that the assent of these signatories may be made through the interchange of diplomatic notes, instead of awaiting action by the Parliaments or other legislative agencies of the powers involved.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota is the lone Republican who, up to today, had withheld support of the preamble as originally adopted by the Foreign Relations Committee. He decided to accept it after the change was agreed to by Senator Lodge concerning the method of gaining acceptance of the principal signatories.

Senator Hitchcock calls the preamble as "deadly" as the reservation on Article X., which, he insists, was adequately characterized by President Wilson in his recent tour through the West as a "knife thrust at the heart of the treaty." The preamble is to be voted upon as the first step in the committee program and the Democrats will marshal their full strength against it.

Owing to lengthy debate on the La Follette amendment to eliminate the labor sections from the treaty the Senate failed to dispose today of the Gore amendment which provides for a referendum to the voters on any decision of the League of Nations involving the United States in war. The La Follette amendment was defeated 47 to 34.

The Gore amendment, together with two new amendments by Senator Borah, proposing to exempt the United States from the provisions of Articles 10 and 11, will come up tomorrow, Senator Lodge announced tonight, thus disposing of all the amendments and making way for the reservation fight.

Senator Reed Called to Order.

In the debate on the La Follette amendment, Senator Reed, of Missouri, bitterly attacked the proponents of the treaty for trying, as he put it, to "foist a gold brick" on the United States.

"'It is a Democratic measure,' say some of them. 'The President demands it,'" he said. "Well, if they feel that way about it, they ought to go to some country where one man does all the thinking for the masses."

Senator Reed denounced the reservations as inadequate.

"A reservation is the hole through which the little soul of a fellow who is not willing to stand up and front the people escapes from responsibility," he went on. "It is the crack in the fence through which the hound dog always seeks to escape."

Vice President Marshall, who was in the chair, called Senator Reed to order, saying that he had "imputed unworthy and unbecoming motives or behavior to Senators."

Mr. Reed protested that he was merely "using metaphor."

Senate leaders were talking tonigh. of adjournment of Congress by Nov. 22, provided the treaty is out of the way by that time.

George V. Says Kaiser Is Well Punished

LONDON, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—King George gave his view of the former German Emperor in the course of an audience with a missionary from Armenia, Archibald Fordar.

When the missionary told the story of his captivity of four years, saying that the troubles had all been instigated by the Germans, the King replied:

"Well, they are finished now. The Kaiser has had to run away from his own country. He is well punished for all he did."

FORBID IRISH GIRLS WALKING WITH "ENEMY"

Sinn Fein Shear the Locks of a Lass for Being Seen with British Soldier.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—Lovemaking between the girls of Ireland and members of the British Government forces has been proscribed by the Irish republican army. Any girl keeping company with a Government soldier or policeman will be penalized by having her hair cut off. One girl has already suffered the full penalty for walking out with a soldier.

A proclamation has been posted, signed by "The Competent Military Authority," saying:

"Whereas certain girls, wanting in self-respect, have damned themselves by keeping company with the army of occupation, it is deemed proper by competent authority, both to safeguard morality and to stop bad examples, to publish the names of these culprits, and also to warn them that after the publication of this proclamation those who persist in the above-mentioned scandalous, unpatriotic company-keeping, render themselves liable to the punishment of being branded by having their hair cut off."

The names of four "offenders" are attached to the proclamation. The notification then continues:

"The parents or mistresses are requested to see that the above-mentioned girls are kept from intercourse with enemy troops. All loyal subjects of the Irish Republic are also requested to shun public houses which entertain members of the enemy army until such time as they make reparation by a complete change of conduct."

Following the names is the following:

"The first-named person is earnestly requested to dismiss the barmaid who openly mocks loyal subjects by wearing a policeman's cap and badge, showing the crown above the heart. In case of refusal drastic measures will be taken. All who persist in visiting these proclaimed houses are liable to have their names published as disloyal subjects who patronize houses frequented by the enemy army, and private punishment will be meted out in due course."

SAYS CRIME IN CHICAGO IS HIGHLY ORGANIZED

Investigator Asserts City's Total Exceeds That of Whole of England, Scotland, and Wales.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—In addressing the Chicago Association of Commerce today, Edwin W. Sims, President of the Chicago Crime Commission and former United States District Attorney, declared that Chicago with its population of 3,000,000 has more murders in a year than England, Scotland, and Wales. He said last year the murders in Chicago averaged one a day.

"Crime in this city is as highly organized as a mail order business," said Mr. Sims. "There is not a Police Captain in the city today who, backed by the prosecuting authorities and the courts, cannot reduce crime in his precinct 50 per cent. in thirty days if he wants to. Crime conditions in Chicago are appalling."

CARDINAL HARTMANN DYING

Archbishop of Cologne Was a Prominent Figure During the War.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A wireless dispatch received from Berlin says that Cardinal Hartmann, Archbishop of Cologne, is dying. The Cardinal is suffering from cerebral hemorrhage, with signs of paralysis.

Cardinal von Hartmann was a figure of prominence during the war. Early in the struggle he caused some adverse comment by a prayer for peace. Later, in 1915, he was sent by the Kaiser on a mission to the Pope that was supposed to have peace for its object.

In the following year he was a leader of the Pan Germanists and in an imposing address while on a visit to the western front he assured the Emperor that all Catholic soldiers were ready for further sacrifices. It was in response to the Cardinal's request that the British refrained from bombing Cologne during the Corpus Christi procession. The Germans expressed their gratitude by shelling Paris that day.

UNIVERSAL JUSTICE, CLEMENCEAU'S PLEA

Strasbourg Speech Put That Forward as the League of Nations' Ideal.

PLANS FOR FRENCH REFORMS

He Advocated Decentralization of Administration — Has Great Public Works Program.

STRASBOURG, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—Premier Clemenceau's speech here today, considered his political valedictory to France, rose much above party politics. It was for the most part a plea for universal tolerance and social justice, and an appeal to the workingman throughout the world to resume his pre-war methods and work.

"The world's only salvation from the social and economic chaos from which it is now emerging is work," said M. Clemenceau.

Thus, with characteristic brevity, the Premier found a solution for the many problems which now confront the democracies of the world.

The evolution of M. Clemenceau's views toward closer relations between the State and the Church was quite discernible, as he remarked: "Religious peace must be assured, and liberty of conscience must rule."

The day will go down in Strasbourg's history as one of its greatest. The welcome given the Premier was the most enthusiastic ever accorded a public man in France. He was visibly moved, his voice choking with emotion as he spoke. His hands, holding a paper which contained the first copy ever made beforehand of a speech the Premier intended to deliver, trembled.

Premier Clemenceau recalled the origin of the war, and said that as the liberation of Alsace-Lorraine had finally been accomplished, Alsace-Lorraine and France had again become united.

He sketched the formidable enterprise undertaken by the Peace Conference, describing the creation of new States and new frontiers, permitting the newly born democracies national and economic life.

Universal Justice His Ideal.

"This is not enough," he said. "An attempt must be made to establish a peace of justice under the auspices of the League of Nations."

Dealing with social organization, M. Clemenceau declared that no Government could possibly prevent its people from governing themselves, but he said government must be based on public order and respect of individual rights.

Referring to direct action, the Premier asserted that society should count only upon the voluntary help of those determined to defend their right to enjoy public services. He referred to the recent railway strike in England as affording a good augury for the future.

"As for the Bolsheviki," said M. Clemenceau, "there can be no discussion between them and the public. It is a simple question of force. In clamoring for freedom for themselves, they want to impose upon others a terrible and absolute dictatorship."

After a few contemptuous phrases concerning Bolshevist Socialists in France, the Premier turned to other problems. Finance was one of them, the speaker declaring that the country's financial position must be consolidated by fresh taxation, by strict application of existing laws and the proper collection of existing import duties. He said that internal loans would reduce the amount of notes in circulation and advocated reinvestment of French savings in France in the future, rather than abroad.

Great Program of Public Works.

M. Clemenceau outlined his great program of public works—the development of canal navigation, improvement in port facilities, doubling of the merchant marine, and, above all, the immediate utilization of the tremendous water-power of the country.

The Premier's solution for disputes between capital and labor was co-operation and better housing and free education for the workingman.

M. Clemenceau advocated a decentralization of the administration in France and a lightening of the work of the Chamber of Deputies by leaving local affairs to be considered in local assemblies. He praised the absence of a written constitution in Great Britain and opposed any strengthening of the Executive power of the Government.

"The American method of Government, in which a central authority is established inside a federation of independent States, against which no effort to usurp power could even be attempted, cannot be invoked here," he said. "The Executive power here suffered less from insufficiency of means of action than from a too frequent lack of men of character equal to their responsibilities."

The speech drew to a close with a magnificent peroration in which M. Clemenceau reminded the audience that "Germany has at least done France one service" in recalling to Frenchmen their duty toward themselves.

Amid tremendous applause the long speech ended with the words:

"Let it be our ambition to increase our own will-power; let us all work for the grandeur and glory of France; let us all stand firm and united for the welfare of mankind."

Speech Praised by the Press.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Space in the Paris newspapers is almost entirely taken up today by the speech of Premier Clemenceau at Strasbourg and descriptions of the spontaneous reception accorded him by the Alsatians.

Except for a few papers of the Opposition, which say that the speech contained nothing new and no precise program, the press is unanimous in its praise, and notes especially the energy with which the Premier declared war on Bolshevism.

OPPOSE BERLIN STRIKE.

Railroad Men Won't Join General Walkout Urged by Metal Workers.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The indications point tonight to the defeat of the radical leaders of Greater Berlin in their attempt to force labor into a general strike in sympathy with the metal workers, the order for which was issued today.

The railroad men have flatly refused to join in the movement, and most of the moderate elements are stubbornly resisting a strike which they declare has been dictated by Communist leaders.

Some of the metal workers have returned to work.

POPE TO NAME CARDINALS.

Poland to be Especially Honored—American Appointment Unlikely.

ROME, Nov. 3.—It is considered certain in Rome that no new American cardinal will be chosen at the Consistory to be held the first fortnight in December.

At this Consistory, the first after the war, it is believed the Pontiff wishes to give proof of special benevolence to Poland. Thus, it is understood, besides elevating the Archbishop of Warsaw, the Pope will also raise the Archbishop of Gnesen to the Cardinalate.

37 More Negro Rioters Punished.

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 5.—Nine negroes were sentenced to terms of twenty-one years in the penitentiary, twenty-seven to terms of five years, and one to ten years today in connection with the uprising. This brings the total convictions in three days to forty-eight, eleven negroes having been sentenced to death. The remaining negroes named in 122 indictments are expected to be tried tomorrow.

President Issues Thanksgiving Proclamation Looking to the New Era of a World at Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President Wilson today set aside Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day in a proclamation which said that the country looked forward "with confidence to the dawn of an era where the sacrifice of the nations will find recompense in a world at peace." The proclamation reads:

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

The season of the year has again arrived when the people of the United States are accustomed to unite in giving thanks to Almighty God for the blessings which He has conferred upon our country during the twelve months that have passed. A year ago our people poured out their hearts in praise and thanksgiving that through Divine aid the right was victorious and peace had come to the nations which had so courageously struggled in defense of human liberty and justice. Now that the stern task is ended and the fruits of achievement are ours we look forward with confidence to the dawn of an era where the sacrifices of the nations will find recompense in a world at peace.

But to attain the consummation of the great work to which the American people devoted their manhood and the vast resources of their country they should, as they give thanks, to God, reconsecrate themselves to those principles of right which triumphed through His merciful goodness. Our gratitude can find no more pressing expression than to bulwark with loyalty and patriotism those principles for which the free peoples of the earth fought and died.

During the past year we have had much to make us grateful; in spite of the confusion in our economic life resulting from the war we have prospered. Our harvests have been plentiful and of our abundance we have been able to render succor to less favored nations. Our democracy remains unshaken in a world torn with political and social unrest. Our traditional ideals are still our guides in the path of progress and civilization.

These great blessings, vouchsafed to us, for which we devoutly give thanks, should arouse us to a fuller sense of our duty to ourselves and to mankind to see to it that nothing we may do shall mar the completeness of the victory which we helped to win. No selfish purpose animated us in becoming participants in the world war, and with a like spirit of unselfishness we should strive to aid by our example and by our co-operation in realizing the enduring welfare of all peoples and in bringing into being a world ruled by friendship and good will.

Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the 27th day of November next, for observance as a day of thanksgiving and prayer by my fellow-countrymen, inviting them to cease on that day from their ordinary tasks and to unite in their homes and in their several places of worship in ascribing praise and thanksgiving to God the Author of all blessings and the master of our destinies.

In witnessing whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this fifth day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-fourth.

(Seal) WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:

ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State.

FORTY BOYS ESCAPE FROM REFUGE HOUSE

Mutiny at Bedtime Followed by a Wild Dash at Randall's Island.

NEARLY ALL ARE CAUGHT

Twelve Get Away in Motor Boat and Have Not Been Captured Yet.

Randall's Island was thrown into a turmoil at 9 o'clock last night when seventy-five of the 300 boys confined in the House of Refuge made a sudden and concentrated dash for freedom. Forty of them made good their temporary escape, but all but twelve, who fled in the Department of Correction's motor boat either to Astoria or across the water to the Bronx, were recaptured.

The police and the island authorities when questioned early this morning about the return of the twelve boys who escaped in the motorboat refused to make any statement, and it was generally believed that the missing twelve had made good their escape. The motorboat had not yet been found, and it is thought that the boys reached the Long Island shore in it.

The 300 boys were assembled in their dormitories and about to retire when one of them suddenly shrilled a signal for which about one-fourth of their number evidently had been waiting. Colonel Barber, Major O'Keefe, and a bevy of keepers, dashed among the boys, who were yelling and shrieking as they ran wildly about, attempting to prevent the would-be truants from coalescing into a more or less formidable mass.

Forty of them, despite the intervention of the authorities, managed to form themselves into a flying wedge and to batter their way through a rear door to the grounds. Once outside they broke and fled in a wild scramble for freedom. Realizing their helplessness to cope with the situation unaided, and finding their own hands full with quieting the feverishly excited youngsters still inside the walls, the officers of the institution telephoned the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street police station for quick help.

Detectives William Murphy, Henry Butts, Webb, and several patrolmen made all speed to the island in a motor boat. Several keepers were assigned to their aid, and the little squad for several hours combed over every nook and corner of the island, gradually gathering in the fugitives.

In the Children's Hospital, the Institution for the Feeble Minded, and in several unfinished buildings they came across little huddled knots of trembling boys, with only vague ideas as to why they had fled or just how they had expected to avoid recapture.

As fast as little groups of the boys were retaken they were marched in the custody of keepers back to the dormitories from which they had enjoyed such brief respite. Every now and then the keepers on the way back would stumble across another hidden miscreant and add him to their bag.

From the appearance of some of the boys, who range in age from 16 to 20, they apparently had tried to swim either to Astoria or to the Bronx, but had found the water too cold for the long journey and had returned, cold, miserable, and helpless, to some temporary hiding place from which they must have known they would quickly be plucked.

So far as could be learned last night the boys who made the first break for freedom had provided themselves with no weapons of any sort, and though the keepers used such force as was necessary to prevent the escape of a larger number, it was said that none had been hurt.

WALES TAKES TURN AT ENGINE THROTTLE

Runs Locomotive Twenty Miles on Way to Ottawa—Gifts to Trainmen.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—King Albert of the Belgians is not the only European of royal blood who can run a New World locomotive. Today the Prince of Wales, journeying here from Toronto, took his turn at the throttle for twenty miles. He entered the cab at Flavelle. He handled the engine with professional ease, bringing the train to a smooth stop at Trenton.

On the trip from Toronto the royal visitor shook hands with each member of the crew of the Canadian Pacific train which has carried him on his tour of the Dominion. He gave each an autographed picture of himself and to officials of the road and heads of the various departments he presented jewelry.

The Prince will travel to Washington, Annapolis and New York on a special train which will be virtually the same as that which took President Wilson on his tour of the United States in behalf of the League of Nations. At New York he will board H. M. S. Renown.

POLICE BREAK UP RED CELEBRATION

Reserves Join Bomb Squad in Repressing Arlington Hall Communist Meeting.

CHARGE 4 WITH ANARCHY

Seized Circulars Call for Huge Demonstration on Anniversary of Russian Revolt.

Members of the Bomb Squad and the reserves from the Fifth Street Station spent a lively hour last night in breaking up a meeting held in Arlington Hall, 23 St. Mark's Place, under the auspices of an organization calling itself the Communist Party of America, at which circulars urging workers to strike on Saturday and demonstrate their solidarity were distributed. Four men, none of whom had been in the United States more than two years, according to their own admission, who were seen handing out the circulars, were arrested charged with criminal anarchy.

The purpose of the meeting, according to information obtained by the police, was to celebrate the second anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution. The speakers stopped as soon as the police managed to wedge their way into the auditorium, which was filled to capacity. Detective Sergeant Michael Fiachetti and ten members of the Bomb Squad, who were sent to Arlington Hall from Police Headquarters on a complaint telephoned by a citizen, ordered the meeting stopped and told the thousand or more persons in the room to leave.

Few showed any inclination to carry out the instructions, and from the angry attitude of the crowd it was apparent that more help was needed. A call was sent to the Fifth Street Station, and Captain McAuley, two Sergeants, and the reserves of the precinct responded. They found the members of the Bomb Squad in the midst of a howling, jeering crowd, which refused to leave the hall. News of the arrival of the police had spread like wildfire in the neighborhood, and St. Mark's Place for two blocks either way was blocked by spectators, many of whom sided with the radicals inside the hall. Part of the reserves remained outside dispersing the crowds, while the rest went into the hall. The task of clearing the neighborhood was made difficult by volunteer speakers, who harangued the crowd in defense of the Communists. The police were unable to get any of them.

Four men who were armed with bundles of circulars which they were distributing, according to the police, were placed under arrest and taken to Police Headquarters, where they were later charged with criminal anarchy. They are: Jacob Balin, 22 years old, a Russian furrier, 1,920 Bath Avenue, Brooklyn; Irving Falkin, 26 years old, printer, Russian, 124 South First Street, Brooklyn; Paul Glas, 24, porter, Austrian, 254 East Third Street, and Joseph Kosick, 22 years old, porter, Polish, 643 East Eleventh Street.

The circulars which the police said they took from the prisoners read as follows:

"Communist Party, Monster Mass Demonstration, 2 P. M. Saturday, Nov. 8, 1919, at Rutgers Square, to celebrate the second anniversary of the Bolsheviki revolution. Workingmen, comrades, come in thousands and demonstrate your solidarity. Strike on Nov. 8. All power to the workers. Auspices Communist Party of America, New York local."

It is on the interpretation of the sentence "strike on Nov. 8" that the charge of criminal anarchy was made by the police.

With the arrival of the reserves, quick work was made of clearing out the auditorium. The radicals lost their belligerency when they saw that the police meant business, and in fifteen minutes the hall was empty and the lights were turned out. It was an hour before the crowd outside was finally dispersed.

EXPERTS SCAN BET TICKETS.

Handwriting an Issue in Proceedings Over Racing Wagers.

Four vouchers alleged to have been issued for racing bets were under consideration by Justices Edwards, Herrman, and Freschi, and J. Vreeland Haring, a handwriting expert, in Special Sessions yesterday, to determine who had written the receipts for the alleged wagers. On Friday Detective Ratzman of the Third Inspection District, had arraigned George Cuenin of 17 Hancock Avenue, Jersey City, on the charge of violating the Bookmaking law. At that time Ratzman told the Special Sessions Justices that Cuenin had accepted wagers at Forty-second Street and Broadway on horse races, and Ratzman produced the four vouchers which, he asserted, had been taken from Cuenin's pockets.

Cuenin admitted that he was engaged in the bookmaking business, but he denied that he had accepted the bets mentioned by Ratzman. Cuenin told the Court that somebody was trying to "frame" him. Assistant District Attorney Thomas A. McGrath, who was prosecuting Cuenin, thereupon had the latter and Ratzman write copies of the vouchers on separate pieces of paper. McGrath told the Court that Cuenin's handwriting did not resemble that on the vouchers, but that the detective's writing bore resemblance to them. The Court took the papers and testimony for further consideration.

DENIKIN IN TEN DAYS TAKES 55,000 REDS

Entire Divisions of Enemy Troops Being Put Out of Action Daily, General Says.

SOVIET PREDICTS VICTORY

On Eve of Triumphant Termination of the War, It Asserts in Wireless Message.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A headquarters bulletin from General Denikin, received by wireless, claims that Don Cossack troops captured 35,000 Bolsheviki between Oct. 17 and 27. The troops of General Denikin's volunteer army in the meantime took 20,000 more. The communiqué asserts that entire divisions of Bolshevist troops are being put out of action daily.

The official report from Bolshevist military headquarters at Moscow, received here by wireless today, admits that the artillery of General Denikin has destroyed the town of Derbent.

An earlier announcement issued by Russian Soviet army officials and received here by wireless read:

"We have received fresh reinforcements. Yudenitch can get none. The remnants of his army are breaking up. They are surrounded by our troops.

"From Luga our troops are irresistibly advancing on Yudenitch's rear.

"On the other fronts the situation is favorable to us. We are on the eve of a victorious termination of the war."

A manifesto by the Bolshevist Minister of War, Leon Trotzky, has been addressed to the troops of General Yudenitch. In it he says:

"Listen, involuntary soldiers of the Czarist Yudenitch. The Red troops are surrounding you more closely and are concentrating against you mighty artillery and armored trains, automobiles and tanks. There is only one salvation for you, namely, to surrender."

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—A Helsingfors newspaper says it understands 20,000 volunteers have secretly enlisted in Finland to join in the attack on Petrograd. The newspaper says the men will be supplied with arms and equipment either by the Allies or by General Yudenitch, and urges the Government to take preventive steps.

The position of General Yudenitch is considered most critical. It is reported that the Bolsheviki are threatening the Gatchina railway, over which hes main force is endeavoring to fall back upon the Narva River. Another force in the region of the Luga River which is trying to reach the railway through the swamps already is surrounded.

Finland is interested in next week's conference at Dorpat of the Baltic States and Poland. It is understood that Esthonia has invited Litvinoff and Krassin, the Bolshevist representatives at the recent Pskov negotiations, to attend the conference, but that they have not yet replied.

OMSK, Oct. 29, (Associated Press.)—The Siberian armies of Admiral Kolchak have been falling back rapidly since their recent reverses on the line of the Tobol River, as the entire country is flat and open and does not afford positions where resistance could advantageously be offered. The first real line of defense is that of the Ishim River, the first considerable stream running north and south parallel with the Tobol River.

It is believed that the Siberian troops will be able to make a stand along this line.

Since the above dispatch was filed the Bolsheviki's advance has brought them to the Ishim River at Petropavlovsk, which was captured, so the Moscow wireless report claims, from Admiral Kolchak last week. The Trans-Siberian Railway crosses the Ishim River at Petropavlovsk.

GERMAN DRIVE AT LIBAU REPELLED BY LETTS

British Artillery Helps to Break Up Two Attacks Disastrous to Enemy.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 5.—German troops, presumably belonging to Colonel Avalorf-Bermondt's forces, supported by heavy and light artillery and an armored train, attacked Libau Tuesday, but were driven off by Lettish troops, who were supported by British artillery, according to a dispatch received by the Lettish Press Bureau.

In the afternoon a German airplane dropped proclamations on the city.

After a prolonged bombardment by the enemy artillery, a new violent offensive was launched in the evening. It was repulsed by the Letts. The enemy suffered heavily.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Wounded British bluejackets aboard the British hospital ship Princess Margaret have arrived at Copenhagen from Riga, the Politiken reports. They are from the British cruiser Dragon, which was hit by a German shell, killing nine and wounding four men.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Interallied military mission to the Baltic States, appointed to deal with the complications caused by the continued presence of German troops in the Baltic region will leave Paris tonight with Riga as its destination.

Brig. Gen. Sherwood A. Cheney, the American member of the mission, will accompany it, with instructions from the American delegation to the Peace Conference that he simply assist in securing the withdrwal of the German troops and not take a hand in internal politics, as the United States does not desire to interfere in Russian domestic affairs.

The instructions in this connection also have been given, it is explained, through the desire of the American delegation not to submit the American Government to further attacks by the European press, some sections of which are charging that the American opposition to Rumania's action in Hungary is inspired by Rumania's refusal to let the Standard Oil Company control its oil wells.

It was pointed out by an American official that if the United States were to participate in the politics of the Baltic provinces the charge might be made that it was working in the interests of some other American business enterprise.

REPORTED LOAN TO POLAND.

Warsaw Says It Was Negotiated by New York Bank.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—John Callan O'Laughlin has arrived from Warsaw, where he negotiated a $250,000,000 loan for Poland. Mr. O'Laughlin is going to Paris.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—John Callan O'Laughlin, who is reported to have negotiated a loan with Poland, was recently connected with the advertising firm of Lord & Thomas of this city. He is said to have gone abroad as a representative of the Guggenheims.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—According to a semi-official announcement from Warsaw, American financiers have negotiated a 6 per cent. loan of $250,000,000 with the Polish Government. The communication says that the loan will be backed by the National City Bank of New York.

Kolchak Recalls Rosanoff.

VLADIVOSTOK, Oct. 23, (Associated Press.)—General Rosanoff, Commander of the Russian troops at Vladivostok, whose activities have occasioned great friction with the inter-allied commanders and a demand for the withdrawal of his troops from Vladivostok, has been recalled to Omsk. General Romanovsky has been named as Acting Governor and commander of the troops in the Far Eastern provinces.

Report Mexico Refuses to Pay Jenkins Ransom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Mexican Government, according to Mexico City newspapers, has refused to refund to William O. Jenkins, American Consular Agent at Puebla, the $150,000 ransom money which Jenkins's attorney was forced to pay Mexican bandits to obtain his release.

The American Embassy in Mexico City had advised the State Department of these publications, but officials declined to say if they had received any communication from the Carranza Government on the subject. It has been understood that Mexico was asked to reimburse Mr. Jenkins.

NOV. 28 MAY SEE PEACE PROCLAIMED

Well-Informed Circles in Paris Look for Final Ratifications Then.

PLAN FOR LEAGUE MEETING

Supreme Council Decides on Holding First Sessions of the Greater Conference in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Treaty of Versailles and the peace settlement with Germany will become effective, it is asserted in well informed circles in Paris, on Nov. 28.

The signature of the protocol and the exchanges of ratifications between Germany and such allied and associated powers as have been ratified the Treaty will take place on that date, it is reported.

The Supreme Council decided today that the first meeting of the Council of the League of Nations should be held in Paris. It did not, however, fix a date for the gathering.

It was agreed that the council of the world body should consider at this meeting only matters which must be passed upon immediately after the formal ratification of the German Peace Treaty.

The Supreme Council today discussed its own uncompleted work preparatory to deciding exactly what questions must be passed upon before the adjournment of the Peace Conference.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—The note of the Supreme Council calling upon Germany to send to Paris delegates to sign a protocol agreeing to carry out certain unfulfilled provisions of the armistice regarding surrender of railway material, agricultural machinery, etc., and to make compensation for the destruction of the fleet at Scapa Flow has been received here.

The note calls for the surrender of five light cruisers, floating docks and small destroyers as a penalty for the destruction of the warships at Scapa Flow.

DISCUSS SUBWAY LOOP PLAN

Thirty-fourth Street Men Invite Aid of Other Bodies.

Plans to place the subway loop proposition in charge of a committee of representatives of civic organizations were discussed yesterday at a luncheon given at the Hotel McAlpin by the Thirty-fourth Street Board of Trade to men representing nine of the principle business associations in New York.

Vivian Green, President of the Thirty-fourth Street organization, suggested that each guest interest his association in the project, and at a dinner to be held in a few weeks to submit the names of three or more members who will serve on a Central Loop Committee. The suggestion was received with favor.

Milo R. Maltbie, former member of the Public Service Commission, explained the loop proposal, saying it would not interfere with express service on the east and west side subways, as only the tracks used by local trains would be used. Joining these two lines would be service under Thirtieth Street and Forty-second Street.

William McCarroll, representing the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, who attended the luncheon, said that with the city's transit situation at a critical stage the companies would have to ask an increased fare to solve its problems.

Among those who attended were, Travis H. Whitney, representing the Forty-second Street Association; Major E. C. Church of the New York Chamber of Commerce; R. P. Bolton of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association; Robert Grier Cooke of the Fifth Avenue Association; S. S. Tynge of the Real Estate Board; T. M. Clear of the Murray Hill Taxpayers' Association; Walter Arndt of the Citizens Union, and Thomas Fowler of the Harlem Board of Trade.

RENT CHAIRMAN SUED.

Landlord Says Capt. Goldsmith Called Him a "Bolshevist."

Captain Charles N. Goldsmith, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rents, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by Joseph Smolensky, a Bronx landlord, for $100,000 damages, on the ground that when he was summoned on Oct. 14 last at the Morris High School to submit a statement concerning his income from his property before the tenants; he tried to comply, but the defendant addressed him in language that was so defamatory that he was "hissed, hooted and assaulted, and his life put in jeopardy." He said he had to get police protection to an elevated station several blocks away.

Smolensky says that among other things Captain Goldsmith called him a "Bolshevist."

Gerard to Address Episcopalians.

James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, and Alton B. Parker, it was announced yesterday, will be the principal speakers at a meeting in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Armistice Night, Tuesday, Nov. 11, in the interest of The Every Name Campaign of the Episcopal Church. George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General, will preside, and Bishop Burch and the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires will also speak.

GERMANS GAVE UP ARMY HOPE IN 1916

Chiefs Went on Record as Declaring Land War Could Not Bring Victory.

THEN RELIED ON DIPLOMACY

Zimmermann Says That Gerard Promised to Try to Keep America Neutral.

GRILLING ANGERS BETHMANN

Berlin War Investigation Committee Goes Into Secret Session.

BERLIN, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—The official archives, as disclosed at today's session of the subcommittee of the Assembly in investigating the war, brought out the astonishing revelation that the army authorities in 1916 went on record as declaring that land warfare could not win the war for Germany: that it must be won diplomatically and politically.

One of the dramatic features of the session was an impassioned appeal by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the former Chancellor, against heckling by Deputy Sinsheimer, demanding that Sinsheimer cease trying to trip him up by repeating over and over questions he had already answered. Bethmann-Hollweg's voice was raised as he declared that he was under oath before God, and yet if he had the slightest lapse of memory he would be attacked. He instantly apologized for the reproach.

Another interesting feature was testimony by Dr. Zimmermann, the former Foreign Secretary, regarding his last conference with Ambassador Gerard, before the Ambassador left Berlin on his vacation. Dr. Zimmermann said he asked the Ambassador what the result of the intensified U-boat warfare would be in America. Mr. Gerard replied:

"I don't know what they want in Washington. You may be right in the action you are taking."

The Ambassador, according to Zimmermann, promised to use all his influence to keep America neutral, and was quoted by the witness as saying:

"I shall do my best to avoid further friction."

Dr. Cohen, Independent, attempted to force Bethmann-Hollweg to admit that the feeling respecting the impossibility of land warfare winning for Germany had set in in 1914, after the battle of the Marne.

Bethmann-Hollweg reiterated the assertion that the Entente collective note of December, 1916, was so brusque and so hopeless in declining the German peace offer that peace could not be thought of.

Begins Secret Session.

The subcommittee went into secret session today on a motion by Councillor Moeller, who objected to public discussion of matters affecting one-time neutrals.

Discussion had arisen concerning a statement of Alfred Zimmermann, former Foreign Secretary, that President Wilson's peace offer had been influenced by Great Britain, and a statement by Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, that the view prevailed in the United States that President Wilson was acting under German influence.

Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, the former German Chancellor, said in the course of his testimony yesterday before the subcommittee that he did not believe during the war and does not now believe in a lasting peace. In his answers to the members of the subcommittee he said that the peace terms suggested by Germany on Dec. 12, 1916, were a compromise between the views of the military and political authorities.

"As regards our strategic demands (concerning Belgium and the eastern frontier,) I did not believe," he said, "that a comparatively long period of peace would be granted us. I am still today unable to believe in a lasting peace, particularly after we have had exhibited to us the state of mind in which the Entente has founded what it calls a real peace."

Minister Sinzheimer asked why the Belgian question was not placed at the head of the German terms. Bethmann Hollweg replied:

"It is very easy to say, after the event, that everything was wrong. We were then confronted with the collective note from the Entente Governments regarding peace terms, which was one of complete rejection and demanded the dismemberment and destruction of Germany. Were we to say: 'We will be good children. We will give back Belgium and pay indemnities into the bargain'?" Bethmann Hollweg said he had given Ambassador Gerard no information for President Wilson about Germany's desires in the East, since Belgium was the subject chiefly in the mind of the President at that time. He had assured Ambassador Gerard that Belgium would be treated fairly, although it had always been a background for attacks upon Germany.

Feared Wilson as "Business Manager."

Both Herr Zimmermann, the former Foreign Secretary, and Bethmann Hollweg said that the offer of President Wilson would have made him Germany's business manager. Count von Bernstorff had contributed a declaration that he had no idea that the German peace offer would disturb President Wilson, as asserted. Colonel House, he reported, had told him that President Wilson thought that the Entente would like an offer from him better than one from Germany.

Mr. Zimmermann said he knew that the Wilson peace offer would be taken in a most unfriendly spirit by the people, but that a German peace offer would convince the world of the weakness of Germany and would be considered evidence that Germany did not want America to offer peace.

When asked if Germany had made the peace overtures to eliminate the possibility of an offer from President Wilson, Dr. Zimmermann evaded an answer, but when pressed he declared that it was a tactical manoeuvre. He had not told the German press about President Wilson's offer, as he had no call to take President Wilson's part with the press.

Edouard David, the Socialist Minister of the Interior, asked whether the peace offer of President Wilson or that of Germany was to be preferred. The former Foreign Secretary replied that he took the viewpoint that the offer would come better from President Wilson, because a German overture would look like weakness on the part of Germany and that of President Wilson could be refused more easily. Zimmermann complained that President Wilson was prejudiced against Germany.

The former Foreign Secretary again evaded a direct answer when he was asked if he had said when America entered the war: "Thank God we are rid of these people as peace mediators." He said that Germany knew that America would break off diplomatic relations and enter the war, but that the German Government had jumped in on the unrestricted submarine warfare as a last chance to win the victory.

Questions regarding Belgian deportations brought out warm support from Bethmann Hollweg for General von Bissing, the former Governor General of Belgium, who he said had opposed the deportations. The former Chancellor told how Ambassador Gerard had urged him to have the deportations stopped, but they had continued, he said, despite his objections. He was not in a position to stop them, although he thought them politically stupid, but the policy had been introduced by the military authorities as an urgent political necessity.

Taking up again the question of Belgian deportations, he replied affirmatively to a question whether the Belgians had not died in large numbers from cold and hunger and whether they had not been used for work for which they had not been qualified.

Stocks Fall Back After Early Advance—French, German, Italian Exchange Off.

Traders in stocks were so favorably impressed with the election results yesterday, particularly with the voting in Massachusetts, that they forgot for a time the credit situation and the Federal Reserve Bank's pointed declaration about the use of too much credit for speculative purposes. Assisted by the political thrill, the industrial shares were bid upward with familiar zest, and after a time the movement spread into the railroad department. Gains running from 2 to 5 points were well spread about by noon in an unusually broad market, but afterward the character of business changed rather sharply. Call money opened at 10 per cent. and the day's renewals were arranged at the same level. Comparatively little money was offered even at this level and before belated borrowers had filled their needs the rate was up to 20 per cent., the highest quoted at any time this year during the regular borrowing period. As the cost of carrying charges advanced speculators found more significance than before in the Reserve Bank's increase of discount rates and there was a heavy output of stocks in the last hour. At the close there were many issues 3 to 5 points under Monday's closing figures and final trading was conducted with quotations very unsteady.

The impression was strong both in speculative quarters and among the banks in the afternoon that the Federal Reserve authorities were quite in earnest in their efforts to check undue use of credit. The rise of discount rates had been expected, and it was hardly the advances themselves which carried the major influence into the liquidation of speculative accounts. Nor was it likely that the upturn of call loan rates had the most potent effect in causing heavy sales of stocks. Rather, it was the tacit threat, if it might be so nominated, of additional action by the Reserve Bank and by the Federal Reserve Board as well, if results were not soon discernible in the way of reducing bank loans and deposits of the sort not directly connected with normal commercial and investment undertakings. The Chicago Reserve Bank raised its discount rates and it seems probable that the others will not be long in taking similar action. There is a moral as well as a practical, economic urge behind the movement to contract the mass of credit created for emergency uses in winning the war, and the public which is less interested in advancing security prices than in processes aimed to reduce inflation that affected the cost of necessities will stand behind the program of the Federal Reserve authorities. Speculators have ofttimes ignored unusually high call money rates, but the prospect is held out that hereafter the demand loan market will contain a meaning not confined to what has heretofore been thought to be temporary stringency in market credit. It may be that the [illegible] market's true test in respect to [illegible]ity of traders to finance more of [illegible] ventures themselves is about to occur.

Sterling exchange was fairly steady throughout the day, although lire and francs were under much pressure and gave ground. The lire rate of 11.06 was the lowest yet seen and francs at 9.03 for checks displayed a decline of 18 centimes. In banking circles the movement was explained as the result of large sales of French and Italian exchange at London, as well as at New York, as those countries sought to build up balances at the British centre. This also had application to German exchange, the mark declining to 2⅞ cents per mark, a figure which carried the depreciation of the mark from parity to a point close to 90 per cent.

Heavy Trading on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Trading on the Bourse today was heavy. Three per cent. rentes were quoted at 60 francs 2 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 37 francs 68 centimes and the 5 per cent loan at 89 francs 20 centimes. The quotation on the dollar was 9 francs 4½ centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Call Money at 20 Per Cent.

The advance of call money to 20 per cent. yesterday afternoon was in keeping with what had been expected as a result of the announcement Monday that the Reserve Bank had decided to advance its rediscount rates. Yesterday call money opened and renewed at 10 per cent., and then mounted steadily until late afternoon, when it reached its maximum. After that it fell back to 10 per cent., and after the close of the stock market it was reported loans had been made as low as 6 per cent. The volume of business, it was said, was large, but the volume of new loans made on the board is never more than a small percentage of the total of stock market loans, so that the real rate of the day was the renewal.

"Warnings" vs. Concrete Action.

The action of the Reserve Bank was concrete, as opposed to the more or less negative action of the Reserve Board in issuing "warnings." It is concrete action, according to bankers, which will have the desired effect of reducing speculation. Just what the next positive move will be is not known, probably even to the financial leaders, but it is assumed in responsible quarters that additional action will be taken. There is said to be small likelihood of a reconvening of the Money Committee, but many would not be surprised if an unofficial "rationing" were again attempted, and the signal of this is apt to be found in the renewal rate when that quotation goes into extremely high figures. Thus far the high records have been made in the afternoon, after most Street loans have been arranged for the day, but it would not be surprising to see the renewal rate establish some extremely high records in the near future.

Exchange Rates Weak.

French, Italian, and German exchange rates were unusually weak yesterday, even by comparison with recent weakness, and the two last named scored new low records for all time, at 11.07 and .0385, respectively. Sterling, meanwhile, was fairly firm, going off only fractionally. In explanation, exchange dealers said the weakness of Continental rates was due to heavy sales of Continental bills in London. By the same token sterling was firm because of the reinvestment of proceeds of these sales in sterling. In other words, France, Italy, and Germany are said to be accumulating balances in London. There have been some sales of Continental bills here, but the actual sales appear small when the size of the offerings is considered.

Market Opens Strong.

The opening of yesterday's stock market undoubtedly reflected a certain degree of satisfaction over election results. Prices were higher all around, and out-of-town buying orders helped to improve the initial gains. The spirit of optimism did not survive the day in buoying up the market. There was a sinking spell about noon, and at the close prices sold off sharply, this being in part attributable to the high money rate and also to the endeavor of many to hold profits. Here and there stocks performed in a way that showed the market was in a feverish condition, a reflection of uncertain sentiment.

The Smelters Dividend.

There was a hurried bit of covering by shorts in American Smelting and Refining, which sent the stock rapidly forward after the announcement of the quarterly dividend of $1 a share. Rumors had been aplenty that the Directors would pass the dividend. The company had to dip into its surplus to make the payment, but the surplus is large and able to stand such requirements as may be made on it until earnings improve, with a better demand for copper. The covering moved the stock above 69, but when this was out of the way the issue turned heavy again and declined to 66⅞.

Steel Merger Rumors.

Three independent steel companies are again reported to be considering negotiations for a merger. The merger question may have different aspects with the turn of the year, and it is not improbable that a new plan is being dressed up. It is said some of the smaller companies would be glad to avail themselves of merger plans as a buffer against possible labor difficulties.

Copper Market Listless.

Activity is almost entirely absent from the copper market. The metal is to be had in some cases for slightly above 20 cents a pound, but even at this reduced price, as compared with what the producers were asking six or eight weeks ago, there is no demand of proportions to move large quantities. The copper companies most favorably situated are those which have a high percentage of silver in their ore.

Railroad Outlook Improved.

In railroad circles recent developments as regards labor and legislation have been generally interpreted as more promising than for many weeks. As the result of news that the carriers would be turned back to private ownership at the close of this year, despite the suggestion of railway labor that Federal control be continued two years more, there was more extended interest and greater activity in the rail shares. No spectacular gains were recorded, but the trend was definitely upward on an increased volume of business. In some quarters a report that an agreement virtually had been reached to enact temporary legislation for the return of the roads Jan. 1 was considered a plain answer to the suggestion of the railway employes.

Tax Exemption for Ships.

Suggestions of leading men in the shipping world that American merchant ship owners and operators be exempted from taxation for from fifteen to twenty years is growing in favor. The exemption has been proposed as a measure to restore the confidence of the investor. Conservatives are inclined to suggest that the exemption need not be complete, and that as long as shipping companies can show a fair return on their investment a larger income is not necessary. In other quarters it is contended that it is necessary to attract new capital, and complete exemption would make possible a greater return.

October Corporate Financing.

American railroad and industrial financing during October was record-breaking, the total being $290,695,100, according to The Journal of Commerce. In the corresponding month last year the aggregate was $76,291,000. This wide difference is explained in part by the fact that a year ago the war was at its height and comparatively few capital issues were announced. Since Jan. 1 the output of new railroad and industrial securities has totaled $2,127,250,200, as compared with $1,080,469,000 in the corresponding period of 1918.

State and City Bond Sales.

New issues of State and municipal bonds aggregating $8,870,758 were sold in October, according to The Daily Bond Buyer. Incomplete returns indicate that the sale of such bonds totaled approximately $65,000,000. From January to October, total sales of such issues were $582,000,000, as compared with $218,205,448 in 1918. The Bond Buyer says one of the largest and highest priced issues floated was a City of Pittsburgh loan amounting to about $3,000,000, for which a Philadelphia and Pittsburgh syndicate paid a 4.29 per cent. basis.

Midvale Steel Earnings.

The report of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company for the quarter ended Sept. 30, showed a net profit, after the deduction of Federal taxes and charges, of $3,408,300. This was equivalent to $1.70 a share on the $100,000,000 capital stock, (par value $50,) as compared with $3.89 a share in the corresponding quarter in 1918. For the nine months ending with September, the company reports a surplus, after charges and war taxes, of $7,104,622, which is equal to $3.55 a share, as compared with $12.06 a share in 1918.

MAY REJECT FEDERAL TERMS

Judge Carpenter Authorizes an Illinois Railroad to Do So.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Federal Judge Carpenter today entered an order authorizing the Receiver for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad to refuse the $3,280,000 annual compensation offered by the Director General of Railroads for the period of Federal control.

The order is said to throw open the whole issue of Government compensation for railroads, making it possible for the companies to oppose the settlements offered by the Government. The profits of the railroad were said to exceed the amount offered by the Director General, whose figures were based on the profits for the three years preceding Federal control.

AMERICAN BANKERS BUY FRENCH BONDS

Syndicate Headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Purchases $45,000,000 of Them.

WILL BE OFFERED AT 92½

Lyons, Marseilles, and Bordeaux Issues Will Yield the Investor 6.80 Per Cent.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. yesterday announced that it, in conjunction with a syndicate of American banks and bankers, had purchased an issue of $45,000,000 in fifteen-year 6 per cent. bonds of Lyons, Marseilles, and Bordeaux, and that a public offering of the securities will be made shortly at a price of 92½ and accrued interest, to yield the investor approximately 6.80 per cent. on the investment. The bonds will not be convertible into any other issue and will not be redeemed before maturity.

In addition to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the other members of the banking syndicate handling the transaction are the National City Company, the Guaranty Trust Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., William A. Read & Co., all of New York, and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago. The proceeds of the loan will be apportioned evenly among the three French cities.

These bonds, it was stated yesterday, are being issued to replace the funds used to pay on Nov. 1 last the bonds of the three cities which remained outstanding of the $36,000,000 bonds originally sold in the United States. The amount outstanding at that date, it is understood, was about $29,500,000. The balance of new money to be raised above the amount required for meeting that maturity will be used for other purposes, the exact nature of which was not stated.

In a letter addressed to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., as syndicate managers, Maurice Casenave, Director General of the French Mission in the United States, said in part:

"Each issue will be a direct obligation of the city issuing the same, and they will be the only external loans of these cities presently outstanding.

"The bonds will be issued in bearer coupon form, in denominations of $1,000, $500, and $100, and will bear interest from Nov. 1, 1919, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on May 1 and Nov. 1. Principal and interest of the bonds will be payable in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing on Nov. 1, 1919, without deduction for any present or future French Governmental, municipal, or other French taxes. The Government of the French Republic has agreed to undertake, in order to permit the Cities of Lyons, Marseilles, and Bordeaux, or any of them, to pay the interest or principal amount of the loan in gold in the City of New York, to furnish them and each of them, if necessary, (in exchange for banknotes or other currency) with gold in the amount needed, and authorize its exportation for said purpose.

"As established by the laws of France governing municipalities, the finances of these cities, and the authority to borrow money, levy taxes, and execute the annual budgets are under the control and supervision of the French National Government. Under this supervision the municipal authorities of Lyons, Marseilles, and Bordeaux have followed a conservative fiscal policy establishing the credit of the cities upon a sound basis. The internal loans now outstanding bear low interest rates.

"The three cities are, next to Paris, among the largest and most important trade centres of France. Originally established in ancient times on main trade routes they have grown steadily to their present importance, because of natural economic advantages. Situated far from the zone of hostilities, their industrial condition, already sound prior to the war, has been strengthened substantially since 1914 by additional facilities provided for the extra war traffic they were called upon to handle, by their increase in population, and the expansion of business."

DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND.

Studebaker Common Stock Now on 7 Per Cent. Annual Basis.

The Directors of the Studebaker Corporation at their meeting at South Bend, Ind., yesterday, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the common stock and an extra dividend of 2¼ per cent. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock was also declared. All of the dividends are payable Dec. 1 to stock of record of Nov. 28.

The announcement of 1¾ per cent. on the common places the stock on a 7 per cent. annual basis, as compared with 4 per cent. previously paid. The extra dividend was declared so that the new 7 per cent. rate on the common would date back to Jan. 1 of this year.

President Erskine made the following announcement after the meeting.

"The net profits of the corporation, after reserves for Federal taxes, were about 11 per cent. in the first six months of the year, when operations were below normal on account of the reorganization of the plants from a war to a commercial basis. The net profits for the third quarter, after deduction of $2,000,000 reserves for Federal taxes and contingencies, were 11 per cent. net on the common stock, or at the rate of $44 per annum. The liquid assets of the corporation at the present time amount to $18,000,000."

FORM NEW GAULEY CO.

Concern Merges Important Coal Holdings in West Virginia.

The New Gauley Coal Corporation has been organized to acquire and consolidate into one company various interests owning about 40,000 acres of Gauley coal, well known to mining engineers for its by-product values. The property formerly was owned by the estate of Henry K. Wick and the Tide Water Coal Company, of Youngstown, Ohio; the Lee-Higginson interests and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, through its holdings in the so-called Camden lands on the Gauley River in West Virginia.

At the first annual meeting of the new corporation, the following Directors were elected: A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central Railroad; Charles E. Perkins, President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore and Ohio; Albert H. Harris, Vice-President of the New York Central; George M. Shriver, Vice-President of the Baltimore and Ohio; Ralph E. Cornelius, President of the Mahoning National Bank of Youngstown, and Charles D. Norton, President of the First Security Company of New York. Mr. Norton was elected President of the corporation, and A. H. Crane, Secretary and Treasurer.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Walter E. Orthwein of St. Louis, and Brandon, Gordon & Waddell, are offering $335,000 Lake Ashby Drainage District of Volusia County, Florida, 6 per cent. bonds. The bonds mature serially from Jan. 1, 1922 to 1941.

Schultz Brothers & Company of Cleveland, are offering at par and accrued dividend a new issue of $850,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Lubay company. The capitalization of the company consists of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of which a total of $1,000,000 is authorized and 30,000 shares of common stock, no par value, all issued.

The United States Mortgage & Trust Company has been appointed registrar of the capital stock of the Replogle Steel Company.

The McCrory Stores Corporation reports September sales of $925,754, as compared with $776,521 in September, 1918, while sales so far this year are reported as $7,577,626, as compared with $6,486,534 in the corresponding 1918 period.

The regular monthly distribution on Cities Service Company bankers shares, payable Dec. 1 to bankers shares of record Nov. 15, will be 51.4 cents on each banker's share.

Gordon Williams has been admitted to membership in the stock exchange firm of Wade, Templeton & Company.

The Guaranty Trust Company has been appointed transfer agent of stock of the Tobacco By-Products and Chemical Corporation.

A. J. Seligman & Company will offer this week 300,000 shares of the capital stock of the Magna Oil & Refining Company at $8 a share.

At the regular monthly meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce today, Regis H. Post, former Governor of Porto Rico, and now of the Federal Reserve Bank of this district, will deliver an address on "One of the Paramount Issues of Today," and various committee reports will be submitted.

Increasing Security

Steady growth in the value of its manufactured products and of its population are constantly increasing the desirability of California's securities.

About 30% of the lumber cut in the U. S. comes from California. Fruits, vegetables and live stock are produced in abundance. Many millions of valuable ores are extracted annually.

Prosperity is reflected in all its undertakings.

That is why we want you to write for information about its securities.

No Bonds or Mortgages

We call attention to the following facts given in a letter to us from Mr. E. C. McGraw, President of The McGraw Tire & Rubber Company:

History The McGraw Tire & Rubber Company plant is located at East Palestine, O., with general offices in Cleveland, O. The Company has been in successful operation for ten years, and manufactures cord and fabric automobile tires, truck tires, and inner tubes of the highest quality. The growth of the Company is evidenced by the increase in net sales from $746,000 in 1912 to over $7,000,000 (3 months estimated) in 1919.

Purpose of Issue The entire proceeds of this issue, after retiring the old preferred stock will be used as working capital and will be applied against the Company's current indebtedness.

Assets After giving effect to the present financing, the Company's statement shows net quick assets of $138 per share and net tangible assets of $193 per share for each share of preferred stock. Quick assets amount to four times current liabilities. The net tangible asset value of the common stock is $83.25 per share. A recent appraisal made by the American Appraisal Company shows the present value of the Company's plant to be approximately $458,000 in excess of the valuation carried in the balance sheet.

Earnings The average net earnings, certified by Ernst & Ernst, for 5 years and 9 months ending August 31, 1919, after Federal taxes, and allowing for interest, have been $503,300.00, or nearly three times the annual dividend requirements on this preferred stock issue. The estimated earnings for 1919, based upon the report of Ernst & Ernst for 9 months, are $573,980.00. After payment of the dividend on the preferred stock, this amounts to $4.00 a share for the common stock.

Redemption During each year ending June 30, 1921, 1922 and 1923, 2½% of the largest amount of preferred stock at any one time outstanding and annually thereafter, an amount equal to 10% of net earnings shall be redeemed at 110 and accrued dividend, by lot or by purchase in the open market. It is provided, however, that such amounts after 1923 shall not be less than 5% of the largest amount of preferred stock at any one time outstanding.

Protective Features The Preferred Stock of the Company will have the following characteristics:
No mortgage shall be placed on any of its property.
Net quick assets of 100% and net tangible assets of 180% of the largest amount of preferred stock at any time outstanding shall be maintained.
Restrictions regarding issuance of the remainder of the authorized preferred stock.

Management The present management of the Company is in the hands of the same men who were responsible for its past success. Officers: E. C. McGraw, President; R. W. McGraw, Vice-President; John Morgan, Vice-President and Treasurer; L. M. Kyes, Secretary; H. M. Bacon, General Sales Manager; A. M. Elliott, Production Manager. Directors: E. C. McGraw, John Morgan, R. W. McGraw, L. M. Kyes, S. L. McCune, A. W. Henn, William Leary, Geo. Flaccus and J. C. Shamberlin.
All legal matters pertaining to this issue have been passed upon by Messrs. Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland, O., for the bankers, and L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, O., for the Company.
The accounts have been audited by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, certified public accountants.

Pending the issue of definitive stock certificates, there will be issued interim receipt exchangeable for definitive stock certificates when issued.
No fractional shares will be issued, but an adjustment will be made in cash for the fractional shares of common stock by the Syndicate Managers, at the rate of $20.00 per share.

We offer this stock for subscription, subject to allotment, and for delivery when, if and as issued and received by us.

NO NATIONAL BANK HAS FAILED THIS YEAR

Only One Such Bank Forced to Suspend During the Last Twenty-two Months.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Establishing a record for immunity from failure, National banks of the United States have gone through the last twenty-two months with only one enforced closing, according to an announcement tonight by John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency.

The one failure reported by Mr. Williams was in 1918, no banks having been forced to suspend during the last ten months of this calendar year. This record, Mr. Williams says, stands out as thirty times better than the average for any similar period in the forty years life of the present national banking system.

For the first ten months of the present year 221 charters for new national banks were granted by the Controller. Of these 41 were made operative in October. The banks chartered in October, Mr. Williams's statement shows, had an aggregate capital of $3,920,000 as compared with five charters granted in October, 1918, with an aggregate capital of $185,000.

The tremendous strides taken by American business is reflected in the number of banks increasing their capital stock as well as in the granting of new charters. According to the Controller's figures, 298 national banks added a total of $42,658,000 to their combined capital stock during the first ten months of this year. In the same period last year 151 national banks increased their capital stock by a total of $16,379,000.

While the great increase in capital stock was going on, only four banks reduced their capital obligations. The total reduction was $53,000.

DIVIDEND IS A SURPRISE.

American Smelting and Refining Co. Dips into Big Surplus.

The directors of the American Smelting and Refining Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock and 1¾ per cent. on the preferred. The common dividend is payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 28, and the preferred is payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 17.

The action of the directors was something of a surprise, in view of the persistence which has attached to the rumors that the dividend would be passed. It was necessary to dip into surplus in order to make the distribution, but the policy of the company in not making any large dividend disbursement during the war period, when earnings were running high resulted in a large increase in surplus.

Owing to the decreased demand for copper and the heavy surplus stocks which exist, the earnings of the company have not been large this year. The six months' report showed only about 4 cents a share on the common stock. The company, it is said, is endeavoring to speed up operations in Mexico as an offset to decreased earnings in the United States. The outlook for copper is, however, far from favorable and, while the land and silver business is reported as prosperous, it is hardly believed that increased earnings from this source will be large enough to improve greatly the earnings of the last half of this year.

Great Western Power Company of California

First and Refunding Mortgage 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Due March 1, 1949

From a letter of Mortimer Fleishhacker, President, we summarize as follows:

The Company owns and operates an established and increasingly successful electric light and power business in central California, serving San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Sacramento, and forty-five other municipalities, with an estimated population of 1,350,000, or nearly half the population of the State.

The Company has an installed electric generating capacity of 137,000 horse-power, of which 87,000 is hydro-electric, and is constructing a new hydro-electric plant of an initial capacity of 53,000 horse-power. The water powers of the Company have an aggregate fall of over 4,000 feet and an estimated potential capacity of 640,000 horse-power, or about what is developed in all the powers of Niagara.

These bonds are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by first mortgage on the new hydro-electric plant, and by pledge of not less than $5,261,000 underlying bonds of the Company (or more than one-sixth of all underlying bonds outstanding), and by the only mortgage covering all property of the Company now owned or hereafter to be acquired.

These bonds are followed by securities having an aggregate present market of over $15,000,000.

Robert Reis & Co. was established in 1885. From a small beginning its growth has been rapid and substantial until today the Company is one of the largest distributors of men's underwear in the world. Its products are sold under the "REIS" and "MANHATTAN" trade marks and other well known brands. The new capital to be introduced will be used to expand the business along hitherto successful lines, and to provide for the construction, purchase or control of such additional underwear and hosiery mills as may be considered advisable. The same management will continue in control and operation of the business.

Legal proceedings in connection with the recapitalization of the Company will be approved by Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell for the Bankers, and by Messrs. Stroock & Stroock for the Company. Copies of the President's letter with the certificate of Messrs. Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, accountants and auditors, will be sent upon request.

All the stock acquired by the syndicate having been sold, when, as and if issued, and subject in all respects to the approval of counsel, this advertisement appears as a matter of record only.

ALL COTTON OPTIONS AT NEW HIGH LEVELS

Market Responds to Sensational Strength in Liverpool and Southern Spot Prices.

ADVANCE 75 TO 110 POINTS

Spot Quotations in the South Gain 75 to 200 Points from Monday's Figures.

There was another big rise in the cotton market yesterday, with all options going to new high records, and with the maximum advance on the day running to as much as 110 points, with the minimum, which was in the September contract of the 1920 crop, 75 points. The excessive strength was in response to the sensational strength shown in the Liverpool market for both spots and futures and the further advance in Southern spot markets on Tuesday when the New York market was closed for Election Day. Also, the publication of some unofficial crop estimates which made predictions for a final harvest of anywhere from 9,450,000 to 9,800,000 bales, helped the bulls and stampeded the bears.

The Southern spot markets, which remained open on our holiday, reported advances yesterday of 75 to 200 points from Monday's figures, with Galveston as high as 43 cents and Memphis and Dallas at 42 cents each. All of the Southern markets were very strong and sales were reported in pretty good volume, even at the highest figures. At Galveston, for instance, about 1,600 bales were sold and at Dallas the sales totaled more than 10,000 bales.

Liverpool, however, was even more sensationally strong than the South, for the rise there from Monday amounted to 1,514., equal to about 3 cents a pound our money, to a price of 25.98d., or about 50 cents a pound, allowing for the exchange differential. The futures market there, especially for near months, also was aggressively strong and sales were reported as large. Sales of spots yesterday at Liverpool amounted to 12,000 bales, slightly less than the sales on Tuesday.

Export clearances yesterday totaled 9,469, and for the two days about 19,500 bales, with New Orleans forwarding cotton for the first time in some days. For the week to date the exports have amounted to 32,300 bales, which is not excessive, but some trade authorities think the total will be swelled considerably before the week is out.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Manchester: Yarns and cloths were in good demand.

Alexandria

A CITY of dominating importance in both ancient and modern times, not only as Egypt's commercial gateway to the Mediterranean, but as the centre of international strife in the Eastern Mediterranean district. Alexandria has a population of over 400,000—chiefly Mohammedan.

The port owes its two splendid harbors to its founder, Alexander the Great, who extended a mole several hundred feet to enclose them. Its capture by the Turks in 1517, and the discovery about the same time of the American sea route to India, gave Alexandria a setback from which rapid recovery did not begin until the end of the eighteenth century.

About nine-tenths of the entire trade of Egypt now passes through Alexandria.

The commerce of the port in 1916 totaled $284,195,000, with imports valued at $106,109,000 and exports at $178,086,000. Although Egypt's need and ability to purchase in foreign markets were perhaps greater during this year than in any preceding period, its requirements could not be supplied, owing to the restrictions occasioned by the war at that time.

With the conclusion of the war and the development of shipping, these drawbacks will disappear, and promising trade conditions bid fair to develop.

The Company Has No Outstanding Bonds and No Preferred Stock.

From a letter of the President, Mr. J. Olsan, we summarize as follows:

Organization

The corporation owns the entire outstanding capital stock of the OZARK OIL & GAS COMPANY, a majority of the outstanding capital stock of the HAVERHILL PETROLEUM COMPANY, and has made provision for the acquisition of the balance of this stock; all of the properties of the OLSAN PETROLEUM COMPANY; and, in addition, owns an interest in a gasoline plant, besides properties which it has acquired by purchase.

Resources

Upon the sale or issuance of the balance of the authorized capital stock as contemplated, and after payment of all debts and obligations of the Company and all expenses and commissions, the Treasury will have available for development, acquisition of new properties and construction of a refinery, approximately $3,500,000.

Valuation of Properties

The Company owns directly and controls through stock ownership leases on 4,249½ acres of land in oil producing fields in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, on which there are already 59 producing wells; beside, 34 tank cars, an interest in a gasoline plant, extensive modern equipment, drilling materials and a developed marketing department.

MESSRS. SANDERSON & PORTER, ENGINEERS, of New York City, have made a thorough investigation and examination of the Company's properties, and they report their conclusions as follows:

"Assuming the provision of adequate capital for continuing the development of the properties and the reliability of the data and records furnished by company officials and based upon the history of other properties in these localities, we appraise the Magna Oil and Refining Company's interest in the producing and non-producing properties described in Exhibit A, attached hereto, at $4,203,000. In making our appraisal of the producing properties we have excluded and separately allowed for the estimated cost of development and production as a charge against earnings and have assumed the recovery of the amount of such appraisal within the expected commercial producing life of the properties, and, as requested by you, have made allowance for the payment of 12% annual dividends. Administrative expenses allowed for include only those of the field offices."

This valuation does not include the Company's liquid assets, movable equipment, unused drilling materials, tank cars, marketing department and interest in the Boynton Gasoline Company, which is conservatively valued at $1,746,642.53. The obligations of the Company do not exceed $552,000, exclusive of a deferred liability amounting to $115,000.

Production

The Company's interest in the present production is 6,236 barrels daily, of the value, at average prevailing prices, at $2.25 per barrel, amounting to $14,031. Owing to congestion in transportation facilities now prevailing in North West Extension Burk-Burnett, the Company's entire production from that field is not being taken, and the production from those wells is therefore estimated and included in the above figure. Practically all of the Company's production in the States of Oklahoma and Kansas is settled. A fair estimate of the average daily production (flushed production reduced one-half of present flow) from the producing wells during the coming year is 3,500 barrels, or 1,283,500 barrels per annum, at the average value of $2.25 per barrel, and including net rent income from tank cars and income from the marketing department and gasoline plant, equals $2,823,480. In addition, the Company is actively engaged in the drilling of other wells. On the Burk-Burnett property there are at present 19 wells in process of completion, six of which are on top of the sand. There are about 12 wells in process of completion on the other properties. There is, therefore, every probability that with the increased resources the production of the Company will be largely increased.

All legal proceedings in connection with the acquisition by the Company of its stockholdings and properties, and with the issuance of its present stock, have been approved by MESSRS. GUGGENHEIMER, UNTERMYER & MARSHALL, New York City, and HARRY A. GORDON, New York City, Attorneys for the Bankers and Fiscal Agents, and S. A. BOORSTIN, Tulsa, Oklahoma, M. H. SILVERMAN, Atlanta, Ga., Attorneys for the Company. Titles to properties have been examined by MESSRS. LEYDIG, GEDDES & GRANT, El Dorado, Kansas; WEEKS, MORROW, WEEKS & FRANCIS, Wichita Falls, Texas; WEST, SHERMAN, DAVIDSON & MOORE, Tulsa, Oklahoma; THIGPEN & HERROLD, Shreveport, Louisiana.

Subscription books are now open and will be closed in the discretion of the undersigned. All subscriptions received subject to allotment.

Having sold the larger part of the above stock available for purchase, we offer the unsold balance at

$8.00 Per Share

Application will be made in due course to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Cotton

Its importance—its growing—its manufacture—its transportation, merchandising, and financing

—reviewed in a new booklet

OF all the products of the soil, cotton is second in importance only to wheat. It is the clothing of millions—millions depend upon it for their livelihood.

The importance of cotton to the United States may be realized when it is known that more than half of the world's supply is grown here.

A short survey of various phases of this vital American industry is given in a booklet which we have just published, "The Fabric of Civilization." The booklet is obtainable at any of our offices.

Notice to Holders of NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION

First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds Dated November 1, 1916, due November 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund, provided in said mortgage to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($187,500.00) Dollars, being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund.

The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 25, 1919, of such bonds. As provided in said mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half (102½%) per centum.

As soon as may be, on or after November 18, 1919, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 25, 1919.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 18, 1919.

READJUSTMENT
AETNA EXPLOSIVES CO., Inc.,

To Holders of 6% Gold Bonds, Preferred Stock, and the various Certificates of Deposit therefor, of Aetna Explosives Co., Inc.:

The temporary new Series A and Series B 6% Bonds of Aetna Explosives Co., Inc., will be ready for delivery in exchange for old 6% Gold Bonds and Preferred Stock, respectively, on November 6, 1919.

HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT FOR BONDS who have elected to take new bonds will receive (par for par for old bonds) temporary new Series A Bonds carrying interest from October 1, 1919, upon surrender on and after November 6, 1919, of their Certificates of Deposit, properly executed in blank and witnessed, with signatures properly guaranteed, to the Depositary issuing them. Holders of undeposited bonds may, on November 6, 1919, and for a limited period thereafter, surrender their bonds to Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York, in bearer form, in exchange for such temporary new Series A Bonds, par for par. If interest to October 1, 1919, has not been collected upon the old bonds or Certificates of Deposit, income tax ownership certificates (Form 1001) for such interest should accompany the surrendered bonds or Certificates.

HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT FOR PREFERRED STOCK, upon surrender of their Certificates of Deposit on and after November 6, 1919, to Columbia Trust Company, 60 Broadway, New York, properly executed in blank and witnessed, with signatures properly guaranteed, together with income tax ownership certificates (Form 1001) for accrued interest at 6% upon the new bonds from January 1, 1919, to October 1, 1919, will receive for each share of Preferred Stock $75 of temporary new Series B Bonds, $20.75 in cash and in addition 6% interest in cash upon said new bonds from January 1, 1919, to October 1, 1919. The new Series B Bonds will bear interest only from October 1, 1919. Fractional shares of stock will be paid for at the rate of $75 in cash for each share of stock. Holders of undeposited Preferred Stock may, on November 6, 1919, and for a limited period thereafter, surrender their Preferred Stock properly executed in black and witnessed, with signatures properly guaranteed, together with income tax ownership certificates as aforesaid, to said Columbia Trust Company in exchange for said new Series B Bonds and cash.

Unless otherwise requested upon delivery only one temporary bond will be issued for the total principal amount of each Series to which an individual is entitled. No temporary bond of less than $1,000 denomination will be issued except where necessary to complete delivery. The definitive engraved bonds will be delivered in exchange for temporary bonds as soon as they can be obtained.

Dated November 6th, 1919.

Howe Rubber Corporation of Delaware is taking over the business of the Howe Rubber Company, Inc., of New Brunswick, New Jersey. The latter Company was organized in 1905, and is engaged in the manufacture of Tires and Tubes for automobiles.

CONDENSED FINANCIAL STATEMENT

From the condensed Financial Statement of the Howe Rubber Corporation as of August 31, 1919, prepared by Messrs. Leslie Banks & Co., introducing assets to be acquired and liabilities to be assumed, includin the proceeds of the proposed sale of 10,000 shares of Preferred and 10,000 shares of Common Stock.

ASSETS		LIABILITIES AND CAPITAL STOCK
Cash	$1,079,687.12	Total current liabilities		$539,353.01
Other current assets	828,499.78	Reserves and deferred credits		45,535.62
Total current assets	$1,908,186.90	Capital Stock,
Factory plant, land, buildings, equipment, etc	494,614.05	Preferred: authorized 40,000 shares 7% cum. presently proposed to be issued	$1,000,000.00
Deferred charges and other assets	14,935.90	Old stock to be converted into new (2558.2 shares)	255,820.00
			$1,255,820.00
		Common Stock: Authorized 140,000 shares (no par value), presently proposed to be issued 35,730 shares represented by surplus	577,028.22	$1,832,848.22
Total assets	$2,417,736.85	Total Liabilities and Capital Stock		$2,417,736.85

Note: The Company is contingently liable as endorser on customers' Notes Receivable discounted at banks in the sum of $84,922.49.

We would call especial attention to the following:

The business has been uniformly successful.

The management is unchanged.

The product is now being successfully marketed with orders in excess of the Company's ability to supply.

The new money is to be used for the purpose of increasing the volume of business, particularly in the tire department.

We summarize from a letter by Mr. John Tenney, Jr., President of the Company.

Earnings

The annual audits of the Howe Rubber Company, Inc., of New Jersey, show average net earnings for the past five years of $29.60 per share on the Common Stock outstanding, after allowing for all taxes and Preferred dividends, and $27.94 for the year 1918 after paying the full 7% Preferred dividend and taxes.

* * * With the additional capital resulting from the sale of securities as contemplated, I predict for the new company earnings on the Common Stock in excess of $12.00 per share before taxes are deducted.

Summary of Principal Preferred Stock Provisions

The Preferred Stock, in addition to the usual preference in event of liquidation, has a 3% Sinking Fund, exclusive voting power in event of the dividends being one year in arrears until they shall have been or can be paid in full; a provision limiting payment of dividends on the Common Stock that would reduce the surplus below 10% of the par value of the outstanding Preferred; is callable at 110 and accrued dividend, which is cumulative from October 1, 1919, and is convertible at any time prior to its being called into two shares of common for each share of preferred.

Concerning the Preferred Stock Mr. Tenney writes:

"From my knowledge of the business, with which I have been associated from the beginning, I believe the Pre erre Stock to be well secure l both as to assets and earning power, and I am of the opinion—that the conversion privilege on a basis of two shares of Common for each share of Preferred will before long prove very attractive to holders of the Preferred Stock."

All legal matters in connection with the formation of the new Company and issue of its stock are subject to the approval of Messrs. Whiting & Moore, Attorney and Counselors at Law, Newark, New Jersey.

We recommend and offer for sale, subject to rejection or allotment in whole or part, when, if and as issued and received by us

Preferred Stock at 93 flat to net 7% on the Investment
With the privilege of purchasing the same number of shares of Common Stock at 23

At 93 and 23, the dividend on the Preferred alone will carry both on a 6% basis pending the declaration of dividends on the Common.

BUILDING AND MORTGAGE MONEY

THE PRESENT DEMAND FOR HOMES is considered quite acute in Mexico City. An American corporation of unquestionable financial standing owning unencumbered property, and with an organization of experienced and trained men with successful records, is able to build homes in that city at a minimum cost and on a most profitable basis, taking advantage of extraordinary cheap labor, the abundance of building materials at low prices, and the great demand for homes that can be sold for cash. Those having sufficient financial resources to take a large participation in the Syndicate under organization should address Box 40, Wall Street Station, New York City.

Full details will be given only through personal interview with principals.

There was a heavy volume of selling on the Consolidated Stock Exchange during the final hour yesterday, on which there were accompanying recessions of from 2 to 5 points in the active steel, equipment, and oil properties, with the balance of the list affected in a lesser degree. Republic Iron and Steel was offered down 8½ from its early high, Lackawanna ¾, Bethlehem Steel B 2¾, Crucible 4, and U. S. Steel common 2¾. Baldwin Locomotive moved down 3¾. Car and Foundry 4¾ and Pressed Steel Car 2. Mexican Petroleum netted a loss of 5. Studebaker also fell back. U. S. Rubber moved up 4, International Paper 4¾, and U. S. Alcohol 3, with subsequent recessions of from 2 to 3 points. The rails were strong in the early trading, but fell back with the rest of the market.

A 9% Yield With Safety

At the present market Standard Gas & Electric Company cumulative 8% preferred stock yields over 9%.

Earnings are increasing steadily and are now equivalent to more than twice dividend requirements of preferred without taking into consideration earnings of Shaffer Oil & Refining Company, which has just brought in a 10,000-barrel oil well. Company is drilling other wells in same district.

A New York firm had large orders from Birmingham, England, for merchandise, which it purchased from a factory in Louisville, Ky.

We paid for the merchandise upon its arrival in New York, attended to shipping space, and collected the draft drawn against the consignee in Birmingham.

There are many phases of helpfulness in our service.

Protective Committee of Holders of 4% First Refunding Gold Mortgage Bonds Due July 1st, 2002

OF THE

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company

To the holders of bonds secured by the 4% First Refunding Mortgage of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company:

The company has defaulted in the payment of interest on the above mentioned bonds, and an action to foreclose the mortgage is pending.

At the request of the holders of a large number of these bonds, the undersigned have consented to act as a Committee for the protection of the interests of all of the holders of the above mentioned bonds who shall become parties to a deposit agreement which the Committee has executed and lodged with the Franklin Trust Company, No. 46 Wall Street, New York City, and No. 166 Montague Street, Brooklyn, New York, the depositary therein named, from whom may be obtained, at either of its offices, copies of said agreement.

The mortgage which secures your bonds constitutes a preferential lien upon much of the most valuable assets of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

An attempt has already been made to subordinate the lien of your Mortgage to nearly Twenty Million Dollars of Receivers' Certificates authorized to be issued for the benefit of portions of the Rapid Transit System.

Through the efforts of the Trustee of your mortgage and certain bond-holders this attempt has been defeated, but the fact that it was seriously made and earnestly pressed suggests that other like attempts may hereafter be expected.

As the foreclosure action proceeds, many questions will arise seriously involving your interests, which can be adequately protected only by your united action.

The Committee therefore invites all holders of the 4% First Refunding Gold Bonds of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to deposit their bonds with coupons due January 1, 1919, and all subsequent coupons attached, with the above-named Depositary, thereby signifying their acquiescence to the agreement already executed by the Committee. Such deposit should be made as promptly as possible.

Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued for all deposited bonds. Application will be made at once to list the certificates of deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Committee or its counsel will be glad at any time to answer inquiries from bond-holders, and to obtain for them such information as is procurable.

New York, October 28th, 1919.

These bonds are the obligation of an independent drainage unit and are secured by a tax lien on 40,769 acres of land. The debt averages only $7.97 per acre and the annual requirements for both principal and interest average only 62c per acre. The law under which the district operates has been approved by the Supreme Court of Florida. Taxes are collected at the same time and in the same manner by the same officers as the general taxes.

LAKE ASHBY DRAINAGE DISTRICT is situated in the southern portion of Volusia County about ten miles southeast from DeLand, the County Seat, and eight miles west of New Smyrna.

TRANSPORTATION is afforded by the Florida East Coast Railroad, which crosses both the north and the south ends of the District, with a total of about ten miles of road entirely within the District. As is the case in other similar sections—the vegetable crops and fruits raised are shipped to Northern markets—being from thirty to sixty days earlier than any other sections of the country and several hundred miles nearer the big Northern and Eastern markets than California—Florida's only real competitor.

THERE IS ALSO RIVER TRANSPORTATION to Jacksonville via the St. John's River. Numerous towns are available to the District, chief of which are DeLand, the County Seat, New Smyrna, Daytona, Sanford, Lake Helen, Osteen and Indian Springs. All are easily reached over hard surface modern roads—one of which runs across the north end of the District and another through the center of the District north and south, making numerous towns available.

MESSRS. ISHAM-RANDOLPH & CO., of Chicago—one of the largest engineering firms in the country, who built the Illinois Drainage Canal—drew up and approved the plans and the practicability of the project and are the consulting engineers whose report we will furnish on application. One-half of the work is about completed. J. T. McCarthy, of Gainesville, Florida, and Wills & Sons, of St. Louis, are the contractors.

Legality of the issue has been approved by John C. Thomson, Esq., Attorney New York City.

The quotations are for six months' paper.

Behind on Deliveries.

A dress goods jobber was quoted yesterday as figuring that he still had 4,000 pieces of tricotines to get. Orders for this material were placed months ago and have still failed to be delivered. From the condition of the market, it is considered doubtful whether one-quarter of the material owed by the mills can be shipped. There have been very few requests to cancel orders on account of slack business and, where such requests have been put in, they are welcomed rather than turned down by the mill agents, who can resell the goods at higher prices.

Something New in Silk Hose.

One of the well-known concerns manufacturing high-grade silk hosiery for women will shortly put on the market something absolutely new in hose for evening wear. This has been made possible by the concern's solution of the problem of putting tinsel decorations on fine-gauge silk stockings, a thing which has never before been done successfully. A feature of the new hose, which will retail at $10 and up per pair, is that the decorations run all the way to the garter hem. Most of the patterns are of the all-over variety, embodying elaborate Persian, Egyptian, Japanese, and floral motifs. The decorations are in both gold and silver tinsel and are seen on several shades of hosiery. Among the most prominent of these colorings are black, white, African brown, silver, and gold.

Not Many Style Changes.

Garment manufacturers and others who have studied the style situation do not expect to see many changes introduced for the Spring. One of the reasons supporting this opinion is that from present prospects it will be necessary to carry over more than the usual amount of stock to the next season. If different styles are introduced, the value of these stocks will be considerably reduced. Another factor is the position of various government agencies which are fighting high prices and are consequently opposed to many styles.

Overcoat Sales Jump.

There was evidence to be seen yesterday of a better movement in men's overcoats, judging from new orders that came into the local manufacturers. Up-State retailers and those in other parts of the country where the weather has suddenly turned cold sent in wire requests for additional shipments of goods on order along with new orders to "fill in." Results shown by the season so far, it was said, indicate that there is no hesitancy over the prices asked; in fact, that the trend is still toward the better quality.

Plaid Neckwear Doing Well.

Reports emanating from manufacturers of men's neckwear tell of a good duplicate business in the novelties in Scotch plaid scarfs that were recently introduced by the retail trade. All of the various Scottish clans are represented in the plaids used in the ties in question, many of which lend quite a garish air to the wearer's appearance. They are offered in both large and small patterns, and in regulation and novelty weaves. Among the latter is a peculiar kind of a "spun" fabric that has a charm all its own.

Has an Interchange Bureau.

Announcement will be made today by The Silkworm, the official organ of the Silk Association of America, of the establishment by that organization of an Exchange Bureau through which its members may dispose of surplus machinery, dyestuffs, or other property for which they have no use. The only procedure necessary to make use of the new bureau is to send to the association's office a description of the property which it is desired to obtain or distribute, stating whether the transaction is to be a sale or exchange. In the latter case it is also necessary to state what is desired in return. On receipt of the information the bureau will furnish names of members seeking the material offered. If there are no requests for it the property will be listed in The Silkworm under a key number. There is no charge for the bureau's services.

Drug Sales Limited Here.

In the drugs actual sales have been small lately, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, and there is considerable watchful waiting on prices. Menthol is now $10 a pound, and an advance to $10.50 is expected on the strength of bullish reports from London and Japan. There is no change in the price of camphor, but it is increasingly scarce. The scarcity of heavy chemicals is restricting business in that part of the trade. In the colorstuffs coal-tar intermediates are in good demand for domestic consumption. Foreign shipments are held up by the dock strike. Both the vegetable and essential oils markets are strongly sustained as to prices.

Plaids Continue Strong.

Plaids of various kinds still continue to feature the dress goods demand. Although goods of this character have now been on the market for some little time, they are showing up very strongly in late orders placed for next Spring. Larger effects seem to be most popular at the moment, and the tendency in this direction is expected to grow. Business is not confined to the best weaves entirely, but takes in even the cheaper constructions.

Silk Association Dinner.

The forty-eighth annual dinner of the Silk Association of America will be held on the evening of Dec. 6 at the Hotel Astor. The event usually takes place in February, but it was thought this year that setting the date earlier in the season would better suit the convenience of members. The following committee is in charge of arrangements: M. W. Dippel, Chairman; William Hand, Charles E. Lotte, George A. Post, and Jerome C. Read. More than 800 members and their guests attended the dinner last year and an even large representation is expected at the coming affair.

Gray Goods a Little Slow.

Gray goods were a bit slow to recover yesterday from the slacking-down effects of the holiday. As much attention was given to sheetings as anything, and sales of these goods for January delivery included 5-yards at 16⅜ cents, 5.50s at 15 cents, and 4.70s at 18 cents. For shipment during this month and next business was done on 48-square, 4-yard sheetings at 20 cents. Fine-yarn goods did not show a great deal of life during the day, but there was a fair snap to the demand for the clothing styles. Among the sales of the latter goods were 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens, for December delivery, at 76 cents. Important sales of printcloths were fewer than usual, but among them were 38½-inch 60-48s at 16¼ cents for January-March delivery, and 64-60s of the same width at 19 cents for shipment during this month and next.

Wool Manufacturing and Imports.

Figures of the Census Bureau, issued yesterday, show a constant increase in the active machinery of the woolen mills of the country. On Oct. 1 the idle looms wider than 50-inch reed space were only 14 per cent. of the total, while those narrower were 20.7 per cent., and carpet and rug looms were 24.1 per cent. idle. These compared with 19.9, 22.8, and 37.2 per cent., respectively, for Sept. 2. Increases of machines in operation on both single and double shifts were also noted, as was likewise the case regarding woolen and worsted spindles. The consumption of wool in mills during September included 44,531,330 pounds of grease, 9,692,371 of scoured, and 1,162,260 pounds of pulled wool. During the same month the imports were 32,951,226 of unwashed, 375,272 pounds of washed, and 4,628,199 pounds of scoured clothing wool; 721,486 pounds of washed and unwashed, and 387 pounds of scoured combing wool, and 9,090,615 pounds of washed and unwashed, and 208,416 pounds of scoured carpet wool.

DENIES PLUMB'S CHARGES.

"Water" All Squeezed Out of Railroads, Says Ivy L. Lee.

The problem of obtaining new money for railroad financing is the big question facing the roads, according to Ivy L. Lee of the Association of Railway Executives, and formerly assistant to the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who spoke yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth Street. He said that on the current rate of business and expenditure the roads were earning about 3 per cent. on their total property investment.

"The allegation is made by Mr. Plumb and various others," he said, "that the 'property investment' account is swollen and that this will be shown by the Interstate Commerce Commission valuation figures.

"The most important valuation reports so far developed by the Commerce Commission are those concerning the Boston & Maine system. These figures give a cost of reproduction, new, of that property of more than $231,000,000, or approximately $20,000,000 in excess of the total capitalization. Adding to this the value of the lands of the system gives a valuation for the Boston & Maine Railroad of $278,000,000, or about $67,000,000 more than the capitalization of the entire system.

"Assuming a payment by the Boston & Maine at par for all its bonds, this valuation would leave $167 a share for the stock, which is selling in the market at about $30 a share. It is reported that the figures for the New Haven and the Pennsylvania roads, now almost ready, also will show a valuation in excess of their total of securities issues. The fact is that the 'water' in American railroads has been squeezed out, and any plan to condemn and pay for American railroads under a scheme of Government ownership and operation probably would result in the Government having to pay on a basis of valuation in excess of either the present property investment account or the total par value of outstanding securities."

MORE CITY WORKERS HEARD.

Two of Swann's Aids Are Also Witnesses Before the Grand Jury.

The activity of the Extraordinary Grand Jury yesterday, who had caused subpoenas to be issued for more employes from the City Hall, coupled with the presence of two Assistant District Attorneys before the jury as witnesses, started a rumor at the Criminal Courts Building to the effect that Mayor Hylan's Administration, or that part of it having direct connection with transit matters, was under investigation. None of the jurymen or witnesses would confirm or discuss the new move, but it was evident that the inquiry had been widened in its scope very materially.

On Monday the jury took possession of a filing cabinet in the office of the Mayor, which was taken to the Criminal Courts Building after the District Attorney, at the request of the jury, had issued a subpoena for its removal. On the same day five employes from the Mayor's office were present in the Grand Jury room. The persons in the Grand Jury room yesterday were John J. Hennon, chief clerk from the Mayor's office, who was one of those present on Monday; James F. Curtin, Joseph G. Cohon, James F. Fitzsimmons, Frank J. Finnegan, and James H. Marron, clerks; Edward J. McLaughlin, accountant; Sidney R. Kelp and Miss Loretta McNamara, stenographers.

The two Assistant District Attorneys who were said to have been witnesses yesterday were John T. Dooling and James E. Smith. Mr. Dooling had been active in the investigation of the high cost of milk and the problem of distribution before this part of the inquiry was submitted to the Extraordinary Grand Jury. Mr. Smith, so far as known, had no part in the milk or transit inquiries, but he had been active in raids concerning vice and gambling.

Mr. Smith said that the jury could have any record, book, or paper in his possession. The "Police blue book," which is a secret typewritten document in his possession, was mentioned during his raiding trips as being composed of compilations purporting to show the "inside workings" of police matters for a number of years, with the records and activities of certain policemen.

It was intimated that when the jury resumes its session today other witnesses may be heard. It was said that John F. Sinnott, private secretary and son-in-law of the Mayor, who was recently married, may be asked to appear as a witness when he returns from his honeymoon.

EXTENDS BERLIN STRIKE.

Metal Workers' Executive Calls Out All the Men in the Trade.

BERLIN, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The metal workers' executive today proclaimed a general strike. The Economic Minister had intended to offer mediation between the men and the employers, but he has announced that he will not intervene in view of today's order to strike.

The strike is nearly general, although 3,000 workmen of the Siemens-Halske plant returned to their jobs this morning. The strike is said to have been called in violation of the rules of the Metal Workers' Union, which requires two-thirds majority of the workers on vote to decree a general strike.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts two days, 14,285 packages. Buyers are not showing very much interest, but with cooler weather there is a generally steady feeling, and receivers are not urging sales, except at full prices. The strength of the market is mainly in the highest qualities, but there are some new export inquiries, and if business should result it would affect the medium grades as well. Storage creamery fairly active and firm. Other kinds unchanged. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 70@70½c; extras, 92 score, 69½c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 64½@69c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 61@63c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 55@58½c; lower grades, 52@54c; held, higher than extras, 66@67c; extras, 65½c; firsts, 60@64c; seconds, 55@58c; unsalted, higher than extras, 73½c; extras, 71½@72c; firsts, 64@70c; seconds, 58@62c; State dairy tubs, finest, 68@69c; good to prime, 63@67c; common to fair, 52@62c; renovated, extras, 57c; ladles, current make, firsts, 49½@50c; seconds, 48@48½c; lower grades, 46@47½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 48c; No. 2, 47c; lower grades, 44@46½c.

EGGS.—11,838 cases. High qualities of fresh-gathered eggs are held steady under advices of very much lighter supplies in transit, although the present demand is limited. Medium and lower grades still in heavy accumulation, dull, and urgently offered at irregular prices. Storage eggs of high quality are held steady, though some holders report a little more call for cheaper qualities obtainable in range of 46@49c. Nearby white eggs of fancy quality are in light supply and firm, but very little demand for defective stock, and such tends to accumulate unless offered at comparatively low figures. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 69@70c; extra firsts, 65@68c; firsts, 59@64c; seconds, 54@58c; under grades, 45@53c; dirties, No. 1, 50@52c; No. 2 and poorer, 45@49c; checks, good to choice, dry, 42@45c; under grades, 38@41c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 53@...; firsts, 51½@52½c; seconds, 47@51c; undergrades, 38@46c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 93@96c; fair to prime, 70@92c, gathered whites, common to prime, 65@93c; Pacific Coast whites, express, fancy, 96c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 65@85c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, fancy, 74@78c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded, fancy, 70@72c; fair to prime, 62@68c.
